"For many years Francis Lewis was a clerk in the service of the old Province of Canada. He was employed in the Department of Finance and was trusted and respected by the authorities of the Department. He did his work well and faithfully as far as was known, and when he retired from the Civil Service in 1879 he was granted a large superannuation allowance. While he was in the Finance Department the Government of the old Province of Canada issued a series of five per cent. bonds, each for £1,000 sterling. Lewis had charge of a number of bonds which, unsigned and unissued, remained in possession of the Department. The coupons and bonds were payable at the banking house of Baring Brothers & Co., of London, England. Some months ago a coupon, each of which is worth £25, was presented in course of business at Baring's. It was signed by George Rieffenstein for the Department, and was apparently genuine. The coupon was paid, but when it came to be charged up against the bond to which it belonged it was discovered to be a forgery. The coupon belonged to bond No. 01237, and the issue of genuine bonds stopped short of 01100, so that the bond to which the false coupon belonged must have been one of those which remained with the Government. It was then discovered that it had been stolen and the blanks filled in with the names of the Finance Department authorities. The coupon was sent to this country, and a close watch set for the bond. The bond was lately presented in the usual way through some banking institution, and when received it was marked "forgery." The forged bond is now in possession of the Bank of Montreal, it having passed through a dozen hands since it was first put out in Canada. The issue of bonds was made in 1860, and it was a difficult task to go back 24 years to find the criminal. Chief Sherwood, of the Dominion Police, took charge of the case, and had the end of it well in view before the bond arrived at Ottawa. The bond only reached Canada last week, but the coupon was received a month ago. It was traced through several hands and it was finally discovered that it had been put up in Toronto as a margin in stock transactions. This took place about Oct. 1st, 1882. Since then the bond and its coupons have gone through many banking houses, always being accepted as genuine. Chief Sherwood and Detective Hodgins, of the Toronto force, went east on Wednesday with a warrant from Col. Denison for the arrest of Mr. Lewis.

"Mr. Lewis has retained Mr. Arnold to defend him, and denies all knowledge of the forgery. The names forged on the bond were those of Geo. Sherwood, Receiver-General; A. T. Galt, Minister of Finance; T. D. Harington, Deputy Receiver-General; W. M. Dickenson, Acting Deputy; and Baring Bros. & Co., financial agents. The signature of Geo. Rieffenstein was forged in the coupons. The prisoner was very much astonished at his arrest, and although not talking much he declared himself innocent. The Magistrate at Peterborough was requested to countersign the warrant issued by Col. Denison. When he saw the name 'Francis Lewis' he remarked 'I don't know the man. I have never come across him. Will you want a constable who is acquainted with the locality to assist you in the search?' Mr. Lewis was one of the best known men in Peterborough and it never occurred to the Magistrate that he was the Francis Lewis mentioned in the warrant. He never thought of Mr. Lewis in connection with any crime. The prisoner will be probably arraigned to-day. The trial will take place here, as the forged bond was uttered in this city."

The Havana Explosion.

HAVANA, April 30.—The effects of the explosion yesterday were terrible. Up to the present time the dead number twenty-on and the wounded seventy-nine. The latter are scattered all over the town, being wounded by falling debris. Many are seriously injured. Of a detachment of twenty-seven soldiers in the magazine at the time of the explosion, only eight escaped unhurt. The magazine contained a million cartridges, 200,000 kilogrammes of powder, and one barrel of dynamite. Several churches and many houses were seriously damaged. The second shock, stronger than the first, was not caused by an explosion of gas, but by the explosion of the magazine. The first shock was caused by powder, which was drying in the open air.

Influence of the Death of Prince Leopold.

The death of the Duke of Albany will cause a loss to the London traders and shopkeepers estimated at from three to five millions. It will interfere with the spring season, it will for a time put a stop to dinner parties and balls, and it will lead many people to go to the country who would otherwise have remained in London. All these things will put a stop to the "season" for a few weeks, and will greatly influence the business and the gains of thousands of tradesmen in London.

Spanish Insurgents.

The Government troops overtook Mangado, the Spanish refugee chieftain and his followers in their flight towards the French frontier, and a severe fight ensued. Mangada and seven of his band were killed. Four prisoners were captured by the troops, who also recaptured fourteen officers and men who had recently disappeared from Santa Coloma.

The Cracow Outrage.

The authors of the recent outrage at the Court House at Cracow were connected with the Anarchists of Warsaw. This is the first instance of the complicity of Austrian Socialists with Russian Nihilists. Four Russians have been arrested.

A man believed to be Callaghan, the escaped murderer of Gaoler Leach, of Sandwich, was arrested at Leamington on Tuesday and taken to Windsor. On reaching there, however, it proved to be a case of mistaken identity, and the unfortunate victim of the mistake was released, highly indignant at his treatment.

A meeting was called for the purpose of passing resolutions which fiercely assailed Mr. Gladstone and the Government, charging them with blood-guiltiness for every life sacrificed in the Soudan. The proponents of the resolutions, however, found that there was a large number of members of the society present who by no means assented to this sweeping denunciation of the Liberal policy. The result was that the meeting degenerated into a squabble of angry interchanges of views, and finally broke up in a verbal row without any action having been taken on the resolutions.

PROPERLY DISALLOWED.

THE news that the Governor-General-in-Council has disallowed Mr. Mowat's Act respecting License duties will take no one by surprise, for it was both unconstitutional and malignant. No doubt there is room for much differences of opinion as to where the jurisdiction lies as to the liquor traffic. It has been authoritatively settled by the highest court of the realm that both the Dominion and the Provincial Legislatures have some jurisdiction, but the line of demarcation has not yet been drawn. This end is now likely to be attained promptly by the judicious action of the Macdonald Administration in referring the McCarthy Act to the courts. If Mr. Mowat and his calleagues had really wished to serve the public intererts by settling this vexed question, they would have favoured this peaceful and lawful means, but they preferred to bluster and threaten, and to pass an Act especially intended to insult the authorities of Canada. They even went so far as to make an unconstitutional attempt to discriminate, and even to fine those who might choose to obey an Act of the Canadian Parliament, which has not yet been pronounced invalid. This petty animosity contrasts strongly with the fairer spirit of the Dominion authorities, who would not grant a license until they saw that the right of the Province to obtain the duty had been observed, thus facilitating the collection of its dues by Ontario. An act which thus embodied Mr. Mowat's petty spite, could meet with no other fate than disallowance.

UNFAIR COMPARISONS.

THE advocates of an extreme view of Provincial rights, imitate the supporters of States sovereignty, who brought a civil war on the neighboring republic, by attacking the central government, whenever they have not the control of it. They are indeed very ready to point to the States as an example for Canadians to follow, instead of regarding their history as a warning to the country not to incur a similar danger, and to their own party not to conflict too much with the desire for unity and national integrity. In instancing the States as more happy circumstances, especially in regard to financial circumstances, the Reformers misrepresent the facts, for they omit to take into consideration very important details. In the older provinces they raise objections to the distribution of the Dominion subsidies, and in Manitoba they urge their claim to the public lands. If our Provinces became States of the Union, or if they adopted a similar constitution, what would the agitators gain in either of these respects? They would neither receive their present subsidies from the central treasury, nor enjoy possession of the public lands. Then as in the States they would have to raise the local revenue by means of direct taxation. Are they prepared to pay this price for their crochets? We may also remark that these critics are equally unfair in comparing our taxation with that of the United States. To do so fairly they should take into consideration the amount of the direct taxation for State purposes, or they should leave out of the account the Dominion subsidies to the Provinces, as both of these are different means of providing for local expenditure.

A Royal Marriage.

DARMSTADT, April 30.—The little town of Darmstadt was in holiday dress to-day on the occasion of the marriage of Princess Victoria of Hesse, the eldest daughter of the late Princess Alice, third child of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, to Prince Louis of Battenburg, which was postponed from April 20th on account of the death of the Duke of Albany. The ceremony was divested of most of its splendour by reason of the ducal court being in mourning, and but few guests, and most of these near relatives of the bride and groom, were invited. The marriage took place in the Royal chapel of Darmstadt palace, which was far from being filled by the guests and attendants. Her Majesty Queen Victoria and Princess Beatrice witnessed the ceremony from the court box in the gallery of the church, and were attended by Lady Churchill, the Dowager Marchioness of Ely, General Bridport, and Sir Henry Ponsonby.—Mail.

Destruction of an Oatmeal Mill.

LONDON, Ont., April 30.—About four o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was sounded. The brigade turned out and found the Muirhead oatmeal mill on Talbot street, adjoining the railway track, to be in flames. At that time the fire had gained considerable headway, and in consequence of the inflammable character of the contents great difficulty was experienced in extinguishing the blaze. The origin of the fire is unknown, as the manager, Mr. W. Gartley, states that everything appeared all right when the mill was closed in the evening. All the machinery, with the exception of the stones on the ground floor, and the engine and boiler, was ruined, and will be almost a complete loss. The whole building was flooded with water, and great damage was done to the contents, which comprised almost a carload of oatmeal, between 1,200 and 1,500 bushels of oats, 40 or 50 barrels of flour and other grain, which was thoroughly soaked with water and rendered useless with the exception of some 200 bushels of oats and a few barrels of oatmeal. The damage will prove very heavy, probably upwards of $13,000.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

THE MODERN BALL.

The hours at which balls begin grow later and later. The stroke which sends the last guest hurrying away from the Cinderella dance scarcely ushers the first arrival to a season ball. "Will they ever come?" sighs the weary matron who has surveyed the polished floor of her empty dancing room, and superintended the sticking up of the last wreath. "Are they coming at all?" begins to be her indignant utterance when the clock's hands creep round, and all is as still as a desert around her. Finally sufficient people arrive to form a dance or two with her own young people. Then drop in those supercilious masters of the situation, the dancing young men, the "dancing dogs;" as they have been called. Perhaps some of these exquisite beings have made appointments to meet the young ladies of their transitory affections at this particular ball, in which case the lady of the house considers herself lucky that they will condescendingly dance to her costly music, eat her ices, drink her champagne, and even, if they are very scupulous as to politeness, give her a nod as they pass her by the top of the stairs. If such assignations have not been effected, the languid youth look in, murmur. "No one here!" and pass on to another entertainment, where they perhaps find a repetition of the singular phenomenon of a crowd where there is "no one." There have been hapeless instances of balls being projected on the scale of 300 guests, and only 40 or 50 making an appearance. Some great leader of fashon, or some hostess magically powerful in securing popular beauty, has chosen to have a party on the same night, and the "dogs" will dance to no other music than hers. Probably an ambitious, vain woman would lose 10 years of her life, or agree to the dangerous illness of one of her children, or sacrifice the hair on the top of her husband's head, rather than to have such a catastrophe happen to her. Yet it does happen, and the money is wasted, and society laughs, and the daughters do not make fine matches, and the sons refuse to come to their mother's next attempt at a dancing party. Then does such a woman look on all the works that her hands had wrought and on the labors that she had labored to do, and behold! all is vanity and vexation of spirit, and there is no profit under the sun. Certain enlightened and adventurous spirits have begun to count the cost of all this, to question the good of it, to cast doubts on its efficacy, to formulate the momentous theory that the balls don't pay. If there is so much difficulty in enticing young people to come to them, there can be little dispute as to their purpose, for assuredly no elders care to go out after midnight to stand on gouty feet to yawn behind fans for their own amusement, The whole business is a result of the luxuriousness and extravagance of our times, for youth and the dance are eternally at one, were but the conditions simpler and more natural.—London (England) Daily News.

Female Medical Practitioners.

Among the list of names of the successful candidates at the recent examinations before the Council of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario we notice those of three lady graduates. Their names are worthy of record, they are: Elizabeth Beatty, Alice McGillivray and Elizabeth Smith. What with the Women's Medical College at Kingston and that at Toronto we may perhaps soon witness the outnumbering of masculine medicos by those of the opposite sex.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

We are very glad to be able to state that a large proportion of you are regular customers, but to such of the gentlemen of this town who have been in the habit of doing that most foolish of all foolish things, namely, THROWING AWAY MONEY by paying far more than they ought for their goods, and, though giving exhorbitant prices, we would say, don't DO SO ANY LONGER. # INFELICE.

By AUGUSTA J. EVANS WILSON.

Author of "St. Elmo," "Beulah," "Micaria,"

Bending to a trunk near her chair, she unlocked it, and taking out a papier mache box, opened it with a small key that hung from her watch chain, and placed it on the table before her, where she had thrown the unread letters. Leaning forward, she crossed her arms upon the marble, and looked down on the contents of the box, her child's letters, her own unanswered appeals on behalf of her babe, a photograph of the latter, and, most prominent of all, a large square ambrotype of a handsome boyish face, with a short curl of black hair lying inside the case.

"Idolatrous? Yes, all women are embryo pagans, and the only comfort is, that when the idol crumbles into clay, mocking our prayers and offerings, we still worship at the same old shrine, having dusted and garnished and set thereon—may be the Furies, which bid fair to survive the wreck of gods, of creeds, and of time. Like Œnone, we are all betrayed sooner or later by our rose-lipped Paris—and after the inevitable foolish tears of vain regret, we dry our eyes and hunt Cassandra, to listen to the muttering of the thunder that is gathering to avenge us—in Troy. Bride and bridegroom; face to face, Cuthbert! So you looked when we parted; when you strained me to your heart and swore that before a fortnight passed you would hold 'darling Minnie in your arms once more!' Did you mean it even then? No, no; already the hounds of slander were snuffing in my path, and the toils were spread for my unwary feet. Here, look back at me, my husband, with those fond, peerless eyes, as on the day when I saw you last—all mine! To-night, across the gulf of separation and of shameful wrong, we shall look into each other's faces once more; while another woman wears my name—fills my place at your side. Fair, treacherous face of my first and only love; handsome as a god; false as Apollyon."

She had lifted the ambrotype and held it close to her eyes; then her hand sank until the picture dropped back into its place, and the lonely desolate woman buried her face in her palms. The pretty gilt clock on the mantel ticked monotonously, and the hum of life and the busy roll of vehicles in the vast city, was borne in through the window, like the faint roar of yet distant Niagara; and after a while, when the sharp stroke of the clock announced four, the bowed figure raised herself.

Sweeping back the blinding veil of hair, her brilliant brown eyes shone calm and dry, dimmed by no tears of fond womanly regret, and as they fell upon the photograph of Regina, a smile of indescribable bitterness curled the lovely lips that might have served as model for Psyche's.

"'The trail of the serpent is over all.' Can there be pardon for the man who makes me shrink shudderingly at times, from her whose little veins were fed from mine; whose pulses are but a throb from my heart; my baby—my own baby, who, when I snatch her in my arms, smiles at me with his wonderful eyes of blue; and well nigh maddens me with the very echo of a voice whose wily sweetness won my love; to make an hour's pastime, a cheap toy; soon worn out, worthless and trodden under foot after three week's sport! Stooping over my baby, when she stretched her little hands and coaxed me to lift her on my lap, I have started back from the sight of her innocent face, as if a hooded viper fawned upon me; for the curse of her father's image has smitten my only darling, my beautiful proud child! Oh, God! that we had both died in that dim damp ward of the hospital where she first opened her eyes, unwelcomed by the father whose features she bears!"

But beneath this Marah tide that was surging so fiercely over her long-suffering heart, bubbled the pure, sweet, incorruptible fount of mother love, and as she studied the fair childish face, her own softened, as that of some snow image whose features gradually melt as the sunlight creeps across it. It was a picture taken after Regina's removal to the parsonage, and represented her with the white rabbits resting in her arms.

"My proud little Regina! My pure sensitive darling! How much longer must we be separated? Will the time ever come when the only earthly rest that remains for me can be taken in her soft, clinging arms? Patience! patience! if it were not for her, for my baby, I might falter even now; but she must, she shall be righted at any sacrifice; at every cost; and may the widows' and orphans' God—be pitiful—be pitiful—at last."

She raised her child's picture in her clasped hands, as if appealing indeed to the justice of him who "never slumbers nor sleeps;" and the tremor of her lips and voice told how passionate was the affection for her daughter, how powerful the motives that sustained her in her prolonged and torturing ordeal.

Restoring the portraits to their hiding place, she locked the trunk, and as she resumed her seat seemed suddenly to recollect the letters lying on the table.

One was a brief note, from the manager of the London theatre where she had recently been engaged; the second from a celebrated money-lender, which bore only the signature "Simon," and was as follows:—

"MADAM,—Since our last conversation relative to the purchase of a certain mortgage, I have ascertained that you can secure it by adding one hundred pounds to the amount specified by the holder. Should you still desire me to effect the transfer, delay might thwart your negotiation, and I respectfully solicit prompt instructions."

Twice she read these lines, then slowly tore the paper into stripe, shredded and threw them towards the grate, while a stony expression settled once more upon her features. The remaining letter was post-marked New York, and addressed, in a bold, round, mercantile hand; but when the envelope had been removed, the formal angular chirography of a school-girl displayed itself, and as the sheet was opened, there issued thence a delicate perfume, that gushed like a breath of spring over the heart of the lonely mother.

Several leaves of lemon-verbena and a few violets fell from the folds of the paper, and picking them up, Mrs. Orme spread them on her palm. Only a few weathered leaves and faded petals that had crossed the Atlantic to whisper fragrant messages of love, from the trusting brave young soul whose inexperienced hand had stiffly traced at the top of the page: "My darling Mother."

Ah! what a yearning tenderness glorified the woman's frozen face, as the flowers in her hand babbled of the blue eyes that had looked last upon them; of the childish fingers that brushed the dew from their purple velvet: of the dainty, almost-infantile lips that had fondly pressed them; of the holy prayer breathed over them, that ere the time the violets came again, mother and child might be reunited.

Just now, she dared not read the letter, dared not surrender to the softening influences that might melt the rigid purpose of her soul; and kissing the flowers reverently, the mother laid them aside until a more convenient season, and began to walk slowly to and fro.

A WARNING TO YOUNG SINGERS.

There is reason to fear that very much of the study of singing in this country, and, perhaps, in Europe as well, is wrongly directed. The teacher proposes a wrong ideal, or seeks right ideals in the wrong order. That is to say, most young singers, when they come before the public evince plainly that they base their expectation of pleasing upon their high notes, and their ability to make rapid runs, trills, &c. One fault, which nearly everybody can detect for himself (in other's singing), is the imperfect enunciation of the text. There are but few singers on the stage, relatively, who are able to sing a song in English so that every hearer can understand the words. Sometimes no more than the title can be made out, and that after several repetitions. Another trace of imperfection, which an audience might always recognize if it would, is a set position of the head, as if the neck were held rigidly. Sometimes this is accompanied by a smile, so conspicuously artificial and immovable, that you wonder whether the singer takes it off in the ante-room. Both these—the set smile and the obstinate-looking head—are tokens of wrong-doing. They point to a condition of constriction in the throat, fatal to the production of a really sympathetic tone.

The first and chief merit in a singer, and the one first and most higly appreciated by the public, is a musical quality of tone. This is what people pay to hear in the case of such singers as Petti, Campanini, Brignoli (in his youth), Pareps, Jenny Lind, Grisi, Galassi, Del Puente, Miss Cary, Tom Karl, Whitney, etc. It is true that all of these singers had voices of unusual compass and penetrative power, and that they possessed generally many elements of art besides pleasing quality of tone. This I have no disposition to minify or conceal. Nevertheless, most of these good qualities are possessed by other singers, who do not attract the public. There is, I think, no question but that a pure, sympathetic, expressive tone is the quality of singing which pleases everybody, and which serves as the necessary foundation upon which all the graces of art are to be superimposed, and through which all powers of genius are to be expressed.

This is not a new doctine. In Italy it has been the theory from time immemorial. Such a tone the old Italian masters at Bologna and elsewhere used to obtain by the careful use of a few exercises continued many years. Along with beautiful tone and all possible graces of vocal technique, there must enter into artistic interpretations such excellences as intelligence, musical feeling and experience in reproducing varied musical conceptions.

The art of producing a pure and noble tone has measurably been lost in Italy through gradually shortening the time of study and by pressing more ardently after vehemence, great compass, and vocal pyrotechnics. The modern operatic music, also, is more passionate, and, consequently, more straining to the voice; besides, the age of empiricism has passed and that of science has come in. Under the influence of the latter spirit, the physiology of tone-production has been carefully investigated by Garcia, Helmholtz, Mme. Seiler, and others, until the methods of vocal action are reasonably understood.

The general mechanism of singing is this: The air-current from the lungs sets in vibration the vocal cords at the larynx. The sound thus produced is nothing more than a "squawk" such as can be made by an india-rubber larynx. The nobility, the human and mind-expressing qualities of the tone, are given it by the sympathetic resonance of the cavities of the head and chest. Beauty of tone depends almost entirely upon the quality of this resonance, just as the tone of a fine violin depends mainly upon the resonance of the instrument itself, and not so much upon slight peculiarities of the bow and strings. The bow, acting upon the strings, generates the vibration: the body of the instrument resonates the vibrations into beautiful tone.

The art of voice culture, scientifically understood, consists essentially of two parts—the easy and right generation of vibrations at the throat, and the awakening of proper sympathic resonance. The statement is short; but the process is long, since it must be applied to all parts of the vocal compass, and, ultimately, to all degrees of power. In all the process of training, it is indispensible that the voice should be used easily. Any stiffening at the throat or about the face interferes with proper resonance. Hence, the practice must be done softly for a long time, and extremes of compass avoided. The free, manly, Italian tone can be produced only when the air-column passes unobstructed through the throat. Its flow is controlled exclusively by the diapragm and muscles of respiration. If a pupil is allowed to strain for high notes, or to sing in public before prepared, or to cultivate force prematurely, in all cases the result is a stricture of the throat and a hardening of the muscles of the neck and face which interfere fatally with the production of an easy, resonant tone. After a good tone is obtained and all other vocal graces, such as agility, the embellishments, and good phrasing, may easily be added. Extended compass and power come of themselves at the proper time.

In short the main thing in the study of singing is to learn to sing; that is to sing musically. It is the general neglect of this which fills the choir with singers who know all about the voice except how to sing. Every note is a discomfort to them and a torture to their listeners. They wonder that the public does not care for their execution. If their execution were final the public would care for it.

The first point to seek is musical quality. Then expression and good phrasing. After this intelligibility of the text; for the words of the song are the reason of its being. If but young vocalists go about their studies in this spirit, America will some time have a great company of singers, after the pattern of those glorious first-fruits, Anna Louise Cary and Whitney, and on Sundays our choirs will be able to praise the Lord physiologically.—W. S. B. Matthews in the Independent.

The Port Hope "Times."

We are glad to find that Mr. Trayes has resumed control of the Port Hope Times both as proprietor and editor, after an interregnum of a few weeks. Under his management the Times has long been one of the best of the country press, and his prolonged severance from it would have been a loss both to the community more immediately interested, and to the Conservative party in behalf of which he has done good service. It should be remembered that Mr. Trayes is in no way responsible for the utterances of the Times during the past five weeks. We would have referred to this matter at an earlier date, but such obviously false reports were circulated, that it was difficult to get at the truth.

Received by Express this day another lot of Boys' Jersey Suits, at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

A BRIEF INTERVIEW

That Should be Read By all Applicants for the O. & Q. Town Agency.

Mr. D. McNicoll, General Passenger Agent of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, was in town on Thursday. His visit was understood to be in connection with the appointment of a town agent, for which position there are numerous applications. At any rate, he was busily engaged with the applicants for that position all day, but he left without making known who would receive the appointment.

A reporter of the REVIEW attempted several times to have a conversation with the gentleman, as any news regarding the Ontario and Quebec is always interesting to the Peterborough people, but when he advanced he always found an applicant ahead of him.

Mr. McNicoll left on the four o'clock train in the afternoon, but there were half a dozen applicants at the station to have a last word with him. However, the reporter got an opportunity to speak to him there, and the following brief interview was recorded:—

"When do you expect to have the road opened for passenger traffic?"

"We expect that the road will be open for through first-class passenger traffic by the 1st of July."

"There is not much tracklaying to be done yet?"

"No; the track will be all laid during the first of next week; perhaps on Monday."

"Did you come to Peterborough over the line?"

"Mr. Ryan and Mr. Whyte came from Toronto over the line, but I did not. It will be all perfectly ballasted before it is opened for traffic."

"Will any part of the line be opened before it is opened for through traffic?"

"A portion may be opened before the first of July, but it is expected that it will be opened for through passenger traffic by that time."

"What will be the time made on the line?"

"Between Toronto and Peterborough the running time will be two hours and a half."

"And the fare?"

"According to the rate per mile the fare from Peterborough to Toronto will be $2.35."

Before the reporter had time to receive any further information, and to give any advice in regard to the appointment of a town agent, a friend came up and spoke to Mr. McNicoll, and as soon as he stopped speaking to him, a prospective agent seized upon the opportunity to advocate his claims to the appointment.

All applicants for the position of agent should read this interview, not because it throws any light on the subject of the appointment, but because they especially should keep posted on Ontario and Quebec affairs. However, we understand that the appointment will be made next week.

One word more. It might seem strange that so many were anxious for this situation, but to any one acquainted with the amount of business done in the ticket line in Peterborough it is not surprising, and, in addition to the tickets, it is expected that the agent will have the telegraph and express business.

Received by Express this day another lot of Spring Underclothing, at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

The sprinkler will be 8 ft. long and 3 in. in diameter, with the holes half an inch apart. The hind wheels will be 4 ft. 5 in. high and the front wheels 3 ft., with a 3 in. tire, 2⅜ in. spoke and iron axles 2½ in. The springs will be 2½ in., with eleven leaves in front and nine behind. The contract price is $270. We might also mention in this connection that the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee has given instructions to have the cross streets between Aylmer and Water streets watered.

Well Rewarded.

A liberal reward will be paid to any party who will produce a case of liver, kidney or stomach complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure. ### STREET WATERING.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR.—It appears to me and many others that Hunter and other side streets do not comprise any part of the Town. However, those thereon are treated as if they paid no taxes, for the dust is allowed to fly and the debris that was gathered on Hunter street remains there to be scattered in the wind, and the street unwatered. Now Mr. Editor, is this the duty of our Town Council? They were placed there by the ratepayers, and it is their duty to have them treated right, and though some of them think they would be paying to have the street watered for others, it must be remembered that others who derive no benefit are paying the town team for scattering water in front of his store. But if he and others of the council are interested in the Water Works Company they had better work for them than for the ratepayers, who placed them in the chair. Thanking you for space,

Yours, etc.,

A RATEPAYER.

Peterborough, May 2, 1884.

[The streets are watered by local tax on the petition of the ratepayers. The Hunter street petition has only just been presented, and we learn that the watering will begin at once.—ED. REVIEW.]

Liquor Licenses.

The Chief Inspector of the County of Peterborough has received the following communication:—

"INLAND REVENUE DEPARTMENT,

"Ottawa, 30th April, 1884.

"SIR,—I have the honor to inform you that his Excellency the Governor-General has been pleased to disallow the Act passed at the last session of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario intituled "An Act respecting license duties," and chaptered 35 in the Ontario statutes of 1884.

"The department has no desire to assume any authority over the actions of the commissioners appointed under the Liquor License Act of 1883, inasmuch as the evident intention of Parliament was to intrust the administration of the Act to boards designed by representatives of the judicial, municipal and general interests the community. But I would venture to suggest that in view of the complications which have been brought about by concurrent legislation, it is but fair that parties subject thereto should be warned that should the constitutionality of the Dominion Act be affirmed at an early day by the Supreme Court, to whom the matter will immediately be referred, those who have relied upon the efficacy of the provincial license will find themselves unable to continue business, inasmuch as licenses to the number permitted by the law may and probably will then have been issued to others who applied for them at an earlier stage. They should also be made aware that the law will not permit the issue of any additional licenses after the 15th of May until the next ensuing license year.

"It may be desirable further to point out that the postponement of penalties in respect of licenses under any provincial Act provided for by sec. 26 of the amending Act 47 Vic., cap. 32, is only temporary. The Dominion License Act being upheld, licenses issued under the Provincial Act will no longer afford protection to persons selling liquor without licenses from the Dominion Board. In view of the disallowance of the Act hereinbefore first cited, certificated applicants will only have to establish to the chief inspector's satisfaction that they have either paid or tendered the ordinary provincial or local license duties in order to procure a license under the Dominion License Act of 1883, provided always that no other requirements of the said Act preclude such issue.

"I have the honor to be, sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"R. MIALL,

"Commissioner Inland Revenue."

POLICE COURT.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.

SATURDAY, May 3.—Octave Trombley was charged by Mrs. Annie Moore with having used towards her insulting and abusive language. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and $4.65 costs.

VAGRANCY.

James Wilfred was charged by Chief Johnston with being a vagrant. He was arrested at the time of the blaze in the Stewart House yard. He pleaded not guilty.

The evidence of the Chief and several other witnesses was heard, and the circumstances of the arrest were proven, as well as the additional facts that the prisoner had previously been convicted of two charges of larceny and twice for drunkenness. He had been given lodgings in the cells frequently during the winter.

The Magistrate found him guilty of vagrancy and said that the circumstances under which he was arrested led to grave suspicion that he had committed arson. He sentenced the prisoner to six months in the Central Prison.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Moderate winds, mostly south-west and south; fine warm weather.

Another Bible Class.

In addition to the Monday night Bible Class, the Young Men's Christian Association are to have another class, to be conducted by the Secretary. It will be held on Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock. Young men not attending any other Bible Class will be made welcome. It will meet for the first time to-morrow.

For Cheap Embroideries go to Turnbull's. See what he is selling for three, five, seven and eight cents per yard.

Arrived.

The body, glass, and some other parts of Mr. A Clegg's new hearse arrived a few days ago. A Toronto firm is just completing the gold and silver electro plated trimmings for it, which alone are costing nearly five hundred dollars This promises to be a very handsome turnout. A young gentleman who was dangerously ill a week or two ago told some young friends who called to see him not to be the least alarmed as he did not intend to die until Mr. Clegg's new hearse was finished. It is needless to say that he is now fully recovered.

Electric Light.

Mr. W. H. Boisfeuillet, representing the Royal Electric Company, is at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Boisfeuillet is the constructing engineer of the company, and his visit to Peterborough is for the purpose of introducing electric light here. He is negotiating with gentlemen of the town for this purpose. He remarked that it was surprising that Peterborough had not electric light before this, as it could be produced here more cheaply than in many places on account of the good water power. This company has introduced their system into many of the cities and towns in the United States and Canada.

The Alleged Forgery.

We find the following in reference to this case in the Mail:—

"Mr. Francis Lewis was arraigned at the Police Court on Friday. The prisoner pleaded not guilty, and upon the County Crown Attorney asking for a remand, the case was adjourned to Wednesday, the 7th inst. Mr. Fenton and the counsel for the defence had already agreed upon the amount of bail to be demanded and accepted, so that there was no delay or hesitation when the securities required were named. Mr. Lewis was at once admitted to bail in two sureties of $2,500 each, furnished by Dr. W. T. O'Reilly, and Mr. Rowsell, respectively, and one from himself in $5,000. Dr. McMichael and Mr. Frank Arnoldi appeared for the defence. Quite a number of the prisoner's friends were in court."

Mr. Lewis arrived in Peterborough on the noon train to-day.

Railway Deputation.

The Warder has the following reference to the Victoria County deputation which waited on the railway officials in Peterborough last week:—

"A railway deputation, composed of Messrs. Walters, McArthur, Cameron, Norris, Adam and Col. Deacon, with Mr. Hudspeth, representing the railway committee, waited on the railway authorities at Peterborough on Monday, regarding the grievances the county had against the railway authorities. Messrs. White, Ferguson and Macklin met the deputation and after some talking on both sides it was agreed that the Ops station should be reopened, that tickets should be sold there, and that all trains should stop when flagged. The Manilla grievance was also discussed, and it was agreed that the committee should see what bonus they would be prepared to accept from the Grand Trunk authorities in favour of the new station. Other gentlemen further drew the attention of the authorities respecting repairs needed on local crossings, etc. Mr. Ferguson promised to see to them, and the deputation withdrew, after passing a vote of thanks to the railway officials for their courtesy."

Ontario and Quebec Notes.

The work of constructing the telegraph line between Peterborough and Toronto has been commenced, and the posts are now put up for a distance of about six miles west of the town. A new boarding house (on wheels) has been started for men engaged on this work. Mr. S. Wright is superintendent of the construction of the telegraph line and Mr. W. N. Cronk is foreman.

There are about fourteen or fifteen companies of men engaged on the western section of the railway line (between Peterborough and Toronto) and the connection will be made with Toronto to-night or early next week. Mr. Henry Snelgrove, the energetic and obliging bookkeeper for this section, is at present engaged in making out the monthly returns—a work of no small magnitude when the number of men engaged is so great and the pay roll so large.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

THE obnoxious Lottery bill was defeated on Wednesday in the Legislative Council of Quebec by a tie vote after a protracted discussion.

FINING POLITICAL OPPONENTS.

THE very proper and even necessary disallowance by the Dominion authorities of Mr. Mowat's preposterous Act respecting License Duties is causing much excitement among the Reformers, who had no hesitation about exercising the veto power when they were in office. Their leading journal says:—

"Surely the Legislature of this Province has a perfect right to say what fees shall be charged for licenses if it has the power of licensing."

Undoubtedly it has this right, for it is given to it by our constitution. But it is equally certain that it has no right to ask different men to pay different sums under similar circumstances. The Mowat Administration might as well charge one set of fees to Reformers and another to Conservatives, which it could easily do, for as we know, it has employed its detectives, for its partisan ends, to pry into the political views of every license holder. The British North America Act gives the Provinces power to require the payment of duties on liquor licenses for the purpose of raising a revenue, and not for the purpose of fining their political opponents or those who deal with them.

THE REFORM PRESS.

THE Montreal Star, an independent journal, has the following remarks in an editorial on the subject of the dynamite scare at the Provincial Parliament Buildings at Toronto. The "special despatch" which excites our contemporary's disgust may be found verbatim, except the substitution of the word "safe" for "vault," in the columns of the Toronto Globe. We might have guessed this, for, to use its own works, "we don't believe any other paper in Canada, or anywhere else," would have been guilty of such a wicked and dastardly attack upon its political opponents, without any other cause than its own malevolence.

The following are the remarks of the Star:—

"The Montreal Herald has the following in a special despatch from somewhere:—

'Had the conspiracy case been in progress at the present assizes the Speaker would doubtless have occupied his chamber, and the dastardly attempt has therefore a dreadful and peculiar significance. The safe containing the record of the registrar-general's department is in proximity to the place where the destructive agent was discovered, and this furnishes an additional incentive to perpetrate the outrage. The officials at the Parliament building say that they had not seen any suspicious characters about the buildings lately.'

This "special" is undoubtedly the Herald's very very own, for we don't believe any other paper in Canada or anywhere else would have discovered this dreadful and peculiar significance.

Who are the people who have any possible interest in planting dynamite cartridges in the Toronto Parliament buildings, with studied negligence which prevents them doing any harm?

First we have "the Brawling Brood," who, according to the Herald's theory, want to destroy the records and send some of the Ontario ministers to join the majority, from which no member has yet been induced by bribery to return. (Doubtful).

Then we have O'Donovan Rossa, whose motives would be pure "cussedness." (Very doubtful).

Then we have the detectives who live by timely discoveries of fiendish plots. (Less doubtful).

Finally, we have the Montreal Herald, the newspaper which scooped the whole world of newspaperdom in discovering "a dreadful and peculiar significance" about the plot. (Possible).

The responsibility seems to lie between the detectives and our esteemed and gentle contemporary."

Curious Acts of an Irish M.P.

Geoffrey O'Donaghue, the eldest son of Daniel O'Donaghue, Liberal member of Parliament for Tralee, was the other day committed for trial without bail at Killarney for stabbing a shopkeeper named Duckett during a political squabble at Killarney Tuesday night. O'Donaghue is a violent Fenian, and is now under indictment and bail for forming a number of reckless youngsters like himself, what he called an emergency corps, and was arrested on the 24th ult. as he was putting a squad of nine youths through a midnight drill. His actions are a sore trial to his father, who is one of the most moderate Irishman in the House of Commons, a staunch supporter of the Gladstone Government, and a frequent speaker against the aims and methods of the Parnallites.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To Geo. A. Cox, Esq., Mayor of Peterborough:

SIR,—I do not propose to endeavour to make up for the neglect of the author of "Letters to Eminent Persons," nor yet to anticipate the task which he has doubtless still before him. I do not intend to censure you for any shortcoming in the past, or to flatter you by recounting the many things which you have done and done well for yourself and for your adopted town. I desire simply, as a citizen of the town of which you are the chief executive officer, to remind you of some of the things which are expected from you in your high position in order that they may not be overlooked, as there is danger of their being overlooked, by one who has so many irons in the fire as you have, and who leads as busy a life as you do.

You were, at the last election, chosen by the majority of the intelligent ratepayers as a man of great activity and business ability, as one who had a large stake in the town and who was above all others interested in its progress and improvement. It was expected of you that during your term of office you would use your energy and business talents in the interests of the town, that you would not be a mere figurehead, letting things take their course, as had been the case in former years, a course that led from bad to worse; but that you would in everything of a public nature be a leader, directing alike the energies of the Council and the citizens generally towards the attainment of the grand end of making Peterborough, as it should be, the model town of Canada.

As a private citizen you are doing your part to accomplish this object. What are you doing as Mayor? Are there not ways in which, in your high office, and in fulfilment of the expectations entertained of you, you could, by leading and directing the citizens generally, by securing their co-operation with yourself and with each other, accomplish far more than is now being done? You are a man of taste. You recognize the advantage of improving the general appearance of the town. You know that every step in this direction is not only a source of pleasure in itself, but that it has the effect of enhancing more or less the value of your property and of every piece of property in the town that is worth anything. Are there not hundreds of others who have perhaps neither your energy nor your means, who with a little encouragement, with some one to take the lead and secure united action, would be glad to do their part in improving and beautifying the town? Are there not matters of a public and general nature that require attention and which you above all others should take the initiative in? If your answer is in the affirmative, then Mr. Mayor, do not let your term of office expire without doing something by which your mayoralty will be gratefully remembered.

If you cannot think of anything of the kind I refer to, let me briefly mention some things which I think would be the better of your care.

First, and most immediately to be attended to: Tree-planting. Have we not miles of dry and dusty streets that need trees to be planted to make them pleasant and beautiful? Are we in this respect equal to other towns in Canada, or to towns or even villages across the border? Our neighbor, Belleville, puts us to shame in this matter. Now here especially, much can be done by immediate and united action. Other towns have a tree-planting day. Why not Peterborough? Can not arrangements be made to secure at a cheap rate—it should not exceed ten cents a piece—any number of shade trees, and have committees in each ward to superintend the distribution and planting of them? No time is to be lost if anything is to be done this year.

In the same connection I suggest that a commencement be made in boulevarding some of the streets, with a little effort property holders could be got to co-operate, and thus do the work without expense to the town.

Next, the park question. Something must be done some time to secure a quiet shady spot where the tired working man can resort on a hot Sunday afternoon to get a breath of fresh air; where the summer visitor can be taken as one of the attractions of our model town, which our citizens generally can enjoy and derive direct benefit from. Every year desirable places for this purpose are becoming scarcer. Every year the natural resorts that used to be open to the public are being enclosed and built upon. We have a "smart" town, but Bobcaygeon puts us to shame. We have not a foot of ground open to the public off the dusty streets, Bobcaygeon has a charming little park, the result of the co-operation and energy of her citizens, led by John Thompson and encouraged by "Mr. Smiff." A gentleman from Toronto told me the other day that he and his friends last summer found Bobcaygeon a delightful place to take their families to for rest and health, and spoke particularly of the pretty little park as one of the chief attractions. They are all going again this year. And summer visitors pay.

I believe this town needs and can afford a park, and that the sooner the matter is looked after the better. In any case much could, I believe, be done at once and without much expense if we could only get a committee of citizens with you, Mr. Mayor, at the head, as a Park Commission, to take charge of the matter. The two small squares we already own should be thrown open to the public and should be improved. What is to hinder the gaoler bringing out his "vagrants" and keeping the grass neatly cut on the Court House Square during the summer? Open these grounds and at the outset take precautions to prevent injury to the trees by having the constables arrest the first mischievous boy who attempts it. The boys will soon learn to respect public property as well as private. Open the Drill Shed Grounds and set about improving and beautifying them. It can be done without much expense.

Public baths: Your attention has already been called to this matter. Are you going to take it up?

The Opera House: Whose business is it to be wise in time and see that the present very inadequate means of egress from this, the public hall of the town, are improved?

Public sewers: Is it not your place, Mr. Mayor, to see that the very necessary question of drainage be attended to at once? Do not wait for an epidemic or a frightful accident to induce you to do what must be done with regard to these last two matters.

I subscribe myself with all confidence that you will do your duty, your admiring and expectant friend,

ONE WHO VOTED FOR YOU.

Peterborough, May 2, 1884.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pain, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. A few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1 00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster Sold by J. D. Tully.

The play that night was "Kenilworth," and had been cast to admit some alterations made in the dramatization by Madame Orme, who frequently intoduced startling innovations in her rendering of her parts, and in almost all her favorite roles refused rigid adherence to the written text. The reputation of her beauty and former triumphs, the success achieved on the previous nights, and certain tart criticisms upon the freedom of her interpretation of Scott's lovely heroine, Leicester's wife, combined to draw a crowded house; and ere the curtain rose, every box was occupied, save one on the second tier, near the stage.

As the crash of the orchestra died away, and the play opened with the interview between Lambourn and Foster, followed by Tressilian, and the encounter with Varney, the door of the box opened, and the Americrn Minister entered accompanied by a lady and gentleman, who, after seating themselves and gathering back the folds of the box curtains, proceeded to scan the audience.

As they disposed themselves comfortably, a white-haired man, watching through the side scene, scribbled on a piece of paper which was handed into the dressing-room. "Second box, second tier, right-hand side. Two gentlemen and a lady wearing a scarlet cloak."

Sitting between the Minister and her husband Mrs. Laurance, with her brilliant wrappings, was the most prominent of the group, and in the blaze of the gaslight looked at least thirty-five; a woman of large proportions, compactly built, with broad shoulders that sustained a rather short thick neck, now expose in extreme decollete style, so as to aid the unsuccessful elongation of nature. Her sallow complexion was dark, almost bistre, and the strongly marked irregular features were only redeemed from positive plainess by the large fierce black eyes, whose beauty was somewhat marred by the intrusive boldness of their expression. Bowing to some one opposite, her very full lips parted smilingly over a set of sound strong teeth, rather uneven in outline, and of the yellowish cast often observed in persons of humble birth, and arduous life. Her dusky hair, belonging to the family of neutral-brown, was elaborately puffed and frizzed, and in her ears hung large solitaire diamonds that glowed like globes of fire, and scattered rays that were reflected in the circlet around her throat.

Beside her sat her husband, leaning back with negligent grace, and carelessly stroking his silky black moustache with one gloved hand, while the other toyed with a jewelled opera glass. Although only two years her senior, he bore the appearance of much greater seniority, and the proud patrican cast of his handsome face contrasted as vividly with the coarser lower type of hers, as though in ancient Roman era he had veritably worn the clavis and the bulla, while she trudged in lowly guise among the hardhanded heroines of the proletarii.

Over his dreamy violet eyes arched the peculiarly fine jet brows that Mr. Palma had found so distinctive in Regina's face, and his glossy hair and beard possessed that purplish black tint so rarely combined with the transparent white complexion, which now gleamed conspicuously in his broad, full, untanned forehead.

The indolent insouciance of his bearing was in accord with his social record, as a proud high-born man of cultivated, elegant tastes, and unmistakably dissipated tendencies, which doubtless would long ago have fructified in thoroughly demoralized habits had not his wife vigorously exerted her exigeant guardianship.

"Have you heard the last joke at Count T——'s expense?" said Mrs. Laurance, tapping the arm of the Minister with her gilded fan.

"Do you refer to the contretemps of the masks at the Grand Ball?"

"No, something connected with Mme. Orme. I seems the Count saw her in London, became infatuated—as men always are about pretty actresses—and the first night she played here he was almost frantic; wrote a note between the acts, and sent it to her twisted in that costly antique scarf-ring he is so fond of telling people once belonged to the Duke of Orleans! Before the play ended, it was returned, with the note torn into several strips and bound around it. Fancy his chagrin! Col. Thorpe was in the box with him, and told it next day when we met at dinner. When I asked T—— his opinion of Madam, he answered:

"She is perfectly divine! but, alas! only an inspired leicle, She should be called 'Sulitelma,' which I believe means——Cuthbert, what did you tell me it meant?"

"Queen of Snows. Abbie, do lower your voice a trifle," he answered without even glancing at her, and she continued:

"I wanted to see her last night in 'Medea' but Cuthbert had an opera engagement, and beside little Maud had the croup——"

A storm of applause cut short the nursery budget, and all turned to the stage where Amy Robsart entered, followed by Janet and by Varney.

Advancing with queenly grace and dignity to a pile of cushions in the centre of the drawing-room at Cumnor-Place, she stood a moment with downcast eyes, till the acclamation ceased, and Varney renewed his appeal.

Her satin dress was of that exquisite tint which in felicitous French phraseology is termed de couleur de fleur de pecher, and swept down from her slender figure in statuesque folds, that ended in a long-court train, particularly becoming in the pose she ha i selected. The Elizabethan ruff, with an edge of filmy lace, softened the effect of the bodice cut square across the breast, and revealed the string of pearls, Leicester's last gift, that shone so fair upon his Countess' snowy neck. From the mass of hair heaped high upon her head, soft tendrils clustered to the edge of her brow, and here and there a long curl strayed over her shoulder, and glittered like burnished gold in the glare of the quivering foot-lights. The lovely arms and hands were unburdened by jewels, and save the pearls around her throat, and the aigrette of brilliants in the upper bandeau of her hair, she wore no ornaments. The perfect impersonation of a beautiful, innocent happy bride, impatiently expectant of her husband's entrance, she stood listening to his messenger, a tender smile parting her rosy lips.

The chair of state chanced to be placed in the direction of the Minister's box, and only a few feet distant, and when Varney attempted to place her upon it she waved him back, and raising her right hand toward it, said in a calm, deep, pure voice which had such thrilling emphasis in its lowest cadences:

"No, good Master Richard Varney, I take not my place there until my Lord himself conducts me. I am for the present a disguised Countess, and will not take dignity upon me until authorized by him from whom I derived it."

In that brief sentence she knew her opportunity and seized it, for her glance followed her uplifted hand, mounted into the box, and sweeping across the Minister, dwelt for some seconds on the dark womanly countenance beside him, and then fastened upon the face of Mr. Laurance.

"Some of whose seats were on that side of the house, and who chanced to have their lorgnettes levelled at her just then, saw a long shiver creep over her, as if a blast of cold air had blown down through the side scene, and a sudden spark blazed up in the dilating eyes, as a mirror flashes when a candle flame smites its cold dark surface; but not a muscle quivered in the proud face, and only the Varney at her side noticed that when the slight hand fell back, it sought its mate with a quick groping motion, and the fingers clutched each other till the nails grew purple.

For fully a moment that burning gaze rested on the features that seemed to possess some subtle facination for her, and wandering back to the wife, a shadowy smile hovered around the lips that were soon turned away to answer Varney. As she moved in the direction of a window, to listen for the clatter of horses' hoofs, Mrs. Lawrence whispered:

"Is net she the loveliest creature your ever beheld? I never saw such superb eyes; they absolutely seemed to lighten just now. Cuthbert, did you only notice how she looked right at me? I daresay my solitaires attracted her attention, and no wonder; they are the largest in the house, and these actresses always have an eye to the very best jewellery. Of course it must have been my diamonds."

From the moment when Amy Robsart entered, Cuthbert Laurance felt a strange magnetic thrill dart through every fibre of his frame; his sluggish pulse stirred, and as her mesmeric brown eyes, luminous, overmastering, met his, he drew his breath in quick gasps and his heart in its rapid throbbing seemed to pour liquid fire into the bounding arteries. Some vague, bewildering reminiscence danced through the clouded chambers of his brain, pointing like a mocking fiend now this way, then in an opposite direction; one instant assuring him that they had met before, the next torturing him with the triumphant taunt that he had hitherto never known anyone half so lovely. Was it merely some lucky accident that had so unexpectedly brought them during that long flattering gaze, thoroughly en rapport.

THE CANADIAN CATTLE TRADE.

Recent events in connection with the question of the meat supply of Great Britain and other European countries from the North American and Australian continents are worthy of the attion of our readers. It is well known that notwithstanding the fact of Australia and the United States being both on the scheduled list of countries from whence importation of animals is permitted for slaughter only, an immense and profitable trade has been developed in both live stock and dead meats; and, owing to our northern and colder climates, while our grasses are luxuriant and nutritious, we cannot produce the feed stuffs which grow abundantly in both the United States and Australia; therefore, in competition with either country in dead meats, we are at a decided disadvantage. What then is the course open for our Canadian farmer to pursue?

The following statement made a few days ago by Mr. F. Lingham, and subsequently endorsed by Sir Alexander Galt, C. M. G., we think clearly indicates our course. He says:—"When in England a few weeks ago, I was informed by Lord Dalhousie that the Canadian cattle were very highly thought of by the Scotch farmers, and he instanced some of his own tenants who had bought Canadian cattle for stockers; they gave £20 a piece for them, fed them eight weeks, and sold them for £30. His Lordship was convinced that there will be an immense demand this year for them."

Mr. Lingham was informed by them that they never knew stock take on flesh so rapidly as good grade Canadians.

He was of the opinion that the three or four weeks of housing and feeding in transit prepared them for feeding, so that when they reach the home farms, they are in the very condition to utilize the nutritious feeding stuffs with which they are liberally and judiciously fed. In view therefore, of the above facts, and owing to the fact that our stock are entirely free from contagious disease, and that, in consequence, this is almost the only country from whence live animals can be imported, our course is clearly to increase the annual production of cattle and sheep to the utmost capacity of the farms, and instead of going to the expense of feeding them for beef, let them be exported as store cattle to be fed in Britain.

It is the opinion of many that this is the trade which will be done altogether in the provinces of the near future. Now, if we accept this surmise as correct, the duty of our farmers is clear; they must increase their stock by using thorough-bred bulls, and certainly there can be no excuse for not doing so with such herds as those of Senator Cochrane, Mr. Geo. Whitfield, R. H. Pope, Dawes & Co., Andrew Allen and others in Quebec; the Bow Park Herd, Geary Bros., Gibson, Attril, Beatty, Stone and others in Ontario, to obtain bulls from the very best blood which is obtainable in or out of England of Shorthorn, Polled Angus, Hereford and Galloway blood, the surplus of which are at present sent annually to Chicago and Kansas City for sale. Let our own farmers invest in these young bulls, let agricultural societies, instead of giving their money in insignificant but multitudinous prizes at exhibitions, the beneficial effects of which are open to question, and certainly not demonstrable, buy pure-bred bulls for the use of their members, and we are convinced they will accomplish their mission—the advancement and improvement of agriculture—far more certainly than by any other means. Complaints are often made of the scrub quality of too many of our exported beasts; certainly many of them are not a credit to us, and yet it costs just as much to feed one of these as it does a good one—perhaps more. We also believe that our cattle trade, with the exception of those fed at distilleries, will be confined to stockers, and, if our suggestion is carried out, the time is not far distant when thousands of our heifers will be exported for breeding purposes at paying prices. These remarks are appicable only to the older provinces of Canada, but we look forward to the development of a very large trade in beef with the eastern towns and cities of Canada, and perhaps England also, from the grazing belt at the foot-hills of the Rocky Mountains.—The Journal of Agriculture.

University College Examinations.

At the recent examination at University College, Toronto, Mr. Alex. Chamberlain, son of Mr. Geo. Chamberlain, formerly of Peterborough, and who was prepared at our Collegiate Institute, in his second year, took the prize in English and stood second in both history and French. Mr. Chamberlain at his matriculation examination took the first place in English, and stood high in French, German and Latin, so that he certainly reflects credit upon our Institute.

Wood on Fire.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock on Friday night, as Mr. T. Cavanagh, proprietor of the Stewart House, was about to retire, he noticed a fire in the yard. Hurriedly descending to the yard, he found the wood pile in a blaze. With the assistance of others the fire was extinguished, but if it had not then been discovered, the buildings would soon have been ignited by the flames. A man who had been seen about the premises was seized and held until Chief Johnston arrived. He was then locked up, and this morning was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison on a charge of vagrancy.

Attempted Incendiarism?

The foundation for a sensation, almost as great as that caused by the discovery of cartridges at the Parliament buildings in Toronto, was discovered at the market building this morning. Some time during the night some person or persons unknown, placed paper in between the eastern doors of the market building and set it on fire. The corners of the doors were blackened and slightly burned by the fire, but no other damage was done. Some persons feel inclined to look upon the matter lightly, as a joke while others believe it was an attempt to burn the building. If it was an attempt at incendiarism, it was a feeble one.

Strong Facts.

All men are honest when well watched. Purses will hold pennies as well as pounds. In order to be a reasonable creature, it is necessary at times to be downright mad. Some men are so honest that necessity compels them to become dishonest in the end. Silks, broadcloths, and jewels are often bought with other people's money. Whatever is, is right, with a few exceptions—the left eye, the left leg, and the left side of a plum-pudding. The prayer of a selfish man man is, "Forgive us our debts," while he makes everybody that owes him pay to the utmost farthing. He who thinks every man a rogue is very certain to see one when he shaves himself, and he ought in mercy to his neighbor, to surrender the rascal to justice. Money is the fool's wisdom, the knave's reputation, the poor man's desire, the covetous man's ambition, and the idol of all. All men speak well of all men's virtues when they are dead, and tombstones are marked with the epitaphs of the good and virtuous. Is there any particular cemetery where the bad are buried? Or is there any just reason why you should not call and inspect the handsome range of Scotch Tweed Suitings at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

THE SS. STATE OF FLORIDA LOST.

Various Conjectures as to the Cause—Strong Suspicions of Dynamite.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The agents of the State Line Steamship Company have received a despatch from Glasgow this morning showing that the steamer State of Florida, which left New York for Glasgow on April 12th, was lost at sea. The despatch is as follows:—"The steamer Devon, from New York for Bristol, picked up on April 27th, two lifeboats of the steamship State of Florida without occupants or gear. A sailing vessel bound for the west signalled the steamer City of Rome on April 23rd in lat. 46, long. 42, that she had the shipwrecked crew of a State line steamer on board."

DYNAMITE AGENTS.

When the State of Florida had left New York a rumour was given currency that several of O'Donovan Rossa's agents were aboard with dynamite and that detectives were awaiting the arrival of the steamer at Glasgow to arrest the men. This was confirmed by cable from England.

CONTRADICTORY OPINIONS.

GLASGOW, May 4.—The manager of the State line on being questioned regarding the reported loss of the State of Florida indignantly repelled the conclusion, which he said had been too hurriedly arrived at, that the ship had gone down. He said that while the Florida was not a greyhound she was a good stout ship, in thorough condition, well found, having provisions and other stores on board in plenty, and a captain that was both careful and capable.

LOSS TO THE INSURERS.

The underwriters will lose £30,000 if the steamer should prove to be lost.

THE DYNAMITE THEORY DISCREDITED.

The owners are of the opinion that the State of Florida struck an iceberg, as the captain of the State of Pennsylvania reports ice in the region in which she is supposed to have been at the time of the disaster. The dynamite theory is not received with any favour whatever. The inventory shows that the cargo was shipped by two well-known firms, and all the small packages on board have been accounted for. The detectives reported to be awaiting the arrival of the State of Florida were seeking to arrest a Toronto thief supposed to be on the vessel.

CANADIANS ON BOARD.

Mr. A. Bethune, a son of Dr. Bethune, of Toronto, and Mr. George Eddington were on board the ill-fated steamer. The latter was a young Scotchman, and both were engaged in orange growing in Florida. They were on their way to Glasgow to visit Eddington's father, who is a wealthy merchant there.

Bryson, partner of Miller, the burglar is also believed to have been on board as a steerage passenger. His name does not appear on the list but it is more than probable that he was travelling under an assumed name.

A PITIABLE SIGHT.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I would like to call your attention to the pitiable sight which was to be seen on our public streets to-day, when one of our most prominent Government men, not wholly unconnected with the supervision of our hotels, etc., was to be seen staggering and evidently under the influence of something stronger than water.

Yours, etc.,
RATEPAYER.

Peterborough, May 3rd, 1884.

Excursion Steamboat Company.

Captain Vandusen has arrived in Toronto and will take charge of the steamer Rupert this year. She is having her boilers, engines, and hull thoroughly overhauled, and new state rooms, upper cabin, and dining room constructed. She will be newly and handsomely furnished for the New York, Ontario and Thousand Island Steamboat Company's excursion route to open this season. Patrons of the Port Dalhousie route will be sorry to lose Capt. Vandusen. He will be assisted on the Rupert by Harry Soams as mate, and he, too, no doubt will be as popular as he was last year on the steamer Empress of India. Mr. Wilkie will again occupy the purser's cabin.

Pimples and Blotches.

Call at John McKee's drug store and get a package of McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is composed of vaseline carbolic acid and cerate, and has never failed to remove pimples, blotches, ulcerated sores, rough skin it cures when all others fail. Try it.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FORESTERS.

A largely attended meeting of Court Lakefield No. 43 was held in Union hall on Queen street, on Thursday evening, the 24th of April. The election of officers for the ensuing term of six months resulted in the choice of the following, viz:—

|---|---|
| Bro. R. Q. Dench | W. Chief Ranger |
| " J. C. Balsdon | V. C. Ranger |
| " W. McDonald | Chap. |
| " Dr. Ball | F. Secy. |
| " D. Arnott | Re. Secy. |
| " W. M. Graham | Treasurer |
| " John Balsdon | S. Woodward |
| " John Richardson, jr. | J. Woodward |
| " James Morrison | S. Beadle |
| " Thos. F. Wallace | J. Beadle. |

Bros. Dr. Bell and John Claim were elected representatives to the High Court, which meets in Toronto shortly.

STREETS.

The Water street dispute is now in a fair way of being finally settled. Mr. R. B. Rogers, P. S.I., has at present the matter in hand, being engaged laying out this street or reservation along the water's edge through lot 18 in the 7th concession. He has found considerable difficulty in finding the original bank, but at last he has succeeded in solving the difficulty by calling in the assistance of Messrs. L. Nolan and James Buckley, two reliable men, who lived here about fifty years ago. These men were able to point out distinctly the old landmarks, and have verified the principal points required. The Council of Lakefield deserve credit for the determination evinced by them to push this affair to a final settlement and no doubt the people will show their appreciation at the proper time.

SUDDEN DEATH.

On Saturday morning an old man named Henry Pearson (well known in Smith), who was planting the garden for Mr. James Davis, went into the house and complained to Mrs. Davis of being very tired and cold. She offered to get him some tea, &c., but he refused and laid down on the lounge. A short time after he went into the kitchen and one of the men who had just come into dinner observed him about to fall and caught him in his arms and carried him back to the lounge, where he expired in a few moments. Mrs. Davis sent a messenger to Dr. Bell, coroner, but he did not consider an inquest necessary.

COLD.

The summer like warm weather of last week has been succeeded this by a cold snap bordering very closely to winter weather. Notwithstanding the change of temperature on account of the dryness of the weather seeding in this part goes bravely on and it is the general opinion that seeding will be pretty well things this week. Fall wheat looks well and the prospects are excellent for a good crop.

ASSESSMENT.

The assessment roll of the village of Lakefield for 1884 has been returned to the village clerk by the assessor. The roll gives the number of ratepayers as 301. The value of real estate is $227,440, and personal property, &c., $31,525, total, $258,965, being an increase of over $17,000. The assessor gives the number of residents as 1,087, being also an increase from last year's assessment.

TO THE WEST.

Mr. W. Barlee left Lakefield on Wednesday last, the 30th of April, with a car of stock, implements, &c., for Moosejaw, N. W. Territory, near which place he goes to settle. Lakefield this spring contributes a fair share at least of settlers to the Canadian Nor'-West.

LINDSAY

GENEROUS.—Mr. Hugh O'Leary, acting on behalf of the ladies of Lorretto and the congregation of St. Mary's, handed the captain of the fire brigade a cheque for $100 as some slight acknowledgment of the energy and bravery of the men in trying to save the convent.

THE DOMINION BANK.—Owing to changes in this institution. The Lindsay agency remains for some time in charge of Mr. T. B. Dean as acting manager, his position as teller being filled by a gentleman from the head office. Mr. Dean is as experienced and competent as he is popular a bank official.

THE SCOTT ACT IN VICTORIA.—Rev. Mr Tonkins of Jenetville was in town on Wednesday conferring with local temperance men as to the advisability of an effort being made to pass the Scott act in Victoria county. The regulations under which the act may be voted on allow of a system of grouping of counties being done and on this basis the counties of Ontario, Durham, Northumberland, Peel, Simcoe, Prince Edward, and a part of York are included in one area. To these it is proposed to add the counties of Victoria and Peterborough if possible. A meeting of the local temperance men and of supporters of the cause throughout the county will be held at an early date. It will probably be decided that active measures shall be taken at once.

RETURNED FROM A SURVEY.—Mr. A. Niven, D. L. S., of Hamilton, was in town on Saturday on his return home from a survey in the Saskatchewan territory that has occupied him the past four months. The district surveyed was nearly a hundred miles to the north-west of Fort Pelly and three hundred north-west of Winnipeg. It is intersected by the Red Deer river, which flows into Lake Winnipegosis, a large lake emptying into Lake Winnipeg and thence flowing out by the Nelson river. Mr. Niven experienced cold that frequently brought the mercury 30° and 40° below zero, but the snow was not more than 2½ feet deep, and the winter was simply more steadily cold than here. The country was very well timbered, principally by large spruce trees from twelve to thirty inches in diameter. The soil was a good, heavy clay, deep and rich, and there was no rock. Mr. Niven speaks highly of the country and its prospects.—Post.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, May 3.—The principal feature of the week in the market was the decline in a number of American railway securities, owing to the suspension of Keener.

THE ORIENTAL BANK.

LONDON, May 3.—Large crowds have collected about the Oriental Bank, which suspended yesterday. There is great excitement among them. The bank's shares are quoted at a discount of 35 per cent.

A POLITICAL QUARREL.

LONDON, May 3.—Lord Randolph Churchill has resigned the chairmanship of the National Conservative Union on account of a violent quarrel with the Marquis of Salisbury.

PLOT AGAINST THE CZAR.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 3.—Owing to the discovery at Moscow of a plot to assassinate the Czar the festivities designed at Moscow in honour of the coming of age of the Czarovitch will be held at St. Petersburg.

WITNESSES SUBORNED.

LONDON, May 4.—Patrick Slattery has made a deposition at Ennis, County Clare, that at the instigation of a police sergeant he suborned witnesses to swear falsely against the brothers Delahanty, sentenced at Cork, in 1883, to life servitude. He declares the Delahanty's are innocent.

THE SURRENDER OF BERBER.

CAIRO, May 2.—Fresh reports of the surrender of Berber are in circulation here. Majors Kitchener and Rundle and Colonel Wortley, attached to the Egyptian army, have been ordered to ascend the Nile in a steamer on the 9th inst., for the purpose of making a reconnoissance.

MIDLAND.

BURGLARY.—Gladstone's hotel was entered through the cellar door on Saturday night and about $30 was taken from the till in the bar. Mr. Gladstone thinks he could lay his hand on the thief.

WOOLEN MILL.—The contract for the erection of the woolen mill was let on Tuesday. Mr. Wm. West secured the contract at $2,000. The building is to be ready to receive the machinery by the 10th of June, brick work and all, to be completed by the first of August.

FIRE IN THE WOODS.—About two o'clock on Sunday afternoon fire commenced to spread very rapidly in the woods between Fourth and Fifth streets, where so much dry brush has been allowed to remain after taking off cordwood. For the protection of the houses the hand engine was brought over from the mill. The wind was blowing from the south and carried the flames away from the houses. There will be serious damage by fires in the woods west of the town and between this village and penetang during the dry season if owners of lots are not compelled to dispose of the brush which now covers the ground in all directions.

FINE YACHT.—Rev. Father Lynett's yacht "Kate," came into the harbour on Saturday. It came as far as Penetang on the Northern railway from Toronto, where it was built by one of the best makers. It is a perfect beauty, painted black with white deck, steel centre board and rudder. It is fitted out with mariner's compass, green and red larboard and starboard lights and white top light. It has three air-tight compartments which prevents it from sinking. It is 23 feet over all, with six feet beam, and so constructed that the tops of the masts may touch the water before the boat is in danger of filling. It is the most complete and neatest looking yacht we have ever seen on these waters.—Free Press.

COBOURG.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—The youngest son and daughter of Mr. Armstrong, Hamilton township, were driving to Bewdly, a short time since, and when on the bridge at the gravel road near the village, the horse shied at an object, backed up, turned around and started to run away. The boy was thrown out, but held the lines until they broke. The girl in trying to get out, fell, and one of her legs got caught in the step. In this perilous condition she was dragged half a mile, until rescued by Mr. John Benson. Strange to say she was not much hurt as she had presence of mind to keep her head from striking the ground by great exertion.

THE FATHER OF CANADIAN JOURNALISM.—In referring to the death of Dr. Barker, the other day, who established the Kingston Whig in 1834, the circumstance is alluded to by many of our contemporaries, as the death of the father of journalism in Canada. This is not correct. Col. Chatterton, our esteemed townsman, and Clerk of the Court, for the counties of Northumberland and Durham, who is still alive and healthy, although carrying the weight of many years, established the Cobourg Star now the Sentinel-Star, in 1831, fifty-three years ago, so that the father of journalism in Canada is not yet dead, and his host of friends trust that he will be spared for many years of active life.

FREE TRADE FALLACIES.

THE Reformers, after a period of vacillation, seem to be plucking up their courage again for a general attack upon the National Policy and upon the encouragement of Canadian industries.

One of their favorite weapons is the incorrect assertion that in the United States the popular feeling has veered round in favor of free-trade, and especially that the great Democratic party is prepared to adopt such a fiscal policy as part of its platform. It is true that there are some freetraders in the States as in the Dominion, some among the Republicans and possibly more among the Democrats, but, as with us, they are decidedly in the minority and do not represent public opinion. We may safely predict that in the approaching great contest for the Presidency the Democrats will not put forward free trade as one of their planks, and that if they did they would experience a disastrous defeat, even in some of their former strongholds.

The Reformers in this, as in so many other instances, argue from a fallacy. They either ignorantly or wilfully confound too very distinct questions. In framing a tariff there are two points to be considered, the amount of revenue required, and the effect upon the industries of the country. Because the United States revenue is maintained upon the scale required by the expenditure of the civil war and the subsequent reduction of the debt, till many desire to see the taxation reduced, it by no means follows that they would have free trade. A high tariff is not necessarily identified with a large revenue, nor a lower tariff with a smaller revenue. It would be possible, indeed, to have a purely protective tariff without any revenue from it. If the duties on all imported goods which could be manufactured at home were raised till they became absolutely prohibitory, there would be no receipts at the custom house, and consequently a very high tariff without any production of revenue. The truth is that the theoretical freetraders either are, or pretend to be, totally unable to see the difference between duties and taxation, and constantly assume that the duties are added to the price and must be a burden upon the purchaser. Facts are against them, for over and over again increased duties have been followed by cheapened goods, in many instances the price being even less than the duty, and yet they stick to their false theory. If internal competition has reduced prices, and the purchaser, being content with home manufactures, does not use imported goods, he would not pay one cent of taxation on this score, whatever the tariff might be. And this is the case to a very large extent both in Canada and the United States. If the revenue of the Dominion has increased it is largely due to enhanced receipts from public works, post-office department, &c., and even of the larger customs collections, they are partly caused by the importation of more luxuries, owing to a more flourishing condition of trade, and partly to the foreign producer paying the duty, as is often done. In neither case does a purchaser of small means and moderate desires contribute anything additional to the revenue.

Another erroneous argument of the freetraders, is that some manufactures have been overdone and have more or less glutted the market, from which they reason that the promises of the advocates of protection for native industries have been proved false. The advocates of the National Policy never pretended that it would cure all possible evils, like a quack panacea. A man may protect his wife and children by insuring his life, but he cannot secure that his widow and orphans will make a wise expenditure of the sum thus provided for them at his death, though such a reflection will not check life insurance. So a protectionist policy can encourage and foster native industries, but it cannot prevent men from rashly overstocking the market, unduly crowding certain branches of trade with competing concerns, or embarking in business for which they are unqualified. Such mistakes are unavoidable, especially at the beginning of a new policy, and will right themselves in good time. Because a few factories are closed or are working short time it is absurd to argue that it would have been wiser to leave manufacturing and its profits wholly to foreigners. Even operatives who are receiving wages for only five days in the week, will not wish to return to the system under which they had to search sometimes in vain for work for one day. These closet theorists cannot convert practical men to free trade by such arguments.

AGRICULTURE AND ARTS

MEETING OF THE COUNCIL OF THE ONTARIO ASSOCIATION.

The 39th Provincial and Dominion Exhibition at Ottawa—The Agricultural Examinations—The Hall dispute Settled—Lecture Tour of Prof. Tanner.

The regular spring meeting of the Council of the Agricultural and Arts Association for this Province was held in Toronto on Wednesday and Thursday last, there being present Messrs Legge, (President) Moore, Drury, White, Carnegie, Parker, Shipley, Reid, Aylsworth, Swell and Morgan; absent, Messrs. Rykert and McKinnon.

THE ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

The chief object of the meeting was to revise the prize list for 1884 which was, owing to the contribution of the Dominion Government to the present years Exhibition, increased from that of last year in the stock departments. In all the important classes considerable additions were made to the premiums, besides the addition of a large number of Dominion gold medals. Undoubtedly the prize list about to be issued will hold forth the largest inducements to the owners of stock to place their animals on exhibition at Ottawa this fall that has ever been offered in Canada, and in view of the opening of the Ontario and Quebec railway, the coming exhibition promises to surpass that of any of its predecessors.

AGRICULTURAL EXAMINATIONS.

The public will be pleased to learn that notwithstanding this is only the first year of the agricultural examination scheme, yet no less than thirty-six candidates have entered therefor. The educational committee (Messrs. Carnegie, Drury and Mills) met on the Tuesday preceding and finally adopted the examination papers to be used at the coming examinations, which take place at the same time, place, and under the same supervision as the next intermediate examinations in July. Among those entered is only one from Peterborough, and to the shame of the rest of the municipality that one is from Galway. Although the time fixed for entries has expired no doubt others would be received if sent in at once, which we trust will be the case, and not leave Mr. Henry Cohen, of Galway, the honor of being the sole competitor from this county.

THE AGRICULTURAL HALL.

The committee, (Messrs. Drury, Parker and Carnegie), entrusted with the duty of trying to arrive at a settlement of the long pending dispute between the Council and the Ontario Government with reference to the work done on the Agricultural Hall, Toronto, nearly two years ago, and in settlement of which they had then offered to pay the Government the sum of $3000, reported that after conferring with Mr. Ross (the commissioner of agriculture) and explaining the circumstances to him he had expressed himself as willing to recommend the acceptance of a sum of $4000 from the council in full settlement of the claim, and the acceptance of the $200 per annum received by the council from Mr. Jamison as full competition for the heating of the premises occupied by both Mr. Jamison and the Board. The Council on motion decided to accept this proposal as a final settlement of this matter.

LECTURE TOUR.

Prof. Mills, of the Ontario Agricultural College, called the attention of the Council to the many advantages which would be likely to accrue to this Province, could Prof. Tanner, of the Institute of Agriculture, South Kensington, England, be induced to make a lecturing tour through this Province during the coming autumn. He expressed himself as convinced that nothing could be done which would do so much to promote both agricultural education and the immigration of English farmers to this Province as such a visit from Prof. Tanner. A resolution was passed by the Council authorizing the Educational Committee to undertake one-third of the expense of such a visit, provided their share of the cost did not exceed $400, the idea being that the Educational and Immigration departments of the Ontario Government should assume the other two-thirds of the expense—a proposal which the Minister of Education, we learn, entertained most favourably when laid bfore him.

REVIEWS.

HOME SCIENCE.—We have received the first number of another monthly magazine just published in New York, under the title of Home Science, (published by Selden R. Hopkins, 29 Warren street—69 Bible House, New York; and by S. W. Partridge & Co., 9 Paternoster Row, London, Eng. Price, $2.50 a year). Its contents are decidedly heterogeneous; its chief object, however, is mainly hygienic—the practical application of sound scientific principles to the elucidation and explanation of everything connected with the physical, social, and moral health of the family. Thus, we have "Good Health by Inheritance;" "Curious Fact about Brains and Nerves;" "Our Juvenile Literature;" "Management of Children;" etc. The articles are short, pithy, and readable. Many are from well-known pens; e. g.; T. De Witt Talmage; Dio Lewis; Lillie Devereux Blake. The style is light; the matter is treated popularly; and flashes of thorough American humour abound. As an example of this last we cannot forbear quoting the following:—

"Many years ago I knew in the West a lawyer who could repeat verbatim a long lecture or sermon which he had heard but once; but his boys were obliged to wear two small patches, and one large one, on their pantaloons."

A Piquant Way.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain; internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25cts.

DO YOU FEEL PLAYED OUT?—If so, try a bottle of Golden Fruit Bitters. It is a simple tonic, pleasant to take, and will make you feel like a "new man." Sold by all druggists.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, May 1.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Gladstone said that the latest advices from Khartoum indicated that the city was in no military danger. He was unable to speak in regard to the termination of Gordon's mission until he had received replies to communications which the Government had addressed to him.

In the House of Lords to-day Earl Granville said inexperienced generals deprecated the employment of Indian troops for the relief of Berber and Khartoum.

In the debate on the Franchise Bill this evening Mr. Henry Chaplin made a motion declaring that to increase the electoral privileges in Ireland at this time is dangerous to the welfare of the state. Mr. Gladstone said it was impossible to maintain the union between England and Ireland except by giving equal rights to both countries. England was strong enough in wealth and population as compared with Ireland to let her be equally strong in right and justice, and she would have abundant force to settle whatever matters might arise between the countries in future.

Mr. Chaplin's motion was not pressed.

Reciprocity with Canada.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Mr. Belmont said yesterday that the favourable turn which the tariff debate has taken and the policy of the Administration in regard to the recent negotiations for a reciprocity treaty with Mexico, and the evident purpose of the Administration with respect to a commercial treaty with Spain, seem to make it a fit occasion to bring the Canadian question before the House. A resolution, which was referred to the committee, calls for a renewal of the former treaty, but it is doubtful if such a treaty would now be satisfactory. It is proposed to report a substitute for that resolution, expressing the opinion of the House in favour of negotiations looking towards a commercial agreement without undertaking to specify its terms. It is understood that Belmont is now engaged in preparing the report.

Good, Barring its Politics.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pain, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

INFELICE.

By AUGUSTA J. EVANS WILSON.

He no more heard his wife's hoarse whisper than if a cyclone had whirled between them, and leaning forward to catch the measured melody that floated from the Countess's lips, a crimson glow fired his cheek as he caught the lofty words:

"I know a cure for jealousy. It is to speak truth to my Lord at all times; to hold up my mind, my thoughts before him, as pure as that polished mirror, so that when he looks into my heart, he shall see only his own features reflected there." Can he who took my little hands and made them wifely, laying therein the precious burden of his honour, afford to doubt the palms are clean?"

No wonder Varney stared, and the prompter anathematized the sudden flicker of the gas jet that caused him to lose his place; there was no such written sentence as the last, and the rehearsal proved no sure index of all the Countess uttered that night, but the play rolled on, and when the folding doors flew open and Amy sprang to meet her noble husband, the house began to warm into an earnest sympathy.

In the scene that followed, she sat with child-like simplicity and grace on the footstool at Leicester's feet, while he exhibited the jewelled decorations of his princely garb, and explained the significance of the various orders; and in the face upturned to him who filled the chair of state, there was a wealth of loving tenderness that might have moved colder natures than that which now kindled in the deep violet eyes that watched her from the Minister's box.

Gradually the curious, timid, admiring bride is merged in the wife, with ambition budding in her heart, an enacting pride pleading for recognition and wifely dignities, and in this transformation the power of the woman asserted itself.

Bending toward Leicester, until from the low seat she sank unintentionally upon her knees, she prayed with passionate fevour:

"But shall not your wife—my love, one day soon—be surrounded with the honor which arises neither from the toils of the mechanic who decks her apartment, nor from the silks and jewels with which your generosity adorns her, but which is attached to her place among the matronage, as the avowed wife of England's noblest Earl? 'Tis not the dazzling splendor of your title that I covet, but the richer, nobler, dearer coronet of your beloved name, the precious privilege of fronting the world as your acknowledged wife."

Again, in answer to his flattering evasive sophistries, she asked in a voice whose marvellous modulations, in the midst of intense feeling, seemed to penetrate every nook of that vast building:

"But why can it not be? Why can it not immediately take place, this most perfect uninterrupted union, for which you say you wish, and which the laws of God and man alike command? Think you my unshod feet would shrink from glowing ploughshares, if crossing them I found the sacred shelter of my husband's name? Ah, husband! dost blanch before the storm of condemnation, which has no terrors for a brave wife's heart? It would seem but scant and tardy justice, to own thy wedded wife!"

The Earl had led her behind the scenes, and the Minister had twice addressed him, ere Mr. Laurance recovered himself sufficiently to perceive that his companions were smiling at his complete absorption.

"Why Cuthbert, wake up. You look like some one walking open-eyed in sleep. Has Madame's beauty das dazzled you as utterly as poor Count T——?"

His wife pinched his arm, but without heeding her he looked quite past her, into the laughing eye of the Minister, and asked:

"Do you know her? Is her husband living?"

"I shall call by appointment to-morrow, but this is the first time I have seen her. Of her history I know nothing, but rumour pronounces her a widow."

"Which generally means that [illegible] actresses have drunken, worthless husbands, paid comfortable salaries to shut their eyes and keep out of the way," added Mrs. Laurance, leng hening the range of her opera glass, and levelling it at a group, where the glimmer of jewels attracted her attention.

How the words grated on her husband's ear, grown strangely sensitive within an hour!

Carelessly glancing over the sea of faces beneath around him, the minister continued:

"English critics contend that Mme. Orme's 'Amy Robsart' is so far from being Scott's ideal creation, that he would fail to recognize it if he were alive; still, where she alters the text and intensifies the type, they admit that the dramatic effect is heightened. She appears to have concentrated all her talent upon the passionate impersonation of one peculiar phase of feminine suffering and endurance—that of the outraged and neglected wife—and her favourite roles are 'Katherine' from Henry VIII., 'Hermione,' and 'Medea,' though she is said to excel in 'Deborah.' My brother, who saw her last night as 'Medea,' pronounced her fully equal to Rachel, and said that in that scene where she attempted to remove her children from the side of the new wife, the despairing fury of her eyes literally raised the few thin hairs that still faithfully cling to the top of his head. Ah, the parting with Leicester—how marvellously beautiful she is!"

Leaning against a dressing-table loaded with toilet trifles and bijouterie, Amy stood, arrayed in the costume which displayed to greater advantage the perfect symmetry of form and the dazzling purity of her complexion.

The cymar of white silk bordered with swan's down exposed the gleaming dimpled shoulders, and from beneath the pretty lace coif, the unbound glory of her long hair swept around her like a cataract of gold, touching the hem of her silked gown, where, to complete the witchery, one slippered foot was visible. When her husband entered to bid her adieu, and the final petition for public acknowledgement was once more sternly denied, the long-pent agony in the woman's heart burst all barriers,—overflowed every dictate of wounded pride, and with an utter abandon of genuine, poignant grief she gave way to a storm that shook her frame with convulsive sobs and deluged her cheeks with tears. Despite her desperate efforts to maintain her self-control, the sight of her husband's magnetic, handsome face—after thirteen weary years of waiting—unnerved, overwhelmed her. Then in the temple of Art, where critical eyes were bent searchingly upon her, Nature triumphantly asserted itself, and she who wept passionately from the bitter realization of her own accumulated wrongs, was wildly applauded as the queen of actresses, who so successfully simulated imaginary woes.

By what infallible criterion shall criticism decide the boundaries of the Actual and the Ideal? Who shall compute the expenditure of literal heartache that builds up the popularly successful Desdemonas, Camilles, and Marie Stuarts;—the scalding tears that gradually crystalize into the classic repose essential to the severe simplicity of the old Greek tragedies?

The curtain fell upon a bowed and sobbing woman, and the tempest of applause that shook the building was prolonged until, after a time, Amy Robsart, with tears still glistening on her cheeks, came forward to acknowledge the tribute, and her silken garments were pelted with bouquets. Among the number that embroidered the stage lay a pyramid of violets edged with rose geranium leaves, and raising it she bent her lovely head to the audience and kissed the violets in memory of her far-off child, whose withered floral tribute was more precious to the woman's heart than all the laudatory chaplets of the great city, which did homage to her genuine tears.

Some time elapsed while the play shifted to the Court, recounting the feuds of Leicester and Sussex; and when Amy Robsart appeared again it was in the stormy interview where Varney endeavours to enforce the Earl's command that she shall travel to Kenilworth as Varney's wife. The trembling submissiveness of earlier scenes was thrown away for ever, and as if metamorphosed into a Fury, she rose, towered above him—every feature quivering with hatred, scorn and defiance.

"Look at him, Janet! that I should go with him to Kenilworth and before the Queen and nobles, and in presence of my own wedded lord, that I should acknowledge him—him there—that very cloak-brushing, shoe-cleaning fellow—him there—my lord's lackey, for my liege lord and husband! I would I were a man but for five minutes!—but go! begone!—"

She paused, panting; then threw back her haughty head, rose on tiptoe, and, shaking her hand in prophetic wrath and deathless defiance, almost hissed into the box beneath which Varney stood:

"Go, tell thy master that when I, like him, can forget my plighted troth, turn craven, bury honour, and forswear my marriage vows,—then, oh then! I promise him I will give him a rival, something worthy of the name!

*Mrs. Orme's interpolations are all italicized.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

TEACH HER TO COOK.—There comes a time in every little girl's life when she is seized with a longing to cook; by all means indulge her. Do not wait until she is a young lady and then send her to a cooking-school to learn how to make a pudding or cake—what she might have learned at home, and been happy in learning. A neighbor of mine who put this theory in practice presented me with a plate of cookies made by her daughter of five; they would have been creditable to a much older cook. The child faithfully and delightedly followed her mother's instructions. If some older member of the family superintends, but does not lend a helping hand, a good deal of valuable knowledge will be acquired in this way. Let them begin with something very simple; try, for instance, this rule for crackers:—To three pints of flour put one teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in sour milk; melt a teaspoonful of butter, or of butter and lard mixed; make the dough very stiff; roll it very thin; bake slowly.

TO TEMPER LAMP CHIMNEYS.—A Leipsic journal gives a method which it asserts, will prevent lamp chimneys from cracking. The treatment will not only render lamp chimneys, tumblers, and like articles more durable, but may be applied with advantage to crockery, stoneware, porcelain, etc. The chimneys, tumblers, etc., are put into a pot filled with cold water, to which some common table table salt has been added; the water is well boiled over a fire and then allowed to cool slowly. When the articles are taken out and washed they will be found to resist, afterwards, any sudden change of temperature.

NASTURTIUM SAUCE FOR BOILED MUTTON.—Cut up into small pieces two tablespoonfuls of pickled nasturtiums. Then melt in a stew pan an ounce of good butter, dredging in very gradually a little flour (less than an ounce will be sufficient); work this with a wooden spoon until it is very smooth and then add about half a pint of boiling gravy, beating it well until the lumps are entirely dissolved. Then season with two teaspoonfuls of nasturtium vinegar and a pinch of cayenne and salt; put in the minced nasturtiums, and when the sauce has boiled up again, it is ready to serve.—The Caterer.

VINEGAR FOR PICKLING.—Put two pounds of coarsest brown sugar to one gallon of cold fresh water, mix well, then put a little yeast on to a piece of toast, and lay on the liquid: stir well for a week, then cover the vessel with brown paper, in which holes have been made with a pin, keep in a warm place, and in about four months' time you will have good strong vinegar.

TO COOK HOMINY.—There are three sizes of hominy. Large hominy requires to be boiled [illegible] hour to five hours over a gentle fire. It [illegible] washed clean, and put into the stew pan with [illegible] enough water to cover it. It is eaten as a vegetable. To cook the smaller hominy, wash it in two waters, then to one teacupful of hominy add a quart of water and a teaspoonful of salt, and place the dish that contains it in a kettle of boiling water to prevent it from getting burnt, or else over a very gentle fire. Let it boil for an hour, stirring it well with a spoon. It is generally eaten for breakfast.

CAMBRIC DRESSES.—It is not a good plan to have the white lawn and cambric dresses "done up" as the phrase is, to lay away for the winter for the expectation that they will look fresh and be ready for immediate wear in the spring will be dissappointed. Of course they should not be put away dirty, but the starching and ironing may well be left till spring; only common calicoes should be starched and ironed before packing away.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. Wm. Watson

is at the Oriental with a full line of General Sanger's Himalayan Teas, direct from Calcutta ex ss. Bolivia, Nov. 23rd, 1883.

Cricket Club.

A meeting of the Cricket Club will be held at the Oriental Hotel on Tuesday night. Matters of considerable importance will be considered and a large attendance is desired.

A Runaway.

A little excitement was caused at noon to-day by a horse, attached to a buggy, running away on George street. It ran from near Brock street to Murray street, and along Murray to Aylmer, when it was caught. No damage was apparent.

The Old Burying Ground.

In accordance with a resolution of the Town Council, young trees have been planted around the agricultural grounds, or the old burying ground (the park that is to be), and they will add greatly to the good appearance of the place.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh south-east to south-west winds, generally fair warm weather with local rains.

An Accident.

A boy named Frank Armour had his hand severely injured at Mr. Belleghem's furniture factory this afternoon. He was working at the planer, when his hand got caught in the machinery, and his thumb and first two fingers were crushed severely. He stopped the machinery and extricated his hand himself before any of the workmen could assist him. The injured hand was attended to by a surgeon.

Ontario and Quebec Notes.

The contract for building the Peterborough station has not been let yet. The passage of the Town By-Law granting a portion of Wolfe street to the company has caused a change to be made in the platform plans.

Mr. J. H. Barber, superintending engineer, who was over the western part of the line recently, says that the seven stations between here and the Rouge river (about twenty miles east of Toronto) are all pretty well forward. The Pontypool station, which is one of the four being built by Messrs. Croly & Lundy, was ready for the last coat of paint on Saturday night.

The track was laid from Toronto to the Rouge river on Saturday night. The rain this morning will not delay the work, and the connection will be made by to-night.

A train went out west from here this morning to distribute wire for the telegraph line.

The Toronto Telegram of a recent date said: "The wretched accommodation provided for immigrants will soon cease to be a reproach to at least one Canadian railway. Five immigrant sleeping coaches manufactured expressly for the C. P. R. at Cobourg, reached the Union Station this morning en route for the Port Arthur division of the Canada Pacific, where they will in future run. The coaches, which are equipped with Westinghouse air brakes, are 56 feet long, exclusive of the platform. Comfortable day and sleeping accommodation is provided for 50 adult passengers, who will be supplied with warm water by a neat contrivance attached to the two heaters in each car. The interior of each coach is richly finished in polished Canadian woods, and the seats are of a pattern specially designed by General Manager Van Horne for the immigrant traffic. The windows are double, and the arrangements for ventilation complete. As soon as the Ontario and Quebec opens fifteen of these cars will be placed on the line between Quebec, Montreal and Owen Sound."

Cornice Poles

complete, from $1.50 each and upwards at A. CLEGG'S.

A MARCH OUT.

The Saved Army Attend Service in the Bible Christian Church.

On Sunday morning the Saved Army made a new movement—that is, a new departure for this station, although at other places it appears to be quite a common occurrence.

Knee drill is held at the barracks (Opera House) every Sunday morning at nine o'clock. We understand that the officers have knee drill every morning at that hour, but on Sunday mornings they hold it in the barracks, that all the soldiers may attend.

Yesterday morning there was a good muster at this early drill, and after it was over the Army marched in a body to the Bible Christian Church, they having previously received an invitation to hold a meeting there. Capt. Munt was in command, assisted by Lieut. Louise Pearse and the other officers, and the soldiers marched two deep up George street and along Murray street to the church.

As they turned the corner of Murray street, an officer led in singing "Roll the Old Chariot along," and that warlike hymn was sung until the Army arrived at the church. The soldiers occupied the centre row of seats during the service.

The Rev. J. W. Butcher conducted the opening services, and Capt. Munt then delivered an address, commencing his remarks by referring to a hymn that had been sung, "Arise, my Soul, Arise!"

At the conclusion of his address, the Captain called on the soldiers to relate their experiences. The experience meeting continued for about 20 minutes, Army songs being sung at intervals, and the service was concluded by the Rev. J. W. Butcher pronouncing the benediction.

The choir of the church sang the anthem "Peace be Still," in a fine manner after the opening prayer.

The Army did not return from the church in order of procession, but dispersed at the conclusion of the service.

STRAY SHOTS.

Lieut. Goheen, of Millbrook, was in Peterborough on Saturday and attended the children's meeting in the afternoon.

There was a great jam at the meeting on Sunday evening.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance took part in the services and gave an address.

Capt. Willis is expected to be present at to-night's meeting, and Gen. Lindsay is expected here this week.

Those Painted Window Shades,

in soft colours, with exquisite dados, are selling fast, call and leave your orders, they are made to fit your window and work like a charm. A full line of samples at A. CLEGG'S.

Montreal Cheapside.

Owing to the extensive preparations, the Montreal Cheapside Dry Goods Store will not open till next Wednesday, 7th May. Look out for bargains. Lundy's block, next door to the REVIEW Office, the Red Store, Peterborough. H. LEVI & SON.

An Excellent Specimen.

The Lindsay Post contains the following in reference to an hotel in that town:

"The work of fitting up the rejuvenated Daley house is progressing rapidly and a couple of weeks will see the hotel out of the contractor's hands. On Tuesday the counter and fittings of the bar were placed in the room by the maker, Mr. D. Belleghem, the well-known furniture manufacturer of Peterboro. The bar counter is twenty feet in length, of walnut, with handsome panels of fancy woods, bordered with suitable mouldings, the whole touched up with gold. Back of the counter is the bar, an exceedingly handsome piece of work. The design has been chosen with excellent judgment, and the artist in wood has turned out a work alike creditable to the builders and to the enterprise of the proprietors in ordering such a piece of furniture. Two immense mirrors crown the whole structure, surrounded by a chaste framing of rich woods. The effect of the whole is strikingly handsome and it is a question if any hotel in the Midland district can show as handsome a bar. The most complete conveniences for handling ales and liquors are included in the fittings, and the method of racking the bottled goods behind the bar is novel and convenient. Mr. Belleghem has certainly sent a most excellent specimen of his work which will bear evidence of the skill and capacity of his shops to execute work in a thoroughly first-class manner. The Daly house, when finished, will be fitted up throughout in a style quite as handsome as the bar now appears.

Strong Facts.

All men are honest when well watched. Purses will hold pennies as well as pounds. In order to be a reasonable creature, it is necessary at times to be downright mad. Some men are so honest that necessity compels them to become dishonest in the end. Silks, broadcloths, and jewels are often bought with other people's money. Whatever is, is right, with a few exceptions—the left eye, the left leg, and the left side of a plum-pudding. The prayer of a selfish man man is, "Forgive us our debts," while he makes everybody that owes him pay to the utmost farthing. He who thinks every man a rogue is very certain to see one when he shaves himself, and he ought in mercy to his neighbor, to surrender the rascal to justice. Money is the fool's wisdom, the knave's reputation, the poor man's desire, the covetous man's ambition, and the idol of all. All men speak well of all men's virtues when they are dead, and tombstones are marked with the epitaphs of the good and virtuous. Is there any particular cemetery where the bad are buried? Or is there any just reason why you should not call and inspect the handsome range of Scotch Tweed Suitings at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

A Great Discovery.

That is daily bringing joy to the homes of thousands by saving many of their dear ones from an early grave. Truly is Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hay fever, loss of voice, tickling in the throat, pain in the side and chest or any disease of the throat and lungs, a positive cure guaranteed. Not another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 50 cents.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

MONDAY, May 5.—Wm. McCullough was charged by Constable Adams with having been drunk on Saturday. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $2, to be paid in ten days, or in default of payment to be imprisoned for ten days.

THAT FENCE AGAIN.

The case of Michael Leveck against Henry Sovais, for having cut and thrown down a fence belonging to him, was a ain called.

Mr. Geo. Edmison appeared for the complainant Leveck.

The parties live on adjoining lots on Louis street, a lane running between Charlotte and King streets, and the fence that was cut down was between the houses occupied by them.

Sovais claimed that the fence was on the lot occupied by him and that he had a right to remove it. The Magistrate therefore decided that, as a question of title was raised, he had jurisdiction, and dismissed the case.

THE LAST SPIKE DRIVEN.

The Tracklaying on the Ontario and Quebec Railway Completed.

The last spike of the Ontario and Quebec railway was driven on Monday afternoon by Mr. Hugh Ryan (superintendent of construction) at a point five miles east of Agincourt. Mr. Harrison, contractor for laying the rails on the Peterborough end, also drove a spike. Tracklaying was going on from both ends, and at five o'clock in the evening the joint was made, the two last rails fitting in to a T. Mr. Lumsden, the chief engineer, and Mr. McKee and the other provincial engineer, and Mr. Harrison, the bridge engineer, were also present. A large crowd of farmers with their families welcomed the driving of the last spike. As soon as the rails were completed one of the construction trains backed up and allowed the other to cross over with the happy sight-seers. There was lots of cheering. All that remains to be done now is the ballasting.

Kicked by a Horse.

This afternoon Palmer Parkinson, hostler at Mr. G. Allen's Temperance House, met with a very painful accident. Mr. Deyell had just driven into the yard, and Parkinson was placing a blanket over his horse when the animal kicked at him, striking him on the leg. The bone of the leg was badly fractured by the blow. Dr. Pigeon was summoned and set the fractured limb.

The Ontario and Quebec.

From a long letter in the Mail on the Ontario and Quebec Railway we take the following extracts:—

"Ten miles east of Cavanville Peterboro' is reached, distant from Toronto by this route 77 miles. As the Midland from Toronto takes a very circuitous route to reach Peterborough, and the Ontario and Quebec being fully twenty miles shorter, it is more than probable that the bulk of the Toronto traffic will pass over the latter road. In anticipation of this the company are about to build a handsome brick stationhouse at the foot of George street, the next in size and importance to Yorkville, with freight sheds and all accessories. Some little delay has occurred in commencing operations, as the site had not been definitely decided upon, but the town council, at its meeting last Monday, having given permission to close Wolfe street, all obstacles are thereby removed, and the contract for construction will be let forthwith. Just beyond the town the line strikes the Otonabee river, at this point seven hundred feet wide. This is crossed by a substantial iron truss bridge 220 feet long, then comes an embankment of 200 feet, finally another bridge of 120 feet. At Peterborough our party had been joined by Mr. J. H. Barber, division engineer, whose duties take him from Myrtle to Crow River. Presently the train stops at Norwood, a village of about one thousand inhabitants, 93 miles east of Toronto junction. The village lies on the southern slope, and can fairly claim to have some good buildings. There are two good hotels, four churches, and several handsome stores. The country around is a good wheat growing district, and the quantity of cheese made here is very large. At several places on the line it is proposed to erect grain elevators, and Mr. Whyte has had plans prepared for these elevators shall all be of a uniform character. The one to be built at Norwood will have a capacity of about 25,000 bushels. Although a good-sized place Norwood hitherto has been in possession of railway facilities. Already the company have purchased 36 acres of cleared land, which a large gang are preparing for the different buildings, sidings, etc. A five-stall section of the round-house and a workable will be built at present, and the round-house in time will be completed to its full size of 42 stalls. The contract for its construction has been awarded to Mr. J. Alford, of Peterborough, who has been given until the end of May to finish his work."

How to Make Candy.

This book gives full directions for making all kinds of plain and fancy candy. The receipts for making caramels, chocolate drops, French mixed and all other kinds of candies contained in this book are the same as used by the leading city confectioners. Any one can have these candies at home at less than one third the usual cost. Sent post paid for 50 cents (no stamps taken). Address, ROCHESTER PUBLISHING CO., 32, 33 & 33½ Osburn Block, Rochester, N.Y.

LEAMINGTON has been seeking connection with the Grand Trunk. A scheme was submitted to General Manager Hickson for the construction of a line from Belle river to that place. He refused to accede to the request, however, on the ground that it was not in the interest of the Grand Trunk.

A BRAVE GIRL'S BATTLE.

Desperate Midnight Encounter with a Burly Negro.

Jennie and Mary Goff, aged respectively nineteen and sixteen years, live in the village of Rossville, S.I. On Sunday night, soon after they retired, they were aroused by some person in the room. The intruder, who was a powerful negro, made a desperate assault on the girls, but thanks to the presence of mind of Jennie, coupled with her remarkable pluck and great physical endurance, the ruffian was so badly worsted that his arrest was effected with comparative ease. If not lynched by the excited villagers he will serve a long time in the State prison.

The Misses Goff live alone in a neat cottage on Washington avenue. Five months ago their mother died, leaving them the little property. They have supported themselves for some time as seamstresses, doing work for the neighbours, by whom they are held in the highest esteem. Until a few weeks ago the premises were protected by a dog, but the animal became savage and Thomas Wilson, a negro who worked around the neighborhood, was employed to kill it.

Wilson was thus made acquainted with the fact that the young ladies were unprotected and he attempted to put his will in execution on Sunday Both girls are pretty brunettes, the older being unusually well developed for her age and possessing great physical strength. At a late hour on Sunday night Wilson removed his boots at the front door, forced open a lower window and crept up to the bedroom in which the sisters were sleeping. So cat-like was the wretch in his movements that his presence in the room was not known until he rudely grasped Jennie by the throat and when she awoke the negro was kneeling over her, clutching her throat tightly with one hand while in the other he held a light. Mary, the yonger sister, also awoke but was paralyzed by fear. Jennie, however, appeared never to have lost her presence of mind for a moment and instantly determined to resist her assailant with all the power she possessed.

In moving the light the man's hand on her throat was partly released and Miss Goff availed herself of the opportunity to break the grip of the ruffian on her throat. She then rose up and with her closed fist struck the negro a powerful blow in the face. She was in a kneeling position on top of the bed, and such was the force of the blow that he was knocked to the floor. He then sprang at the girl, but received a second blow in the face, while with the other hand Miss Goff scratched his face, tearing away strips of skin and flesh. In relating her thrilling experience the girl said:

"I was not one bit frightened, but terribly angered. I did not expect at all that I would escape the fiend alive, but I fought hardest when I thought of my sister. As the man sprang at me the second time I recognised his face as coloured, and shouted to my sister, 'Heavens! it's a nigger!' Mary was too frightened to move until she heard my voice, then she screamed as loud as she could and so did I. The man dashed out the lights and attacked me a third time, and in the dark, which made me feel a little timid then, for it flashed upon me that perhaps he would strike me with a club or something that would stun or kill me, and then Mary would be at his mercy. This thought seemed to deaden my strength, and I was reeling when he caught me again. I continued to struggle with him, and seemed to have instinctively learned that my blows were defeating him, so I kept on hitting and scratching as fiercely as I could. Our screams were kept up all the while, and that with the resistance must have convinced him that the risk was too great of our alarming the neighbors. Finally he ran to the window, raised it and began to climb out. As he did so I gave him another blow, which caused him to go sprawling headlong to the ground."

In falling, Wilson's chin struck against the sharp edge of an ash-pan, almost severing his windpipe and causing a profuse hemorrhage.

Miss Goff, upon looking out of the window, saw the negro standing on the stoop, and fearing a second attack she leaped from an attic window to the ground, and clad only in her night dress, ran to Mrs. Platt's, the nearest neighbor, and aroused them. Two of Mrs. Platt's sons at once came to her relief, and upon seeing them Wilson fled, leaving his boots on the stoop. He was traced by blood marks to the dwelling of Mrs. Decker, for whom he worked, and he was found in the cellar so prostrated by the loss of blood which flowed from his throat that he was unable to speak. A doctor sewed up the wound, and Wilson, after being fully identified by Miss Goff, was taken before Justice Halle, who committed him to the County gaol. Wilson is 22 years old and has lived all his life at Rossville.—New York World.

THE POLICY OF DYNAMITE.

DISCOVERY OF DYNAMITE.

LONDON, May 3.—The proprietor of the Ship tavern, in the vicinity of the Strand, seized the effects of an absconding lodger for non-payment of rent. Among them was a box containing twelve pounds of dynamite cartridges and gun cotton. The lodger is well known, and the police are pursuing him. The cartridges were such as are used in toy pistols. The police attach little importance to the discovery.

THE DYNAMITERS ARRAIGNED.

Daly, Egan and Macdonnell were arraigned at Birmingham to-day on the charge of treason-felony. Daly was defiant, Macdonnell dejected. Daly asked why he was brought to Birmingham to be tried again after his committal on Thursday to await the Chester assizes. The prosecution replied that after the charge was prepared against him in Liverpool enough evidence had been brought to light to justify his removal to Birmingham on greater charges.

PRISONERS STRONGLY GUARDED.

Detectives surrounded the prisoners in court and there were others outside. The prisoners seem to feel their position keenly, especially Egan. When the detectives described how they had tracked Egan and Daly since October the two exchanged significant glances.

INTENTIONS OF THE ACCUSED.

It appeared from the evidence that prior to the recent meetings in Birmingham Town hall, which were addressed by the Marquis of Salisbury and Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, letters were received by the authorities containing threats that dynamite bombs would be thrown under the speaker's platform. Special precautions were taken to guard against this. Daly was arrested shortly before the Birmingham election campaign of Lord Randolph Churchill and Col. Burnaby. It is believed the bombs found in his possession were intended to be exploded among campaign gatherings. The prisoners were remanded for a week.

RELIEF OF KHARTOUM.

LONDON, May 5.—General Wolseley has submitted to the Imperial Government a plan for the relief of Khartoum, which he claims is feasible in spite of the climatic difficulties attending a summer campaign.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA.

LONDON, May 5.—The Observer expresses great astonishment that the steamship City of Rome did not follow up the information received from a sailing vessel that she reported having seen some of the crew of the State of Florida aboard. No explanation is yet forthcoming of the strange silence of the officers of the City of Rome since she arrived.

FENIANS ARRAIGNED AT SLIGO.

DUBLIN, May 5.—Fitzgerald and ten other Fenians were arraigned at Sligo to-day, charged with being Invincibles and with the murder of landlords and others. Thos. Moran, a friend of Sheridan, testified that when he joined the Invincibles he was sworn on a knife and pledged himself to secrecy, to implicit obedience to his leaders, to act when called upon by them, and to deal death to all tyrants.

RENT REDUCTION IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, May 3.—There is a very general movement among the large English landlords to break the force of the pending agitation, to which the labours of Henry George have given such an impetus, by making important reductions in rent. The latest landed proprietor who has made a move in this direction is the young Earl of Yarborough, who owns immense tracts of fen land in Lincolnshire, and large estates at Appuldurcombe, on the Isle of Wight. He has just announced to his tenants a voluntary reduction of 15 per cent. of their rents for the next five years. It is estimated that this concession will reduce his income by about $15,000 per annum, but he will still receive about $85,000 a year. A majority of the large landowners have adopted this course during the past eighteen months.

THE GREAT PEDESTRIAN CONTEST.

All Former Records Beaten—Fitzgerald wins by six Miles.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Last night the greatest six-day contest ever held came to an end, a success in every respect. All records in the way of distance were beaten by the races, and in the way of attendance by the spectators, Fitzgerald eventually won by about six miles. Rowell's left ankle gave out during the last day, although he still managed to gain greatly on his leader. Fitzgerald's achievement is a wonderful one. He is evidently a man of wonderful endurance, and according to the accounts of him by his trainers, he posesses a physiological peculiarity invaluable for such occasions. It is said that he can live on one hour's sleep in twenty-four, and retain upon that small supply of rest his ordinary muscular vigour. The previous best on record in the world, in the way of long distance racing, was Hazael's 600 miles, made in 1882.

During the evening the garden was packed. Fitzgerald remained on the track walking slowly around and was cheered almost incessantly. Panchot did some lively running in the evening. Rowell retired at 7.11. He afterwards came out and was loudly applauded. His ankle was swollen to nearly double its size, and was black and blue. He appeared again on the track, but did not limp perceptibly. Noremac and Fitzgerald joined him and they tramped around at a rapid pace. The house rose at them as they were joined by Panchot. Fitzgerald handed Rowell his flag of Erin, which the latter took courteously. Fitzgerald caught up the American flag and another lap was made. The men then pulled up at the scorers' stand and shook hands. Three cheers were given for Fitzgerald and three equally hearty for Rewell. The pedestrians then went to their huts and at 8:45 the contest was ended. The score of each of the seven walkers who remained was as follows:—

THE LAST SPIKE DRIVEN.

The Tracklaying on the Ontario and Quebec Railway Completed.

The last spike of the Ontario and Quebec railway was driven on Monday afternoon by Mr. Hugh Ryan (superintendent of construction) at a point five miles east of Agincourt. Mr. Harrison, contractor for laying the rails on the Peterborough end, also drove a spike. Tracklaying was going on from both ends, and at five o'clock in the evening the joint was made, the two last rails fitting in to a T. Mr. Lumsden, the chief engineer, and Mr. McKee and the other provincial engineer, and Mr. Harrison, the bridge engineer, were also present. A large crowd of farmers with their families welcomed the driving of the last spike. As soon as the rails were completed one of the construction trains backed up and allowed the other to cross over with the happy sight-seers. There was lots of cheering. All that remains to be done now is the ballasting.

Kicked by a Horse.

This afternoon Palmer Parkinson, hostler at Mr. G. Allen's Temperance House, met with a very painful accident. Mr. Deyell had just driven into the yard, and Parkinson was placing a blanket over his horse when the animal kicked at him, striking him on the leg. The bone of the leg was badly fractured by the blow. Dr. Pigeon was summoned and set the fractured limb.

The Ontario and Quebec.

From a long letter in the Mail on the Ontario and Quebec Railway we take the following extracts:—

"Ten miles east of Cavanville Peterboro' is reached, distant from Toronto by this route 77 miles? As the Midland from Toronto takes a very circuitous route to reach Peterborough, and the Ontario and Quebec being fully twenty miles shorter, it is more than probable that the bulk of the Toronto traffic will pass over the latter road. In anticipation of this the company are about to build a handsome brick stationhouse at the foot of George street, the next in size and importance to Yorkville, with freight sheds and all accessories. Some little delay has occurred in commencing operations, as the site had not been definitely decided upon, but the town council, at its meeting last Monday, having given permission to close Wolfe street, all obstacles are thereby removed, and the contract for construction will be let forthwith. Just beyond the town the line strikes the Otonabee river, at this point seven hundred feet wide. This is crossed by a substantial iron truss bridge 320 feet long, then comes an embankment of 200 feet, finally another bridge of 120 feet. At Peterborough our party had been joined by Mr. J. H. Barber, division engineer, whose duties take him from Myrtle to Crow river. Presently the train stops at Norwood, a village of about one thousand inhabitants, 95 miles east of Toronto junction. The village lies on the southern slope, and can fairly claim to have some good buildings. There are two good hotels, four churches, and several handsome stores. The country around is a good-wheat growing district, and the quantity of cheese annually made here is very large. At several places along the line it is proposed to erect grain elevators, and Mr. Whyte has had plans prepared so that these elevators shall all be of a uniform character. The one to be built at Norwood will have a capacity of about 25,000 bushels. Although a good-sized place Norwood hitherto has been in possession of railway facilities. At present the company have purchased 36 acres of cleared land, which a large gang are preparing for the different buildings, sidings, etc. A twelve-stall section of the round-house and a 20-stable will be built at present, and the round-house in time will be completed to its full size of 42 stalls. The contract for its construction has been awarded to Mr. J. Alford, of Peterborough, who has been given until the end of May to finish his work."

A BRAVE GIRL'S BATTLE.

Desperate Midnight Encounter with a Burly Negro.

Jennie and Mary Goff, aged respectively nineteen and sixteen years, live in the village of Rossville, S.I. On Sunday night, soon after they retired, they were aroused by some person in the room. The intruder, who was a powerful negro, made a desperate assault on the girls, but thanks to the presence of mind of Jennie, coupled with her remarkable pluck and great physical endurance, the ruffian was so badly worsted that his arrest was effected with comparative ease. If not lynched by the excited villagers he will serve a long time in the State prison.

The Misses Goff live alone in a neat cottage on Washington avenue. Five months ago their mother died, leaving them the little property. They have supported themselves for some time as seamstresses, doing work for the neighbours, by whom they are held in the highest esteem. Until a few weeks ago the premises were protected by a dog, but the animal became savage and Thomas Wilson, a negro who worked around the neighborhood, was employed to kill it.

Wilson was thus made acquainted with the fact that the young ladies were unprotected and he attempted to put his will in excution on Sunday Both girls are pretty brunettes, the older being unusually well developed for her age and possessing great physical strength. At a late hour on Sunday night Wilson removed his boots at the front door, forced open a lower window and crept up to the bedroom in which the sisters were sleeping. So cat-like was the wretch in his movements that his presence in the room was not known until he rudely grasped Jennie by the throat and when she awoke the negro was kneeling over her, clutching her throat tightly with one hand while in the other he held a light. Mary, the yonger sister, also awoke but was paralyzed by fear. Jennie, however, appeared never to have lost her presence of mind for a moment and instantly determined to resist her assailant with all the power she possessed.

In moving the light the man's hand on her throat was partly released and Miss Goff availed herself of the opportunity to break the grip of the ruffian on her throat. She then rose up and with her closed fist struck the negro a powerful blow in the face. She was in a kneeling position on top of the bed, and such was the force of the blow that he was knocked to the floor. He then sprang at the girl, but received a second blow in the face, while with the other hand Miss Goff scratched his face, tearing away strips of skin and flesh. In relating her thrilling experience the girl said:

"I was not one bit frightened, but terribly angered. I did not expect at all that I would escape the fiend alive, but I fought hardest when I thought of my sister. As the man sprang at me the second time I recognised his face as coloured, and shouted to my sister, 'Heavens! it's a nigger!' Mary was too frightened to move until she heard my voice, then she screamed as loud as she conld and so did I. The man dashed out the lights and attacked me a third time, and in the dark, which made me feel a little timid then, for it flashed upon me that perhaps he would strike me with a club or something that would stun or kill me, and then Mary would be at his mercy. This thought seemed to deaden my strength, and I was reeling when he caught me again. I continued to struggle with him, and seemed to have instinctively learned that my blows were defeating him, so I kept on hitting and scratching as fiercely as I could. Our screams were kept up all the while, and that with the resistance must have convinced him that the risk was too great of our alarming the neighbors. Finally he ran to the window, raised it and began to climb out. As he did so I gave him another blow, which caused him to go sprawling headlong to the ground."

In falling, Wilson's chin struck against the sharp edge of an ash-pan, almost severing his windpipe and causing a profuse hemorrhage.

Miss Goff, upon looking out of the window, saw the negro standing on the stoop, and fearing a second attack she leaped from an attic window to the ground, and clad only in her night dress, ran to Mrs. Platt's, the nearest neighbor, and aroused them. Two of Mrs. Platt's sons at once came to her relief, and upon seeing them Wilson fled, leaving his boots on the stoop. He was traced by blood marks to the dwelling of Mrs. Decker, for whom he worked, and he was found in the cellar so prostrated by the loss of blood which flowed from his throat that he was unable to speak. A doctor sewed up the wound, and Wilson, after being fully identified by Miss Goff, was taken before Justice Halle, who committed him to the County gaol. Wilson is 22 years old and has lived all his life at Rossville.—New York World.

THE POLICY OF DYNAMITE.

DISCOVERY OF DYNAMITE.

LONDON, May 3.—The proprietor of the Ship tavern, in the vicinity of the Strand, seized the effects of an absconding lodger for non-payment of rent. Among them was a box containing twelve pounds of dynamite cartridges and gun cotton. The lodger is well known, and the police are pursuing him. The cartridges were such as are used in toy pistols. The police attach little importance to the discovery.

THE DYNAMITERS ARRAIGNED.

Daly, Egan and Macdonnell were arraigned at Birmingham to-day on the charge of treason-felony. Daly was defiant, Macdonnell dejected. Daly asked why he was brought to Birmingham to be tried again after his committal on Thursday to await the Chester assizes. The prosecution replied that after the charge was prepared against him in Liverpool enough evidence had been brought to light to justify his removal to Birmingham on greater charges.

PRISONERS STRONGLY GUARDED.

Detectives surrounded the prisoners in court and there were others outside. The prisoners seem to feel their position keenly, especially Egan. When the detectives described how they had tracked Egan and Daly since October the two exchanged significant glances.

INTENTIONS OF THE ACCUSED.

It appeared from the evidence that prior to the recent meetings in Birmingham Town hall, which were addressed by the Marquis of Salisbury and Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, letters were received by the authorities containing threats that dynamite bombs would be thrown under the speaker's platform. Special precautions were taken to guard against this. Daly was arrested shortly before the Birmingham election campaign of Lord Randolph Churchill and Col. Burnaby. It is believed the bombs found in his possession were intended to be exploded among campaign gatherings. The prisoners were remanded for a week.

RENT REDUCTION IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, May 3.—There is a very general movement among the large English landlords to break the force of the pending agitation, to which the labours of Henry George have given such an impetus, by making important reductions in rent. The latest landed proprietor who has made a move in this direction is the young Earl of Yarborough, who owns immense tracts of fen land in Lincolnshire, and large estates at Appuldurcombe, on the Isle of Wight. He has just announced to his tenants a voluntary reduction of 15 per cent. of their rents for the next five years. It is estimated that this concession will reduce his income by about $15,000 per annum, but he will still receive about $85,000 a year. A majority of the large landowners have adopted this course during the past eighteen months.

THE GREAT PEDESTRIAN CONTEST,

All Former Records Beaten—Fitzgerald wins by six Miles.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Last night the greatest six-day contest ever held came to an end, a success in every respect. All records in the way of distance were beaten by the races, and in the way of attendance by the spectators, Fitzgerald eventually won by about six miles. Rowell's left ankle gave out during the last day, although he still managed to gain greatly on his leader. Fitzgerald's achievement is a wonderful one. He is evidently a man of wonderful endurance, and according to the accounts of him by his trainers, he posesses a physiological peculiarity invaluable for such occasions. It is said that he can live on one hour's sleep in twenty-four, and retain upon that small supply of rest his ordinary muscular vigour. The previous best on record in the world, in the way of long distance racing, was Hazael's 600 miles, made in 1882.

During the evening the garden was packed. Fitzgerald remained on the track walking slowly around and was cheered almost incessantly. Panchot did some lively running in the evening. Rowell retired at 7.11. He afterwards came out and was loudly applauded. His ankle was swollen to nearly double its size, and was black and blue. He appeared again on the track, but did not limp perceptibly. Noremac and Fitzgerald joined him and they tramped around at a rapid pace. The house rose at them as they were joined by Panchot. Fitzgerald handed Rowell his flag of Erin, which the latter took courteously. Fitzgerald caught up the American flag and another lap was made. The men then pulled up at the scorers' stand and shook hands. Three cheers were given for Fitzgerald and three equally hearty for Rowell. The pedestrians then went to their huts and at 8:45 the contest was ended. The score of each of the seven walkers who remained

ONTARIO'S DEBT.

We had hoped that the outspoken protest of so staunch a supporter of the Mowat Government as Mr. Waters, combined with the subsequent increase of the annual subsidy received by the Province from the Dominion would have prevented the Provincial Treasurer from proceeding further in his scheme for lifting our present indebtedness on account of railways by the issue of forty years' scrip, but it would seem by his calling for tenders for the amount required to be sold this year to meet the outstanding obligations of the year that he is determined to persevere in his suicidal course.

That our readers may fully comprehend the result of the policy of the Mowat Government in this respect it will be well to begin by, in the first place, setting distinctly before them the nature of the present railway debt of this Province; secondly, the manner in which it is proposed to meet it, and thirdly, the consequence of such a policy.

Firstly, then: The amount of Ontario's railway debt on the 1st of January, 1884, was $2,862,144.15, payable at the rate of $242,154.18 per annum for the eight years ending with 1891; at the rate of $125,596.48 per annum for the following four years; and then in decreasing annual payments, until, in 1902, a payment of $3,055 would wipe out the debt as it now exists.

Secondly, instead of meeting these payments either out of revenue or out of their much vaunted surplus, the Mowat Government, last session, took authority and are now proceeding to meet this debt by the issue of forty year terminable annuities. That is, they propose to raise the money to pay the $242,154.18 falling due this year by selling eighty half yearly payments of $6,552.69, or in other words they propose, in order to get rid of a present payment of $242,154, to cause the people of this Province to pay within the next forty years a sum of $524,215, and to take up a liability of $2,862,144 maturing between now and 1902, to incur a liability of $6,195,967 maturing between now and 1941.

Thirdly, let us examine the practical result of this financial operation. During this and the following seven years our present liability is $242,154 per annum; by Mr. Ross' scheme the Province during these years (if his annuities sell to pay the purchasers but four and one half per cent) will only have to pay in:—

|---|---|
| 1884 | $ 6,552.69 |
| 1885 | 19,658.07 |
| 1886 | 32,763.45 |
| 1887 | 45,868.83 |
| 1888 | 58,974.21 |
| 1889 | [illegible] |
| 1890 | 85,184.97 |
| 1891 | 98,290.35 |

instead of the $1,937,233 which our present engagements call for—a saving of $1,517,861 during these eight years, and of $863,773 during the first four of these eight years—but at the frightful cost of having to pay during the next fifty years $5,776,595 instead of the $924,910 of the present debt maturing after 1891.

We have shown how the proposed payments under Mr. Ross's scheme increase during the first eight years, but that is by no means the end of the increase. After that they continue to increase at a slower rate of course, as the amount of the yearly issues decrease, until in 1895 the payment under his scheme will exceed the amount of the present outstanding liability for that year by $3,037, and until the annual payments thereunder reach the sum of $154,816 per annum—$29,219 more than the highest payment now called for after 1891, and only $87,337 less than the largest payment required at present in any one year of its currency.

These are the practical results of the scheme of the financial genius who now controls the finances of Ontario. As a project to make things seem different from what they are, and to serve the interests of the party in power by enabling them to hood-wink the people with a mythical surplus, when they are running in debt as fast as they well can, we admit the scheme is a good one, but that it is not one in the true interests of either the present generation, or the one to succeed it, is not difficult to prove, or one which can be justified on any business principles, in view of surrounding circumstances, as must be obvious to every one at all acquainted with the financial position of the Province. Mr. Ross, in his lengthly budget speech claimed for the Province a surplus of $4,384,241, while a return laid before the House by himself showed the present value of our railway indebtedness, at the same time, to be $2,091,264. This shows a net surplus of over $2,000,000. Why then in the name of common sense, as any man would do in his private affairs, not pay this liability out of this surplus? That he does not propose to do so, can only be justified on the grounds either that this surplus is a myth or that it is not and cannot be made available for such a purpose. But even if the claimed surplus is largely locked up, it would be interesting to have Mr. Ross explain how he hopes to be able (if he should then be Treasurer) in 1903 to pay $154,898 per annum out of revenue, when the present revenue backed up with a "surplus" of $4,000,000 cannot bear the burden of $242,000 per annum for the next eight years with decreasing amounts thereafter? No one that we have ever heard of pretends that the Provincial revenues contain within themselves any means of permanent increase, while all admit that in the nature of things they must rather decrease than otherwise—unless they be increased either by increasing direct taxation or by increased grants from the Dominion Treasury, which is only in another form increased taxation. Consequently if our Provincial revenues in the future afford any well-grounded hope of being able to meet the proposed $154,000 per annum, all we required to do to have them burdened with even less than that amount after 1894 was for eight years to draw upon the surplus for $87,271 per annum, or in all but $698,168, and thereby avoid the future payment of $3,333,823 more than our present liability calls for.

These, however, are all arguments which were applicable to this scheme when it was launched. Since then the financial condition of the Province has been improved by the Dominion increasing our annual subsidy by the sum of $142,000. So that now all Mr. Ross would have to do to meet these payments as they come due, without entrenching upon other revenue more than his present scheme will do, and without issuing a single dollar's worth of his much loved scrip, would be to draw upon his surplus to the amount of $93,447 in 1884, $90,342 in '85, $67,237 in '86, $54,132 in '87, $41,036 in '88, $28,920 in '89, $14,815 in '90, and $1,710 in 1891, or a total of $391,600, or less than ten per cent. in eight years of the surplus which he claims, and thus enable the Province to go on its way rejoicing that after 1891 it would have an ever increased portion of its revenue available to meet its ordinary and necessarily increasing expenditure.

This is what we fondly hoped Mr. Ross would do under existing circumstances. But the hope is vain, and the Provincial Treasurer apparently is bent upon issuing this scrip regardless of consequences, for no other reason, that we can see, than that his name may be handed down to posterity, as it assuredly will be, if this scrip is issued, to the sorrow of a generation of Ontarians yet unborn.

WHO FURNISHED THE MONEY?

The effort to bribe members of the Ontario Legislature, or rather the late bribing of members of the Ontario Legislature, has again been occupying public attention, owing to the Grand Jury having decreed that the accused should be tried, and the demurrer to the indictment offered in their behalf. No one for a moment doubts that McKim and the rest of the gang willingly yielded to the fascinations of the goddess wealth; but, finding that the whole game was a put-up job of their own party, they played the part of puritans to save themselves. At the time that the revelation was first made the country was thunderstruck at the iniquity, yet in the Globe there was such a lack of its usual vindictiveness towards Wilkinson and Kirkland, such an outcry against Mr. McPherson and Mr. Bunting, such a crying of "stop thief," such a looking to Ottawa for a solution of the problem of who furnished the money, that thinking people began to ask themselves if the whole affair was not concocted nearer home, and if the money provided was not furnished from sources known to the Grit organ. It was conceded that one Lynch was the man who furnished the money, and the question naturally arose, who was Lynch?

The Globe says he was the agent of the Ottawa Government, but probably the Globe knows who Lynch is better than many do if it would only tell the truth, for Lynch was with Wilkinson when promises were made to McKim and others. The Ontario Government knew that these negotiations were going on, and knowing as much as they did, a thinking unbiassed public ask why was not Lynch arrested along with the others? Wilkinson and Kirkland were under the eyes of a detective all day Monday—the day of the arrest—but still this innocent Government at Toronto never thought of placing Lynch under the surveillance of a detective. No, he was allowed to go, and the allegation was made that he was the agent of the Government at Ottawa, in the expectation that the public would swallow the bait and be induced to side with that honest and upright Government, the Ministers of which sent agents to Mr. Bunting to endeavor to entrap him into offering bribes to members of the Legislature. On the evening of the arrest, this agent Lynch went to Wilkinson's room at tea time, looking nervous and excited, and he asked Wilkinson to remain in his room until 8 o'clock, when he would return, as he had an engagement for him. Lynch never returned, but about 8 o'clock the detective arrested Wilkinson, thus showing plainly the hand that Lynch was playing in this deep laid scheme—a scheme that has its sequel in the so-called attempt to blow up the Parliament Buildings at Toronto. The public felt gulled in the first instance, and are slow to believe that this last dodge, which was telegraphed immediately to all the Grit papers in Canada, and the history of which was told with its usual base insinuations by the Globe, is other than a poor attempt to gain sympathy for the fast waning Grit cause in Ontario. Should the case ever come to trial, it may be found out who Lynch is and whence the money which he furnished, but not in all probability, otherwise, unless the Royal Commission should develop the true inwardness of the affair.—Belleville Intelligencer.

The fence-cutting, of which so much has been said, need not surprise us when we read of the way in which land is unlawfully occupied in some portions of the Far Western States.—London Advertiser (Reform).

TALKING AND VOTING.

Mr. Blake, on the occasion of the adoption of the railway subsidy resolutions, was clearly in the wrong because he failed to stand up for principle, because he talked one way and voted another.—Toronto News (Indep.)

ARBOR DAY.

Brantford has appointed an "Arbor Day"—a day on which citizens will have an opportunity of planting trees. Trenton has done likewise, and we may expect soon to find another general holiday added to the calendar. There are none too many in Ontario.—Belleville Ontario.

IMPROVING WATER-WAYS.

THE NEW YORK legislature has passed a bill appropriating $1,000,000 a year for ten years towards the improvement of the Erie Canal. It is plain that control of the carrying trade is not to be allowed to pass into the hands of the railways without a struggle on the part of the water-ways.—Montreal Gazette.

A CHANGE OF BASE.

Why this perturbation now? Why this howl because the (Franchise) bill was not passed? Have our Grit friends discovered that it does possess some merits—that it is not actually as black and rascally a piece of proposed legislation as they would have had us believe a few months ago? Why this change of base on the question.—Winnipeg Times.

ANOTHER BIG PUSH.

But besides reconstructing their platform the reform party is now busy raising a fund for party purposes. A system of organization is being devised with a view to readiness for the next election, whenever it may be. Political literature is to be extensively circulated and public meetings held all over the province. The collectors are now out, and a party of three that have just canvassed the city report very satisfactory progress. They would like to raise $100,000 at least all over the province.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

REVIEWS.

THE MANHATTAN.—The May number of Manhattan maintains the reputation which this comparatively young magazine has gained and is extending. The frontispiece is an excellent illustration of the new serial tale "Trajan," a story of the time of Napoleon III, by an anonymous author, which opens with much promise just as the other novel "Tinkling Cymbals," by Edgar Fawcett, draws to a conclusion with culminating interest. Ernest Ingersoll conveys the reader with him to "The Gunnison Country" in Western Colorado, while Alfred Ashton discourses of the thoroughly old-world history and topography of Rimini, the home of the Maletestas. Literary themes are always a strong point with Manhattan, and this number is no exception; Appleton Morgan disputes the conclusion of Mr. Massey as interpreted by Mr. Browne in the April number as to the meaning and history of Shakespeare's sonnets, and, indeed, denies the great dramatist's property in them; Joel Benton gives us "The Latest News About Keats," as revealed by his latest biographers from fresh sources; Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensaellaer writes with much vivacity and truth of the treatment of "Children in Fiction." C. H. Hall contributes an article on "Ulric Zwingli," the great Swiss reformer, to whom public opinion has done scant justice, owing, perhaps, to the overshadowing importance given to his antagonistic rival, the less tolerant Luther. Under the title of "Leo XIII." Willard H. Morse narrates graphically some chapters in the life of an English lady, who as a diplomatist's wife was brought in contact with Monsignore Pecci when Legate at the Belgian Court, as a captive of Italian brigands was released by him when Governor of the district, his grand-daughters, who had become United States citizens, subsequently making his acquaintance as Pope. Brander Matthews and H. C. Bunner will certainly amuse the reader with their "Seven Conversations of Dear Jones and Baby Van Rensselaer. Some of the poems are very good, there are some able reviews of recent literature, and "Town Talk" and "Salmagundi" complete an excellent number.

The Wonderful Power

of Shaker Blood Syrup, in eradicting every form of Scrofula, has been so clearly and fully demonstrated, that it leaves no shadow of doubt about it being the greatest medical discovery of this generation.

Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25cts.

A RUN FOR THE DOCTOR Is generally the first thing in case of any injury, but a doctor cannot always respond to the call. If you have Hagyard's Yellow Oil at hand, you have a reliable remedy for all wounds, injuries and pain. It has saved life when even doctors had abandoned hope. Keep it ready for use.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of everysymptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee attached, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

CHAPTER VI.—CONTINUED.

Was the avenging lash of conscience uncoiled at last, in Cuthbert Laurance's hardened soul, that the blood so suddenly ebbed from his lips, and he drew his breath like one overshadowed by a vampire? Only once had he caught the full gleam of her indignant eyes, but that long look had awakened tortures that would never slumber again, until the solemn hush of the shroud and the cemetery was his portion. No suspicion of the truth crossed his mind, even for an instant, for what resemblance could be traced between that regal woman, and the shy, awkward, dark-haired little rustic, who thirteen years before had frolicked like a spaniel about him, loving but lowly?

In vain he sought to arrest her attention; the actress had only once looked at the group, and it was not until near the close that he succeeded in catching her glance.

After her escape from Varney Amy Robsart reached in disguise the confines of Kenilworth, and standing there, travel-worn, weary, dejected, in sight of the princely Castle, with its stately towers and battlements, she first saw the home whose shelter was denied her, the palatial home where Leicester bowed in homage before Elizabeth. As a neglected repudiated wife, creeping stealthily to the hearth where it was her right to reign, Amy turned her wan, woful face to the audience, and fixing her gaze with strange mournful intentness upon the eyes that watched her from the box, she seemed to throw her whole soul into the finest passage of the play.

"I have given him all that woman has to give. Name and fame, heart and hand, have I given the Lord of all this magnificence—at the altar, and England's Queen could give no more. He is my husband,—I am his wife, I will be bold in claiming my right; even the bolder, that I come thus unexpected and forlorn. Whom God hath joined, man cannot sunder."

The irresistible pathos of look and tone electrified that wide assemblage, and in the midst of such plaudits as only Paris bestows, she allowed her eyes to wander almost dreamily over the surging sea of human heads, and as if she were in truth some hunted, hopeless, homeless waif appealing for sympathy, she shrouded her pallid face in the blue folds of her travelling cloak and disappeared.

"She must certainly recognize her countrymen, for that splendid passage seemed almost thrown to us, as a tribute to our nationality. What a wonderful voice! And yet—she is so slender, so fragile," said the Minister.

"Did you observe how pale she grew towards the last, and so hollow-eyed, as if utterly worn out in the passionate struggle?" said Mrs. Laurance.

"The passion of the remaining parts belongs rather to Leicester and the Queen. By the way this is quite a handsome Earl, and the whole cast is decidedly strong and successful. Poor Laurance! were you an artist would you desire a finer model for an Egeria? If Madame had been reared in Canova's studio she cold not possibly have accomplished a more elegant felicitous pose. I should like her photograph at this moment."

In the grotto scene, Amy was attired in pale sea-green silk, and her streaming hair braided it with yellow light, as she shrank back from the haughty visage of the Queen.

Rapidly the end approached, courtiers and maids of honour crowded upon the stage, and thither Elizabeth dragged the unhappy wife into the presence of the Earl, crying in thunder tones: "My Lord of Leicester! knowest thou this woman?"

The craven silence of the husband, the desperate rally of the last as she was borne away insensible in Hunsdon's strong arms, all followed in quick succession, and Amy's ill-starred career approached its close, in the last interview with her husband.

When Cuthbert Lanrance was a gray-haired man, trembling upon the brink of eternity, there came a vision in the solemn hours of night and the form of Amy—wan as some marble statue, breathed again in his ear, the last words she uttered that night.

"Take your ill-fated wife by the hand, lead her to the foot-stool of Elizabeth's throne; say that in a moment of infatuation moved by supposed beauty, of which none perhaps can now trace the remains, I gave my hand to this poor Amy Robsart." You will then have done justice to me, and to your own honor; should law or power require you to part from me, I will offer no opposition, since I may then with honor hide a grieved and broken heart in those shades, from which your love withdrew me. Then have but a little patience, and Amy's life will not long darken your brighter prospects."

The fatal hour arrived; the gorgeous pomp and ceremonial of the court-pageant had passed away, and in the dim light the treacherous balcony at Cumnor place was visible. In the hush that prevaded the theatre the Minister heard the ticking of his watch, and Mrs. Laurance the labored breathing of her husband.

Upon the profound silence broke the tramp of a horse's hoofs in the neighboring courtyard,—then Varney's whistle in imitation of the Earl's signal when visiting the Countess.

Instantly the door of her chamber swung open, and standing a moment upon the threshhold, Amy in her fleecy white drapery wavered like a drifting cloud, then moved forward upon the balcony; the trap-door fell; and the lovely marble face with its lustrous brown eyes sank into the darkness of death.

FIRE ALARM.—On Monday our village was thrown into a state of excitement by the fire alarm being sounded, and our villagers on getting out on the street it was discovered that the roof of Mr. John Goodliffe's house was on fire, but fortunately had made such little headway that a few pails of water extinguished it.—Herald.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

MILBROOK.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH.—On Tuesday morning Mr. J. W. Alford, the Contractor, of Peterborough, put a gang of men to work taking down the old St. Thomas' Church, preparatory to building the new one. The main body of the building will be down by the end of the week, when the new church will begin to rush up. Mr. Alford has several contracts in hand; a large station house, at Havelock, on the Ontario and Quebec R.R.; a large private residence in the north of this township; the High School at Norwood; and others. He has his name up for turning out first-class work.—Messenger.

CAMPBELLFORD.

NEW MILLS STARTED.—The citizens of Campbellford gave a public dinner to Mr. Chas. Smith to celebrate the completion of his large and extensive flour mills, which have been under construction for the past year. About eighty gentlemen sat down to dinner. These mills were constructed by the Geo. T. Smith Middling Purifier Co., of Stratford, Ont. This is the fifth mill of their completion on this continent and the second in Canada. The Campbellford mills are what would be known as the complete roller system, with all flour made on Smith's centrifugal rule. The start has been a wonderful success, needing no changes whatever to complete it.

HARWOOD.

FIRE.—About 10 o'clock on Sunday morning fire was discovered breaking through the roof of Mr. John Hogg's house. The alarm soon brought the neighbors to the scene, but their attempts at saving the building were useless, there being a stiff breeze blowing at the time. Their attention was next turned to Mr. J. Freeman's house, which was about 20 feet distant. They were unsuccessful at this also, owing to the scarcity of water. Most of the furniture was saved, but a sum of money which was upstairs was lost. Both families were attending church and knew nothing of their misfortune till they returned. Loss about $1,000.—Sentinel-Star.

FENELON FALLS.

BUILDING.—Building operations will be lively in Fenelon Falls this season. Buildings will be erected on the site of those destroyed by the fire, and several other buildings will be put up.

NOT FOUND YET.—The body of Joseph Anthony, the Frenchman who last week jumped from the bridge in this village, has not yet been found. It probably rose on Friday, the ninth day, but the water was so rough in consequence of a high wind that no one liked to go on the river, and, we believe, no search was made.

MORE POWER.—For a long time the gradual increase of business in Smith & Fell's shingle mill has rendered more power desirable, and they have just put in a much larger engine than the old one, which, though it did the work, was evidently overtaxed, and drove the machinery in a fitful and jerky manner that was anything but pleasant.—Gazette.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. Wm. Watson

is at the Oriental with a full line of General Sanger's Himalayan Teas, direct from Calcutta ex ss. Bolivia, Nov. 23rd, 1883.

Board of Education.

As several members of the Board of Education will be absent to-night the regular meeting of that body has been postponed until next Tuesday evening.

Cricket Club.

A meeting of the Cricket Club will be held at the Oriental Hotel on Tuesday night. Matters of considerable importance will be considered and a large attendance is desired.

Lacrosse.

The Mail says that the Peterborough Lacrosse Club is open for challenges, and would like to hear from some clubs to arrange for a match to be played at Peterborough on the 24th May. The secretary is Mr. G. H. Giroux.

Wrist Injured.

Mr. J. Donnell met with a painful accident in Mr. Baptie's planing mill on Monday afternoon. He was working with the shaper, when his hand got caught, and a severe gash was cut on his wrist. The injury was at once attended to, and Mr. Donnell will soon be all right again.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong winds, mostly easterly, fair to cloudy weather with local rains.

Acknowledgment.

We have been handed the following copy of a resolution for publication:—

"Moved by Charles Temperton, and seconded by Trevor Kincaid,—That the cordial thanks of the Boys' Temperance Band be extended to the Peterborough REVIEW Company for its Kindness in printing their badges free of charge, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the proprietors of the REVIEW."

Methodist Union.

A meeting of representatives of the three Methodist churches of the town—the George Street, Charlotte Street and Bible Christian—is being held this afternoon to discuss matters relating to the Union, and to consider the best means to carry it into effect in Peterborough. The matter will be finally decided at the district meeting to be held in Millbrook this month.

Personal.

The Rev. John Shaw went to Toronto to-day to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Jeffery, wife of the Rev. T. W. Jeffery, who died very suddenly in Toronto on Monday. Mrs. Jeffery's death was so unexpected that her husband was preaching at the time the sad event occurred. The reverend gentleman was well known to many in Peterborough, and he will receive much sympathy in his bereavement.

Health Bulletin.

The official report of the health of Ontario for the week ending Saturday, April 26th, shows that both bronchitis and influenza have decreased in prevalance. Pneumonia, phthisis and rheumatism has slightly increased, as also, and more decidedly, intermittent fever. Contagious zymotics are still low for this season. The following is a list of the six most prevalent diseases in the district in which Peterborough is included:—Bronchitis, 9.7; anæmia, 9.2; neuralgia, 8.7; consumption, 8.1; diarrhœa, .7; mumps, .7.

Guilty.

John Boyd, who is charged with having stolen a buggy and other articles from Mr. Enos Dunford, was again brought before his honor Judge Dennistoun at noon to-day. Mr. C. A. Weller, County Attorney, appeared for the Crown, and Mr. R. E. Wood for the prisoner. The prisoner who is a young looking man, withdrew the plea of not guilty which he had formerly put in, and entered the plea of guilty. An adjournment was granted to give the prisoner an opportunity to procure evidence as to his previous good character. The case was adjourned until Saturday next at one o'clock.

BUGLE BLASTS.

Notes of the Saved Army, their Meetings and Sayings.

There was quite a large attendance at the meeting on Monday night.

Mr. J. Harry Wyatt read a portion of Scripture, and Capt. Munt addressed the meeting.

One soldier fired a heavy shot. He said that his whiskey bill used to amount to $30 and $40 a month, but now he drank no intoxicating liquor at all.

The newsboy's experience generally causes amusement, and at this meeting there was a general laugh when he sat down. Capt. Munt, however, turned the laugh to good account.

It was a drawn battle on Monday night.

Capt. Willis was expected to be present, but in the afternoon Capt. Munt received a telephone message from him that he could not come.

Capt. Munt has united with the Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England.

PRESENTATION.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. James T. Emmerson, who is about to leave Peterborough, received from his class in the George Street Methodist Sunday School, a token of their esteem. Mr. Emmerson has been connected with that school for years, and it is not too much to say that he will be missed after his departure, not only by the pupils of his class, but by the whole school.

After the class had retired to their class-room and the regular course of their lessons had been gone through, Master Herbert Dixon, on behalf of the class, read the following address:—

"Dear Mr. Emmerson:

"We, the members of Class No. 2, would express the feeling of intense regret with which we say good-bye to you as our teacher. Some one has happily said, 'Such help as we can give each other in this world is a debt we owe.' We unite most heartily in saying that your obligation to us has been fulfilled right royally.

"Our sincere desire and firm purpose is to prove, as the years go by, that your example of true Christian manliness, illustrating so vividly the precepts laid down from Sunday to Sunday, has been to us a powerful stimulus towards a higher, purer standard of living. While deeply regretting your removal from amongst us, we rejoice in the certainty that in your new sphere of labor, another circle of boys will reap the advantages of your teaching and influence.

"We ask your acceptance of this dressing case as a small token of our respect and affection, trusting that it will always suggest pleasant memories of our association as teacher and pupils."

Master Nelson Brown then presented Mr. Emmerson with a handsome dressing case, the gift of the class.

Mr. Emmerson replied briefly but feelingly to the address. He thanked them for the gift, and said that, wherever he might be he would always remember and pray for his pupils of that class.

Strong Facts.

All men are honest when well watched. Purses will hold pennies as well as pounds. In order to be a reasonable creature, it is necessary at times to be downright mad. Some men are so honest that necessity compels them to become dishonest in the end. Silks, broadcloths, and jewels are often bought with other people's money. Whatever is, is right, with a few exceptions—the left eye, the left leg, and the left side of a plum-pudding. The prayer of a selfish man man is, "Forgive us our debts," while he makes everybody that owes him pay to the utmost farthing. He who thinks every man a rogue is very certain to see one when he shaves himself, and he ought in mercy to his neighbor, to surrender the rascal to justice. Money is the fool's wisdom, the knave's reputation, the poor man's desire, the covetous man's ambition, and the idol of all. All men speak well of all men's virtues when they are dead, and tombstones are marked with the epitaphs of the good and virtuous. Is there any particular cemetery where the bad are buried? Or is there any just reason why you should not call and inspect the handsome range of Scotch Tweed Suitings at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

RESIGNATION OF SIR C. TUPPER.

OTTAWA, May 5.—Sir Charles Tupper has come to the conclusion to resign his seat in Parliament and in the Cabinet. In an interview with Sir John Macdonald on Saturday he stated that the condition of his health was such that he could not do justice to both the positions he had been holding. Sir John gave him his choice, and Sir Charles Tupper to-day stated that, availing himself of the kind offer of the Premier, he had chosen the High Commissionership. Sir Charles will continue Minister of Railways till the 24th May. Hon. Mr. Pope will be Acting Minister during Sir Charles' absence, between now and the 24th, on which date he sails for Liverpool.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

Notes of the Saved Army, their Meetings and Sayings.

The attendance at Tuesday night's meeting was small.

One name was added to the list of converts.

There will be no meeting here to-night or to-morrow night.

Lieut. Munt went to Lakefield this afternoon.

Lieut. Louise Pearse and a number of soldiers attended the meeting in Lakefield on Tuesday night.

Three of the young lady converts of the Army here have volunteered to enter into the work.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From our own Correspondent.

THE CRUISER.—This fine little steamer has been plying these waters for the last two weeks. She looks trim and neat. An old salt from Gaspe, P.Q., now commands her. we wish the new owners every success.

THE FAIRY.—This tidy little steamer has been thoroughly overhauled from bottom to top and painted and looks well. Mr. Chalmers has a great deal of towing to do this summer. C. Grylls will be master again this season.

UNWELL.—The friends of Mr. Wm. Young, agent for Col. Williams, of Port Hope, will be sorry to learn that he has been confined to his room for about two months, and is still very poorly. Being always a healthy man he takes his illness very much to heart. His Peterborough friends will miss his weekly visits. We hope he will soon be on his daily rounds.

IMPROVEMENT.—Mr. Chalmers has made a fine piling ground for shingles and lumber at the west end of the bridge, which in the past was an eye sore.

COSTELLO'S HOTEL.—This hotel is now in full blast, having been licensed by the Dominion authorities. Owing to the building of the locks, etc., at Burleigh, the traffic will be greatly increased, consequently there will be lots of business for the Lakeview house and this one for the next three years.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.—Your correspondent took a flying trip to Burleigh the other day, and found around Holman's hotel and vicinity quite a change from days gone by. Several wooden shanties are erected, also two large boarding houses, and more to go up. A great many men are now employed at the quarry getting out stone for the locks, and when the canal is to go through over two hundred men will find constant employment. It must certainly do this section a great deal of good owing to the large amount of money paid out for wages, &c.

THE DRIVES.—Mr. F. Bertrand, foreman of Mr. Chalmers' drive, is getting along splendid since he started out of Big Cedar Lake. In a week or two at the rate he is going he will be in Stony Lake. Well done, Frank!

FAREWELL.—To my Young's Point friends the Young's Point correspondent says good-bye to all. This will, as far as I know, be my last correspondence for the REVIEW in this section. My next letter to this paper will be from Auld Scotland. So, farewell.

Commercial Travellers' Commotion.

Any one can have these candies at home at less than one third the usual cost. Sent post paid for 50 cents (no stamps taken). ## OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CURRENT PUBLIC SENTIMENT CULLED FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

DANGEROUS FOOLING.

The Globe is inclined to insinuate that the friends of Wilkinson & Co. were prepared to Guy Faux the speaker of the legislature. As the Globe was the first to learn of the discovery of the cartridges and to make use of it, probably the deacon put up the job for the purpose of making a scoop for his evening edition. Circumstantial evidence is almost as dangerous to fool with as dynamite.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.).

WHICH ARE THE FRIENDS?

The Globe has an editorial headed "Tory Hatred of the Working Classes." We believe it was a proprietor of the Globe who put his employees in gaol, and it was the Conservative party who elected H. B. Witton as member for Hamilton.—Guelph Herald.

NO SLAUGHTER MARKET.

The high duty on imported cottons prevents either England or the United States making of Canada a slaughter market for surplus cottons. —Toronto Telegram, (Indep.)

NEW REFORM PLATFORM.

There is an active movement going on in the inner cicles of the Reform party. It is hinted that the advisabilty of constructing a new platform is being discussed. There is a section that wish to strike out straight as a national party and for a reconsideration of the terms of confederation. There is a still more unanimous feeling in favor of a straight temperance plank. There is also a lot of talk in the way of annexation.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

THREATENING CIVIL WAR.

The people of Canada, and more especially those of Ontario, are getting tired of the repeated attempts of the Dominion Government to interfere with the rights and privileges conferred upon the Provinces by the Act of Confederation. Countries before now have been drenched with blood and desolated by the demon of civil war as the result of just such acts of tyranny as those which are being perpetrated by our rulers. —Ottawa Free Press (Reform).

NEUTRALIZING JUSTICE.

Charles Gray has escaped from the Central prison. There have been a large number of escapes from our jails during the past year, and if they continue the insecurity of Canadian prisons will become so notorious as to neutralize the well-established fear of Canadian justice.—Toronto News (Indep.)

THEORY AND FACT.

It is an old contention that, whereas free trade makes goods abundant and cheap to the consumer the effect of protection is to make them scarce and dear. But to a dead certainty, protection has not worked that way in the cotton trade, either in Canada or the United States. In both countries cotton goods are cheaper now than ever before, although the raw material has been rising of late. Against this one fact columns of free trade arguments are worthless.—Canadian Manufacturer.

MACKENZIE'S SCOTT ACT.

The constitution authorizes the Local Legislature to derive a revenue from this source. (Liquor Licences.) In our opinion the Parliament of Canada usurped powers which did not belong to it when it undertook to deal with the question at all.—London Advertiser (Reform.)

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WEATHER NOTES.—Although the month of April came in cold and continued so up to the 18th, yet remaining dry during the month, it has, I believe, been one of the finest seeding times on record. Rain fell on five days, but only to the depth of 50-100ths of an inch. Snow fell on seven days, but only to the depth of 1 in. and 5-10ths. The lowest temperature was on the mornings of the 6th, 8th, 12th and 28th ranging to 23°; on the latter, we had some snow, which it is to be hoped will be the last of the season. The highest temperature was on the 26th at 4 o'clock, the thermometer standing at 78°. The mean temperature of the month was 37° 25 and our down fall for the month was far below the average for April.

CROPS AND WORK.—Some time ago anxiety was felt regarding our fall wheat owing to the frost at night and hot sun during the day. Notwithstanding this a large amount has come out well, although some fields have been ploughed up, still we will have seven tenths of our wheat looking well. The farmers around here have mostly finished their spring work, being from 10 to 12 days earlier than usual.

NORWOOD.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

PERSONAL.—Mr. H. P. Thrall, who received the severe beating last week from Beavis, of Peterborough, is lying in a critical condition. Fears are entertained for his recovery.

OBITUARY.—A sad and mournful procession proceeded to the Norwood cemetery on Tuesday, the 6th inst., following the remains of Mr. Wm. Hill, to their last resting place. Mr. Hillhad been employed by Mr. Robert Stewart, of Asphodel, to raft square timber on the Muskoka river, when in an unlucky hour, while letting free a jam of the timber, he lost his life. He leaves a wife and a large family to mourn his loss. Much sympathy is felt for the widow and family in their severe affliction.

N. C. BAND.—It was the intention of the Norwood Cornet Band to play out on the streets on the evening of the 5th, but were prevented from doing so by the disagreeable weather.

O. & Q. RAILWAY.—A train passed through here early this week, laden with telegraph poles, which were being scattered along the track. The work of ballasting is being prosecuted with great vigor, and it is expected the freight trains will be running by the 1st of June.

Fluid Lightning

ON the night of the 17th April, the office of the Stratford Times was broken into and all the type in the cases and the standing forms pied. On Saturday two men, a dealer in old iron and his teamster, were arrested in Stratford on the charge of being concerned in the outrage, and further arrests are expected.

DAVITT TO VISIT CANADA.

ATTEMPT TO RESCUE DALY.

LONDON, May 6.—It is believed an attempt will be made to rescue Daly, who was for years the idol of the Irish Republican Brotherhood.

WHOLESALE NIHILIST ARRESTS.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 6.—Arrests of persons known to be Nihilists or suspected of connection with the order, continue without abatement. A very large number of artillery officers have been arrested, accused of being connected with the murder of Col. Soudaikin. The explanation of these arrests is that Dezaieff, who assassinated Soudaikin, was himself at one time in the artillery service. Several more students have been arrested at Moscow, and the first number of a new paper published by the students of Moscow university Cheskiswornik, has been seized. The secretary of the Board of Justices and the mistress of the school for women in St. Petersburg have also been arrested.

A NEW CONSERVATIVE WING.

LONDON, May 6.—Messrs. Gorst and Raikes, Conservative members of the Commons, have joined Lord Randolph Churchill in withdrawing from the Conservative Union. Their aim is to form a new party, with a Conservative democratic programme.

THE EGYPTIAN CONFERENCE.

LONDON, May 6.—The preliminaries of the Egyptian conference have deen settled. It will meet here the first week in June, and is expected to continue in session three weeks.

A DEMONSTRATION.

LONDON, May 6.—At a meeting of the Missionary Society in Exeter hall to-day, Canon Hoare remarked that the English people were ashamed that Gen. Gordon had been left in Egypt without support and without the means of defence. Thereupon the audience, numbering three thousand, rose and tumultuously cheered the speaker. The incident is considered of unusual significance, showing the strong undercurrent of feeling among people from whom such demonstrations are the least to be expected.

THE SLIGO INVINCIBLES.

SLIGO, May 6:—At the hearing of the Invincibles to-day, Thomas Moran testified that he and two other members of the Invincibles were promised ten pounds apiece if they would murder a parish official; also money enough to carry them comfortably out of the country. Casey, an ex-soldier of the regular army, had drilled members of the society. Casey was arrested to-day.

AMERICAN.

EXCITEMENT IN WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Wall street was in a tremendous whirl to-day over the closing of the Marine Bank, an institution that had done business uninterruptedly since 1851. About ten o'clock in the forenoon the bank closed its doors, and from that time on until the close of business the street was filled with rumours of a most startling character concerning the stability of other financial houses which it was prophesied would be carried down with the wreck. With one exception, however, the worst fears were not realized, and this was in the case of the brokerage and banking firm of Grant, & Ward, whose suspension was announced at the Stock Exchange shortly after the Marine Bank had ceased transacting business.

RUMOURS ON THE MONTREAL BANK.

NEW YORK, May 6.—It was rumoured in Wall street this morning that the Bank of Montreal, Canada, had fallen into financial difficulties owing to the failure of the Oriental Bank, of London. This was somewhat confirmed by a despatch received during the morning announcing that the bank stock had fallen 2 per cent to 185, the lowest point touched since February 1st., and that the depression was attributed to the Oriental Bank's failure.

At the office of Watson & Lang, the New York agents of the Bank of Montreal, the report was ridiculed. "The failure of the Oriental Bank would not affect the Bank of Montreal in the least," they said. "Twenty years ago we held a good deal of the Oriental's paper, but since then we have had very little to do with them except in collecting. This is simply one of many malicious rumours recently set afloat in Wall street by designing persons."

SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

THE news of the retirement of Sir Charles Tupper from the Administration will excite throughout the Dominion a feeling of regret, that will, however, be tempered by the knowledge that his valuable services will not be lost to Canada. Not even one so able and energetic could long hold conjointly two such importance offices as the Ministry of Railways and Canals, and the High Commissionership to the Mother Country. In choosing the latter office he has taken the one which perhaps makes the least constant and onerous demands upon his somewhat overtaxed energies, while he has already given proof that he can fill the position in a manner to render services of the highest value to this country. He has also the satisfaction of knowing that great as his loss will be to his colleagues in the Cabinet, it is not irreparable, for the Conservative party is so rich in able members, that the difficulty will be to choose one from the many who are well qualified to take a portfolio.

Sir Charles Tupper's retirement is not of such a nature as to be looked upon as final, and to call for a review of a closed career. Happily he has a wide sphere of usefulness still open to him, even if he does not return, which is by no means certain, to active political life. A brief retrospect is, however, allowable under the circumstances. Even if his career were now closed, the history of our Dominion would echo with his praise. Next to Sir John Macdonald himself, there is no one who will receive more credit for uniting our scattered provinces into one grand Dominion, and cementing that union in its earliest and most trying days. And for those who want something more material, more tangible, there is a splendid monument to his perpetual memory in the Canada Pacific Railway, which under his immediate supervision has already almost threaded together our provinces and territories by a connecting line from ocean to ocean.

Locally we have another such reminder of his public spirited management of his department. As the Trent Valley Navigation progresses, it will always be remembered that under Sir Charles Tupper the first extensive operations for its construction were undertaken.

Many other instances of his services might be given, but as we have said the time has happily not yet arrived for describing his career. We hope, and all true Canadians will echo the wish, that Sir Charles Tupper will live to fill many additional brilliant pages in the history of Canada.

MR. MOWAT'S DICTATORSHIP.

THE London Advertiser has an editorial condemning the disallowance of the Ontario Act of the past session regulating license fees. The qualifications of our contemporary to discuss the subject may be judged from the fact that it admits not having seen the Act in question, nor having full knowledge of its general policy. Its excuse for this legislation is that should the Dominion Parliament be found to have concurrent jurisdiction the Province would receive a smaller revenue under its Act than under the Local Act, so it was necessary to increase the charge on Dominion licenses. This pretence is absurd on the face of it. If there is found to be concurrent jurisdiction the receipts from all the licenses would be increased instead of diminished. If the Dominion is found to have sole jurisdiction, the Provincial Treasury should be put in a better position, for it would be relieved of much expense, unless the McCarthy Act will diminish the number of licenses, which its opponents have denied. If the Province is found to have sole jurisdiction, the matter would remain as before and there would be no reason for increased fees. Under none of these three suppositions is there any excuse for discriminating between the two sets of licenses. It was simply an attempt to vent petty spite upon political opponents, and to punish those who might choose to obey a law of Canada, not yet pronounced invalid by a competent authority, by fining them.

The Advertiser contends correctly enough that our constitution gives the Provincial Legislatures control of the license fees. But this right is limited, being expressly stated to be for revenue purposes, and does not include the right to fine those who may offend it, or to charge different fees to its friends and others. But our contemporary is not correct when it says that the Dominion has nothing whatever to do with the question. The Privy Council has decided that the Scott Act, for which it will be remembered that Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Blake and other Reform leaders were responsible, is valid. That measure not only interferes with the liquor traffic, but does so in the very point as to which the Provinces have express jurisdiction, that is the revenue from licenses, for in many places it has stopped that revenue altogether.

But perhaps the most important sentence in the Advertiser's article is that in which it assumes that "even should the Federal Parliament be found to have concurrent jurisdiction, it is open to Mr. Mowat BY ORDER-IN-COUNCIL to say what the rate of license fee shall be." Are we to understand that it is now a plank in the platform of the Reform party, of which the London Advertiser is a leading mouthpiece, and may be presumed to speak with some authority, that Mr. Mowat is vested with the powers conferred upon the Provincial Legislature, and that an order-in-council is equivalent to an Act. If he has the right in this case, we would like to know what are the limits of his power. Should this reading of our constitution be correct what is there left for the Legislature to do? If Oliver Mowat is a second Oliver Cromwell we should know it.

We anxiously await some further light upon the subject from this great constitutional authority.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES FOR DESTITUTE CHILDREN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—It may be known to some of your readers that Mr. Geo. A. Cox has very kindly and generously given the commodious house, recently owned by Mr. Smith, to be used as the Canadian branch of "Dr. Barnardos Homes," London, England, of which Earl Cairns is President.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox, General and Mrs. Haultain, and others in the town, have, for a considerable length of time, taken a warm and active interest in the work which these institutions are doing among homeless and destitute children; and it has long been the desire of Mr. and Mrs. Cox to co-operate in the work by establishing a Home in Peterborough for the reception of boys and girls from the Homes in England, whom it might be found desirable to place out in situations, or, to have adopted in the Province of Ontario. A most eligible house has now been secured by Mr. Cox, and arrangements are being made to open it in June for the accommodation of the staff and 150 girls, who will leave England for this country about the middle of that month. I need not, perhaps, say that the help of these kind friends is very greatly valued and esteemed. Already the President and Committee have, through the director, Dr. Barnardo, conveyed their warm and grateful thanks to them; but I think it would not only be extremely gratifying, but an additional feature of interest, if other Christian and philanthropic people in Peterborough were led to facilitate the movement by assisting to provide the needful furniture for the establishment, which will have a staff of from five to six persons and always in residence about fifty bright little girls, who, as calls may be made for them, will be drafted off to Christian households for adoption.

The house will be so arranged as to accommodate at least 120 children, but so large a number would not remain in it longer than a week or a fortnight, as the demand for these children has hitherto proved so great as to warrant the belief that it will not be necessary to provide for the permanent maintenance of more than fifty. These, of course, will have their training and education carried on just the same as though they were in the Homes in England.

It ought to be observed, too, that the Home is not designed exclusively for children brought out from the parent institution. The aim and spirit of the whole work, which have so largely distinguished it from all others of a kindred nature in the Old Country, will be strictly observed in connection with the Canadian branch. Hence any really destitute or orphan children in Peterborough itself will be eligible for admission, and none such will ever be rejected, provided, of course, that there is a vacancy. This fact will, I trust, be the means of stimulating some to aid in the fitting of the Home who might not feel led to do so but for this local provision. Indeed, it has already done so. One friend in the town has undertaken to pay for the support of one child annually, and others are, I believe, ready to follow so good an example. It is with pleasure and gratitude, also, that I learn of several promises made of gifts in kind to the house, and I would add that others who would like to contribute according to the measure of their ability, to so worthy and Christ-like an object of caring for the little ones, might communicate with Mrs. Cox, or Mrs. Haultain, or with myself.

The Home will be under the superintendence of Mr. and Mrs. Duff and Miss M. Sanderson. Miss E. Morecroft, a voluntary worker in connection with the Homes, has kindly undertaken to act as lady visitor to the girls after they are placed out; and Mr. A. B. Owen will be the travelling agent for the boys. Anyone desirous of adopting or engaging the children should write either to Mr. Edward Duff or to Miss M. Sanderson, who will gladly send particulars and forms of application. All letters for the present, however, will be dealt with by Miss E. Morecroft.

THE EXTENT AND CHARACTER OF THE WORK.

It was in 1868 that Dr. Barnardo, himself a medical student at that time, became deeply touched with the sad and destitute condition of the homeless and friendless boys of London. He was led in a small way to do what he could personally to better their circumstances and to provide shelter for them in his own house. From that time Christian sympathy was roused, and ere longra small but suitable building was obtained where these homeless and uncared for ones could be housed and trained for some kind of employment. The work grew with astonishing rapidity, until now the "Homes," besides doing a vast amount of general mission work in East London, feed, clothe and provide a Christian and industrial training for 1,200 poor children, and have since their formation rescued nearly 5,000 destitute boys and girls.

In connection with these Institutions there are now thirty Cottage Homes for Girls, forming a Village upon the family system, at Ilford, Essex; a Home for Little Boys at Jersey, a House for Babies at Hawkhurst, Kent, and three large Homes for Boys and Girls in the East of London. There is also in operation a Hospital for Sick Children, containing thirty-one beds, under skillful professional care; and a Hotel for Young Workmen who have left the Homes; whilst a Labor House for Destitute Youths too old to enter the Boys' Home, and a Servant's Home for Older Girls, have recently been added.

I have only to add that Dr. Barnardo hopes (D.V.) to visit Canada at the end of June, and to give an account of the rise and marvellous growth of his Institutions, and which stand as a grand monument to the liberality and prayerful sympathy of thousands of Christians in nearly every part of the globe.

I am yours faithfully,
F. FIELDER.

A Model of Neatness.

"THE PETERBOROUGH REVIEW."—The weekly edition of this excellent paper has recently been greatly enlarged, and it is now one of the largest as well as one of the best in the Dominion. The plant of the establishment has recently been renewed, new presses, new type and other material, which must have cost a great deal of money, having recently been purchased, and the paper, as now issued, is a model of typographical neatness. The editorial department, under Mr. Toker, is conducted in a most able manner, while Mr. Menzies cannot be surpassed as a manager in the practical department, from which first-class printing of all kinds is daily issued. The REVIEW book-bindery has also received additions in the shape of the latest and best machinery, and is in charge of a gentleman of long experience and great ability. We wish the REVIEW a long and prosperous career. —Port Hope Times.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25cts.

FRIENDLY relations between France and Morocco are ruptured. The authorities of Morocco refused to dismiss the Governor of Wazan at the demand of the French representative. The French legation thereupon hauled down its flag.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of everysymptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

DO YOU FEEL PLAYED OUT?—If so, try a bottle of Golden Fruit Bitters. It is a simple tonic, pleasant to take, and will make you feel like a "new man." Sold by all druggists.

MICHAEL DAVITT has determined to abandon politics and leave England for Australia, where he will make his home for the future. The dispute between himself and Mr. Parnell is generally assigned as the reason for his taking this step.

CHAPTER VII.

To men and women of intensely emotional nature, it sometimes happens that a day of keen and torturing suspense or a night's vigil of great anguish, wars and darkens a countenance more indelibly than the lapse of several ordinary monotonous years; and as Madame Orme sat in her reception room at one o'clock in the following afternoon, awaiting the visit of the Minister, the blanched face was far sterner and prouder than when yesterday's sun rippled across it, and bluish shadows beneath the large eyes that had not closed for twenty-four hours, lent them a deeper and more fateful glow.

The soft creamy folds of her cashmere robe were relieved at the throat by a knot of lilac ribbon, and amid its loops were secured clusters of violets, that matched in hue the long spike of hyacinth which was fastened to one side of the coiled hair, twined just behind the ear, and drooped low on the snowy neck. Before her on a gilded stand, was the purple pyramid of flowers she had brought from the theatre, and beside them lay several perfumed envelopes with elaborate monograms. These notes contained tributes of praise from strangers who had been facinated by her "Amy Robsart," and begged the honor of an interview, or the favour of a photograph taken in the silken cymar which so advantageously displayed the symmetry of her figure."

Among the latter, she had recognised the handwriting of Mr. Laurance, though the signature was "Jules Duval," and her fingers had shrunk from the folds of rose paper, as though scorched by flames. Lying there on the billets-doux, the elegant graceful chirography of the Madam Odille Orme' drew her gaze, like the loathsome facination of a basilisk, and taking a package of notes from her pocket, she held them for a moment close to the satin envelope. Upon one, the name of the popular actress,—on the other—in the same peculiar beautiful characters,—"Minnie Merle." She put away the letter, and a flash of scorn momentarily lighted her rigid face.

"Craven as of old! Too cowardly to boldly ask the thing his fickle fancy favours,—he begs under borrowed names. Doubtless his courage wilts before his swarthy, bold-eyed Xantippe, who allowed him scant latitude for flirtations with pretty actresses. To be thrown aside,—trampled down—for such a creature as Abbie Ames!—his coarse-featured,—diamond-dowered—bride! Ah! my veins run lava, when I think of her thick heavy lips—pressing that haughty perfect mouth,—where mine once clung so foudly! Last night the two countenances seemed like—'as Hyperion to a Satyr!' How completely he sold his treacherous beauty to the banker's daughter,—whom to-day he would willingly betray, for a fairer, fresher face. Craven traitor!"

She passed the handkerchief across her lips, as if to efface some imaginary stain, and they slowly settled back into their customary stern curves.

Just then a timid tap at the door of the reception room, was followed almost simultaneously by the entrance of Mrs. Waul, who held a card in her hand.

"The waiter has just brought this up. What answer shall he take back?"

Mrs. Orme glanced at it, sprung to her feet and a vivid scarlet bathed her face and neck.

"Tell him—No! no—no! Madame Orme begs to decline the honour."

Then the crimson tide as suddenly ebbed,—she grew ghastly in her colourlessness, and her bloodless lips writhed, as she called after the retreating figure:

"Stop! Come back,—let me think."

She walked to the window, and stood for several moments as still as the bronze Mercury on the mantel. Whe she turned around, her features were as fixed as if they belonged to some sculptured slab from Persepolis.

"Pray don't thing me weak and fickle, but indeed Mrs. Waul, some of my laurels gash like a crown of thorns. Tell the waiter to show this visitor up, after five minutes,—and then I wish you to come back and sit with your knitting yonder, at the end of the room. And please drop the curtain there,—the pink silk will make me look a trifle less ghostly, after last night's work. You see I am disappointed, I expected that American Minister on business, and he sends this Paris beau, to make his apologies,—that is all."

As the old lady disappeared, Mrs. Orme shuddered, and muttering with clenched teeth.

"All have a Gethsemane sooner or later,—and mine has overtaken me before I am quite ready. God grant me some strengthening angel!"

She sank back into the arm chair, and drew the oval gilt table before her as a barrier,—while some inexplicable, intuitive impulse prompted her to draw from her bosom a locket containing Regina's miniature. Touching a spring, she looked at the childish features so singularly like those she had been the previous evening,—and when Mrs. Waul returned and seated herself at the end of the room,—the spring snapped, the locket lay in one hand, the Minister's card in the other.

Mrs. Orme heard the sound on the stairs and along the hall,—the well remembered step. Amid the tramp of a hundred she could have singled it out,—so often in by-gone years had she crouched under the lilacs that overhung the gate,—listening for its rapid approach,—waiting to throw herself into the arms that would clasp her so fondly, to-day that unaltered step smote her ears like an echo from the tomb, and for an instant her heart stood still, and she shut her eyes,—but the door swung back and Mr. Laurance stood upon the threshold. As he advanced, she rose, and when he stood before her with outstretched hand, she ignored it,—merely rested her palm on the table between them; and glancing at the card in her fingers, said:

"Mr. Laurance I believe,—introduced by the American Minister. A countryman of mine, he writes. As such I am pleased to see you, Sir, for when abroad the mere name of American—is an open sesame to American sympathy and hospitality. Pray be seated, Mr. Laurance. Pardon me, not that stiff-backed ancient contrivance of torture, which must have been invented by Eymeric. You will find that green velvet Voltaire,—like its namesake,—far more easy,—affording ample latitude."

The sweet voice sung its silver chimes as clearly as when she trod the stage, and no shadow of the past cast its dusky wing over her proud pale face, while she gracefully waved him to a seat, and resumed her own.

No one can tell when the revised old Testament will appear, but it is hoped that it will be ready before the close of the year. The American company will probably finish its part of the work in May, and the English company expects to hold its last meeting in July.

According to the latest returns there are in the American Methodist Episcopal Church, North and South, 2,666,968 enrolled members, including probationers, and adding all the various branches of Methodism, the grand totals reaches 3,943,875.

It is stated that during the present century 150,000,000 copies of the Bible have been printed in 226 different languages. The United States contributes $75,000,000 for sustaining the churches and ministry, and $31,000,000 for other benevolent purposes.

The expelled Jesuits of France have taken up their quarters in Canterbury, England, "the Mecca of British Protestantism," as the Pall Mall Gazette calls it. There they have founded a seminary, and they are now proposing to purchase Stone House, St. Peter's, near Broadstairs, in the Isle of Thanet, the summer residence of the late Archbishop Tait, for the establishment of a similar institution. "Times are indeed changed," says the same critic, "when the house of an English primate is converted to the uses of Roman Catholicism."

Mr. Spurgeon, with characteristic plainness and vigour, said in a recent sermon:—"When a man gets to cutting down sin, paring down depravity, and making little of future punishment, let him no longer preach to you. Some modern divines whittle away the gospel to a small end of nothing. They make our divine Lord to be a sort of blessed nobody; they bring down salvation to mere salvability, make certainties into probabilities, and treat verities as mere opinions. As for me, I believe in the colossal; a need deep as hell and a grace high as heaven. I believe in a pit that is bottomless, and a heaven that is topless. I believe in an infinite God, and an infinite atonement, infinite love and mercy; an everlasting covenant ordered in all things and sure, of which the substance and reality is an infinite Christ."

TRUE COURAGE.

The Courage that can go forth, once and away, to Chalk-Farm, and have itself shot, and snuffed out, with decency, is nowise wholly what we mean here. Such courage we indeed esteem an exceedingly small matter; capable of co-existing with a life full of falsehood, feebleness, poltroonery and despicability. Nay, oftener is it Cowardice rather that produces the result; for consider, Is the Chalk-Farm Pistoleer inspired with any reasonable Belief and Determination; or is he hounded-on by haggard indefinable Fear,—how he will be cut at public places, and 'plucked geese of the neighborhood' will wag their tongues at him a plucked goose. If he go there and be shot without shrieking or audible uproar, it is well for him; nevertheless there is nothing amazing in it. Courage to manage all this has not perhaps been denied to any man, or to any woman. Thus, do not recruiting sergeants drum through the streets of manufacturing towns, and collect ragged losels enough; every of whom, if once dressed in red, and trained a little, will receive fire cheerfully for the small sum of one shilling per diem, and have the soul blown out of him at last, with perfect propriety? The Courage that dares only die, is on the whole no sublime affair; necessary indeed, yet universal; pitiful when it begins to parade itself. On this globe of ours there are some thirty-six persons that manifest it, seldom with the smallest failure, during every second of time. Nay, look at Newgate: do not the offscourings of Creation, when condemned to the gallows as if they were not men but vermin, walk thither with decency, and even to the scowls and hootings of the whole Universe give their stern good-night in silence? What is to be undergone only once, we may undergo; what must be comes almost of its own accord. Considered as Duellist, what a poor figure does the fiercest Irish Whiskerando make, compared with any English game-cock, such as you may buy for fifteenpence!

The Courage we desire and prize is not the Courage to die decently, but to live manfully; this, when by God's grace it has been given, lies deep in the soul; like the genial heat, fosters all other virtues and gifts; without it they could not live. In spite of our innumerable Waterloos and Peterloos and such campaigns as there have been, this Courage we allude to and call the only true one, is perhaps rarer in these last ages than it has been in any other since the Saxon invasion under Hengist.—Carlyle.

The Great Caisse Estate.

Mr. Caisse, the millionaire who died at Cleveland, Ohio, without making a will, leaving property valued at $5,000,000, had a first cousin residing in Peterborough, who is now dead, leaving a widow and three children, a son, Mr. Joseph Caisse, jr., born at Lachine, and two daughters, Miss Asseline Caisse, also born at Lachine, and married to Mr. Joseph Gonya, of Peterborough, and Miss Albina Caisse, born at Longueuil, and married to Mr. Joseph Bonhomme, of Peterborough. There are other heirs in Ontario, and, it is said, over 300 in the Province of Quebec.

Personal.

Mr. M. Porteous, of Peterborough, took part in the musical portion of the anniversary services of the Methodist Church at Port Hope on Sunday and Monday. The Guide, in its notice of the Sunday service, says:—

"The solo for the offertory by Mr. M. Porteous (late of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin) 'Abide With Me.'—Ambrose, was one of the most striking features of the service, that gentleman's finely cultivated voice and good taste serving to make the solo a treat seldom heard in Port Hope, and it is to be hoped that his services will often be secured."

Mr. J. W. Murray, of the provincial detective force, was in town to-day and put up at the Grand Central Hotel. He went east on the Grand Junction train this afternoon.

The Orphan's Home.

The Rev. F. Fielder, agent for Dr. Barnardo, a branch of whose English orphan homes is to be established here, was in town this week arranging for the opening of this branch. The home will be in the residence of Mrs. Smith, that property having been purchased by Mr. Geo. A. Cox and set apart for that purpose. Mr. Cox had previously offered another building for this purpose, but when it was found unsuited for the home, he gave another proof of his liberality by purchasing and donating this property. Mr. Fielder left an order with Mr. D. Beileghem for sixty bedsteads—forty single and twenty double ones—and other furnishings for the home. A letter from Mr. Fielder, which appears in another column, gives further particulars regarding the institution.

METHODIST UNION.

Preparing for its Consummation—The Peterborough Circuits.

The consummation of the union of the Methodist and Bible Christian Churches will cause some changes to be made in Peterborough, although the changes will not be so great as in villages, towns and cities where other branches of the uniting bodies are also represented. The Peterborough Bible Christian circuit includes the Ashburnham church and two appointments in Otonabee. The Rev. John Shaw and the Rev. W. Jolliffe were appointed to report to the next arrangment of the circuits, but they, in order to get the views of the people, called a meeting of the representatives from the different appointments, which was held in the George Street Methodist Church on Tuesday afternoon.

This meeting adopted a resolution recommending that Ashburnham be made a station of the new church, with the two Bible Christian appointments in Otonabee attached to it. There was a very cordial feeling exhibited at the meeting, and a desire on the part of the delegates to sink all sectional feelings and arrange matters for the best, that augurs well for the future of the united church.

The meeting did not make any recommendation as to the Bible Christian Church in Peterborough. When Mr. Jolliffe was asked a question regarding it, he said that whether services would be continued in it, or whether it would be closed and sold, was a matter for the Conference to decide.

A delegate to the meeting from the Bible Christian Church expressed the opinion to a reporter that the services would be discontinued in that church, and that the congregation would divide between the George Street and Charlotte Street Churches.

Another delegate from the Methodist church, said that if this arrangement was carried out, and a clergyman located in Ashburham, he believed that there would be a large congegation in that village, and that it might be necessary to erect a larger church there.

The recommendation of the meeting will be dealt with at the district meeting, which commences at Millbrook on May 20th.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

A Resident of Peterborough Drowned in the Black River.

On Monday last Mr. Thomas Corcoran, son of Mr. Bryan Corcoran, who resides on Perry street, was drowned in the Black river, in Oakley Township, Simcoe County.

The deceased and his brother, John, were engaged on a drive of logs belonging to Mr. W. E. Dodge, Mr. Geo. McCormick being the foreman. On that day he was engaged in breaking a jam in the rapids on the river, a small boy being the only person near him at the time. When the jam gave way Thomas Corcoran was carried down the stream on a log, and the log striking a stump he was thrown into the water. He struggled to again get on the log, but being unable to swim, the swift current carried him on, and after being carried about a hundred yards he sank.

The boy was so frightened that for a moment or two he did not give the alarm. John Corcoran and others were working a little above the scene of the accident, but out of sight, and when the boy gave the alarm they hurried to the scene. John was just in time to see his brother's hand sink under the water, but was unable to render any assistance.

The body of the unfortunate man was recovered in about three hours after the accident, in eight feet of water, about a hundred yards from where he was last seen. It was brought to Peterborough by his brother, who arrived here on Tuesday night.

The deceased was twenty-seven years of age, and was unmarried. The funeral took place this afternoon, the remains being interred in the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Wonders will Never Cease.

The seven wonders of the world in ancient times were the pyramids of Egypt, the Pharos of Alexandria, the walls and hanging gardens of Babylon, the temple of Diana, the statue of Olympic Jupiter, the Mausoleum of Artemesia, and the Colossus of Rhodes. The wonders of modern times are eight in number. The steam engine, the printing press, the telegraph, the daguereotype, the telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, and the perfect fitting clothing made to order by ANDREW McNEIL, Tailor and Clothier, George street.

Cricket Notes.

At a meeting of the Cricket Club held at the Oriental Hotel on Tuesday evening a committee was appointed to co-operate with the Boating Club in preparing for the celebration on July 1st.

A match will be played at Port Hope between the Peterborough Club and the Trinity College School Club on May 22nd.

Matches will also be arranged with the Kingston, Uxbridge and East Toronto Clubs, to be played in Peterborough during the month of June.

Improvements are being made to the Cricket Grounds in Ashburnham. The grand stand is being repaired and sodding is being done on the grounds. A large amount has also been expended in bats, balls, and other cricket material.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

TWO COLLISIONS AT SEA.

THE STEAMER STATE OF FLORIDA SUNK IN MID OCEAN.

Full Account of the Collision—A Barque Instantly Sunk—Fearful Loss of Life—One Hundred and Twenty Persons Drowned in Fifteen Minutes.

FATHER POINT, Que., May 7.—The steamship Titania from Glasgow passed inward this morning. She has 24 of the crew of the steamship State of Florida on board. She said the steamer had gone to the bottom through a collision with a barque in mid-ocean. Out of 167 persons only 44 were saved and of the barque's crew only the captain and two men. One hundred and twenty-three men went down with the steamer and twelve with the barque making the total loss of life 135. The survivors will probably be landed at Quebec.

ANOTHER COLLISION.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 7.—The Guion steamer Nevada, collided on the 3rd. inst. with the steamer Romano, bound from Hull to Boston, sinking her, but, however, before her crew and passengers, two in number, had been rescued and placed on board of the Nevada. The latter arrived in port this evening. Her stern is completely driven in, and her bows badly damaged.

THE ACCOUNT OF THE DISASTER.

which is gathered from conversation from a gentleman and a member of the crew, is that the accident took place about eleven o'clock in the night, when everybody was in bed, the ship then being about 1,200 miles west of the most westerly point of Ireland. The night was very clear, although there was no moon, and the sea was as calm as glass. Suddenly those on watch saw a red light on the starboard bow bearing down on them. The order was given to "stop and reverse engines," the third officer called out "collision," and immediately a barque, the Pomona, of Chatham, N. B.,

STRUCK THE SIDE OF THE STEAMER

with terrific force, knocking a hole six feet square in it. The barque sank instantaneously, many of the men going down in their beds, only the captain and two men being able to procure a small boat, by means of which they escaped. Immediately after the collision took place the State of Florida began to settle down, and the captain gave the order to lower the boats. The passengers were roused and told to save themselves. They rushed on deck immediately in a dazed an bewildered condition, and a complete panic ensued. The crew and passengers ran frantically to and fro, the women went into hysterics, most of the officers lost their heads, and suddenly, with a fearful plunge, the vessel taking with it the terror-stricken crowds on board. Fifteen minutes after the red light was seen 120 persons were drowned.

CAREENED AND WENT DOWNWARDS

Four boats had time to become loaded, and in these were some fifty persons. One of the boats, however, was too heavily loaded and it capsized. Five men managed to crawl on top of the keel, which they clung to all night, the cold weather breaking over them and chilling them to the bone. One unfortunate sailor named Donaldson became stuck fast under the bars of the boat and remained underneath all night. He could be heard moaning, but towards morning he became unconscious. One of the other boats rescued these people in the morning and released the imprisoned mariner by breaking in the bottom of the boat with their oars. The boats then got together and proceeded in a body. They had no water, and for thirty-six hours they drifted on the water, suffering all the agonies of extreme thirst. The vessel sank at 11 o'clock on the night of the 18th April, and they were picked up by the Therese, of Christiania, on Sunday at noon. A day or so after the Therese met the City of Rome, and signalled her to come and take some of the passengers, but she held on her course without coming near the vessel to make any enquiries or offer any help.

ONLY TWO WOMEN WERE SAVED.

The stewardess, Jane McFarlane, was only saved by the sacrifice of the life of the first engineer, a Mr. Bain, who returned on the ship from a boat and rescued her. He had not time to get into the boat, however, before the ship went down, carrying with her the gallant and heroic engineer.

Mr. Jas. Bennett, of London, was the

from the wreck of the State of Florida. He said that he, Mr. King, and Mr. Bethune got into the same boat, but they unfortunately cut the cable connecting the boat to the ship too suddenly and the boat immediately capsized. Five, including Mr. Bennett, clambered on to the keel of the boat, but neither Mr. King nor Mr. Bethune ever came to the surface, being immediately chilled by the water, which was ice cold.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA.

ENGLAND.

HER MAJESTY has, it is stated, offered the honour of knighthood to Mr. James Joseph Allport, of Littleover, Derby, late general manager of the Midland Railway.

THE executors of the late Miss Bewick have presented to the Newcastle-on-Tyne Natural History Society a large collection of old paintings, drawings, woodcuts, &c., associated with the life and work of the celebrated wood engraver, Thomas Bewick.

THE will of Mr. Thomas Hanbury, for more than fifty years a partner in the firm of Truman, Hanbury, Buxton & Co., London, was proved on the 10th ult., the value of the personal estate amounting to upwards of £694,000.

THE EARL OF ABERDEEN, in addition to those previously announced, has joined the Wyclif Quincentenary Committee. Not less than 20 new publications dealing with Wyclif's life, times and work will be issued during this year, in addition to broadsheets, extra numbers and magazine articles, and it is hoped that thereby the attention of Englishmen will be drawn to the distinguished merits and services of the great reformer.

THE death of the Duke of Albany deprives the Royal Literary Fund of its chairman for its annual dinner in May. His Royal Highness had consented to preside on that occasion. Last year, it may be remembered, he took the chair at the dinner of the Printer's Corporation.

THE finest flock of Hampshire Down sheep in England will be dispersed this month, as Mr. Morrison, of Fonthill, is reducing his home-farm, and intends to sell his stock. During the last few years Mr. Morrison's sheep have taken 120 prizes at home and abroad, and recently the annual ramlettings at Fonthill have regularly attracted breeders from all parts of Europe.

THE statue of Lord Beaconsfield, executed by Mr. Boehm, and placed in Westminster Abbey, in pursuance of a vote of the House of Commons, is now in its position in the north transept, midway between the statues of Sir Robert Peel and the two Cannings. In accordance with the course followed in all similar cases, there has been no public ceremonial of any kind.

THE last gibbet erected in England was for George Cook, a bookbinder, of Leicester, who was executed for the murder of Mr. Paas, a London commercial traveller. Cook's body was put on a gibbet 33 ft. high on Saturday, August 11th, 1882, in Saffron Lane, Aylestone, near Leister; but owing to great disturbances which arose among the crowds of people who thronged the place every Sunday it was afterwards taken down and buried on the spot where the gibbet stood.

LADY EBURY recently in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen, opened the new wing of the London Homœopathic Hospital and Medical School in Great Ormond street, Bloomsbury. The addition, which has been built for the accomodation of additional nurses for training in the wards and nursing invalids at their residences, is, however, situated in Powisplace. The chaplain (the Rev. Dr. Craven) having invoked the Divine blessing of the hospital, an explanatory statement respecting the need and particulars of the new wing was made by the treasurer.

IN North Ward Dublin Poor-Law elections, on April 8th, the Lord Mayor, Nationalist, was defeated by a large majority. The Conservatives carried every seat.

AN unsuccessful attempt was made on April 11th to upset the Kerry mail train, about five miles from Tralee. Some damage was done to the road, but no injury to the passengers occurred.

THE Marquis of Donegal, who died on the 20th October last at Brighton, had personal estates amounting to £41,600. By his will he leaves quarries and railway property in Ireland to his wife, and then to the trustees of the family estates.

AN advertisement appeared lately in the Dublin papers offering a reward of £2,000 for the recovery and lodgment, either with Cardinal McCabe or in the Dublin Probate Court, of the last will and testament of the late James Egan. The testator, who was a woollen manufacturer in Dublin, and died in 1866, bequeathed the bulk of his property, amounting to close on £1,000,000, to the late Cardinal Cullen, for charitable purposes.

September, October, or December.

While there has been no serious question as to the authenticity of the letter published as coming from Archbishop Lynch to Mr. Higgins of Whitby, there has been some quibble as to its date. The Mail dated its copy of the letter Dec. 9, 1882. Mr. Higgins makes all that he can out of the point that the letter which he lost in the political fray was dated Sept. 9. A gentleman of unquestionable veracity, and who is not a party of either faction, assures the world that he saw the original letter the other day, and that it was dated October 9, so that both the Mail and Mr. Higgins must be mistaken, and, as is always the case, the truth lies between the two extremes. The date, however, is not essential. The grievance and the pity is that such a letter should have come from such an author, for such a purpose.—Toronto World.

HOW THEY TOTTER.

THE Ottawa Free Press informs us that Sir Charles Tupper has left the Dominion Cabinet because it is "tottering." As the last vote of the House of Commons on his railway policy gave Sir Charles Tupper a majority of 93, nearly a score of Mr. Blake's supporters voting against him and for the development of the country, we can only conclude that tottering is a symptom of excessive strength.

NO SIGN OF FREE TRADE.

THE very summary defeat of the Morrison Tariff Bill in the United States House of Representatives shows that our neighbours are no more ready to adopt free trade than we are in Canada. The rejected measure, though making some reduction of duties, would still have left the tariff higher than that of our Dominion, and yet it went too far for public opinion, as expressed through the chosen representatives of the people. Our theoretic freetraders, who have claimed that the great Democratic party is also in favor of free trade, have had this comforting persuasion taken from them, since this refusal even to modify the enormously high tariff of the United States was voted by a House in which the Democrats have the majority.

A GOOD ILLUSTRATION.

THE fact that the annual report of the Inspector of Division Courts for the year 1882 has only been distributed since the prorogation of the Legislature, and was only put in the printer's hands subsequent to the 1st of January, 1884, affords a striking, but not too overdrawn, illustration of the manner in which the Mowat Government keeps back returns, the value of which depends upon their early presentation to the public.

In the present instance the return only extends to a pamphlet of 74 pages, and is the sole production of an Inspector drawing a salary of $1,400, with an allowance of $400 for travelling expenses, and a clerk at $800 per annum. Instead of reaching the public in April, 1884, there is nothing, were ordinary diligence and forethought exercised, to prevent these reports being laid before the public when they would be of some value, if they are worth publishing at all, that in the April following the year to which they relate, and twelve months earlier than the present report.

THE HON. EDWARD BLAKE.

The following letter appears in the Montreal Witness, a Reform journal :—

"SIR,—Twenty years ago the Witness was considered to be a truly independent paper, politically speaking, but of late years it has radically changed, and is at present a purely Reform journal, and at some times very unfair against the Conservative party. I have been a reader of the Witness for over thirty years, and since I have stuck to you so long I want you to publish my letter. Most of my life has been spent as a supporter of the Reform party, but since the introduction of the National Policy I have supported the National Policy party, who are doing all that is possible to be done for Canada's good and prosperity. I consider the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie a gentleman of honor, but he failed as a statesman. As for the Hon. E. Blake he is neither a gentleman nor a statesman, and to-day has lost the confidence of all intelligent Reformers in Canada, and as a leader of the Federal Opposition, is the strongest plank in Sir John Macdonald's platform ! And next in order, what has he done? Why he acted the part of a traitor in destroying the government of John Sandfield Macdonald in Ontario, after which he entered our Federal Parliament at Ottawa, and as "Liberal" in your issue of 9th of April says, he acted double-dealing toward the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, and in fact he is a double dealer in all his actions, abusing during the present session Sir J. Macdonald for wasting and paying away too much money on Pacific railway construction, and finding all possible fault with the cost per mile, and before Sir John took up the road to build Mr. Blake stated, on the floor of Parliament, that after he and Sir Richard Cartwright had carefully counted the cost of the road from Callendar to Port Moody to be $120,000,000, without any branches or sidings, yet Sir John has covered this road, and in addition several hundred miles of branch roads, for less than $55,000,000. Again the Hon. Edward Blake says the road to be built for less than his figures would be so poor it would be more like a tramway than a railway, but Mr. Sandford Fleming declares it to be the best built road on the continent. Again, when Sir John entered into contract with the Syndicate, and bargained away 25,000,000 acres of land, our same Hon. Mr. Blake stated, on the floor of Parliament, that the Syndicate would hold said lands at $5 an acre, and would have the effect of destroying immigration to that country, but lo, behold! when the Syndicate offer the same lands for settlement, instead of charging $ 5 an acre, they offer them at $2.50, and after three years of settling duties are done half of same $2.50 will be paid back to the settler. This getting to the knowledge of the Hon. Edward Blake he again, on the same floor of Parliament, declares the Syndicate are selling the land too cheap, and at such low figures it will encourage land sharks to come in and buy up the whole county, and so spoil forever the settlement. Now, after such a course and such conduct, who can pay an iota of respect to any specimen of humanity who will so sell himself and his principles and dispute his own words almost every time he opens his mouth to speak.

JAMES MCCLIVE.

Garrison Road, Ont.

AN AGE OF DISCOVERY.

The age in which we live is an age of invention and discovery. Nearly four hundred years have passed since Columbus discovered America; but it was only the other day that Edward Blake discovered how he loved the Quebec Bleus and hated Freemasons. Living men can remember when the electric telegraph was discovered; and since then the telephone, the sewing machine, the sources of the Congo, and the Algoma frauds have been discovered. In the early part of the session Mr. Mowat discovered that a number of his supporters had agreed to vote against him. Soon after Lynch was discovered. He was discovered about the time the Globe discovered that no case of conspiracy could be made out unless money actually passed. The money having passed from Lynch to another patriot, that actor in the scene disappeared, and has not yet been discovered. Mr. Fraser discovered the Round Robin about that time; but he is a much abler discoverer than anybody else; it has never been discovered since. Soon afterward—on the 25th of March—the Globe discovered that "the word 'dynamiter' has done yeoman service for some time past." And now the dynamite itself has been discovered. Wonderful series of discoveries! It may be suggested that the word discovery is not the proper one to be applied to the telephone, the telegraph, and so on. Perhaps not. The men who discovered these great improvements in art and science invented them. They wrought out their discoveries by patient labour aiding patient thought. For the most part the inventions were wrought out just when the world was ready for them—by men who had something to gain by the discoveries. Well, the Toronto discoveries were made just in the nick of time. The first was made by men who profited by the discovery; and an attempt has been made—we must be permitted to say an attempt as scoundrelly, as cowardly, as sneaking, and as dirty as any we ever saw in the columns of the Globe—and that is saying a good deal—to turn this wretched dynamite business into political capital—to pretend that Messrs. Bunting, Meek, Wilkinson, and Kirkland put, or had put, these cartridges half way into the ventilator holes of the Parliament building, where they were morally certain to be found, and strewd bits of fuse on the grass in front, where their finding was certain.

It has been suggested that possibly the cartridges were shams—that they contained no dynamite. We venture an opinion that the cartridges which will be opened and examined do contain dynamite. Whether those found by Willie McDonnell did or did not contain it is another question. It might have been thought dangerous to allow a boy of twelve to handle real cartridges, loaded and capped, for fear of accidents.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE QUEEN AND THE NATION.

The following is the text of Her Majesty's letter published in the London Times after the death of Prince Leopold :—

"WINDSOR CASTLE, April 14, 1884.

"I have on several previous occasions given personal expression to my deep sense of the loving sympathy and loyalty of my subjects in all parts of my Empire. I wish, therefore, in my present grievous bereavement, to thank them most warmly for the most gratifying manner in which they have shown, not only their sympathy with me, and my dear, so deeply afflicted daughter-in-law, and my other children, but also their high apreciation of my beloved son's great qualities of head and heart, and the loss he is to the country and to me.

"The affectionate sympathy of my loyal people, which has never failed me in weal or woe, is very soothing to my heart. Though much shaken and sorely afflicted by the many sorrows and trials which have fallen upon me during these past years, I will not lose courage, and with the help of Him who has never forsaken me, will strive to labor on for the sake of my children and for the good of the country I love so well, as long as I can.

"My dear daughter-in-law, the Duchess of Albany, who bears her terrible misfortune with the most admirable, touching, and unmurmuring resignation to the will of God, is also deeply gratified by the universal sympathy and kind feeling evinced towards her.

"I would wish, in conclusion, to express my gratitude to all other countries for their sympathy, above all to the neighbouring one, where my beloved son breathed his last, and for the great respect and kindness shown on that mournful occasion.

"VICTORIA R. & I."

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

CHEESE.

The Montreal Gazette of May 7th says:—A good enquiry existed for new cheese to-day, and sales of several lots were made at 11½c. to 12c. A lot of 300 boxes of Allan Grove was sold to arrive at 12c. Sales of about 1,000 boxes were reported her and in the country to-day. In the Belleville and Brockville districts, sales occurred at 11c. to 11½c. About six or seven hundred boxes have just arrived. The cable was unchanged at 68s., but in New York the cable to the Mercantile Exchange quoted choice cheese at 69s.

CORN VIA MIDLAND.

The schooner F. N. Knapp was chartered in Chicago on Saturday to carry 25,000 bush. corn to Midland at 1½c., and the Floretta to take 24,000 bush. oats to Sarnia on p. t.

A Model to Party Papers.

The PETERBORO' WEEKLY REVIEW, always a first-class paper, has been enlarged and greatly improved. It has now probably the best equipped country printing office in the Province, and the paper is worth double the amount of its subscription price to the reader. The tone of the REVIEW is a model to all party papers, and while its opponents may not agree with its conclusions they must respect its ability and fairness. It is a strong paper for our side, and often worsts our greatest newspaper antagonist, the Globe, in discussion. The people of Peterborough should reward such decided enterprise as is shown by our contemporary, and they may rest assured that they will only be gainers by so doing.—Meaford Mirror.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CURRENT PUBLIC SENTIMENT CULLED FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

IMPORTED GOODS CROWDED OUT.

"Imported tweeds, hosiery, etc., are being gradually crowded out of this market by the excellence of our Canadian manufactured goods. All our leading houses now carry full lines of native goods."—Toronto World (Ind. Ref.)

A BURDEN INCIDENT.

While the provincial authorities are clamoring for more power, to have placed in their hands more and more opportunities to arrange themselves in hostile attitude to the Dominion Government, they should be reminded that if they are to enjoy the supreme power they should at least be prepared to bear the burden of taxation incident to it.—London Free Press.

TO SHARE THE PLUNDER.

Mr. Blake did not argue against the distribution on the ground that the whole principle involved was wrong. But when he came to formulate his objections to the subsidy in the shape of a resolution he said nothing about the principle being bad, but based his opposition entirely on the fact that Ontario did not get a fair share of the plunder.—Toronto News (Ind.)

MR. COLLIN'S CRITIC,

"Here we are again !" might have prefaced the critique in yesterday's Globe upon Mr. J. E. Collins and his literary style. Throughout the article the constant reader of our big contemporary cannot fail to recognize the same old sarcasms by the same old jester, which have been made to fit all manner of people, from tory politicans to heterodox preachers, any time this fifteen years past.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

A DIABOLICAL INSINUATION.

The Globe's diabolical insinuation, that the dynamite affair was planned by Conservatives for the purpose of murdering the Speaker and destroying evidence in the conspiracy case, has found no encouragement even from its friends. Such rabid sheets as the Ottawa and Hamilton Grit organs speak of it as "idiotic" and "ridiculous."—Toronto Mail.

A SESSION OF INTRIGUE.

A session of intrigue ! Yes, assuredly so. But by whom? Who but the Grit party led by Mr. Blake? Did he not make herculean efforts to secure the Bleu vote? And did not the Toronto Globe, the leading organ of the party, make overtures in the same direction—all of which attempts to turn the French Conservatives from their allegiance to Sir John failed most signally! This is a tender subject with Mr. Blake, and our Grit contemporaries should not thus lacerate his feelings by recalling it.—Winnipeg Times.

A FALSE WITNESS.

So dead to historic memories of canoeing in their own country are Canadians that there is only one canoe club, the Toronto, in the country.—Montreal Witness.

LATE ROGUERY.

The Algoma and Muskoka whitewash bill was not introduced until the 21st of March—after the hubbub about the "bribery conspiracy,"—just three days before the last working day of the session; nay, more—the clause relieving Dowling et al. from prosecution before the courts, was not proposed till the early morning of the very day the House prorogued.—Newmarket Era (Indep. Lib.)

PARTIAL CENSORS.

People who speak of the sensationalism of the press do so without thought. The most sensational paper will suppress matter that is freely talked of in the street. In New York recently, a court case was tried in the course of which it transpired that a member of a swell club had used the name of a lady in a reprehensible manner, and had spoken of her in language that no newspaper would print, nor did any paper publish the name of the lady though it was well known and in everybody's mouth on the streets and in the clubs and hotels. This is but one of many instances in which it has been proved that the press takes a loftier moral ground than the majority of its censors.—London Advertiser.

NOTHING LOST.

We are not aware that any province has suffered loss either of dignity of status, or of money by the application of a uniform Dominion law to the regulation of railways, whether they be of a national or a local character. The Dominion Government has become possessed of no property, asset or security by the extension of the Consolidated Railway Act to all lines in Canada, and the provinces have lost nothing.—Montreal Gazette.

CHICAGO GAMBLING REBTKED.

The Chicago corner in wheat was in many ways mischievous. Railroads and steamships were deprived of legitimate business. If the 24 or 25 million bushels of grain which it is said were held back had been sent forward the railroads would have done a better business, many steamships which were forced to sail in ballast would have done a fair business, the speculators themselves would have avoided loss, and the world generally would have been better off.—Toronto Globe.

Miss Fortescue.

Miss Fortescue, or, as her real name is, Miss Finney, the actress whose suit of breach of promise of marriage against Lord Garmoyle is now making so great a stir in London, is said to be a young woman endowed with very many personal attractions. Viscount Garmoyle was introduced to her by a brother of Mr. Oscar Wilde's at one of Lady Wilde's "afternoons," if we are not mistaken. Miss Fortescue is at present acting Dorothy in W. S. Gilbert's "Dan'l Druce" at the Court Theatre, London, at a salary of fifteen pounds a week. Her admirers are numerous, for not only has she captivated many susceptible hearts—amongst others that of Mr. Harry Quilter, the art critic—but also gathers about her a coterie of admirers whose adulation is extended to her talents as an actress. At Miss Fortescue's first appearance at the Court theatre a large number of the best known litterateurs and leaders of fashion gave her a most cordial reception.

The Wonderful Power

of Shaker Blood Syrup, in eradicting every form of Scrofula, has been so clearly and fully demonstrated, that it leaves no shadow of doubt about it being the greatest medical discovery of this generation.

The Housewife.

A popular domestic journal for American homes, will be sent for one year free to every lady who will send at once the names and address of 10 married ladies, and 50 cents (no stamps taken). Best paper for either young or old housekeepers in existence. This offer is made only to secure names to whom to send sample copies, as we know every lady who once sees THE HOUSEWIFE will subscribe for it at once. Regular price $1 per year. Address, the HOUSEWIFE, Rochester, N. Y.

IT IS NATURAL.—It is natural for some people to be bilious, being often a result of peculiar bilious temperment, which with high living, too greecy food, indigestion from inactive liver, is the frequent cause. The remedy above all others, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It is highly curative for all biliary complaints, and far better than physic for inactive conditions of the bowels.

A BAD CASE OF STARVATION.—To starve the lungs by a lack of vital food contained in pure air. If the lungs are obstructed by colds, remove the accumulated phlegm with the safe and pleasant throat and lung remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25 cts.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of everysymptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

DO YOU FEEL PLAYED OUT?—If so, try a bottle of Golden Fruit Bitters. It is a simple tonic, pleasant to take, and will make you feel like a "new man." Sold by all druggists.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—One of the most successful examinations which has ever taken place in this part was witnessed by the many guests who attended the examination held in the school house of S. S. No. 2, Ennismore, on April 30th. The school-room was beautifully decorated. On each side wreaths of evergreen were hung on the wall over the windows, coming down in a graceful curve between them. A wreath was fastened around the door casing. At either end of the teacher's desk a tree was placed. The trees and wreaths were nicely decorated with rosettes of all colours. A large and beautiful motto "Welcome," made out of red and green tissue paper, hung between the two trees, while on the walls on either side were the two very appropriate mottoes, "Time Flies," and "Knowledge is Power," made out of pink and yellow tissue paper respectively. Pink curtains which glistened with numerous silver stars, were hung over the blackboards at the front end of the room. Between 200 and 300 specimens of penmanship were suspended on strings running in different directions through the room, and high enough up, so as not to come in contact with the heads of the visitors while passing and repassing beneath them. The specimens were of various colors, shapes, and sizes, and the writing was well done. On the whole the decoration was such as would please the most aesthetic personage in the land. The examination commenced at 1.30 o'clock. The pupils were examined by Mr. Stephen Callaghan, their teacher, and Mr. Thomas Cahill, teacher at the King's Wharf, Emily, in reading, spelling, arithmetic, geography and grammar, and acquitted themselves creditably in all. The work of examination was interspersed with recitations, dialogues and singing, effectively rendered by the pupils. Among the many visitors were Rev. Father Keilty, Miss McCann, teacher, Mr. P. Galvin and Mr. Cahill, who, as before stated, acted as chief examiner. As Rev. Father Keilty wished to make a call on Rev. Father Connolly, of Emily that evening, he left before the examination was over. Before leaving, however, he made a few brief but pointed remarks. He regretted leaving so soon, expressed himself highly pleased with the creditable manner in which pupils had aquitted themselves, and wound up by saying that the parents deserved credit for the way their children were dressed, that the pupils deserved great credit, and that the teacher deserved very great credit; and this he endeavoured to impress upon the minds of those present by repeating a second time. At the close of the examination short addresses were made by the teachers, Messrs. Cahill and Galvin The teacher said he was thankful to those who attended his examination, and particularly Father Keilty, who had favored them with a few hours of his precious time, and those from a distance. He was glad to see so many of the parents. This he said, showed that they manifested an interest in the work that was being done there. Mr. Cahill in his remarks praised the artistic manner in which the room was decorated, commanded the pupils for their ability and exorted them to continue on in their present course. He referred them to the brief but true motto on the wall—"Time Flies," and told them they should make the best possible use of their time, saying if they did their part, he felt assured that their teacher would do his. The venerable Mr. Galvin (who, by the way, is the oldest inhabitant of Ennismore) in his jocular way said, that he never thought he would live to see so many children. He praised the teacher for his energy, the children for their cleverness, and with regard to the decoration never before had he seen in a school-room anything to equal it. After the remarks by Mr. Galvin, the pupils and visitors, by order of the teacher helped themselves to the specimens. Then after the visitors, had shaking hands with the teacher and congratulating him on the success of his examination, all returned to their homes well satisfied with having spent so pleasant an afternoon

HASTINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE SCOTT ACT.—Meetings are being held in favour of the Scott Act. It is not our desire to enter into a dissertation on temperance or prohibition. The Scott Act, if carried, would throw the liquor traffic into channels little thought of, and the municipalities will find that while being so much the poorer by the amount of licenses, that the Act will, like many another, live only on the statute book.

FISH RUNNING.—The seasonable rains of the last few days have changed the remarks about the killing frost into "there's great growth." The Trent still keeps high. Fish are running and many a longing one would like a chance at spearing a longe—"letting I dare not wait upon, I would like the cat i' the adage."

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. Wm. Stewart is making preparations for building alongside the Montreal House. It is his intention to open up a flour and feed store. Mr. P. Brennan is further embellishing his fine new hotel by erecting a handsome verandah, over which, boldly in relief, will be the name, Royal Hotel, that being the name of the one he occupied for many years until the fire swept it away.

LACROSSE CLUB ORGANIZED.—The young men of this place seem to be going in strongly for lacrosse. They use to support a cricket club, but it is voted too slow for young blood, and not enough give and take about it. In lacrosse they get their innings and shinnings at at the same time.

HEAVY DANCERS.—Two young men, jovial and pleasant, one from the west and the other from Belleville, being on a temporary sojourn in this classic burgh, were invited to Prof. Raymonds' dancing class, their combined avirdupois being 445 lbs., were prohibited by the Prof. from dancing in the same quadrille, as fears were entertained as to the safety of the dancing hall in the third flat of Mr. Fife's building. The young gents in question dubbed each the "Baby Elephant," and good naturedly acceded to the arrangement.

MORE ABOUT SHOOTING.—That proposal from Keene of a $25 prize, to be shot for by 5 members from each Company of the 57th Bat. is meeting with favor. No. 6 hopes it will be carried out. Sorry about the error in the Keene score, the totals were right.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SUPPOSED DROWING.—Charlie Ellis, an old man of 60, left Keene on Thursday last with some seed grain for Rock Island, where he lived. He has been missing ever since, and on Monday his boat was found on one of the islands broken to pieces. So far there is no trace of his body. The lake has been very rough for the last two weeks.

TEMPERANCE.—The Lodge in Lang is to be instituted on Thursday night, May 8th, by the Rev. J. Shaw, P.G.W.C.T., and others. There is likely to be a prohibition wave through Otonabee soon, as the lodge at Mather's Corners is to be revived, and a new one started at Graystock.

STAGE.—Mr. Frost's new stage is a very fine piece of work and was put on the road on Saturday last. It is from the establishment of our genial friend Mr. Thos. Mathers.

REPORTERS.—The reporters are at it yet. One of the Peterborough papers was rather down on the Star reporter. We are to have lively times in the future. Go in and practice writing, but Oh, do give us a rest on the spring poetry.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—Extensive arrangements are being made for the laying of the corner stone by the Masons on the Queen's Birthday. A number of Masons visited Roseneath Lodge, A. F. & A. M., on Tuesday evening last and heard encouraging reports. A grand excursion is coming from Port Hope and Cobourg, and also a large number from Roseneath, Harwood, &c., will join them at Harwood. Many Masons are expected from other places. The M. W. G. M., D. Spry, will arrive via Cobourg. The afternoon train will, it is likely, be delayed in Peterborough until after the ceremony, so that those from the east will have plenty of time in Keene.

RAIN.—There has been a great deal of rain lately, and the trees and grass look very well advanced. The farmers have got their work well under way. The fall wheat, as a rule, looks poorly.

THE BAND CONCERT.—The Band Concert was not as well attended as it should have been. The band should be helped more than it is.

ALLANDALE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NO LICENSE.—The License Commissioners having granted no license for this village or locality, and as we have a lodge of Good Templers in our midst, we hope to see, even a better state of affairs in the future than in the past. So mote it be.

INCRESING BUSINESS AND ENLARGED REVIEW.—Miss Mary Short, who has charge of the Post Office in this village, is about to remove to a more suitable building which is now being prepared for her reception by Mr. James Shearer. Owing to an increase of business and a large quantity of mail matter, the present premises are not large enough. May the REVIEW maintain the lead to enlighten, and instruct, and its members never grow less.

AGRICULTURAL.—The farmers in this section of country are well advanced in their spring's work. The fall wheat looks well and farmers speak hopefully of a good yield.

QUARTERLY SERVICES.—The quarterly services, in connection with the C. M. Church were held at Keene on Sunday 14th. inst. An instructive and pratical sermon was preached by the Rev. R. Large of Brampton, after which sacramental services were held by the Rev. J. Tozeland, pastor, assisted by the Rev. R. Large. A financial meeting was held on Monday the 5th. Inst. when all claims were met and provided for. The pastor has labored faithfully and and earnestly during the past year, and been successful in the work of the church. We hope to see him with us another year.

BOBCAYGEON.

OUR LAKES.—The Trent Valley Navigation Company intend giving facilities to Toronto people coming down on Saturday and returning on Monday. This will be convenient for business men who can send their families here for a few week's healthful recreation. What the railway should do now is to give a cheap fare from Toronto on Saturdays.

CHEESE.—The cheese factory has been fitted up, and has received a new boiler. Mr. Wilson again takes charge, and the farmers have commenced to bring in the milk. The patronage of the factory will be much increased, as it is found by the farmers to be so much more profitable and advantageous than making and peddling butter. So far the factory has been entirely a success, and the prospects for the future are even better than anything in the past.

CRICKET.—A well attended meeting of the Cricket Club was held at the Forest House recently. The Club is in a good condition, having a small balance on hand. The following officers were elected for the year:—M. Boyd, President; E. Bottum, Vice-President; M. Lane, Captain; A. Bottum, Sec.-Treas.; Committee, Messrs. J. T. Robinson, C. Atthill, F. Read and J. McDermott. It was arranged that in the absence of the captain Mr. F. Read would take command. The grounds are being prepared, and the buildings put in order. The Club opens the season with hopeful enthusiasm.—Independent.

MARQUIS TSENG is busily engaged in Paris setting the affairs of the Chinese Embassy in order previous to handing them over to his successor, Li Fong Pao, late Chinese Minister at Berlin. AFTER years of patient research and unremitting toil, Dr. Van Buren discovered in a little plant, growing on the hill-sides of his native land, medical virtues of a most positive kind. ## LOCAL NEWS

The City Band.

The City Band will come out on May 24th in a new and nobby uniform. The caps have arrived, surmounted by a handsome plume, and the uniforms are being made.

Lacrosse.

The Lacrosse Club have received offers from the Acme Club, of Toronto, and the Barrie Club, to play a match with them on the Queen's Birthday. The messages have not been considered yet, on account of the doubt as to whether the celebration will be held on Saturday or Monday.

Appealed.

The case of Beavis v. Brundrett, which was tried in the Police Court, has been appealed. The case was brought against Mr. Brundrett, as station agent, for obstructing Bethune street by allowing cars to stand on the siding that runs beside Mr. Beavis' storehouse, and he was fined $40. An appeal was entered on Tuesday.

A Glass "Fish Pond."

Warm weather having again made its appearance, Mr. A. D. Faucher has had the managerie in the window of his restaurant renewed, with new features added. Among the animals it contains are trout, turtles, numerous minnows, &c. The water is supplied from the waterworks It is a very neat and attractive arrangement.

A Handsome Tricycle.

Mr. W. F. Kingan received to-day a very handsome tricycle, the first introduced here. It is a fine large machine, furnished with lanterns, breaks and "all the modern improvements." Its seating capacity is two, and, judging from the size of the wheels and and the ease with which it can be run, good speed could be made with it.

The Effect of Smoke.

A little excitement was caused this morning by smoke issuing thickly out of Miss Jenkins' fancy store. The matter was not serious, in one way at least, as the fire was in the stove. On Wednesday evening the chimney had been on fire, and the means taken to extinguish it is supposed to have moved down the soot and blocked the passage in the pipes. At any rate Miss Jenkins' store was full of smoke this morning from the coal stove. The flues were cleaned and the smoke soon disappeared, but some of the goods in the store were considerably damaged.

Vandalism.

Some senseless person, under the cover of darkness (the time when most mean and dastardly acts are done), scratched six plate glass windows on George street, between Hunter and Brock streets, with a diamond or some hard and sharp instrument. On some of them the line is drawn across the full width of the glass, while on others the mark is shorter, and on one a small cross or × was cut in the glass. It is too bad that the efforts of property owners and business men to improve their premises should be thus retarded by such stupid acts, and if the individual that did it is discovered it is to be hoped that he will receive the punishment he richly deserves.

Personal.

Mr. Porteous evidently made a good impression in Port Hope. The Times in its notice of the proceedings on Monday evening in connection with the Methodist anniversarys, says:

"Mr. Porteous is a young man of superior vocal powers, and will no doubt yet rise to eminence in his profession. He possesses a fine tenor voice of great volubility, which he displayed to good advantage in the choruses on Monday evening. He has made a good impression upon the people, at whose hands he will always meet with favor."

Among those registered at the Oriental Hotel are Messrs. S. F. Dundas, M.P., Lindsay; R. Jaffray, J. D. Edgar, and W. Gooderham, Toronto; Thos. Kelso, Belleville, and F. W. Henshaw, Montreal.

Mr. Hugh O'Leary, of Lindsay is registered at the Grand Central Hotel.

We learn from the Globe that Mr. Mowat has at last plucked up courage to name the Commissioners to enquire into the bribery conspiracy. They are Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot, Judge Scott, of Brampton, and Judge Senkler, of St. Catharines,

ANSWER TO "SPORT"

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir:—For the information of the gentleman that signs himself Sport in your last issue, I will say that if he signs his proper signature, I will comply with his wish, and bet $50 to $25 as often as he or his friends like, that I can defeat him or any man in the world throwing the heavy stone, heavy weight and caber.

Yours, etc.,
E. W. JOHNSTON

THE CELEBRATION.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—As there are two petitions in circulation, one asking to have the Queen's Birthday celebration held on the 26th, and the other in opposition to that request, I desire to say, that as I have announced the sports to take place on Saturday, the 24th, and have made all my arrangements for that day, it would be impossible for me to change the date to the 26th in any event. I hope, therefore, that no change will be made, and that the celebration will be held on the proper statutary holiday.

Yours truly,
E. W. JOHNSTON.

Wonders will Never Cease.

The seven wonders of the world in ancient times were the pyramids of Egypt, the Pharos of Alexandria, the walls and hanging gardens of Babylon, the temple of Diana, the statue of Olympic Jupiter, the Mausoleum of Artemesia, and the Colossus of Rhodes. The wonders of modern times are eight in number. The steam engine, the printing press, the telegraph, the daguereotype, the telephone, the phonograph, the electric light, and the perfect fitting clothing made to order by Andrew McNeil, Tailor and Clothier, George street.

The Queen's Birthday.

We understand that there are two petitions being signed for presentation to the Mayor, one in favor of changing the Queen's Birthday holiday from Saturday, May 24th, to Monday, May 26th, and the other to let it remain as appointed by law. It seems that our leading business firms are divided in opinion as to which would be the more advantageous course, and this being the case we fancy the town authorities will have no difficulty in deciding that it will be better to have things as they are, and to make no change from the legal holiday.

The Alleged Forgery.

The Globe says that Mr. Francis Lewis, who is charged with forgery of a Government bond, was up on remand before the Police Magistrate in Toronto on Wednesday. Dr. McMichael, Q.C., appeared for the defence, and stated that he was obliged to ask for an adjournment of the hearing. And he wished also to make some arrangements for the future, as he was obliged to be out of the city for some days. Mr. Fenton, Crown Attorney, said that it was desirable to have the case settled as far as this Court had to do with it. He thought a prima facie case could be made out from what evidence they could produce now. The only living witness to the issue of the bonds was Sir A. T. Galt, and he was at present somewhere in the North-West Territory. The Court concurred in the view that the case should be disposed of there as early as possible, and the decision was reached that it should be taken up on Thursday, the 8th. The bail bonds were renewed, with a change of sureties. They are now the accused in his own bail of $5,000 as before, and Mr, Robert Jaffray, Toronto, and Mr. James Stevenson, Peterborough, each in $2,500.

BIBLE STORIES

All who have the care and training of children know how fond they are of pictures and how pleased with stories when adapted to their understanding, and there are no stories that charm them more than the wonderful ones of the Bible. The stories of Joseph, Moses, David, Daniel, and Josiah, the Boy King, and the best of all of Jesus and His disciples, properly illustrated with suitable engravings, are the delight of childhood. Never before have these stories been told in such a simple, connected, and excellent way as in Charles Foster's Bible Stories, now being published by the World Publishing Co., of Guelph, Ontario. The book contains every story from Genesis to Revelations, illustrated by over 130 engravings, so arranged that the story comes on a page opposite the picture illustrating it, thus making it an object teaching work, and the maps are an additional help. No mother with a family of children can afford to be without this book; to her it is of more value than a whole library of other books; it meets and answers the thousand and one questions the children ask her, and teaches them the best of knowledge.

The following speaks for itself: "The publishers are authorized to use the names of the following clergymen, who cordially recommend the work to those who desire their families to get a clear primary knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures:

Right Rev. Arthur Sweatman. D.D., Lord Bishop of Toronto.

Very Rev. H. J. Grasset, D.D., late Dean of Toronto.

Rev. W. S. Rainsford, B.A., New York, late of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto.

Rev. Alex. Sanson, Rector Trinity Church, Toronto.

Rev. W. Cavan, D.D., Principal Knox College, Toronto.

Rev. W. Gregg, D.D., Professor Church History, Knox College.

Rev. H. M. Parsons, Pastor Knox Church, Toronto.

Rev. A. Sutherland, D.D., Secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society.

Rev. John Potts, D.D., Canada Methodist Church, Montreal.

Rev. J. H. Castle, D.D., Principal Baptist College, Toronto.

Rev. H. D. Power, Pastor Zion Congregational Church, Toronto.

The book is sold only by subscription, those wishing an agency should apply to the publishers.—Guelph Herald.

The Cause of Prince Leopold's Death.

The following is a brief description of the nature of the affection under which the late lamented Prince Leopold laboured, and which was the cause of his death:—The disease named hæmophilia is characterised by hæmorrhages that may either be spontaneous or consequent upon very slight injuries. In either case they are of the most serious nature, sometimes proving quite uncontrollable, or ceasing only on the near approach of death, and not before the patient has lost almost every drop of blood in his body. The affection has long been known to physicians, having been described by the Arabian physician Albucases in the eleventh century. In England and in Germany those who are subject to it are commonly known as "bleeders," large quantities of blood escaping as the result of such trifling injuries as a cut of the finger, a leech bite, or the extraction of a tooth. It is well known to be hereditary, and many cases are reported in which one or more members of successive generations have inherited the remarkable tendency to bleed, which, as a rule, appears to prove fatal before the natural term of life is attained. It is much more common among men than in women, the proportion given by Gintrac being 7 to 1, by Wickham Legg 11 to 1, and by Eichhorst 12·7 to 1; and it is curious that whilst women thus escape themselves they transmit it to their offsprings much more frequently than men. It is far more common in the nations of northern than in those of southern countries. Thus, in 194 cases, 93 occurred in Germany, 46 in England, 20 in France, 15 in North America, 7 in Russia, and the remainder in scattered cases in Switzerland, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium, Denmark and the East Indies. The most frequent seat of the hemorrhage is the nose, then the intestines, and next the pulmonary tracts whilst in particular cases almost every region and orifice of the body has been affected. In these subjects a blow that would by others pass wholly unnoticed leads to the formation of extensive ecchymoses, or to the appearance of large fluctuating tumours, to painful effusion, into the joints, or to intracraneal effusions of blood and a fatal issue.—The Lancet.

Unfounded Jealousy,

The Anglo-Brazilian Times of March 23rd, tells the following sad story:—"The Police corporal Mariano Monterio da Silva, a man quiet and attentive to his duties and tenderly attached to his wife Leocadio Francisca, was on his way through his back garden to his usual parade, when he noticed in the rear of it signs of the recent presence of two persons, and, coupling them with what he considered anxiety on the part of his wife that he should not go late to parade, jealousy awoke within him. As soon as he could, about 6.30 p.m., he hastened home, brooding over his suspicions, and as he entered his lane he saw in the dusk two figures, one of a man, the other of a woman wearing a pink dress such as his wife had on that day. Rushing forward he drove his bayonet seven times into the man and then seeing that the woman had fled in the direction of the house, he pursued her and as he entered his yard he saw his wife hastening forward to meet him. Without hesitation he plunged the bayonet into her again and again until she lay dying on the ground with 18 bayonet stabs, when he proceeded to head quarters and surrendered himself, telling the story of his betrayal and of his revenge. Next day, however, a slave girl came to the police and confessed that it was she who had been holding an interview with her lover, when the corporal, misled by the darkness and his jealousy, had attacked them. Poor Leocadia Francisca had perished innocent, like another Desdemona, the victim of her husband's unreasoning, jealous madness. She died in an hour and the man remained in a perilous state."

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. F. Lewis Found Dead in His Room in Toronto.

A shock was felt in the town on Thursday night when the news was received that Mr. Francis Lewis had died suddenly that afternoon in Toronto.

The case for forgery was set down for that day, and when it was called in the Police Court at one o'clock Mr. Lewis did not appear. The counsel for the defence suggested that the defendant's bail should not be estreated until the following day in order that enquiries might be made. The Magistrate said that he would at once have to sign the form demanding that the bail should be estreated, but that he would delay proceedings in the matter for a day. The form referred to was then signed by the Magistrate, and the case allowed to stand over for a day.

Enquiries were made at the Walker House, and it was ascertained that Mr. Lewis had arrived at that hotel by one of the evening trains and engaged a room. He did not go down to breakfast, and on the door being forced at about 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon he was found lying on the sofa dead. There was a calm and placid expression on his face, death appearing to have been painless and instantaneous. Dr. Cook was summoned and pronounced Mr. Lewis dead.

The prevailing opinion is that the deceased gentleman came to his death from an attack of paralysis, as he had two strokes of paralysis previously, in 1879 and in 1880, and was subject to a repetition of the attack at any time.

THE INQUEST.

An inquest was held to-day, and we learn that the verdict was "death from natural causes," but full particulars had not come when we went to press.

THE S.S. STATE OF FLORIDA

Further Accounts of the Escape of the Passengers—Terrible Struggle for Life.

The Titania, having on board the passengers rescued from the ill-fated vessel State of Florida, arrived at Montreal on Thursday evening. A passenger gave the following account of the disaster:—

On the deck of the steamer all was confusion. The captain came out of his cabin with only his great coat on and gave orders to lower the boats. The crew rushed for the boats, of which there were eight on the davits. The first was lowered about half way to the water, when some one cut the rope in the bow too soon and she turned over, those in her falling into the water. Six of the inmates came up and got on her bottom. Three additional boats were then launched and filled chiefly with the hands on the ship, the passengers seemingly being paralyzed with fear, and not knowing what to do. My informant was the last to leave the ship. Two of the boats were smashed in the collision, and two were left hanging to the davits when my informant pushed off from the vessel, and in a few minutes the hull careened to one side and disappeared amid the terrific cries of those who perished. The six men who were on the keel of the first boat were rescued subsequently by the boat my informant was in. The small number of passengers saved, only ten, as compared with thirty-four of the crew, is accounted for, my informant saying that the former showed no desire to enter the boats unless hustled in, but in reality he declares the captain, who seemed to be paralyzed also, made no effort beyond giving the order to get the boats all launched and his passengers into them.

—"The" Electric Light seems to puzzle some people, especially the "the" part of it. The "behind the age" man blandly asks, "which electric light?" Canada Pacific Traffic Receipts.

The traffic receipts of the Canada Pacific railway for the week ending 30th April were $98,000, being a decrease as compared with the corresponding week of last year of $26,000, although there is an increase of nearly 900 miles in the line.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pain, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Pimples and Blotches.

Call at John McKee's drug store and get a package of McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is composed of vaseline carbolic acid and cerate, and has never failed to remove pimples, blotches, ulcerated sores, rough skin it cures when all others fail. Try it.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nervuline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Poison's Nervuline and test its great power over pain of every description? Poison's Nervuline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

THAT COMMISSION.

Now that Mr. Mowat has been at last goaded by public opinion into nominating the Commission, to which so many weeks ago the Ontario Legislature resolved to entrust the investigation into the alleged corruption of some of its members, we trust that there will be no further delay in probing the matter to its very depth. It is evident that a great wrong has been committed. On the one hand there is the charge that certain persons conspired to induce, by corrupt means, some of the members to forsake their party allegiance for their own personal advantage; and on the other hand there is the still graver charge, that some of the members, with the knowledge and at the instigation of the Ontario Cabinet, conspired to invite and to accept bribes, to approach others with the view of obtaining evidence that would seem to criminate them, and to endeavour by any means to fasten an appearance of complicity upon the Dominion authorities, so that the conspirators might derive an advantage for their party by inducing their political opponents to commit a wrong. Whichever charge proves to be well founded, those who are guilty should be exposed, punished, and should receive that condemnation from public opinion which they would so richly deserve. So alone can our Province at large be purged from this stain upon its good repute, and the blame be confined to those who merit it.

With this end in view no attempt to confine the investigation within certain channels should be tolerated, but the whole iniquity should be laid bare, no matter who may suffer. It is no longer a question of a convenient charge of conspiracy evidently contrived to close the mouths of those who could undoubtedly throw much light upon the peculiar transactions which culminated in the theatrical exhibition in the Legislative Chamber. There should be no attempt countenanced to make party capital, and there should be no screening of the guilty whoever they may be.

Let justice be done.

GEN. GRANT ON ANNEXATION.

His Opinion on the Event—He Considers it a Very Remote Possibility.

NEW YORK, May 7.—In the course of a long conversation to-day with General Grant on the people, politics, and prosperity of this country, he was asked if he regarded the annexation of Canada a likely event in the course of time. To this question General Grant replied:—"If such an event ever does occur it will be in the distant future. I think we have territory enough for all our wants. All that we require is good friends on both sides of us, and we certainly should not desire to annex an unwilling people on either side of our borders.—Mail.

FOREIGN AID FOR GORDON.

It is reported that the King of the Belgians has intimated to Earl Granville his readiness to despatch Stanley to lead an expedition to the highest accessible point of the Congo region, for the purpose of aiding Gordon in his retreat from Khartoum, upon condition that the English Government recognize the International African Association.

RAILWAY FOR THE UPPER NILE.

The Government has sent an order directing that the recommendation of Captain Molyneaux that a railroad be built on the Upper Nile beyond Wadyhalfa be carried out. The construction of seventy miles of the road will be hastened to make it available for the autumn campaign.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The feeling in the stock market to-day was quite feverish and irregular, yet under all a firmness, which was about all that could be looked for after the events of yesterday. Our banks passed the clearing-house, which had much to do with restoring confidence, and this proved that the ugly rumours which prevailed last night were without foundation. The bears raided stocks somewhat late in the day, selling many lines of securities down to the lowest point reached during the recent decline. There was a slight rally at the close, and the condition of the market was ended with some degree of firmness.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING!

PROGRESS OF THE THOMSON-HOUSTON SYSTEM IN CANADA.

Peterborough to be Lighted by the System—A Contract Entered into between the Peterborough and the Royal Electric Companies.

The Peterborough Electric Light Company have not allowed the grass to grow under their feet. They received their charter on Saturday, May 5th, and on Thursday night they had completed arrangements to give Peterborough all the advantages to be obtained from the system of lighting by electricity.

Mr. W. H. Boisfeuillet, the agent, and Mr. H. E. Irvine, one of the managers of the Royal Electric Company, have been here for some days, and they have entered into a contract with the Peterborough Electric Light Company to light the town with their system.

The necessary dynamo machines and lamps to supply seventy-five arc lights have been ordered, and other machines will be added as they are required.

The dynamo machines will be placed, for the present, at least, at Mr. Hazlitt's mill, and the company purpose erecting a building some place on the water power of the Dickson estate for their machines, probably near the Hunter street bridge. To supply the seventy-five lights called for by the contract five miles of copper wire will be required to cover the circuit.

A number of business men have already signified their intention of using the electric lights, some taking one and some two or more.

One dynamo machine capable of producing twenty-five lights will be placed in position at once. The agent of the Royal Company will remain to superintend the full equipment of the lighting station, and the placing of the lamps, and it is expected that the lights will be running and the town will be illuminated with them on May 24th.

The Peterborough Company is organized with a capital of $100,000. The Directorate is composed of men who will push matters energetically, the Directors being Messrs. A. P. Poussette, Thos. G. Hazlitt, Richard Hall, Wm. Davidson, Wm. Walsh, and H. E. Irvine, of the Royal Company.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FALSE ALARMS.

Recently there have been two or three false alarms of fire in Lakefield. It is a very serious matter. People should not give or cause an alarm without being quite sure that there was a real cause for it. In a village like Lakefield it is of the utmost importance that when the bell sounds an alarm of fire the people should turn out to render assistance. Heretofore such has been the case. Nothing can have a worse effect upon people turning out than the frequent ringing of the fire bell when there is no cause of alarm. It is certainly to be hoped that more care and caution will be exercised in future.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Lakefield Village council on Monday evening next, the 12th inst., at 7.30 sharp.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Lakefield School Board will take place on Tuesday evennext, the 13th of May, at 7.30.

ORANGE MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of Young Canadian L.O.L, No. 1386, Will be held in the Orange Hall, Caroline street, Lakefield, Tuesday evening, May 13th, at 8 o'clock.

STEAMER CRUISER.

The Steamer Cruiser began her season's work in earnest last week. The ice being all out of back lakes. This, the favourite steamer on these waters, has been thoroughly over-hauled and repaired. Several important improvements have been added by her owners Messrs. Wright and Eden. The prospects of a good season's work for them are considered excellent. Capt. Eden is very popular with all acquainted with him and no doubt he will gain a large patronage for his right little tight little craft.

TENDERS FOR LUMBER.

It seems that no tenders have so far this year been called for to supply the corporation with plank, etc., for the season. Interested parties have been making enquiries. No doubt tenders will be called for by the Council on Monday evening next at the regular meeting.

BAKERS.

Lakefield is now supplied with the staff of life by two new bakers, Mr. Sellens having bought out Mr. Baptie's business, and Mr. Gillry a bakery and grocery in Mr. McIlmoyl's old stand. Both bakers are doing good work and supplying their patrons with excellent bread.

THE WHEEL.

A FEAT.

The latest from the States says that "A fine specimen of riding was recently shown at Charlotte, N. C. Mr. William Pharr rode one hundred yards on a hand rail at the side of the Carolina Central depot. Had he ran either side he would have fallen at least twelve feet.

ENGLISH WHEELMEN.

At the last meeting of the executive of the National Cyclists' Union, it was decided that the opinion of counsel should be taken as to the remedies open to cyclists and others for compelling various local authorities to keep the highways in repair. This opinion, when obtained, will be published. It was considered that an authoritative statement such as it is proposed to obtain, would be of great assistance to cyclists throughout the country in looking after the road authorities.

At this rate cycling will soon become a really national institution. The public will be only too glad to have such an array of road inspectors as several thousand bicyclists will become.

SYMPATHY WITH CYCLISTS.

A ludicrous little incident occurred in Toronto the other day which well exemplified the sympathy shown by the public towards wheelmen. A rider going leisurely down Yonge street was annoyed by a little urchin running out of a shop and attempting—or pretending to stop the machine by standing directly in the way. At the critical moment both boy and rider turned the same way; result:—a graceful but hasty alight by the cyclist, but a bloody noose to the gamin. The polite and un-wheeled wheelman with some qualms of conscience carried the screaming youth into the house, and in place of the abuse he expected to receive, the parental wrath waxed hot against his sinning son, and certain well-known sharp, quick sounds, followed by "There, that'll teach yer to get in the gen'leman's road agin," issued from an inner room.

THE LADIES' COLUMN.

A WOMAN'S FIRST RIGHT.

Lilian Devereux Blake says a woman's first right is the right to a husband, even if she has to support him.

COMPLIMENTS FROM TENNYSON.

"O miracle of women."

"Woman is not undeveloped man, but diverse."

"The woman's cause is man's; they rise or sink together."

"Were I joined with her,
Then might we live together as one life,
And, reigning with one will in everything,
Have power in this dark land to lighten it,
And power on this dead world to make it live."

"Her office there to rear, to teach,
Becoming, as is meet and fit,
A link among the days, to knit
The generations—each with each."

GIRLS SHOULD LEARN DOMESTIC DUTIES.

A mother has no right to bring up a daughter without teaching her how to keep house; and if she has an intelligent regard for her daughter's happiness, will not do it.

By knowing how to keep house, we do not mean merely knowing how books should be arranged on a centre table, and how to tell servants what is wanted to be done. We mean how to get a breakfast, a dinner, a supper; how to make a bed; how to sweep a room; how to do the thousand and one different things which are requisite to keep a house in order, and to make it pleasant.

A person who does not knew how to do a thing well, does not know how to have it done well. No number of servants make up for the want of knowledge in a mistress.

A family employed a girl to do general housework. She came just at night, and the first thing assigned to her was to wash the supper dishes. She washed them in cold water and without soap.

A gentleman sent home a roasting piece of beef and a quantity of cut porter-house steaks. when he srt down to dinner he learned that the new cook had roasted the stakes!

Yet many a boarding-school miss at the time of her marriage might make either of these mistakes.

Not one woman in a thousand knows how to make bread as good as it can be made. And sour tempers, scoldings, dyspepsia, with its indescribe horrors, and even death itself, not unfrequently result from bad cooking.

Mothers, whatever else you may teach your daughters do not neglect to instruct them in all the mysteries of housekeeping. So shall you put them in the way of good husbands and happy homes.—Ex.

TYPES OF BEAUTY.

For several years, ever since the fancy for "English blondes" of the "variety" type died out, indeed, there has been great rivalry existing between the lovely blonde and darling brunette beauties. The war still wages furiously, and it is hard to tell at the present moment which is to come out victorious, and whether blonde beauties or their darker sisters will lead the fashions this year and which will be the more popular. Genuine blondes and true brunettes are not numerous. A real blonde has light hair, has streaks of gold through it, eyes that look like wild violets, complexion rare and white, with a delicate flush on the cheek, and light eyebrows the color of the hair. True blondes never have dark eyebrows. If a women has all the above requirements that go to make up a blonde, and dark or black eyebrows, her beauty comes under another type known as the "Van Dyke blonde," which is considered by far the most distingue type. Although almost every body knows what is requisite to be a true brunnette, there are still a few who are not ever educated up to it, and who call a woman who has a dark, clear skin, "cheeks like roses, and lips like the cherry," hair purplish black, and dark grey eyes, a brunnette. No woman is a true brunnette who has not very brown or very black eyes. What is known as the "Irish type" of beauty is one of the loveliest. No eye is so blue, so large, so expressive, or so heavily fringed as that of the possessor of this type; no hair is so glossy and dark and heavy; no complexion so rosy and healthful, and to people in general this type is the most bewitching and fascinating. A type of beauty that has had its day, but of which we see representatives occasionally, is what is known as the "strawberry blondes." Brick-red hair, blue eyes, and fair, pink complexion are the accompaniments of this type. The "yellow blondes" is another type which is rapidly going out of fashion, and "yellow blondes" are seldom seen now, except on the stage. The daughters of Spain and Italy are the best examples of the brunette type of beauty; those of England and Germany of the blonde type; those of southern Ireland of the Irish type, and those of Greece of the Van Dyke type.—Federal Australian.

"If Madame Orme, so recently from home, yields readily to the talismanic spell of 'American'—she can perhaps imagine the fascination it exerts over one who for many years has roamed far from his roof-tree, and his hearthstone; but who never more proudly exulted in his nationality than last night,—when as Queen of Tragedy—Madame lent her lustre to the Land that claims the honor of being her birthplace."

"Thanks. Then I may infer you paid me the tribute of your presence last evening?"

They looked across the table, into each other's eyes, hers radiant with a dangerous, steely glitter,—his eloquent with the intense admiration which kindled on the previous evening,—now glowed more fervently from the contemplation of a beauty that to-day appeared ten-fold more irresistible. The question slightly disconcerted him.

"I had the honor of accompanying our Minister, and sharing his box."

"Indeed? I have never had the pleasure of meeting him, and hoped to have seen him to-day, as he fixed this hour for the arrangement of some business details, concerning which I was advised to consult him. One really cannot duly appreciate American liberty until one has been trammelled by foreign formalities and Continental police quibbles."

An incredulous smile, ambushed in his silky moustache, was reflected in his fine eyes, as he recalled the flattering emphasis with which she had certainly singled out his face in that vast auditory,—and thoroughly appreciating his munificent inheritance of good looks, he now imagined he fully interpreted her motive in desiring to ignore the former meeting.

"Doubtless hundreds who shared with me the delight you conferred by your performance last night, would be equally charmed to possess my precious privilege of expressing my unbounded admiration of your genius; but unfortunately the impression prevails that my charming countrywoman sternly interdicts all gentlemen visitors,—denies access even to the most ardent of her worshippers,—and I deem myself the most supremely favored of men in having triumphantly crossed into the enchanted realm of your presence. Of this flattering distinction, I confess I am very proud."

It was a bold challenge, and sincerely he rued his rashness, when raising herself haughtily, she answered in a tone that made his cheeks tingle:

"Unfortunately your countrywoman has not studied human nature so superficially as to fail to comprehend the snares and pitfalls which men's egregious vanity sometimes spring prematurely; and rumour quotes me aright, in proclaiming me a recluse when the curtain falls, and the lights are extinguished. To-day I deviated from my usual custom, in compliment to the representative of my country, who sends you,—so his card reads—'charged with an explanation of his unavoidable absence.' As Minister-extraordinary, may I venture to remind Mr. Laurance of his errand?'

Abashed by the scornful gleam in her keen wide eyes he replied hastily;

"A telegram from Pau summoned him this morning to the bedside of a member of his family, suddenly attacked with dangerous illness, and he desired me to assure you that so soon as he returned he would seize the earliest opportunity of congratulating you upon your brilliant triumph. In the interim he places at your disposal certain printed regulations, which will supply the infomation you desire,—and which you will find in this envelope. May I hope, Madame, that the value of the contents will successfully plead the pardon of the audacious—yet sufficiently rebuked—messenger?" He rose and with a princely bow offered the packet.

Suffering her eyes to follow the motion of his elegantly formed aristocratic hand, now ungloved,—one swift glance showed her that instead of the unpretending slendor gold circlet she had placed on the little finger of his left hand, the day of their marriage,—a ring endeared to her because it had been her Mother's bridal pledge, he now wore a flashing diamond, in a broad and costly setting. Almost unconsciously, her own left hand glided to the violets on her breast,—beneath which, securely fastened by a strong gold chain, she wore the antique cameo ring, with its grinning death's head resting upon her heart.

Slightly inclining her head, she signed to him to place the papers on the table, and when he had resumed his seat she asked:

"How long Mr. Laurance, since you left America?"

"Thirty or fourteen years ago; yet the memories of my home are fresh and fragrant as though I quitted it only yesterday."

"Then happy indeed must have been that hearthstone, whose rose-coloured reminiscences linger so tenderly around your heart, and survive the attrition of a long residence in Paris. Your repertoire of charming memories tempts me almost to the verge of covetousness. In what portion of the United States did you reside?"

My boyhood was spent in one of the middle states, where my estate is located, but my collegiate life removed me to the North, whence I came immediately abroad. My residence in Europe confirms the belief that crossed the Atlantic with me, that in beauty, grace and all the nameless charms that constitute the perfect, peerless, fascinating woman, my own country pre-eminently bears the palm. Broad as is her domain and noble her civil institutions, the crowning glory of America dwells in her lovely and gifted women."

He had never looked handsomer than at that moment, as slightly bending his head in homage his dangerously beautiful eyes rested with an unmistakable expression upon the faultless features before him; and watching him, a cold smile broke up the icy outlines of his companion's delicate lips:

"American beauty might question the sincerity of a champion whose worship is offered only at foreign shrines, and the precious oblation of whose heart is laid on distant and strange altars."

"Ah, madame, neither at foreign shrines, nor strange altars, but ever unwaveringly at the feet of my divine country women. Is it needful that I recross the ocean, to bow before the reigning muse? Is it not conceded that the brightest, loveliest planet in Parisian skies, brought all her splendour from my western home?"

"How you barb with keen regret the mortifying reflection that, I alas! cannot as an American lay claim to a moiety of your chivalric allegiance! Ill-fated Odille Orme!"

The stinging sarcasm in the liquid voice perplexed him, and the strange lambent light that seemed now and then to ray out of the brilliant eyes that had never wandered from his, sent an uncomfortable thrill over him.

"Surely the world cannot have erred, in according to my own country the honor of your nationality?"

"I was born upon a French ship in the middle of the Atlantic ocean."

"Ah, dearest madam! then it is no marvel that as you have inherited the cestus of Aphrodite, your votaries bow as blindly, as helpless as those over whom your ancient Greek mother ruled so despotically. By divine right of birth you should reign as Odille Anadyomene."

"Madame Odille Orme has abjured the pagan æsthetics that seem to trench rather closely upon Mr. Laurance's, ethics, and shed far too rosy an orientalism over his mind and heart; and hopes he will not forget her proud boast that by divine right she wears a dearer, nobler, holier title—Odille Orme, wife and mother."

Bolder libertinism than found shelter in Mr. Laurance's perverted nature, would have cowered before the pure face that now leaned far forward, with dilated scornful eyes which seemed to run like electric rays up and down the secret chambers of his heart.

Involuntarily he shrank back into the depths of his chair, and mutely questioned, as on the previous night, "where have I heard that voice before?"

With some difficulty he recovered himself, and said hastily:

"Will you forgive me if I tell you frankly, that ever since I saw you last night, I have been tantalized by a vague yet very precious consciousness that somewhere you and I have met before? When or where I cannot conjecture, but of one thing I am painfully certain, we can never be strangers henceforth. Some charm in your voice, in the expression of your eyes—when as 'Amy Robsart,' the loving woman, you looked so fondly into your 'Leicester's' face, awoke dim memories that will never sleep again. Happy, enviable indeed—that Leicester who really rules the empire of your love."

It differs from all others in having the sectional stock or head, with its many advantages, and its firm and durable means of holding the attachments. The intermittent or detachable packing is only used in actual forcing, and it is at all other times (say 95 per cent. of the serv of the pump), unfreezable and unwearable.

THE HOSE C UPLING

is very convenient and effective. It can e adjusted in a few seconds, thus quickly changing an ordinary service pump to a Force Pump.

The great advantage to the purchase is that he possesses a first-class Lift Pump and a good Force pump in one, for the same price as is often asked for an ordinary pump.

All orders promptly attended to, by mail or otherwise, and repairing done on the shortest notice.

We, the undersigned, having exam d Mr. H. Owens' New Model Force Pump, take pleasure in stating that we cons r it a great improvement on pumps formerly in use. ### THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE COMPANY.

The Report of the Directors—The Grand Trunk Agreement—Votes of Thanks—Mr. Joseph Hickson Elected President.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Midland Railway of Canada was held on Thursday afternoon in the company's room in Mr. Cox's block. There were present, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President, Mr. W. Gooderham, Vice-President, and Messrs. H. P. Dwight and R. Jaffray, Toronto; Thos. Kelso, Belleville; J. M. Ferris, M.P.P., Campbellford; J. R. Dundas, M.P., and H. O'Leary, Lindsay; F. W. Henshaw, Montreal; E. S. Vinden, Port Hope; W. Cluxton, Peterborough; John Bell, Q.C., solicitor for the G. T. R. Belleville; A. White, Manager of the Midland Division; H. Reid, Secretary Midland Co.; J. G. Machlin, Chief Engineer, and Mr. J. Davis Barnett, Mechanical Superintendent.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The PRESIDENT, after routine, read the following annual report of the Directors:—

To the Proprietors of the Midland Railway of Canada:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Directors in submitting their report for the year ending 31st December, 1883 with the customary accounts and Auditor's certificates attached thereto, have again the pleasure of reporting an increase of $39,244.49 over the earnings of the previous year, and this amount would have been very largely increased if the Company had been in a position to handle the traffic offering; but the exceptionally severe weather experienced during the months of January, February and March, seriously interrupted business during that time, and directly and indirectly affected the earnings of the year to the extent of not less than $150,000.

The benefits accruing from the construction of the new lines connecting the Nipissing, Whitby and Midland Divisions were not fully realized until much later in the year than was at first anticipated, in consequence of the failure of the contractors to complete their work within the time agreed upon.

I was also necessary to employ a considerable proportion of the Company's rolling stock for some months in the ballasting and completion of these works, and the change of guage on the Nipissing Division, that would otherwise have been employed in the movement of traffic, which had to be held over from inability to move it.

The increase that we are able to report, in the face of these and other untoward circumstances, now happily at an end, afford every reason to hope that the largely increased earnings and more economical working, which it was expect would result from the union of the various lines now forming the Midland system, will be very fully realized.

The gross earnings for the year were $1,106,729.92, as against $1,067,485.43, for the previous year. The working expenses for the same period were $713,940.39, or 64.44 per cent. on the gross receipts.

The net revenue for the period under review was $393,589.53 and has been appropriated per Net Revenue Statement, Number 5, submitted herewith.

The very gratifying increase of $114,741.32 in the passenger receipts alone, as compared with the year previous to consolidation, very clearly indicates the more satisfactory service rendered by the consolidated Company, as well as the rapid development of the country that it serves.

It will be observed by reference to the report of the Chief Engineer, that while fully maintaining the line in an efficient state of repair, that no less than five miles of new siding accomodation, one new engine house, four new stations and four trackmen's dwelling houses, have been added to the property during the year. It will also be seen by reference to the Mechanical Superintendent's report, that very considerable additions of new rolling stock, have been added to the equipment of the Company—in short, a great deal has been done during the year in providing better facilities for the proper movement of the constantly increasing traffic of the line.

The agreement entered into with the Grand Trunk Railway Company, on the 22nd day of September, 1883, and ratified by a Special General Meeting of the Shareholders, on the 11th of December, was the natural outcome of the consolidation of the various lines now forming the Midland system, and is unmistakably in the interest, not only of both contracting parties, but of the entire community served by the consolidated lines.

To the Grand Trunk Railway Company it gives exclusive control of, and direct access to, a very large and important section of Ontario, abounding in agricultural, forest and mineral resources, more susceptible of and more rapidly developing than, perhaps, any other portion of Canada, and thus affords one of the most important feeders to the main line of the Grand Trunk system between Chicago and Portland.

The Midland system (by the completion of the Omemee and Peterborough line) also affords to the Grand Trunk Company, without exception, the shortest and best route between the Georgian Bay and the Atlantic coast.

To the proprietors of the Midland Railway, it at once affords to their securities, the safety and protection from competition that could only be secured by casting in their lot with a large and wealthy corporation like the Grand Trunk Company, and must of necessity result in largely increased earnings, more economy in working, and more efficient maintenance of the property.

The grain dealer, lumber merchant, manufacturer, and other shipper, whose success so largely depends on having cheap and efficient means of transport, is by this agreement relieved from the disadvantages incident to being located on a branch line, and practically placed on the main line of one of the most extensive and most ably managed railway systems on the continent, through which access is had to every important business centre in the country.

The favour by which the agreement was received by the investing public was evidenced by the prompt purchase of the consolidated bonds of the Company, that were placed on the market to retire the preference bonds of the Midland Division, and to discharge the floating liabilities of the Company.

There have been sold during the year £42?,600 of consolidated mortgage bonds, £71,600 of which were in respect of $350,000 Nipissing bonds, £150,800 in respect of preference bonds of the Midland section, and £200,000 for general purposes. The total issued of the bonds of the consolidated company is now £1,122,400. The result of this sale has been to free the Company from floating debt, carried in some cases at high rates of interest, and to establish a market for its securities.

The Directors have much satisfaction in reporting that during the past year the respective heads of departments, officers, agents and employees have discharged the duties entrusted to them in an efficient and highly satisfactory manner.

On behalf of the Board,

GEO. A. COX,
President.

Mr. Cox said that the report that had just been read, with the annexed statements and certificates, so fully explained the operations of the year that any lengehened remarks on moving the adoption of the report would necessarily be but a repetition of what the report itself contained. There was one subject, however, of special interest to the proprietors which he desired to briefly refer to, and that was the agreement entered into during the past year with the Grand Trunk Railway Company. It was not often that an agreement was consummated so unmistakably in the interest of all the contracting parties. He congratulated the Grand Trunk Company on the acquisition of a property that added so much to the importance and value of their system, and congratulated the proprietors of the Midland Company on the very satisfactory position in which the property and securities of the Company were placed by the arrangement that had been made. He congratulated the various shippers along the line on the more advantageous and satisfactory position in which they would be placed by being in direct connection with such an important and extensive system as the Grand Trunk Railway, and in retiring from the presidency and general management of the line, he was very much gratified to know that the position he had occupied for the last six years would be filled by Mr. Hickson, the general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, a gentleman in whose hands the interests of the Company would be so ably and honorably protected. In conclusion he begged to move the adoption of the report.

Mr. W. GOODERHAM seconded the motion to adopt the report. It was a document of which they had every reason to be proud, and the country had every reason to be pleased with the arrangement. Those holding securitres of the road had, perhaps, the greatest reason to be satisfied. It had been a very great pleasure for him to act with Mr. Cox in the management of the road, and to meet will his fellow directors. He endorsed what Mr. Cox had said in reference to the ability and energy of the officials, and bespoke for the consolidated Midland a grand future.

The motion for the adoption of the report was carried.

THANKS TO THE OFFICERS.

Mr. JNO. BELL, Q.C., moved, seconded by Mr. W. CLUXTON,—That the thanks of this meeting be tendered to the President and the executive officers of the company for the skilful and efficient manner in which they had severally discharged their duties.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

THANKS TO THE DIRECTORS.

Mr. BELL moved, seconded by Mr. CLUXTON, That the shareholders desire to express their thanks to the directors for the skill, labour and attention which they had given in past years to the affairs of the company.—Carried.

Mr. COX responded on behalf of the Directors.

Mr. HENSHAW thought that the resolution might have gone further, as it really did not give Mr. Cox the full praise he deserved for his efforts in bringing the Midland Railway up to its present standard and furthering its prosperity.

Mr. BELL said that the President did not require to be told his feelings regarding that, and to praise Mr. Cox for his management of the road would pe repeating what everybody knew. He heartily endorsed, however, what Mr. Henshaw had said in regard to Mr. Cox's efforts on behalf of the railway.

Mr. JAFFRAY said it was almost unnecessary to speak in Mr. Cox's favor there. They all had a high opinion of his ability and of the energy he had thrown into the management of the affairs of the railway. One strong point in his favor was the popularity with which he had managed the railway and the success he had met with in dealing with the public. The Midland was a difficult system to manage in that regard, and few men would have done it with so little friction and so much satisfaction. However able the management that succeeded, he feared it would never succeed so well with the public. There was, unfortunately, very little community of interest between the public and railways. If there was more it would conduce to the advantage of both. He desired also to return thanks for the vote of thanks to the Directors.

Mr. A. WHITE said that he desired to thank Mr. Cox for the manner in which he had treated the officials. Since he had been connected with railways he had served under twelve managers, and he had never received more courtesy or such kindly thought from any one as he had from Mr. Cox. The directors the officials had received from him were, first, to please the public, and, second, to make returns for the railway company, and he thought that they had been successful in carrying out these directions. In the retirement of Mr. Cox from the management the officers were losing a great friend.

Mr. Cox said that he felt satisfaction in hearing such views from the officers. He had endeavored to manage the railway in the interest of the public, and he was pleased to hear that they considered that he had been successful.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.

Mr. COX said that it was his unpleasant duty to inform them that Mr. Kelso and Mr. Vinden had decided to retire from the Board of Directors. It was a matter for regret that these gentlemen had so decided.

Messrs. A. White and J. G. Macklin were appointed scrutineers, and ballots were cast for the election of Directors. The following were unanimously elected:—

Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, Joseph Hickson, W. Gooderham, J. R. Dundas, M.P., J. D. Edgar, R. Jaffray, J. M. Ferris, M.P.P., F. W. Henshaw, H. P. Dwight and Colonel A. T. H. Williams.

Mr. H. O'Leary, of Lindsay, is appointed by the Council of that Town, and Ald. Steiner, by the City Council of Toronto, to represent those municipalities on the Board.

After the election of Directors the meeting adjourned.

THE OFFICERS.

Immediately after the adjournment of the meeting, the Directors met and elected the following officers:—

PRESIDENT.—Joseph Hickson.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.—Geo. A. Cox and Wm. Gooderham.

The Suspension of the Marine Bank.

NEW YORK, May 7.—James W. Elwell, one of the directors of the Marine Bank, said last evening that he could only account for the suspension on the theory that Fish had lost his head. It was the most astounding piece of foolish timidity he had ever heard of. If he had told the directors of the debt to the clearing-house they would have raised the money in five minutes. Elwell declared every depositor and stockholder would be paid one hundred cents on the dollar. Ambrose Snow said he saw no reason why the bank should close except the uncalled for cowardice of President Fish. The directors do not doubt Fish's honesty.

The Peterborough WEEKLY REVIEW has come to hand in an enlarged form. It is now, we believe, the largest weekly paper published in Ontario outside of the city of Toronto. This improvement denotes prosperity, which we are pleased to notice. The REVIEW has for years stood in the front rank, but it now takes a step in advance, and is equalled but by one or two weekly papers in the province.—Midland Free Press.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we're not just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy should'nt be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

Fragments Picked Up in the Saved Army Battle Ground.

There was a full house at the meeting on Friday night.

The Army appeared to have recuperated during the two days truce, and the attack was vigorous and the firing steady. The exhortations to "my dear friends" were brief but pointed.

Capt. Munt announced that Lieut. Louise Pearse would return to her home in Cobourg on Monday. Her departure will be regretted by the army.

A Salvation Army "advance agent," or newsboy, was present. He was invited to fire a gun, but declined. He says that the Salvation Army do not intend to come here.

Four recruits were won from the ranks of the enemy.

The meetings close now pretty regularly at 9.30 o'clock.

Mr. D. Belleghem has requested us to announce that he has secured the sole agency in the town and county of Peterborough for Geo. Gale & Son's Dominion Wire Spring Mattrass, now so extensively used in other parts of Canada. Mr. A. H. Gale, who has been in town for the last two days, has shown us the following valuable testimonial in favor of the mattrass:—

"ONTARIO ASYLUM FOR THE INSANE,
"KINGSTON, 2nd May, 1881

"I have much pleasure in stating that George Gale and Son furnished 75 iron bedsteads fitted with their Dominion Wire Spring Mattrass for this institution, and I am much pleased with them. Both bedsteads and mattrasses are superior to any we have heretofore had in use and well adapted for our purposes.

The Electric Light.

Mr. Boisfeuillet is meeting with success in introducing the electric light in Peterborough. Already the following have signed a contract for lights:—Messrs. Ormond & Walsh, one light, inside; J. E. McIntyre, Oriental Hotel, one, inside; A. D. Faucher, two, inside; T. H. Darcy, Darcy's hotel, one, inside; W. H. Chamberlain, Chamberlain's hotel, one, inside; Andrew McNeil, one, outside; H. LeBrun, one, outside; M. McFadden, one, outside; T. Dolan & Co., two, inside, and Daly Bros., Grand Central Hotel, one outside. Others who have not yet signed the agreement have signified their intention of taking lights, and the Fire Brigade are negotiating to have the drill shed and grounds lighted by electricity on the night of May 24th.

DEATH OF MR. LEWIS.

The Coroner's Jury Find that he Died from Natural Causes.

From the Toronto papers we learn that an inquest was held in Toronto on Friday to enquire into the death of Mr. Francis Lewis.

John Hewitt, Caroline Gorman and Maria Payne, who were employed at the Walker House gave evidence regarding the finding of Mr. Lewis in his room dead.

DR. CHAS. COOK gave it as his opinion that Mr. Lewis had been dead ten or twelve hours when discovered. There was a bottle in the room that contained a few drops of paregoric. He understood that Mr. Lewis had suffered from paralysis some years ago, and it was probable that trouble had brought on a second attack. He believed death had been caused by paralysis or natural causes.

DR. O'REILLY said that he had known the deceased for many years. He had a stroke of paralysis some years ago, and had been taking medicine almost constantly ever since. He had heard of him having one or two subsequent attacks. He always had medicine about him.

JOHN WRIGHT testified to Mr. Lewis' arrival at the hotel, and Mr. F. Arnoldi, Mr. Lewis' solicitor, said he had known of his having had repeated attacks of disease.

The jury, after two or three minute's deliberation, returned a verdict of "death from natural causes."

Mr. Lewis' body was brought to Peterborough on Friday night and the funeral takes place this afternoon.

THE DOMINION BED.

To the Editor of the Review.

I notice in last evening's REVIEW an article headed "A Comfortable Bed at Last." I simply wish to say that I have been selling the spring bed you allude to for the past eight years, and during that time have kept them in stock continuously, and yet the heading would lead,—and is evidently intended to lead your readers to believe that this is something new, there is half a dozen other spring beds in the market equally good, that cost little more than half the price of the "Dominion Bed." I have had the control of the "Dominion bed" offered to me several times, and did not think it worth even the printer's ink necessary to give it a puff. Thanking you for the space, I am

Sincerely yours,
A. CLEGG.

REVIEWS.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.—The current number of Harper's Young People is certain to be as popular with the young people as any of its predecessors, and in fact it is always welcome. The commencement of the new story "Left Behind, or Ten Days a News-boy" by the author of "Mr. Stubbs' Brother," is amusing, and the tale of how the schoolboy took the baby's photograph will draw a hearty laugh even from older readers. Other tales, verses, puzzles, and above all an abundance of pictures combine to make the wholevery attractive for the juveniles.

Boyd's Sentence.

Joon Boyd, who pleaned guilty to a larceny of a buggy, harness and buffalo robe, was brought before his Honor Judge Dennistoun this afternoon. Messrs. Francis Burnett, Jonothan Solomon and James Boyd testified to the prisoner's good character. The judge said that the offence was a serious one and that people who kept horses and vehicles for hire must be protected. Still he was inclined to think that he would be justified in taking a merciful view of this case, as the prisoner had made restitution and had up to this time been a decent, honorable and honest man. He sentenced him to six months imprisonment in gaol hard labor.

Pencil Points.

—Cool this morning.

—Warm this afternoon.

—Strong winds and sunshine this afternoon.

—Three tramps in the cells last night. They said they came from Toronto.

—There was a "blank record" at the Police Court this morning.

—A band of Italian musicians are in town. They use a harp and a violin.

—Three men were brought from Norwood by Constable Hill and locked up in gaol for fifteen days for drunkenness.

—The Lindsay Post in this week's issue mentions Peterborough 15 times, in two editorial notes and eight local items, besides the usual heading in its district news. It is quite natural for the papers in the small towns around to frequently notice the metropolis of Central Ontario.

GERMAN ANTI-SOCIALIST LAW.

BERLIN, May 9.—In the Reichstag to-day the debate on the anti-Socialist law was resumed. Richter pronounced the law a failure. It had not prevented to blow up the Niederwald monument. Von Puttkamer declared that if the law had not been enacted the omission would have been atoned for in torrents of blood. All those States which do not possess such a law are being undermined by Anarchist ideas. Bismarch defended the bill.

CHURCHILL VS. SALISBURY.

LONDON, May 9.—The political differences between Lord Churchill, Lord Salisbury and Sir Stafford Northcote will likely soon be settled on a friendly basis.

THE WRECK OF THE FLORIDA.

LONDON, May 9.—The Times says a noticeable feature of the loss of the State of Florida was the very large number of the crew as compared with the small number of passengers saved. The panic on board the vessel explains but poorly the great loss of life.

IRISH PRELATES TO GO TO ROME.

DUBLIN, May 9.—The Pope has summoned fifteen of the Irish prelates to come to Rome next October. It is understood that they will then receive personal instruction as to the attitude to be maintained by the Church towards the English.

IRISH EMIGRANTS.

DUBLIN, May 9.—About three hundred emigrants started from Westport, Ireland for Boston to-day.

GORDON AND THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, May 9.—At a crowded influential meeting of patriotic associations in London last night to protest against the abannonment of General Gordon the conduct of the Government was denounced as devoid of principle, moral courage, and statesmanship, and that it would bring down the indignation and reprobation of the whole country. Mr. Henry Chaplin, M.P., described the members of the Government as a cowardly caitiff crew. He offered a resolution declaring that the abandonment of Gordon would dishonour the Goveroment and bring discredit upon the country. Mr. Clarke, M. P., moved that the sacrifice of life in Egypt was due to the want of a resolute policy on the part of the English Government. The motions were carried unanimously.

McKim Wanted for Forgery.

Improvement in Railway Receipts.

The traffic receipts on the Grand Trunk are improving at last, the decrease for the week ending the 3rd inst. as compared with last year being only $28,000, about fifty per cent, less than the week before, or for many weeks past.

A Bonapartist Manifesto.

Prince Jerome, replying to a request of his partisans to explain the position of Prince Victor, says that as Prince Victor has already declared his submission to his father's will it is needless to submit any more questions to him. The question whether France shall be an empire or a Republic is of secondary importance; the people will settle this. A Republic cannot be displeasing to a descendant of the Consul. The name of Napoleon signifies the development of the French revolution, respect for the national sovereignty, love for the people, and a desire to effect social reforms and to deliver the democracy from overweening importance and extravagant expectation. The majority of French newspapers refer to the recent utterances of Prince Jerome in explanation of the position of Prince Victor with contempt. They ridicule his assumption of the role of a "pretender," and do not consider his profession of Republicanism sincere.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

How to Make Candy.

AN UNFOUNDED ATTACK.

UNDER the heading "A Partizan Blunder" the Toronto News, which too often seems to care more about being sensational than being truthful, has the following editorial :—

"The Ontario Government has made a conspicuous blunder in appointing as commissioners to inquire into the conspiracy case three judges of Grit antecedents. It would have looked better had one of the commissioners been a Tory. Even in the electoral commission appointed for the express purpose of counting in Hayes, the Republicans were careful to preserve the appearance of fairness by appointing seven Democrats to eight of their own party. Despite the judicial status of the commissioners, who will no doubt honestly try to do their duty, the exclusively partizan composition of the tribune will detract from the weight of its conclusions."

We must enter our protest against this unfair attack, which has no foundation in fact. The Ontario Government has not appointed as commissioners three judges of "Grit" antecedents, and the tribunal will not be looked upon as partizan, and therefore their conclusions will have weight. Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot, we feel satisfied, will be generally regarded as an impartial and upright judge, and we have no reason to suppose that Judge Senkler will not also do his duty in a satisfactory manner. But as to the other member of the commission we may speak even more strongly. Judge Scott, who ranks as one of the ablest of our county judges, was, like his family, Conservative in politics, and certainly cannot be said to have "Grit antecedents." The brother of the late member for West Peterborough, who did such good service for the Conservative cause till unfortunately his career was prematurely cut short, is hardly likely to be bitterly opposed to the Conservative party, and as a fact his "antecedents" point the other way.

We have no hesitation in pointing out Mr. Mowat's blunders or his partizanship when we believe that the occasion calls for such censure, but we decidedly object to unfounded attacks upon any man, even if he is a political opponent, and an injustice has been done to Mr. Mowat in this instance.

INFORMER McKIM.

One of Mr. Mowat's Spies and Crimps Again in Trouble.

INFORMER MCKIM, the bribed member for Wellington, and the chief of Mr. Mowat's spies and inciters to bribery has been arrested on a charge of forgery on a warrant issued by Mr. Halley, J. P. of Arthur. McKim was in Toronto, but is said to have left for Arthur as soon as he heard of the warrant being issued.

The particulars are as follows according to the Toronto World:

"It appears that the forgery charged consists in the alleged alteration of the date of a promissory note. The note was for $500, and was in the nature of an accommodation by Mr. Michael Gainor, a farmer, to Mr. McKim. Its original date, it is alleged, was July 26, 1883, and this, it is charged, was afterwards changed to August 30. The note was due in three months, but by reason of the alteration, did not mature until five weeks later than the original time. McKim failed in November last, and of course the manipulated note which should have been paid that month was not presented until December 3. The consequence was that Gainor had to meet the bank's demand for payment, having to mortgage his farm to do so. Those who have seen the note assert the alteration is palpable on the surface. On holding the paper up to the light it may be plainly seen that the date has been written over an erasure, rather coarsely executed with a knife. Another important point is that the document is a renewal note. Its predecessor fell due on July 26, the date alleged to have been altered by McKim.

A High Standard.

The Greenock Advertiser is dead. This journal was historically famous for one thing. Campbell sent it his "Pleasures of Hope" when that beautiful poem was recently written, and received an intimation through the columns of the paper that the production "was not up to the standard of the Advertiser." It is a marvel that a journal with so high a standard should should not have proved too good for this world long ago.—Toronto World.

HUNTER STREET.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR.—I desire, through the medium of your paper, to call the attention of the Mayor and Town Council to the state of Hunter street, from Water street, eastward, to the bridge, which is most shockingly out of repair; and it is not only now that it is out of repair, but it has been so for a long time. I consider it a most gross dereliction of duty, on the part of the former Councils, that it has been so long allowed to remain in that condition; and will be, also, on the part of the present Council, if it be allowed longer to remain unrepaired.

The road appears to have been badly constructde at first; too large stones having been put on, too near the surface, or not sufficiently covered; and what with the defective water-tabling, allowing the rains to wash off everything that would contribute to render the surface passably smooth; to which may be added the scratching and scraping by the men, with their mud hoes, who are employed ostensibly to keep the streets in repair, by keeping the large stones uncovered, it is the worst street in the town to drive on, at least I have not driven on one so bad, and, I believe, I have driven over the whole of them.

There is not a greater thoroughfare, if there be one so great, leading into the town as Hunter street; nor is there one so disgracefully bad. Now I have several suggestions to make with regard to this matter. First, that the Council take measures to have this street repaired. Second, that they employ some person who understands road-making to superintend the work, and, third, that it be done immediately.

If their sense of what is right and proper do not lead them to have this attended to, I have another suggestion to offer, which, I imagine, would prove a strong incentive to their taking action. It is this, that each member of the Council shall provide himself with a fast trotting horse and a buggy with rather stiff springs, and drive over that part of Hunter street for an hour or so every second day for a week; (they would require the intermediate days to recuperate). If they follow out this last suggestion thoroughly, and it does not lead them to act on the other ones, they are more hardened mentally, physically and posteriorly than I can imagine them to be.

If this communication shall contribute, in any way, towards getting this street repaired, the writer, whose business requires him frequently to drive over it, will consider himself amply repaid.

Yours, etc.,
MEDICUS.

Peterborough, 9th May, 1884.

BOATING IN WINNIPEG.—A scheme is on foot by a number of local oarsmen to import from Ontario a number of elegant pleasure boats. This should give boating quite a boom, if carried through.

A BRANCH LINE.—A branch line of the Port Arthur division is to be built this summer from Savanne to Rainy Lake, a distance of seventy miles. Engineers are now locating the proposed line.

IMPORTING LIVE STOCK.—Mr. John Lant, the well-known live stock man, who has made so many successful trips to Ontario, left Winnipeg again recently to purchase four car-loads of two-year-old grade heifers and four young thoroughbred bulls for the ranch of the Assiniboine farming company.

£600 for the Stroke of a Pen.

Labouchere, editor of London Truth, thus relates how he was once caught in a libel suit "One of the best known men on the press sent me a paragraph. Its basis was political, but it contained a reflection on an individual. I passed my pen through the reflection. The printer, however, imagined that I meant to underline it, and printed it in italics. The individual brought an action. I, of course, accepted the responsibility, and did not state in my pleadings what had really occurred, for I thought that people would say that I way trying to get out on a subterfuge. Well, we each spent about £300, when I came to the conclusion that my best plan was to agree to pay the plaintiff's costs. A mistake, therefore, which certainly was no fault of mine, cost me £600."

Canada Ahead.

Professor Arnold being in Ottawa during the session of the Committee on Immigration and Colonization, was called upon to give his opinion on Canadian salt in its adaptation to dairy purposes. He stated that much of the talk about the salt of different countries for this purpose were for the most ideas worked by dealers and agents, but he had carefully conducted a series of experiments with Liverpool salt and Goderich salt in comparison, and the Goderich salt produced the best results, and also in subsequent experiments were ahead of Liverpool salt. In short, the Goderich and some other Canadian brines were the purest in the world, and the Canadian article is now coming into serious competition with the United States salt for dairy purposes in the American home market.

Affairs in Cuba

HAVANA, May 8.—A number of military prisoners have arrived frem the interior. Who they are or why arrested is kept a secret. An officer has also arrived, being summoned to explain the landing of the Haytien filibusters.

The Captain-General has been informed from Madrid that papers seized during the late insurrection in Spain it is ascertained that military conspiracies exist in the ranks of the Spanish army in Cuba. It is said the Captain-General forwarded his resignation by steamer May 5th.

A strict censorship is exercised on suspected letters, especially those coming from the United States.

Ward & Grant's Suspension.

The suspension of Ward & Grant, of New York, is not expected to be other than temporary. On the firm's safe being opened the securities were found intact, and were sufficient in amount to have averted the stoppage had they been available at the time. Mr. Ward was in the office yesterday morning as usual. A decree attaching his personal property has, however, been issued by the court.

Tightening the clasp of her palms which enclosed the little gold locket containing the image of their child, a wintry smile broke over her white face, lending it that mournful glimmer which fading moonlight sheds on some silent cenotaph in a cemetery.

"If my stage tricks of glance or tone, my carefully studied and practised attitudes and modulations, recall some neglected memories of your sunny past, let me hope that Mr. Laurance links me with the holy associations that cluster about a mother's or a sister's sacred features; reviving the earlier years, when he offered at the shrine of friendship, of honour, and of genius—tributes too sincere to admit the glazing varnish of fulsome fashionable adultation, which degrades alike the lips that utter and the ears that listen. If at some period in the mysterious future you—whom, because my countryman, I reluctantly consented to receive—should really discover a noble, lovely woman, before whose worth and beauty that fickle heart you call your own utterly surrenders, and whom winning as wife, and cherishing as only husbands can the darlings they worship, you were finally torn away from, by inexorable death, the only power that can part husband's and wives, then think you, Mr. Laurance, that the universe holds a grave deep enough to keep you quiet in your coffin—if vain, heartless men profane the sacred widowhood by such utterances as you presume to offer me? The stage is the arena, where in gladitorial combat I wage my battle with the beasts of Poverty and Want; there I receive the swelling acclamation of triumph or the pelting hisses of defeat; there before the footlights where I toil for my bread, I am a legitimate, defenceless target for artistic criticism; but outside the precincts of the theatre I hold myself as sacred from the world as if I stood in stone upon an altar behind some convent's bars; and as a lonely, sorrow-stricken mother, widowed of the father of my child, bereft of a husband's tenderly-jealous guardianship, I have a right to claim the profound respect, the chivalric courtesy, which every high-toned, honorable gentleman accords to worthy, stainless women. Because as an actress I barter my smiles and tears for food and raiment for my fatherless child, it were not quite safe to imagine that I share the pagan tendencies which appear to have smitten some of my countrymen with moral leprosy."

The words seems to burst forth like a mountain cataract long locked in snow, which, melting suddenly under some unseasonable fiery influence, falls in an impetuous icy torrent bearing the startling chill of winter into flowery meadows, where tender verdure, sown thick with primroses and daisies, smiles peacefully in summer sunshine.

Twice the visitor he'f rose and essayed to speak, but that deep, steady voice bore down all interruption, and as he watched her, Mr. Laurence, just then, would have given the fortune of the Rothschilds for the privilege of folding in his own the perfect hands that lay clasped on the marble slab.

While her extraordinary beauty moved his heart, as no other woman had yet done, the stern bitterness of her rebuke appealed to the latent chivalry and slumbering nobility of his worldly soul. Looking upon his flushed, handsome face, interpreting its eloquent, varying expressions, by the aid of glancing lights which memory snatched from long gone years, she saw the struggle in his dual nature, and hurried on, warned by the powerful magnetism of his almost invincible eyes, that the melting spell of the Past was twining its relaxing fingers about the barred gateway of her own throbbing heart.

"Trained in the easy school of latitudinarianism so fashionable now-a-days on both sides of the Atlantic, doubtless Mr. Laurance deems his adopted countrywoman a nervous, puritanical prude; and upon my primitive and well-nigh obsolete ideal of social decorum and propriety—upon my lofty standard of womanly delicacy and manly honor—I can patiently tolerate none of the encroachments with which I have recently been threatened. Just here, sir, permit a pertinent illustration of the impertinence that sometimes annoys me.'

Lifting between the tips of her fingers the pretty peach-bloom-tinted note, whose accusing characters betrayed the hand that penned it, she continued, with an outbreak of intense and overwhelming contempt:

"Listen—if you please—to the turbid libation which some rose-lipped Paris, some silk-locked Sybarite poured out last night, after leaving the theatre. Under pretence of adding a leaf to the chaplets won by what he is pleased to term 'divine dramatic genius,'—this 'Jules Duval' —let me see,—I would not libel an honourable name,—yes, so it is signed, this Jules Duval, this brainless, heartless, soulless Narcissus, with no larger sense of honour than could find ample waltzing room on the point of a fine cambric needle,—insolently avows his real sentiments in language that your valet might address to his favorite grisette,—and closes like some ardent accepted lover, with an audacious demand for my photograph; 'to wear forever over his fond and loyal heart!' That is fashionable homage to my genius—is it? I call it ah insult to my womanhood! Nay—I am ashamed to read it! 'Twould stain my cheeks, soil my lips,—dishonour your gentlemanly ears. Mr. Laurance, if ever you should become a husband, and truly love the woman you make your wife, you will perhaps comprehend my feelings—when some gay, unprincipled gallant profanes the sanctity of her retirement with such unpardonable, such unmerited insolence."

She held it up between thumb and forefinger, shaking out the pink folds till the signature, in violet ink, flaunted before the violet eyes of its owner,—then crushing it as if it were a cobweb she tossed it toward the window.

Turning her head she said in an altered and elevated tone:

"Mrs. Waul, may I disturb you for a moment?"

The quiet figure clad in sober gray and wearing a muslin cap whose crimped ruffle enclosed in a snowy frame the benevolent wrinkled countenance, came forward, knitting in hand, spectacles on nose,—and for the first time the visitor became aware of her presence.

"Please lower the curtain yonder, beside the etagere, the sun shines hot upon Mr. Laurance's brow. Then touch the bell and order the carriage to be ready in twenty minutes."

Humiliated as he had never been before, Mr. Laurance resolved upon one desperate attempt to regain the position his vanity had rashly forfeited. Waiting until the Quaker-like duenna had retreated to her former seat, he rose and leaned across the small table,—and under his rich low voice, and passionately pleading eyes, the actress held her breath, and clutched the locket till its sharp edge sunk into her quivering flesh.

"You dismiss me as unworthy of your presence, and acknowledging the justice of your decree, I sincerely deplore the fatuity that prompted the offence. Your rebuke was warranted by my foolish presumption, and confessing the error into which I was betrayed by your condescending notice last night —I humbly and sorrowfully solicit your generous forgiveness. Fervid flattering phrases sorely belie my real character, if sinking me almost beneath your contempt, you deem me devoid of a high sense of honour, or of chivalric devotion to womanly delicacy. Madame Orme, if your unparalleled beauty, grace and talentbewitched me into a passing folly and vain impertinence, for which indeed I blush,—your stern reproof recalls me to my senses,—to my better nature; —and I beg that upon the unsullied word of an American gentleman you will accept, with my apology, the earnest assurance that in quitting this room I honour and revere my matchless countrywoman far more than when I entered her noble presence. Fashionable freedom may have demoralized my tongue, but by the God above us, I swear it has not blackened my heart nor deadened my perception and appreciation of all that constitutes true feminine refinement and purity. You have severely punished my presumptious vanity, and now will you not mercifully pardon a man who, finding in you the perfect fulfilment of his prophetic dreams of lofty as well as lovely womanhood, humbly, but most earnestly, craves permission to reinstate himself in your regard;—to attempt to win your esteem and friendship—which he will value more highly than the adoration of any—yes, of all other women?"

He was so near her, that she saw the regular quick flutter of the blue vein on his fair temples and as the musical mastering voice so well remembered—and once so fondly loved—stole tenderly through the dark, lonely, dreary recesses of her desolate aching heart—it waked for one instant a wild maddening temptation—an intense longing to lift her arms, clasp them around his neck—lean forward upon his bosom —and be at rest,

In the weary years that followed how bitterly she denounced and deplored the fever of implacable revenge that held her back on that memorable day? Verily for each of us, "a Ne: mean Lion lies in wait somewhere"—and a lost opportunity might have cost even Hercules that tawny skin he wore as trophy.

Mr. Laurance saw a slow dumb motion of the pale lips that breathed no sound to fill the verbal frame they mutely fashioned, —"my husband,"—and then with a gradual drooping of the heavily lashed lids, the eyes closed. Only until one might have leisurely counted five, was he permitted to scan the wan face in its rare beautiful repose, then again her eyes pitiless as fate met his—so eager, so wistful—and she too rose, confronting him with a cold proud smile.

"I fear Mr. Laurance unduly bemoans and magnifies a mistake, which, whatever its baleful intent, has suffered in my rude inhospitable hands an 'untimely nipping in the bud,' and most ingloriously failed of consummation After to-day, the luckless incident of our acquaintance must vanish like some farthing rushlight set upon a breezy down to mark a hidden quicksand; for in my future panorama I shall keep no niche for mortifying painful days like this; and you, Sir, amid the rush, and glow, and glitter of this bewildering French capital, will have little leisure and less inclination to recall the unflattering failure of an attempted flirtation with a pretty but most utterly heartless actress, who wrung her hands, and did high tragedy, and stormed and wept for gold! Not for perfumed billets-doux—nor yet for adulation and vows of deathless devotion from high-boren gentlemen handsome and heartless enough to serve in Le Musee du Louvre as statues of Apollo—but for gold, Mr. Laurance, only for gold!"

"Do not inexorably exile me, do not refuse my prayer for the privilege of sometimes seeing you. Permit me to come here and teach you to believe in my——"

"Le jeu n'en vaut pas la chandelle!"—she exclaimed,—with a quick nervous laugh that grated grievously upon his ear.

"Madam, I implore you not to deny me the delight of an occasional interview.

A sudden pallor crept across his eager face, and he attempted to touch the fair dimpled hand, which still grasping the locket, rested upon the table.

Aware of his purpose, she haughtily shrank back, drew herself up, and folding her arms so tightly over her breast that the cameo ring pressed close upon her bounding heart,—she looked down on him as from some distant height, with an intensity of quiet scorn that no language could adequately render,—that bruised his heart like hail-stones.

"I deny you henceforth all opportunity of sinking yourself still deeper in my estimation,—of annoying me by any future demonstrations of a style of admiration, I neither desire, appreciate, nor intend to permit. If accident should ever thrust you again across my path, you will do well to forget that our Minister committed the blunder of sending yon here to-day. Mr. Laurance will please accept my thanks for this package of papers, which shall be returned to-morrow to the office of the American Embassy. Resolved to forget the unpleasant incidents of to-day, Madame Orme is compelled to bid you good-bye.

Angry but undaunted his eloquent eyes boldly borne up under hers.—as if in mortal challenge; and he bowed with a degree of graceful hauteur, fully equal to her own best efforts

"Madame's commands shall be rigidly and literally obeyed, for Cuthbert Laurance is far too proud to obtrude his presence or his homage on any woman; but Mrs. Orme's interdict does not include that public realm, where she has repeatedly assured me that gold always secures admission to her smiles,—and from which no earthly power can debar me. Watching you for the same spot, where last night you floated like an angelic dream of my boyhood,—like a glorious revelation—upon my vision and my heart, I shall defy the world to mar the happiness in store for me, so long as you remain in Paris. A distant but devoted worshipper, cherishing the memory of those thrilling glances with which 'Amy Robsart' favoured me—permit me to wish Madame Orme a pleasant ride, and good afternoon."

He bent his handsome head low before her, and left the room less like an exile than a conqueror, buoyed by an abiding fatalism, a fond faith in that magnetic influence and fascination he had hitherto successfully exerted over all whom his wayward, fickle, fastidious fancy had chosen to enslave.

When the sound of his retiring footsteps were no longer audible, the slender white-robed figure moved unsteadily across the floor, entered the adjoing dressing-room, and locked the door.

The play was over at last, the long tension of nerve, the iron strain on brain and heart, the steel manacles on memory, all snapped simultaneously,—the actress was trampled out of sight, and the woman,—the weak, sufferiflg, long-tortured woman bowed down in helpless and hopeless agony before her desecrated mouldering altar,—was alone with the dust of her overturned and crumbling idol.

"My husband! Oh God! Thou knowest—not here,—not that woman's—but mine! all mine! My baby's father!—my Cuthbert—my own husband!"

"Oh past! past the sweet times that I remember well!
Alas that such a tale my heart can tell!
Ah how I trusted him! what love was mine;
How sweet to feel his arms about me twine,
And my heart beat with his! What wealth of bliss
To hear his praises;—all to come to this,—
That now I durst not look upon his face—
Lest in my heart thar other thing have place—
That which men call hate."

PLUCK AND PRAYER.

There wa'nt any use o' fretting,
An' I told Obadiah so,
For ef we couldn't hold on to things,
We'd jest got to let 'em go,
There were lots of folks that'd suffer
Along with the rest of us,
An' it didn't seem to be worth our while
To make such a dreffle fuss.

To be sure, the barn was 'most empty,
An' corn an' pertaters sca'ce,
An' not much of anything plenty an' cheap
But water—an' apple-sass.
But then—as I told Obadiah—
It wa'nt any use to groan,
For flesh an' blood couldn't stan' it; an' he
Was nothing but skin an' bone.

But, laws! ef you'd only heered him,
At any hour of the night,
A-prayin' out in that closet there,
'Twould have set you crazy quite.
I patched the knees of those trousers
With cloth that was noways thin,
But it seemed as ef the pieces wore out
As fast as I set 'em in.

To me he said mighty little
Of the thorny way we trod
But at least a dozen times a day
He talked it over with God,
Down on his knees in that closet
The most of his time was past;
For Obadiah knew how to pray
Much better than how to fast.

But I am that way contrairy
That of things don't go Jes right,
I feel like rollin' my sleeves up high
An' gittin' ready to fight
An' the giants I slew that winter
I ain't goin' to talk about;
An' I didn't even complain to God,
Though I think that he found it out.

With the point of a cambric needle
I druv the wolf from the door,
For I knew that we needn't starve to death
Or be lazy because we were poor,
An' Obadiah he wondered,
And' kep me patchin' his knees,
An' thought it strange how the meal held out,
An' stranger we didn't freeze.

But I said to myself in whispers,
"God knows where His gilt descends;
An' 'tisn't always that faith gits down
As far as the finger ends.
An' I wouldn't have no one reckon
My Obadiah a shirk,
For some, you know, have the gift to pray,
And others the gift to work.

A MUCH MARRIED MAN.

NEWBOLD AGAIN ELOPES WITH, AND MARRIES, A RICH GIRL.

A Few Incidents in the Life of a Gay Lothario—A Man of Many Names and Numerous Wives.

A man who is known in Peterborough, Chas. (or George) Newbold, has again brought himself into notice by practising his usual trick—duping and eloping with a fair female and unlawfully marrying.

NUMEROUS NAMES.

Newbold has more names than an Italian Count, and has followed almost every vocation known that does not involve hard work. Among the names by which he was at different times known are George Perry, George H. Percy, Charles H. Perry, Dr. Charles Stewart (of the Confederate army), Henry Howard, George Benton, Charles Spencer, Proctor, and the latest additions to the list are George Roberts and Sir Charles Everard Neivelle, Bart.

MANY MARRIAGES.

Newbold is believed to have been married at the very least nine times. The Watertown Times of August last contains a synopsis of his career, and it is not a very brilliant one. In Toronto he has been married three times. In 1877 he was arrested there on a charge of bigamy and committed to the Kingston penitentiary for two years. After enjoying that period of rest (and allowing the female portion of the world a season of quietness), he returned to Toronto and again spread his net successfully, marrying another woman. Soon after his perfidy was discovered and he was obliged to make himself scarce. After a time, when he thought he was forgotten, he again returned to Toronto as a book agent, and still another feminine heart was won by his blandishments. He proposed, was accepted and married, but the city becoming to warm for him he disappeared. He has also practiced his profession in

THE UNITED STATES.

On the fifth of April, 1881, he was married in Watertown, N.Y., to Miss Annie Henry, of Schenectady, N. Y. He then went by the name of George H. Percy, and Miss Henry's friends objected to the marriage, with the usual result, the pair departing for Watertown and being married there. In January, 1883, Newbold turned up at Newark, N. J., and was engaged by the Prudential Insurance Company as a travelling agent. Among those who were most taken up by the gentlemanly and captivating stranger was Mr. Charles Rolle, and Newbold (then known as Perry) repaid his kindness by marrying his daughter, Miss Selina Maud Rolle, without his consent. The couple did not live together, and when Perry went to Mr. Rolle with the request that he should sign a bond for $2,000, and the reqest was refused, the breach between him and the Rolle family was widened. In April a postal card from Schenectady to Perry fell into Mr. Rolle's hands, and it led to an investigation which resulted in the arrest of Perry. He escaped, however, by jumping through a window of the police station. He was wanted in Paterson, N. J., on another charge of bigamy, but he crossed the lines into Canada. A portion of last year he spent in Peterborough, and his business was a matter of conjecture while he remained here.

PROCTOR'S REVELLERS.

Among the multifarious callings which New bold followed was that of an actor, and in the latter part of 1879 he organized "Proctor's Revellers," he himself being Proctor, and the leading actor. They announced two performances in Peterborough, and on January 9th, 1880, they entertained a small audience with "True to Death, Through Death; or Convict Life in Canada," but on the second night the attendance was smaller and there was no performance. Newbold was spoken of as "an actor of some force." They visited other places and finally collapsed entirely, Proctor finding himself in trouble.

IN BELLEVILLE

he was arrested for obtaining goods under false pretences, and was sentenced to six months in gaol. While in the prison he performed the duties of cook, and became intimately acquainted with the matron, who was the wife of the gaoler. Giving lessons in elocution was his pastime in the gaol, and when he left the prison the gaoler's wife went with him, leaving her husband to look after the remaining prisoners alone.

NEWBOLD'S LATEST

escapade is another elopement and marriage. In March last he engaged with Mr. C. J. Whitney, a musical publisher and theatrical manager, of Detroit, as coachman. He said he was an English nobleman, Sir Charles Everard Neivelle, in straightened circumstances. Miss Lillian Whitney was very fond of equestrian exercises, and she and the titled coachman often indulged in the amusement together. The result was that while learning to ride the young lady also learned to love, and an elopement followed. At Toledo, Ohio, on Friday, May 2nd, they were pronounced man and wife by one Justice Scott, and on the Monday following Mr. Whitney and a detective arrived at Toledo. To Wyandotte the couple were traced, and Sir Everard was arrested.

Mr. Hulme, a son-in-law of Mr. Whitney, has been in Toronto obtaining evidence to be used against his obnoxious brother-in-law, and says that Mr. Whitney intends to push the case to the full extent of the law.

ANOTHER TITLE.

A despatch from Detroit says that Newbold claims to be Sir Roger Tichborne! The meeting between him and Miss Whitney at Detroit after his arrest is said to have been very sensational. The couple fell into each other's arms. Then Newbold pretended to faint. Water was thrown into his face and he revived, but soon keeled over again and more water had to be applied. Miss Whitney is now suffering from mental aberration.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Young Man from this County Killed in Michigan State.

At noon to-day the body of Michael Crough, jr. son of Mr. Michael Crough, of Ennismore, arrived at the Midland station, from Michigan, where the young man was accidentally killed last week. The body was accompanied from Michigan by Messrs. M. Carew and John Stockdale, also from Ennismore. The unfortunate young man was working in the woods in Oswego county, about 120 miles from Bay City. It appears that on Thursday morning last he was assisting to load logs on a car, on which they were carried to Ostego Lake for the drive. A horse drew the logs up on the car, and the unfortunate victim of the accident and Mr. Carew were on the opposite side, helping to draw a heavy log up by means of tackle. The log went over too far and fell off the car. The two men tried to escape but Mr. Crough's legs were caught by the log and he was thrown down, the heavy weight rolling over him. Mr. Crough's leg was broken by the weight of the log, and he was otherwise badly injured, death resulting almost instantly. Mr. Carew took charge of the body, and, with Mr. Stockdale, accompanied the remains to Peterborough. The diseased was twenty-two years of age, and was well-known and highly respected in Ennismore, a fact that was demonstrated by the large number of friends who awaited the arrival of the corpse at the station. The body was taken to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from there to the cemetery in Ennismore.

DOMINION LICENSE BOARD.

The following licenses were granted:—

APSLEY.

Arthur McIlmoyle, hotel.

WARSAW.

Mrs. E. Tully, hotel.

PETERBOROUGH.

The Ontario and Quebec.

The first through train over the Ontario and Quebec Railway arrived here about noon on Sunday. On the train were Messrs. Van Horne, General Manager of the C. P. R., Wm. Whyte, General Manager of the Ontario Division, R. B. Argus, J. J. Haggart, M.P.; H. Ryan, Superintendent of Construction, J. H. Barber, Division Superintendent, and other officers of the road. The train left Montreal at 6.45 o'clock on Saturday evening and arrived at Smith's Falls between 10 and 11 o'clock, where the party remained over night. They departed from Smith's Falls at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, and arrived here at about half-past one o'clock. They remained here about three-quarters of an hour, and then proceeded west, arriving at Toronto at half past six. Members of the party stated that the manner in which the run was made showed that the road had been solidly constructed. The train ran very smoothly. The whole line has received the first lift of ballast. It is expected that the official tour of inspection will be made in a week or two.

THE CANADA PACIFIC FLEET.

Arrival of the First Two Vessels at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, May 10.—The first of the Canadian Pacific Railway steamers, the Algoma, steamed up the river about 9.30 this morning, and was greeted with three cheers from hundreds of citizens, who had gathered at the dock. The new boat has been the centre of attraction all day, many of the townspeople having availed themselves of the opportunity to go on board and inspect her. About five hundred emigrants arrived by the Canadian Pacific train last evening, and three hundred more this afternoon, and the dock presented a very animated appearance with the crowd of emigrants, while their baggage was being taken off the train and shipped on board the steamer. She left at 12 o'clock to-night for Port Arther, having come in and gone out of the river without any difficulty.

ARRIVAL OF THE ALBERTA.

OWEN SOUND, May 11.—The second of the Canadian Pacific railway's line of steamers, the Alberta, arrived here at six o'clock this evening Owing to her arrival on Sunday no demonstration took place, although a large number of perple were on the dock and witnessed her arrival. Captain Anderson speaks in the highest terms of praise of the vessel, and is much delighted with the satisfactory way in which she works.

The Athabaska is expected to arrive to-morrow, when the fleet will be completed, composed of the three finest steamships and most handsomely equipped vessels on Canadian waters. The steamers will leave Owen Sound every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 4 p.m. direct for Port Arthur.—Mail.

NORWOOD.

MELANCHOLY DROWNING ACCIDENT.—The Register says that on Wednesday, April 30th, Mr. Wm. Hill, of Norwood, was drowned at Stirling Falls, on Stony Creek, in the Parry Sound district, while breaking a jam of logs. The body was brought to Norwood, and the funeral took place on the following Tuesday and was attended by a large concourse of all classes of the community, thus showing the respect in which the deceased was held in life. He leaves a wife and five children, who have the sincere sympathy of the people of this village and neighborhood in their unfortunate bereavement. Mr. Hill was only in his 33rd year.

OMEMEE.

FAREWELL SUPPER.—On Friday evening quite a number of citizens entertained Mr. J. A. Pritchard at a complimentary supper in the large and spacious dining room of the Bradburn House. Mr. Martin, the caterer, deserves a word of praise for the excellent style in which he filled the bill, as the tables fairly groaned under the weight of wholesome as well as toothsome viands After speeches of a complimentary nature to Mr. Pritchard, and regrets expressed at losing such a popular and trustworthy young man as he had proved himself to be during his four years' residence here, the company repaired to the parlour, where an interesting programme of music was disposed of by Messrs. Cawthorne, Sherwood and Thornton, a number of popular songs were rendered in fine style by Messrs. Henderson, Rea, Martin and Beatty. The party broke up about 11.30, well pleased with the evening's amusement.—Herald.

BOBCAYGEON.

BOATS.—The boat building business of Mr. J. McDermott has increased so much that he has had to erect a new shop.

FISHING.—Fishery Overseer Cochrane, of Lakefield, has been attending to his duties, to the sorrow of a number who were brought before the Magistrate. It is just possible that Mr. Cochrane may favor our lakes with a flying visit. The close season ends next week.

TREES.—Nature has done much for Bobcaygeon. It requires but very little assistance to make it one of the most beautiful places in the Province. Dr. Bonnell has set a commendable example in planting trees along the entire length of his block. In itself, this is not a gigantic effort of public spirit, but it is by such efforts that towns are made, and fame established. If the public spirit of the village would only arouse itself and unite in setting out trees on all the leading streets, a few years' time would add immeasurable beauty to the village. Then there is the Rokeby square which might be put in order. Such a square on the American side of the line would have its grass plot in the centre, a pretty fountain in the middle, an artistic horse trough at the lower end, and at the upper end a liberty pole reaching to the heavens.—Independent.

COBOURG.

NEW GROUND.—The Cobourg Cricket Club have secured new grounds for the coming season. They are handy to the town, being just south of the Arlington, and should overcome the objection to the former ground at the Agricultural Park. The club propose to expend some $300, besides erecting an eight foot fence. We wish them success in their undertaking.—Sentinel-Star.

GRATIFYING RECOGNITIONS.—A few weeks ago we gave a description of Dr. Haanel's brilliant discovery in blowpipe analysis,—the application of hydriodic acid as a re-agent. As was to be expected, such a discovery has attracted attention where it was most likely to be well appreciated, and Dr. Haanel has received numerous letters of congratulation from distinguished scientists in different parts of the world. Among these are cordial communications from Prof. Eggleston, the professor of Mineralogy in the Columbia School of Mines; Prof. LeNeve Foster, H. M. Inspector of Metalliferous Mines, Llandudno, N. Wales; Dr. Roemer, Prof. of Mineralogy and Geology, Breslau Univ., Germany; Dr. Richter, of the Freberg School of Mines, Saxony. These are among the most distinguished scientists in the world; and Dr. Haanel may well be proud of such testimonials from such men. They all express their desire to make use of the discovery, and predict its general adoption for the analyses desired. We congratulate him on the great appreciation with which his important discovery has already met.—World.

GORDON AND THE PUBLIC.

LONDON, May 10.—At a meeting of 3,000 Conservatives in Manchester to-day resolutions were adopted condemning the abandonment of General Gordon. The public continues to manifest more interest in General Gordon than in the Egyptian conference. The publication on Tuesday of fresh despatches sent a shiver all along the Liberal benches in the House of Commons, and has been received throughout the country with an explosion of anger over the treatment awarded to General Gordon by the Government. Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues nevertheless look forward cheerfully to the debate on Monday of the proposed vote of censure. The whips report that a sufficient majority is secure, although numerous Liberal abstentions are expected.

THE FENIAN TRIALS.

BIRMINGHAM, May 10.—The case of Daly, Egan, and McConnell was resumed this morning. Letters addressed to Egan were read showing that he was engaged in treasonable transactions. A detective testified that on the night of Februrary 25th Ealy and Egan visited Foster's tavern in Birmingham. He overheard Egan say, "To-night we shall be avenged—we shall be free." The following day the detective heard of the explosion at Victoria railway station in London. He thought Egan's remark referred to the explosion. Prisoners were committed for trial.

KEENE.

From our own Correspondent.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Saturday, the wife of Mr. Wm. Redpath, of Otonabee, who resides on the third concession, died very suddenly. She and her husband were preparing to go to Keene in the morning, and as Mrs. Redpath was handing her husband his coat, she fell at his feet. She lived for six or eight hours and then expired. Her death was caused by an apoplectic stroke due to heart disease. Mrs. Redpath was quite a young woman, having only been married less than a year.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.—On Sunday, at about one o'clock, Mrs. Hattrich, of Hiawatha, dropped dead in her house. She was left alone in the house for a short, and when the family returned the old lady was found dead. She was over eighty years of age, and was among the earliest settlers of Otonabee.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

INCRIMINATING TELEGRAMS.

JUDGING others by itself the Globe thinks "a sudden access of cheerfulness in some of the Tory papers may be accounted for, perhaps, by a rumor having come to them, as it has to us, that the telegrams which Manager Dwight refused to produce in the Police Court have now been burned." We are surprised the Globe is not ashamed to mention "incriminating telegrams." If it has, the country has not forgotten the "incriminating" telegrams addressed to the Commissioner of Crown Lands by two Government officials from Algoma, or the fact that so many "incriminating" telegrams were paid for by the country that the Mowat Government dare not even let the accounts (not the originals) rendered by the telegraph company, see the light of day, as proved by the following record of what took place in the Public Accounts Committee, viz:—

"Moved by Mr. Meredith,—That the accounts and vouchers for the following items of expenditure appearing in the public accounts of 1883, be brought down forthwith for examination by the Committee":—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Executive Council and Attorney General's department | $ | 368 07 |
| Crown Land's " | | 532 04 |
| Public Works " | | 122 14 |
| Treasury " | | 169 04 |
| Secretary's " | | 222 54 |

"Moved in amendment by Hon. Mr. Hardy, —That all after the word 'that' be omitted and that the following be substituted: 'The payments made for telegraphing in the several departments of the Attorney-General, Crown Lands, Public Works, Treasury and Secretary, be brought down in detail, WITHOUT THE NAMES of the parties to whom messages were forwarded, and from whom messages were received,' and the amendment being put was carried by the following vote:—Yeas,—Ferris (Chairman), Awrey, Balfour, Harcourt, Hardy, McCraney, McLaughlin, O'Connor, Waters, 9. Nays,—Carnegie, Creighton, Meredith, Merrick, Mulholland, 5."

What a difference circumstances do make! In the one case it is wrong for the public to be informed even as to the names of the persons sending and receiving telegrams for which the country has to pay; in the other it is wrong for the telegraph company to refuse to produce not the names of senders and receivers of telegrams, but the telegrams themselves—the said telegrams having been sent by private persons in their private capacity, and paid for out of their own pockets and not out of the public purse.

THE LICENSE CONFLICT.

THE Globe of the 7th May says:—

"As the points in differences between the Dominion and Provincial governments respecting the constitutionality of the Dominion law, will be submitted to the Supreme Court and ultimately to the Privy Council * * the Ontario Government have instructed their Inspectors to accept, when tendered, the same fee for Dominion licenses as is payable in respect of a Provincial license."

And also that

"It is not the intention of the Provincial government, while the case is before the courts, to prosecute persons who hold a Dominion license and have paid the proper duties."

This is a proper decision and should have been arrived at long ago. That it has been arrived at at last, we have not Mr. Mowat to thank, but the power of disallowance vested in the Dominion Government.

Influx of Immigrants.

The arrivals at Montreal of immigrants this week average one thousand per day. The Dominion and local agents report that the classes of people so far are decidedly superior to last year. Quite an unusual number are stopping at Montreal. On Tuesday about one hundred and forty remained, and all the farm labourers out of the number were provided with employment. The same with a number of house servants of the females.

The African M. E. Church.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States is threatened with internal strife in consequence of the appointment of Northern preachers to Southern congregations. Two of the leading churches in Charleston, South Carolina, are in a state of open rebellion, the obnoxious preacher having been carried out of one church by the indignant congregation and the doors of the building nailed up.

THE OLD STORY.

The Failure of Grant and Ward—Astonishing Developments—Unfortunate Position of General Grant.

NEW YORK, May 9.—There have been some startling developments in connection with the failure of Grant & Ward. It seems the firm became embarrassed three years ago. U. S. Grant, jr., and Ferdinand Ward had been in business about a year and used up $200,000 special capital provided by Gen. Grant and Mr. J. D. Fish as well as the capital furnished by themselves. To keep the firm upon its feet by special partners aided them in procuring $300,000. It is presumed that it was owing to the ease with which the young men raised this sum that the firm as a whole, or Ward acting in their name, entered upon the practices that ruined them and impared the fortunes of many others. For two years the active members of the firm laid before capitalists and investors a scheme for making quick, sure and handsome profits. In some cases it was represented the firm had been interested in extensive Government contracts, in another that it was inside some railway enterprise, and in others that the enterprise was one, the exact nature of which could not be divulged. As security for the amounts advanced the firm gave either its notes, some of them endorsed by Gen. Grant, some by Mr. Fish, or in many instances simply the firm's receipt. Upon these advances the firm paid interest, or what purported to be a share of the profits, at the rate of two to five per cent. for the use of money for thirty days. Many retired merchants, professional men, bank officers and business men accepted the risk. It is said the firm issued receipts and notes in connection with these schmes to the amount of $5,000,000. One capitalist invested nearly a million and another $250,000. It was possibly to give plausibility to their operations, and to advance their financial reputation that the firm recently began to advance large sums to railway and other corporations. Besides the securities noted in yesterday's despatches the firm had a large amount of bonds in West Virginia, Central and Pittsburg Railway, in which James G. Blaine, Stephen B. Elkin and other prominent statesmen were interested. It is also stated ex Senator Chaffee parted with $400,000 of his securities in this way. As far as learned the firm has no securities in its office. A final effort to raise the money was made within a week, when they negotiated a sterling exchange loan for $500,000. All of the younger members of the firm have lived extravagantly, and invested largely in real estate. The agreement of the partners was that each should draw out $3,000 a month for living expenses. Four partners accordingly drew out nearly $15,000 a year. Gen. Grant had standing to his credit upon the books profits to the amount of nearly $500,000, which must be purely fictitious. There is no doubt Gen. Grant was ignorant of the real situation. On Sunday last, at Mr. Ward's suggestion, he went to William H. Vanderbilt and got a check for $150,000, promising to return the loan on Monday, which he attempted to do by sending Gen. Grant's and Mr. Ward's cheque upon the Marine bank with a request that it should not be used until next day. That day it suspended. Gen. Grant has assured Mr. Vanderbilt that the cheque will be made good. Mrs. Grant has placed her private fortune at the General's disposal.

The Tribune says the best information puts the gross liabilities of Grant & Ward at nearly ten millions.

THE S.S. STATE OF FLORIDA.

Further Accounts of the Catastrophe—The Crew Blamed.

Dr. Steele, the surgeon of the State of Florida, says the main was the continued progress of the steamer after the collision. It was owing to this that more boats were not safely launched, and that the passengers were afraid to enter. The crew, it is said,

CAUSE OF THE GREAT LOSS OF LIFE

BEHAVED SHAMEFULLY,

and at once rushed for the boats, and except from the captain and second officer he never heard a word of command at all. The skipper was calm by urging the men to go and get the boats ready, and when he saw the third officer going into the boat he ordered him back but the officer took no notice. Half an hour before the collision this seaman heard the lookout man report a port light on the starboard bow. He then went into his bunk and was only awakened by hearing the call all hands on deck. The barque Pomona was

IN NO WAY TO BLAME.

Every one of the men who were on deck at the time speak of seeing a barque's light and particularly the red one, as she crashed down upon them. They all speak of the passengers having been paralyzed with fear. This was caused more by the awful fate of the first boat that went over the side, and was capsized by mistake of the Dutch sailor who cut the rope. Had that boat got down all right there is a very strong likelihood that there would have been a score or more saved.

Model Work and Pay.

In the recently published report of the Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm, there is an item of $4,000.42 paid for students' wages. This is an equivalent of 20 first-class farm labourers, counting wages at $200 a year. Add to this the 10 regular farm and garden hands, who, let us suppose, are first-class men getting $200 a year—$2,000. Thereto should also be added the wages of the foreman of the farm, garden and mechanical departments, as required by the estimates for 1884, $1,000 each—$3,000, and also the wages of superintendence, say $1,000. This makes a gross total of $10,000 paid out for the ordinary work of these departments. This sum is equivalent to 50 men at $200 a year, or about 10 hands for every 100 acres of the farm. If men can be hired for $180 a year, the number would be 55 in place of 50. This does not include extra help in summer, or labor expended on experiments or in the arboretum. However, let us credit a few hundred (or a few thousand?) dollars for instruction by the foremen, and for any extra fancy work not usually performed by the ordinary farmer. It is also necessary to bear in mind that the facilities enjoyed by the Farm in the way of water privileges and agricultural implements and machinery are far superior to those of the average farmer.

The profits on the $25,000 voted by Government for a fresh importation of live stock will be inadequate to maintain this equipage and keep up the reputation of the Farm. How would it do for the farmers to invite the management to make the best use of the means they have before they get any more?—Farmers' Advocate.

THE MORGANATIC MARRIAGE.

Various Reports on the Subject—The Character of Mme. de Kalamire.

The mystery of the morganatic marriage deepens. The latest report, which reached London from responsible sources at Windsor, is to the effect that the Grand Duke Louis IV. did marry the fascinating Mme. de Kalamire, in consequence of a promise extracted or extorted from him by the lady. This fact, it is understood, the Grand Duke admitted to his mother-in-law in a confession which the Queen drew from him at Darmstadt. The reason why he gave this promise is variously stated. Some say that the Grand Duke's gallantries with Mme. de Kalamire had gone to the verge of indiscretion, and that he had thus given her a power over him which she has not hesitated to use. According to others, the lady has successfully worked upon the fears of the Grand Duke, who was particulary anxicus to have no breath of the threatened scandal mar the marriage fete of his daughter, Princess Victoria, and that in fact Mme. de Kalamire has played the part of a successful blackmailer. Mme. de Kalamire was, and is, very beautiful, but the freedom of her manners and the reported looseness of her morals soon made her the subject of much unfavorable gossip in the staid German capital. It was not long before the Grand Duke's name was sadly mixed up in some of the scandals which were whispered about the court. Finally de Kalamire sought and obtained an absolute divorce from her. Since that time the lady and the Grand Duke have been a great deal in each other's company. All these facts, it is now said, are fully known to Queen Victoria. Her Majesty has, however, pardoned the Grand Duke on the strength of his explanation as to the limited character of his matrimonial alliance with the Russian widow, and he has entered into an obligation that the marriage shall not be consummated, and that his relations with Mme. de Kalamire shall be deemed to have terminated with the performance of the marriage ceremony which took place between them. The Grand Duke if still basking in the royal favor at Windsor castle, and is again looked upon as a candidate for the hand of Princess Beatrice, always provided the Peers pass the Deceased Wife's Sister bill.

The lady who has been honoured by the choice of the Grand Duke of Hesse Darmstadt, Louis II, is Mme, de Kalamire, who has been very prominent in the highest social circles of Darmstadt and Berlin. On dit that the royal family of England unite in resenting the proposal as a slight upon the memory of Princess Alice, the first wife of the Grand Duke, and almost an insult to Princess Beatrice, to whom he was all but betrothed. Louis IV. of Hesse-Darmstadt is chiefly remarkable for having been the husband of Princess Alice and father of Princess Victoria, who married another German princeling last week. He is forey-seven years old and has the rank of colonel in a Prussian regiment. When he married Princess Alice she brought him a dowry of £30,000, besides an allowance of £6,000 a year contributed by the British taxpayer. Queen Victoria granted him the prefix of "His Royal Highness," and also a Knight of the Garter. Mme. deKalamire is the lately divorced wife of a Russian Secretary of Legation. She was the Countess Alexandrine Czapski, daughter of a Russian Chamberlain.

Murphy, school teacher in the Reformatory, went into the woods between the Reformatory and Midland on Friday evening to gather flowers. They became lost, and large members turned out to search for them. The youngest was found on Saturday afternoon, but the older one was not discovered until eleven o'clock on Sunday.

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

CHAPTER VIII.

"Nonsense, Elise! She is but a child, and I beg you will not prematurely magnify her into a woman. There are so few unaffected, natural children in this generation that it is as refreshing to contemplate our little girl's guileless purity and ingenuous simplicity, as to gaze upon cool green meadows on a sultry, parching August day. Keep her a child, let her alone."

Mr. Hargrove wiped his spectacles with his handkerchief, and replaced them on his Roman nose with the injured air of a man who having been interrupted in some favourite study to take cognizance of an unexpected, unwelcome and altogether unpleasant fact, majestically refuses to inspect, and dogmatically waves it aside, as if to ignore—were to annihilate.

"Now Peyton, for a sensible man (to say nothing of the astute philosopher and the erudite theologian), you certainly do indulge in the most remarkable spasms of wilful, obstinate, premediated blindness. You need not stare so desperately at that page, for I intend to talk to you,—and it is useless to try to snub either me or my facts. Regina is young I know, not quite fourteen, but she is more precocious, more mature, than many girls are at sixteen; and you seem to forget that having always associated with grown people, she has imbibed their ideas and caught their expressions, instead of the more juvenile forms of thought and speech usual in children who associate with children. She has as far outgrown jumping ropes, as you have tops and kites, and has no more relish for fairy tales, than your Reverence has for base-ball, or my Bishop here, for marbles. Suppose last October I had sprinkled a paper of lettuce-seed in the open border of the garden, and on the same day you had sown a lot of lettuce in the hot-beds against the brick wall, where all the sunshine falls? Would you refuse your crisp, tempting, forced salad, because it had reached perfection so rapidly?"

"Mother, do you intend us to understand that Regina is very tender and very verdant?" asked Mr. Lindsay, looking up from a grammar that lay open before him.

"I intend you, Sir, to study your Hindustanee, and your Tamil, while I experiment upon the value of analogical reasoning, in my discussions with your uncle. Now Peyton, you see that child's mind has been for nearly four years in an intellectual hot-bed,—sunned in the light of religion,—moistened with the dew of philosophy,—cultivated systematically with the prongs and hoes of regular study, of example and precept:—and being a vigorous sprout when she was transplanted she has made good use of her opportunities,—and behold! early mental salad, and very fine! You men theorize and ratiocinate, declaim, dogmatize about abstract propositions, and finally get your feet tangled and stumble over facts right under your noses, that women would never fail to pick up and put aside. The soul of Thales possesses you all,—whereas we who sit at the cradle, and guide the little tottering feet, study the ground and sweep away the stumbling-blocks. Day after day, you and Douglass discuss all kinds of scientific theories—and quote pagan authorities and infidel systems in the presence of Regina,—who sits in her low chair over there in the corner of the fire-place, as quiet as a white mouse, listening to every word, though Hans Christian Anderson lies open her lap, and scarcely winking, those blue eyes of hers, that are as solemn as if they belonged to the Judges of Israel. If a child is raised in a carpenter's shop, with all manner of sharp, dangerous, often' two-edged tools scattered around in every direction, who wonders that the little fingers are prematurely gashed and scarred? You and Douglas imagine she is dreaming about t number of elves that dance on the greensward on moonlight nights,—or the spangles on their la e wings; or that she is studying the latitude and longitude of the capital of the last territory which Congress elevated to the uncertain and tormenting dignity of nominal self-government,—that once (vide 'obsolete and civil hallucinations') inhered in an American state; or perhaps you believe the child is longing for a pot of sugar candy? Then rub your eyes, you ecclesiastical bats, and let me show you the 'outcome' of all this wise and learned chat, with which you edify one another. You know she beguiled me into giving her lessons on the organ, as well as the piano, and yesterday when I went over to the Church at instruction hour, I was astonished at a prelude which she had evidently improvised. Screened from her view, I listened till she finished playing. Of course I praised her (for really she has remarkable talent), and asked her when she began to compose, to improvise. Now what do you suppose she answered? A brigade of Philadelphia lawyers could never guess. She looked at me very steadily, and said as nearly as I can quote her words: 'I really don't know exactly when I began, but I suppose a long time ago, when I wore brown feathers, and went to sleep with my head under my wing, as all nightingales do.' Said I: 'What upon earth do you mean?' She replied: 'Why of course I mean when I was a nightingale,—before I grew to be a human being. Didn't you hear Mr. Hargrove last week reading from that curious book, in which so many queer things were told about transmigration, and how the soul of a musical child came from the nightingale, the sweetest of singers? And don't you recollect that Mr. Lindsay said that Plato believed it; and that Plotinus taught that people who lead pure lives and yet love music, go into the bodies of birds when they die? Just now when I played, I was wondering how a nightingale felt, swinging in a plumb tree all white with fragran bloom, and watching the cattle cropping buttercups and dandelions in the field. Mrs. Lindsay, if my soul is not perfectly fresh and brand new, I hope it never went into a human body before mine,—because I would much rather it came straight to me from a sweet innocent bird."

"Surely Elise, you are as usual, jesting?" exclaimed her brother.

"On the contrary I assure you that I neither magnify nor embellish. I am merely stating unvarnished facts, that you may thoroughly understand into what fertile soil your scattered grains of learning fall. I promise you, with moderate cultivation it will yield an hundredfold."

"Mother what did you say to her, by way of a dose of orthodoxy to antidote the metempsychosis poison?" asked Mr. Lindsay, who could not forbear laughing, at the astonished expression of his uncle's countenance.

"At first I was positively dumb,—and stared at the child, very much as I daresay—Mahamaia did,—when her boy Arddha-Childdi stood upon his feet and spoke five minutes after his entrance into this world of woe,—or when at five months of age he sat unsupported in the air. Then I shook her, and asked if she had gone to sleep and dreamed she was a bulbul feeding on rose leaves; whereupon, she looked gravely dignified, and when I proceeded to reason with her concerning the absurdity of the utterly worn-out doctrine of transmigration, how do you suppose she met me? With the information that far from being a worn-out-doctrine, learned and scientific men now living were reviving it as the truth; and that whereas Christianity was only eighteen hundred years old,—that metempsychosis had been believed for twenty-nine centuries, and at this day numbers more followers, by millions, than any other religion in the world. I inquired how she learned all this foolish fustian, and with an indescribable mixture of pride, pity, and triumph, as if she realized that she was throwing Mont Blanc at my head, she mentioned you two eminently evangelical guides, from whose infallible lips she had gleaned her knowledge. As for you, Douglass, I suggest you abandon Oriental studies, forego the dim hope of martyrdom in India, and begin your missionary labours at home. My dear, the Buddhist is at your own door. Now Peyton how do you relish the flavour of your philosophical salad?

THE FASHIONS.

PARASOLS.

If there is any one thing of which any variety may be called fashionable this season, it is the parasol. They are to be very elaborate and rich—both as regards the cover and the handle. Under these circumstances it will be extremely difficult for most women—should they use a coloured article—to be able always to have a parasol that matches the dress. The most convenient plan is to use only one of a colour with which any shade will harmonize. Black, with a profusion of lace, perhaps, is the simplest plan, and one in which much taste may be displayed.

EARRINGS.

It is refreshing to know that women who wear earrings still keep to the sensible plan of wearing them small and unostentatious. A single tiny stone, with unpretentions setting, is now generally worn. Earrings, however, are articles that are sure soon to disappear altogether. Probably in 1900 they will be looked upon much as are now the nose-rings of the Brahmin ladies. Many ladies even now wear those that fit with a small screw.

LADIES' YACHTING SUITS.

In view of the approaching camp of the A. C. A. in August the following description of a lady's yachting dress recently seen in England, may be valuable:—it was made of red and blue serge in alternate box-plaits of each color round the skirt; the short drapery above was of blue serge arranged in soft folds; the bodice also of blue, with red sailor collar fastened with a silk handkerchief, loosely tied, a small portion of white vest is left visible. A sailor's hat is worn.

FARM AND GARDEN.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE.—It is estimated that the average loss in England since 1880 from foot-and-mouth disease has been $5,000,000 per annum. The number of animals attacked in 1883 exceeded 200,000—nearly as many as in the four preceeding years. Unfortunately the prospect for a remedy against the ravages of this disease are not increasing.

BEE KEEPING PAYS.—That bee keeping pays is no longer a question of doubt, says the Indiana Farmer. It pays and pays well, for all money and time invested, but it is not all play and no work. Bees require care and attention, as do all other kinds of God's creatures which man has subjugated for his own benefit. They need probably less care than fowls or farm stock, but what needs to be done must be done at the proper time, and those that cannot or will not do this will make but poor success in this industry.

GOOD MILKERS.—If you have good milch cows, by no means part with their heifer calves. It is cheaper and less risky to raise good milkers than to purchase them.

FOOD FOR CHICKENS.—The best food for early chickens is cooked meat, and for a change may get bread crumbs and hard boiled eggs finely chopped. They should be fed several times a day for the first month or two, after which wheat makes the best food. Do not let them suffer from sudden changes of temperature,

FOOD FOR COWS.—A Massachusetts farmer has been experimenting on feeding ensilage and hay to his cows, and found that from 40 to 50lbs. of ensilage, with 6lbs. of meadow hay per head per day, kept them in excellent condition all winter. When the milking season arrived he found it profitable to feed some meal in addition to the above ration.

POOR COW PASTURES.—The great loss sustained by keeping cows on poor pastures can scarcely be estimated, especially when they have to drink from stagnant pools. Something can't be got from nothing. The food of support must first be obtained before the cow can give any milk at all, and all the profits consist in the quantity of food she eats over and above that required for maintenance. If she has to wander over a long range of pasture, especially in the hot sun, and when the flies are troublesome, the food consumed in producing this mechanical work would otherwise have been used in the production of butter. Hence the necessity for rich pastures and plenty of shade trees. Always remember that, under a proper system of feeding, the more an animal eats, the greater will be the profits.

VALUE OF PUMPKINS.—We are liable to booms in feed for stock as in the stock it-elf. As soon as a chemist analyzies a food and finds out its feeding value, he forms the nucleus of a boom. The much despised pumpkin, too insignificent now-a-days to be made into a pie for anybody who pretends to be civilized, has undergone the scrutiny of the chemical laboratory, and has been found to possess a higher feeding value than any of the roots. Roots are an annoyance to the average farmer; they demand so much labor. It is easier to grow 70 tons per acre of pumpkins than 30 tons of mangles, and counting both at the ordinary price of roots, say ⅛ of a cent per pound, would give over $230 per acre for pumpkins and only $100 for roots. It would be no exaggeration to say that pumpkins would bring $400 of feeding value per acre. Weight for weight, they are far superior to ensilage or meadow grass. They can be stored in an ordinary root cellar, and require less labor in every respect.

LOCAL NEWS

Lacrosse Match.

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club have arranged for a match to be played here with the Barrie Club on the afternoon of Monday, May 26th. The Barrie Club have the reputation of being good players, and the first match of the season is likely to prove a very interesting one.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Moderate variable winds, generally fair weather with light showers in a few localities.

The Assessment.

The Lindsay Post points out, with ill-suppressed glee, that according to the assessment returns our population has decreased during the past year, but it omits to draw attention to the fact that, if the returns are correct and the "floating population" in Peterborough is smaller the number of ratepayers has increased, and that is what is really a substantial gain.

The "Lowe" System.

The Lindsay Post of last week said:—

"Mr. Wm. Drury, practical manager of the Peterborough gas works was in town last week inspecting the gas works here. Mr. Drury is a very energetic and pushing man in his own profession, and has had charge of extensive gas plants in Birmingham and other English cities and towns. He expressed himself as well pleased with the working of the "Lowe" system of making gas from crude oil, as is done in Lindsay, and that the gas supplied was very satisfactory, clear, white and brilliant, and free from ammonia and impurities. We believe that Mr. Drury's inspection was made with a view to probable adoption of the "Lowe" system in the manufacture of gas at Peterborough, as it is contemplated during the present year to improve the facilities for manufacturing gas at that town."

A Close Call.

A man came very near being run over by the Grand Junction train as it was leaving Belleville this morning. He wanted to go to Hastings, and arrived at the Belleville station as the train was moving out. He ran across the tracks, and handing up, his valise tried to jump on the steps, but he slipped and fell; his feet falling across the rails in front of the wheels of the coach. The engineer saw the accident and slackened the speed of the train, and the man turned over and drew up his legs, just in time to escape being run over. The speed of the train was slackened and he was taken on. He received a few scratches by the fall.

A Runaway.

On Saturday evening a young man and two ladies were driving on Hunter street, and when near the Peterborough House a wheel of the buggy struck on of those heaps of street scrapings. The three occupants of the vehicle were thrown out, and the ladies, though very little hurt, were terribly frightened, while the young [illegible] injuries. The horses turned and ran west, and were caught near the Midland Railway. The buggy was badly damaged. One lesson to be learned from this accident—and it might easily have been a more serious one—is obvious, and that is, that those heaps of dirt should be removed as quickly as possible.

The Queen's Birthday.

It is announced by those in charge of the Queen's Birthday celebration that their preparations had been advanced so far when the proclamation was issued setting apart Monday, May 26th, as a public holiday, that they were unable to change their date in accordance with it, and consequently the atheletic sports will take place on the afternoon of Saturday, May 24th. In the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks, under the adspices of the Fire Brigade, and a promenade concert in the drill shed, the music for which will be furnished by the Fire Brigrde Band. The performances of the day will be concluded with a torchligh procession. The Drill Shed, and Agricultural Grounds will be illuminated during the evening with electric light.

See the handsome range of West of England Tweed Trouserings at Canadian Tweed prices, just received at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

Bodega.

Fine Spanish wines, Ports and Sherries drawn from the wood, at William Chamberlain's Restaurant.

The Town Council.

A regular meeting of the Town Council will be held at 7.30 o'clock this evening in the Council Chamber for the transaction of general business.

P. B. C.

The adjourned meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club will be held this evening at the boat house, when the racks for canoes will be allotted. The concert committee is at work and will have the programmes out in a day or two for the concert on the 28th of May, when Miss Clench will again favour us with her delightful violin music.

Pedestrianism.

For the information of the athletes wishing to compete in the pedestrian contests on Saturday, May 24, I will say that I will put in a one mile amateur race, which was overlooked in making out the programme. Gold and silver medals will be the prizes, and none but strictly amateurs will be allowed to enter therein.

E. W. JOHNSTON.

Reported Robery.

This afternoon a man, evidently a railway navvy, presented himself at the Police Station and reported that he had been robbed of $16.00 in an Ashburnham dive. He was directed to the head beadle of that suburb. He was under the influence of liquor and had only a hazy idea of how he got rid of his wealth. The chances are that he has seen the last of it.

An Accident.

On Sunday afternoon, while some boys were amusing themselves with cars standing on the track near Mr. Hazlitt's mill, one of them had his hand caught and severely jammed. It was badly bruised, although no bones were broken. A surgeon attended to the injury. This should be a warning to boys not to play with cars especially on Sunday.

With all Safety.

You may now with safety wager all your earthly possessions that spring has come. So also may you wager that Andrew McNeil is now showing the prettiest and cheapest range of Scotch Tweed Suitings and Trouserings ever submitted to an appreciative public. Our prices can't be beat, which we will prove if you will only pay us a visit. ANDREW MCNEIL, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

Saved Army Notes.

Three names were added to the list of converts on Saturday night.

On Sunday morning, after knee drill, the Army marched to the Bible Christian Church, in Ashburnham, when the sermon was preached by the Rev. J. W. Butcher.

At the conclusion of the sermon Capt. Munt delivered an address, and a short experience meeting and a prayer meeting were held.

The meetings on Sunday afternoon and evening were largely attended.

Personal.

It is said that the Rev. Dr. Jeffers, pastor of the Holloway Street Methodist Church, Belleville, father of Mr. J. F. Jeffers, of this town, having completed his fiftieth year in the ministry, will retire at the close of the official year.

The Rev. S. P. Rose has been presented with a gold watch as a souvenir of his three years' ministry in Orillia, and leaves at the end of the ecclesiastical year, to the regret of the church and community.

The independent Toronto World in reference to the meeting of the senate of Toronto University, speaks as follows of Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, so well known in our town:—

"The Ontario Government could not have made a better choice than was made in the selection of Mr. O'Sullivan. He belongs to a class of professional men of whom we have far too few in this country—men who never sink the student in the practitioner. He is already favorably known as an author of legal works and of one work that comes within the domain of political science. The latter is a description of the federal constitution of Canada, and is the only work of the kind that has ever been published in this country. Its author brings to the discharge of his senatorial functions breadth of view, ripening scholarship, judicial temperament, and a courteous manner—qualities which will always command influence in any deliberative assembly."

Rev. F. Fielder is in town in connection with the establishment of the orphans' home.

Mr. Ewing Ritchie, better known as "Christopher Crayon," was in town to-day. He is making a tour through Canada with a view to writing up the country for the English press. He went to Lakefield.

The Little Lake Cemetery.

The section of the Little Lake Cemetery that was cleared last fall, containing over two hundred lots, has been levelled, rolled and seeded this spring, and the labor expended on it has not been misspent. It adds much to the good appearance of the grounds to have this portion cleared and levelled as it is. The grounds of the beautiful cemetery are beginning to put on their summer appearance, and an improvement is already noticeable on account of the resolution of the Cemetery Company authorizing the superintendent to keep all the lots in order. Mr. Kelly, with his usual promptness and energy, has trimmed the lots, and as the flowers begin to bloom the cemetery will be even more beautiful than before, especially with the fountains, which will soon be placed in position. The directors of the Company are careful in looking after the requirements of the cemetery, and having everything conveniently arranged, but perhaps they would allow us to make a suggestion. It would be greatly to the convenience of those who own lots in the cemetery if a telephone were placed in the Superintendent's office. In the case of almost every funeral that takes place, it is necessary to communicate with him perhaps two or three times, and the telephone would save much trouble. We think the Directors would be consulting the convenience of the public by securing connection with the telephone system.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

POLICE COURT.

DOGS AND SHEEP.

MONDAY, May 12.—Christopher Leary charged Thos. B. McGrath with having owned two dogs that killed five sheep of his and worried another.

Mr. Geo. Edminson appeared for the prosecution and Mr. C. A. Weller for the defence.

CHRISTOPHER LEARY, sworn, said that at six o'clock on the morning of April 24th a boy working for him called him; he went out and saw a dog and a bitch worrying a sheep, the bitch was white with a yellow spot on its side; he had a loaded gun with him, but did not shoot. He afterwards saw Mr. McGrath's dogs and he had no doubt at all that they were the ones that had killed the sheep; they had blood stains on them; the sheep were first-class ones; he believed the gun was loaded when he took it out, but it was not loaded.

BRUCE GRAHAM, sworn—He saw two dogs killing Mr. Leary's sheep; he noticed them very closely; the dogs he saw at McGrath's are the same that killed the sheep; he knew them by the way they were marked. The sheep were killed about 6 o'clock a.m.

WM. FOSTER, sworn—He valued five sheep that had been worried and killed by dogs at Mr. Leary's. They were worth $50 at least.

C. LEARY, re-called—He sold the sheepskins for $4.75. He boiled up 2½ sheep and fed them to his pigs; the hind quarters he gave to some Italians; he did not use any of the meat himself.

THE DEFENCE.

THOS. MCGRATH, sworn—He had two dogs; he always chained them up at night; he released them after 6 o'clock a. m. on the 24th of April; they had no blood on them when Mr. Leary saw them; on Saturday last he saw a bull bitch the exact image of his, lying dead, not far from Mr. Leary's. The dog had wool in its mouth and had blood on it. The dog could be seen from the road. He thought the dog had been shot.

GEORGE GRAHAM, sworn—Was at Mr. McGrath's house on the morning in question, before six o'clock; saw the bitch chained up about that hour.

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM, sworn—Saw the bitch chained up on April 24th from a little after 5 o'clock until a little after 9 o'clock a.m.; he lived at McGrath's.

JOHN HARPER, sworn—Found a dead bull bitch on the side of the road, not far from Leary's. The dog was white with a spot on its back.

JOHN KEENAN, sworn—He also saw the dead dog, and swore it was identically the same as one owned by McGrath.

Mr. WELLER said he had another witness, who was not present.

The MAGISTRATE expressed a desire to hear Mr. Edmison, as he thought the evidence for the defence was very strong.

Mr. EDMISON addressed the bench.

The MAGISTRATE commenced to deliver judgment.

Mr. EDMISON asked leave to withdraw the information.

Mr. WELLER demurred unless a certificate was given.

The MAGISTRATE dismissed the case.

ASSAULT CASE DISMISSED.

TUESDAY, May 13.—J. Coleman was brought up on a charge of having assaulted and beaten James Whalen. Coleman said that Whalen hit him first and cut his head, and he returned the blow with a stick. Whalen, the complainant, did not appear, and the Magistrate dismissed the case, remarking that he did so reluctantly.

THE DOMINION BED AGAIN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In Saturday's REVIEW I notice a letter from Mr. A. Clegg on the "Dominion Bed," and in reply I wish to say that he might have had them in stock as long as he states, and yet they might easily have been "something new" to the greater number of the people trading in Peterborough. Mr. Geal, the manufacturer and patentee, consulted his interest in giving me the agency, as I have sold more of the articles in six months than Mr. Clegg did in four years. They want a man to handle them who will not let them lie "in stock," without having enterprise enough to use a little printer's ink to make them known. Although Mr. Clegg attempts to disparage the beds, customers of his have refused to take any other, and he has purchased them from me for them. They are sold as cheap as the inferior article, and are, in consequence, in more demand. I keep all other makes of beds in stock, and my customers can choose for themselves, but the fact that I sell ten of the Dominion beds to one other shows that its good qualities, and cheap price, are appreciated by the public. I invariably find that the Dominion bed gives the best satisfaction and is never returned. Mr. Clegg must know that I have the best bed in the market. Why, on Saturday evening, after his letter had appeared in print, I sold four of them, and I will give the names of the purchasers to Mr. Clegg if he wishes them.

Yours truly,
D. BELLEGHEM.

TEMPERANCE LODGE ORGANIZED.—The 8th of May came to us on time, but such a night! enough to try the zeal and loyalty of any to a cause requiring self-denial. "Do you think he will come?" alluding to Rev. J. Shaw, P. G.W.C.T., who was to deliver a lecture on temperance in the hall on this date. Notwithstanding pressing business engagements, wind and weather, the Rev. gentleman arrived in due time, accompanied by Messrs. S. R. Armstrong and G. J. Early. Their very appearance indicated determination in a good cause, travel-stained, wet and weary.—yet "No Surrender" appeared to be their motto, the horse itself manifesting the same spirit, as the friends can fully testify. A large congregation assembled, to whom the said Rev. gentleman delivered an eloquent and powerful appeal, showing the loss and misery caused by intemperance: individually, socially, nationally; then propounded a remedy founded on the principle "Total abstinence for the individual; prohibition for the State." At the close of the lecture the Rev. J. Shaw, assisted by said friends from town, organized a lodge of good templars, having 28 charter members.

The following is the list of officers, elected and installed:

Night of meeting,—Saturday.

A FEW QUESTIONS.—Take up your REVIEW again, and read the communication, "A Pitiable Sight." 1. To whom is such "prominent government man" responsible? 2. Can we wonder our license laws are trampled upon with impunity? Is it for past favors or present efforts to party that such are kept in their position? Is it strange that persons say, "we will sell, license or no license," and thus defy law and government? Can such a government, that upholds and favors such a course, have the confidence and sympathy of friends of temperance?

The following despatch has been received by the Governor-General from Earl Derby:—"MY LORD,—I have the honor to inform you that a letter has been received in this department from the trustees of the Gilchrist Educational Trust, stating that having revised their entire scheme of scholarships, they have not found the results of that assigned to Canada sufficiently satisfactory to justify the continued expenditure of the three hundred pounds per annum required for its maintenance. They have therefore decided that after the election of a new Canadian Scholar, which will follow the Matriculation Examination of June next, no further election shall be made to this scholarship."

SUPPORT FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, May 12.—It is considered certain the Parnellites will support the Government on the motion of censure, in order not to endanger the success of the Franchise bill.

REVIVAL OF GAROTTING.

LONDON, May 12.—London has another scare, and this time it is the garotters and not the dynamiters who are the agitating cause. These ruffians have become frightfully audacious and their latest exploit has been throttling and robbing a gentleman in broad daylight on the Thames embankment.

LONDON, May 12.—Michael Davitt, before leaving for Australia, will make a tour of England. If he realizes a thousand per annum from his lectures in Australia and America he pill return to Ireland and resume his course in defence of the Irish cause.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The coming week may see the stock market turned by some unexpected event, but at this moment bear leaders are in control, and the utter demorilization of the street by the bursting of the Ward-Fish bubble seems to confirm them in their position for the time being. The peculiarly damaging force of such a blow is in the increasing dimensions of the disaster in proportion as it is inquired into. It grows worse the more the thing is exposed. The losses are enormous, and strike in all directions.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

QUEER LAW OFFICERS.

THE result of the proceeding against Informer McKim for forgery, the conclusion of which we give in another column, as described by a thoroughly impartial authority, is startling even as part of the history of the Mowat Administration. At first sight it appears almost incredible that such a criminal interference with justice could be perpetrated in this country. A little reflection, however, leads to the conclusion that it is only the natural outcrop of previous events. If Attorney-General Mowat and his colleagues could employ McKim to invite the commission of bribery, it is not strange that County-Attorney Peterson thought that he also was at liberty to dabble a little with crime, if he could thereby render McKim more useful as an informer. If a man is employed by Mr. Mowat to commit a crime, of course it would never do to allow a magistrate to hold him for another crime, however clear the evidence, for that might impair his usefulness for his dirty work. County-Attorney Peterson might also allege as some excuse the example of the Mowat Administration and its majority in the legislature. A judge of one of our Superior Courts declared that Dr. Dowling, another of the band of decoys and informers, was guilty of such corrupt practices as to be unfit not only to sit in the Legislature, but even to vote or to act as a bailiff. Incidentally the judge also revealed his opinion that Dowling was a perjurer, for he had on oath denied the offences of which the judge found him guilty in spite of his sworn evidence. As this might also affect his credibility, Mr. Mowat and his majority passed the most disgraceful law upon our statute book to whitewash Dowling and negative the decision of one of our judges. But stay—we must make an exception! One of Mr. Mowat's supporters was too honourable to take part in such an outrage, and left the House rather than submit to be disgraced by being dragged through such dirt even by Mr. Mowat.

What strange ideas of the administration of justice have Attorney-General Mowat and his tools.

REVIEWS.

TIP LEWIS AND HIS LAMP.—In starting their "Young Folks' Library" the publishers, D. Lothrop & Co., of Boston, have made a good selection in giving the first place to Tip Lewis and His Lamp, by "Pansy" (Mrs. G. R. Alden). The story is not only interesting, but it is decidedly improving for the young reader, who will follow the history of "Tip" with lively zest, for though the teaching is good it is by no means prosy. Other books of this series are to be issued monthly at 25cts. or $3 for the yearly subscription.

AN HOUR WITH MISS STREATOR.—This little work by "Pansy" would afford encouragement to many Sunday School teachers, giving them not only hints that bear useful fruit, but also bidding them hope in the future even when their efforts seem to promise very scanty success. The publishers, D. Lothrop & Co., of Boston, who have always done so much for Sunday School literature, have added another gem to their library in this attractive and suggestive sketch.

The Irish Vote in the States.

CHICAGO, May 8.—The Irish Republican National League, in secret session here the last two days to arrange for campaign work in the coming canvass, decided to maintain headquarters here, New York, and Washington. They urge the speakers sent out by the league to attack the free trade theory as the surest means of alienating Irish votes from the Democratic party, on the ground that free trade is an English measure.

The Cuban Filibusters.

KEY WEST, May 7.—It is reliably reported that Aguero is hiding in the swamps of Zapataz Cuba. He expects the peasants will join him in large numbers after the crops have been harvested.

HAVANA, May 7.—The civil guard at Cienfuegos recently attacked and dispersed a small company of bandits and captured some booty, including documents addressed to Aguero, the latter issued by the president and secretary of the Cuban revolutionary society.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

SOME RAILWAY MATTERS DISCUSSED AT MONDAY NIGHT'S SESSION.

The New Coal Yard Siding and the Brock Street Junction—The Finance Committee—Board of Health Instituted—The Auditors Report—Communications, etc.

The Town Council met on Monday evening, in pursuance of a call of the Mayor.

PRESENT.—His Worship Mayor Cox, and Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Allen, Kelly, Rutherford, Green, Yelland, Hartley, Douglas, Menzies and Millar.

The minutes of the last two meetings were read and confirmed.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The TREASURER read a statement of the receipts and expenditure of the Town from January 1st to May 12th, 1884, which was referred to the Finance Committee.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From R. Z. Rogers, asking if it would be a violation of the Town By-Law to move the building known as the Royal Oak some thirty feet.—Building Committee.

From Poussette & Roger, asking that the Electric Light Company be allowed to put up posts on streets.—Granted, to be done under the supervision of the Street and Bridge Committee.

From Chas. Billings, Jr., offering to lay pavement in gutters for 2 cents per square foot, the Town to furnish material, or 40 cents per square yard, he to furnish material.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Geo. Gladman, asking for street improvements.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From John Whyte, asking the Council to map out the bed of the creek, so he would know where to build a wall, and to take steps to prevent a flood again.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Porter Bros. and four others, asking to have Aylmer street, between Charlotte and King streets, watered.—Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were read, the first three ordered to be paid, and the other referred to the Finance Committee:—

|---|---|
| A. Morris, stationery | $ 8 25 |
| John Cronan, planting trees | 23 00 |
| Firemen, filling tank | 6 00 |
| Times Printing Co. | 24 24 |

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

The Street Inspector was, on motion of Councillor Douglas, authorized to put in a small piece of sidewalk.

AN EXPLANATION.

The MAYOR said that he had received a petition asking to have Monday, May 26th, observed as a holiday instead of May 24th, and he sent it to the Clerk. It was signed by a large majority of the merchants of the town. Afterwards he received another petition asking that the holiday be not interferred with, which was also largely signed, but the proclamation in accordance with the first request had been issued before the second petition had been received. A larger number of the merchants had signed the first petition. He asked whether the Council considered that anything further should be done?

No one proposed anything and the matter dropped.

FINANCE

Councillor DAVIDSON read the following report of the Finance Committee:—

To the Mayor and Council of Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN.—The Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts and donations:—

|---|---|
| J. E. Belcher | $ 17 50 |
| Geo. Johnston | 15 00 |
| J. R. Stratton | 18 00 |
| Loghart & Chowan | 14 20 |
| Fire Brigade Band | 100 00 |
| City Band | 50 00 |

Your Committee have examined the auditors' report and the accounts of the town and have great pleasure in stating that they found the same correct.

Your Committee would strongly urge on the Commissioners the necessity for their pressing the Grand Trunk Railway Company for payment of the interest and over-due interest on the Midland Railway Company's bonds, as it appears by the auditors' report that no part of the principal money has been paid for eleven years, which now amounts to $13,200 overdue principal and $4,023.84 overdue interest.

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Peterborough, May 8, 1884.

The report was adopted.

BOARD OF HEATH.

Councillor ALLEN read the report of the Health Committee, recommending that the following be appointed as a Board of Health for the town:—His Worship the Mayor, Councillors Allen, Rutherford, Green and Hartley, and Messrs. C. Stapleton, Richard Hall, Andrew McNeil, and W. Paterson, Jr., and also that Constables Pidgeon and Adams be appointed Health Inspectors.—Adopted.

RAILWAY ACCOMMODATION.

A by-law was introduced and read a first time to permit the Grand Trunk Railway to construct a siding on Bethune Street, between Murray and McDonnell streets.

The Council went into Committee on the second reading of the by-law, Councillor Menzies in the chair.

Councillor DOUGLAS said that the by-law made no provision for payment to the owners of property that would be injured.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the siding would not cross either Murray or McDonnell streets, and the siding would be on Mr. Yelland's property.

Councillor CAHILL said that he was anxious to have Mr. Yelland get the switch, as he thought it would accommodate more than Mr. Yelland, but provision should be made for an arbitration, as in the case of the closing of Wolfe street.

A rather hot discussion ensued between several of the Councillors, and election reminiscences were ventilated freely for a time.

A clause was inserted to the effect that any property owners whose property was prejudicially affected should be compensated by the railway company, the amount to be determined by arbitration within one month from the time of the passing of the By-law.

The committee rose and reported the By-law read a second time as amended. The By-law was then read a third time and passed.

THE AUDITORS' REPORT.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON.—That the Clerk be and is hereby instructed to have 200 copies of the Auditor's report printed in pamphlet form for the information of the ratepayers.

After some discussion the motion was allowed to stand as notice.

OPENING STREETS.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor ALLEN,—That the Town Engineer be instructed to survey Water street from Sherbrooke to Wolfe streets, and also to strike the grade on Dalhousie street from George street to the river.—Carried.

A SIDEWALK.

Councillor MENZIES moved for the construction of a piece of sidewalk in No. 4 Ward, but the matter was finally laid over until the Street and Bridge Committee took their annual spring pilgrimage.

THE BROCK STREET JUNCTION.

Mr. R. KINGAN was heard in reference to the railway tracks at the corner of Brock and Bethune streets. He said that he had appeared before the Council before in reference to this matter, and he had requested the President of the Midland Railway to have the matter settled, but for fifteen or eighteen months he had waited in vain, although he was always courteously received by the officials. Arbitrators had been appointed to dispose of the business—namely, Judge Dean, Mr. Edg. Pearse and Mr. John Bertram—but the consideration of the matter was postponed from time to time at the request of the railway company. Finally a basis for the arbitration was agreed on, and the arbitrators came to a unanimous decision, but Mr. Bell, solicitor for the Grand Trunk Railway, wrote repudiating the whole affair.

The MAYOR said that Mr. Bell stated that he had telegraphed to the arbitrators for an adjournment, which was refused, and in the face of that he wrote this letter. Mr. Bell, however, while holding that Mr. Kingan had no legal claim, stated that they were willing to pay what was just. Mr. Bell's grounds for repudiating the award was that the Directors had no right to bind the Company for anything they were not legally bound to pay.

Mr. KINGAN said that Mr. Bell had asked him what he would take, and his reply was that he would abide by the award. Having waited so patiently and rested in Mr. Cox's promises so much, he now felt aggrieved that he was brought face to face with a gigantic corporation and their determined solicitor. He felt that the Council was called on to protect his interests and of those of other property owners effected, and he asked them to call on the Railway Company to comply with the arbitrator's award or take up the rails.

The MAYOR.—Mr. Bell does say now that he will comply with the terms of the award or take the rails up.

Mr. KINGAN—He did not say so to me. He pooh, pooh'ed it.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that Mr. Kingan should take up the award. He did not know that the Council could do anything now.

Mr. KINGAN asked if he was going to get an answer from the Council, or was he to be abandoned to the tender mercies of the Grand Trunk and its terrible solicitor.

Councillor ALLEN said that Mr. Bell had promised to take up the rails.

Mr. KINGAN said that he said he would take them up to relieve Mr. Cox from the promise he had made, but that he would put them down again.

Councillor MENZIES said that Mr. Kingan should tell Mr. Bell what he claimed, as he had been requested to do, or take up the award and sue for it.

Councillor DOUGLAS thought the Council was in duty bound to protect Mr. Kingan.

The MAYOR said that Mr. Bell had intimated that he would pay the amount of the award if it was in the neighborhood of $1,000. Mr. Connal had a similar lot which the railway had ran through and taken off part, and he only asked $1,200, while Mr. Kingan wanted $2,000 and the line did not touch his lot.

GRAVEL.

Councillor HARTLEY moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD that the proposition of Mr. Gamble for taking gravel out of a cellar back of Mr. Lech's store, be accepted, he paying the Council $40.

The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

The Council adjourned until the evening of Monday, June 2nd.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

INFORMER M'KIM AGAIN

ONE TOOL OF THE MOWAT ADMINISTRATION INTERFERES TO SAVE ANOTHER.

Evidence of McKim's Forgery—A Reform County Attorney Coerces the Magistrate into Discharging the Culprit.

On Friday, May 9th, the notorious Informer McKim was brought before two justices, Messrs. Halley and Buschlen, on the charge of forging the date of a promissory note. Mr. Bigelow appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Guthrie for the defence. County Attorney Peterson also intruded himself with a motive that was shown later.

CLEAR EVIDENCE.

C. H. SMITH, manager for Mr. Lillico, banker of Drayton, swore to discounting the note for McKim, who took the note into the back office and brought it back to him with the date changed from July to August 30. The effect of this was to throw the payment of the note over till after McKim's failure, and leave Gainor, one of the makers, to pay it. This witness gave his evidence very unwillingly.

MICHAEL GAINOR swore positively that the note in question was altered after he signed it. The note was dated in July and he signed it in Aug 10th, but it had since been altered without his authority to "Aug. 30th." Smith told him that McKim had altered it. He had to pay the note himself.

PETER LILLICO swore that the note was discounted in his bank, and that the date "August 30" was written over an erasure.

A STRANGE DEFENCE.

MR. GUTHRIE, Q. C. addressed the court for the defence, principally by attacking Mr. Gainor on account of his drinking and being an ignorant man, also laying much stress upon Mr. Guinor's misplaced confidence in McKim. He poohpoohed Smith, the bank clerk's evidence, and objected to prosecuting McKim because he was a witness in the bribery conspiracy case.

ALTERATION A FORGERY.

Mr. BIGELOW reviewed the evidence to show how completely the crime was proved. He quoted authorities to show that it was expressly held that the alteration of the date of a bill was held to be a forgery. He also pointed out that the magistrate who had issued the warrant was responsible for the decision in such a case, and that no other justice could interfere in it.

CRIMINAL COMPLICITY.

After the counsel had concluded their addresses the events that took place were so extraordinary and disgraceful that we prefer to give them in the words of the report of the Toronto World, an independent Reform journal, which, therefore, cannot be supposed to color its statements through any political prejudices. The World's report says:—

"At the conclusion of the addresses the court room was cleared of all except the magistrates and Mr. Peterson. These three gentlemen remained in consultation for two full hours. At 12 o'clock Mr. Guthrie and Mr. Bigelow were called into the room, and the latter was asked if he would agree to the bail and in what sum. Mr. Bigelow said he was satisfied with reasonable sound bail and the counsel then withdrew, it being understood that the magistrates had decided to convict. An hour later the counsel were recalled and a decision handed down discharging the accused. It is said that Mr. Halley decidedly objected to the discharge without the assumption by Mr. Peterson of the sole responsibility. This Mr. Peterson agreed to, and under the written discharge he subscribed his name with the full responsibility. Therein consists the extraordinary conduct which I mention above. What the outcome will be it is hard to say, but rumours are floating around of an investigation being demanded at the hand of the attorney-general."

Such an interference with justice by a law officer in favour of a criminal because he is doing dirty work for his party is deserving of the severest condemnation.

The London (Eng.) Health Exhibition.

Most of the newspapers speak disparagingly, many of them contemptuously, of the health exhibition, which was open at Kensington yesterday, amid cheers for the Duke of Cambridge and hisses for Mr. Gladstone. The most outspoken of all is Vanity Fair, which says that the Prince of Wales kept away from the opening because he knew that the show was a "Colossal humbug," and that he will doubtless feel impelled to resign the presidency of the association under whose auspices it is given. The editor also denounces the show as a "gigantic fraud, and the most transparent swindle of modern times." This opinion, or at least some milder modification of it, seems to be the prevalent one, for the public resolutely refuses to patronize the exhibition and the receipts are very small.

A New Telephone.

A genius of Sing Sing, N.Y., has invented a dry battery which he expects will revolutionize the working of the telephone. It is a little oblong box 4½ inches by 1½, and three quarters of an inch deep, and is attached to the instrument instead of the ordinary battery. By its use it is possible to carry on a conversation with a person 30 or 40 miles away, and to hear and be heard distinctly. The inventor claims that his dry battery will last as long as the instrument without losing its power. He has had one in constant use for three weeks, doing work that would have used up the ordinary battery in ten minutes.

Methodist Conference.

The Toronto Conference of the New United Methodist Church will comprise the Toronto, Brampton, Whitby, Bradford, Barrie, Bracebridge, Collingwood, Algoma, Edinburgh, New Westminster, and Port Simpson and Japan. The Walkerton and Owen Sound districts will go to the Guelph Conference, and the Bellaville, Cobourg, Lindsay, Peterborough and Picton districts will form the new Bay of Quinte conference.

A Gigantic Enterprise.

It is proposed to build a general sub-way under all the principal streets of London. The cost of such an enterprize would be considerable but the benefits derived from it would, in the end, more than pay the cost. The architectural and scientific papers speak approvingly of the scheme. This calls to mind the proposed arcade under Broadway, New York City.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CURRENT PUBLIC SENTIMENT CULLED FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

SECESSION NOT STRENGTH.

Manitoba is still restive and threatens to secede from the Canadian Confederation. The Manitobans ought to read Æsop's fable of the belly and the members, or the bundle of faggots, and apply the moral to their case. Secession does not mean strength.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

A FANATICAL FREE-TRADER.

Sir Richard Cartwright is a fanatical unreasoning free trader. He believes in a set of abstract politico-economical doctrines as applicable under all times and circumstances. If the facts are against him, why "so much the worse for the facts."—Toronto News (Indep).

ADDITION AND SUBSTITUTION.

When a new country like Canada adopts protection, what happens is not the substitution of manufactures for agriculture; but the addition of the new production of the factory to the whole sum of the country's products, the old production of the farm going on as before. The process is emphatically one of addition, not of substitution. What protection does is to give us both instead of one only. And until they can see this point the free traders are in the dark.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

THE TRUTH ADMITTED.

The people of Quebec were for a long time isolated. Those of them who have gone abroad to seek employment elsewhere have returned largely imbued with the industrial notions of our day, and they have exercised a beneficial influence upon their countrymen.—London Advertiser (Reform).

CHEAPENED BY PROTECTION.

There is hardly a protected article that is not now cheaper in Canada than before the establishment of the National policy. There is not one that would not rise in price within three years after the destruction of the National Policy.—Hamilton Spectator.

NOT RESPONSIBLE.

We hope no one rejoices over the depression from which England's industrial interests are suffering, but nevertheless we observe that it does not tend to corroborate the theory that Protection is responsible for the depression here.—Philadelphia North American.

"ONE LYNCH."

Another point is worth considering: The theory of the Government is that at the time Lynch appeared on the scene the arrangement between Wilkinson and McKim was mutually satisfactory. At least it was satisfactory to Wilkinson. Then Lynch came on apparently determined to pay money to a man so easily bought. If he was Wilkinson's confederate why was he so urgent to rebuy his own property? That question may possibly be answered by the Globe's statement that no charge of bribery could be made out unless money actually changed hands.—Hamilton Spectator.

NO POLITICS.

The undignified squabble among the police commissioners over the political aspect of the recent promotions recalls the following story told by a United States contemporary: "Mayor Grummond not long ago remarked to a friend that Henry Starkey, Secretary of the Water Board, was making his office a Democratic stronghold. 'Now,' said the Mayor, 'I don't propose to have any politics in the Water Board, so I'm going to turn Starkey out and put a good Republican in his place."—Toronto World (Ind. Ref.)

IT IS NATURAL.—It is natural for some people to be bilious, being often a result of peculiar bilious temperment, which with high living, too greecy food, indigestion from inactive liver, is the frequent cause. The remedy above all others, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It is highly curative for all biliary complaints, and far better than physic for inactive conditions of the bowels.

LOCAL NEWS

Picturesque Canada.

Mr. W. A. Lawrence is now in town delivering to subscribers the 29th and 30th parts of Picturesque Canada.

Almost Every Express Train

brings new additions to the Millinery Department at the Golden Lion. This branch has been very successful since its inauguration, under the management of Mlle. Choquette. FAIR, VANEVERY & Co.

The Celebration.

The fireworks for the evening of May 24th have been ordered by the Fire Brigade from Prof. Palmer. N. J. The firemen have spared no expense, and will spare none, consequently the display is expected to be the best ever witnessed in Peterborough.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Winds mostly east and south; cloudy weather, with local rains; stationary or higher temperature.

Saved Army Notes.

Two converts at the meeting on Monday evening.

Lieut. Annie White is ill at Lakefield.

There will be no meeting here this evening.

General Lindsay is expected to be present on Wednesday night.

A business meeting will be held on Thursday evening.

A Short Stoppage.

A slight accident to the water wheel in Mr. Brodie's woollen factory caused a stoppage of the machinery on Monday night—the first time it has been stopped in over a year, as the mill has been running steadily, night and day. This morning, however, the machinery in two flats was again running, and the damage will be repaired and the whole mill at work by noon to-morrow. There are too many orders on hand to allow the factory to be idle an hour longer than was absolutely necessary.

Lacrosse Club Concert.

The services of Miss Clara Cluxton and of Mr. Warrington, Toronto's favorite baritone, have been engaged for the Lacrosse Club Concert. Other eminent artists, including Mrs. Macdougall, the most charming amateur soprano of Montreal, are being negotiated with. Mr. Charles W. Ewing and the Mendelssohn Quartette Club, are also engaged, and will thus complete the attractiveness of a Concert which will without doubt be the best Peterborough has heard for many years. We understand a magnificent grand piano has been obtained for the occasion from the manufactory of Messrs. Heintzman & Co., of King street, Toronto, through the agency of Mr. Hartley, of Hunter street.

Athletic Combination for 24th.

Duncan C. Ross, heavy weight champion athlete, and combination have been secured for the 24th May. Ross has with him Marvin Thompson, the giant; Wm. Lang, heavy weight boxer, of Cleveland; and Mons. Joseph. Duncan C. Ross will be master of ceremonies and participate in the games, Thompson will referee the Moriarty-Lynch glove contest. Mons. Joseph will pull against a team of horses; he offers any team in Peterborough $100 that will pull him off a ladder. D. C. Ross offers R. N. Harrison, Paddy Bain, Jo. Pop, Jack Stewart, or any man in Canada $100, that will stand before Wm. Lang for four rounds with soft gloves. The combination will arrive here on May 23rd, and will positively take part in the games on Saturday, May 24th. Preparations are complete for the games. Any one the least interested in athletics can see dozens of athletes every afternoon training in the agricultural grounds.

The Electric Light.

The Electric Light Company having obtained permission from the Town Council to put up their poles in the streets, work was commenced this morning towards preparing to put up the wires. The services of Mr. A. T. Smith have been secured, through the courtesy of the telephone Company, and he will have charge of the work of erecting the poles and laying the wires—a sufficient guarantee that it will be well done. In order to rush matters to have the illumination ready for the 24th of May, some poles will have to be put up temporarily, but they will be replaced by octagonal painted poles.

Pencil Points.

—Cloudy and cool.

—The Indian remains in Peterborough—but it is only the remains that remain.

—The Town Council on Monday night granted $100 to the Fire Brigade Band and $50 to the City Band.

—A meeting of the Board of Education will be held at 7.45 o'clock this evening in the Board room.

—The Fire Brigade will turn out at 7 o'clock this evening for a drill. They will have hydrant practice.

—A by-law was passed at the council meeting on Monday evening granting permission to the G.T.R. to put in a siding on Bethune street between McDonnell and Murray streets. This is the siding there was so much trouble about last year.

Indian Remains.

It is an opinion held by many that ground now covered by the town of Peterborough was the scene of a great battle fought by Indians in bygone years. The remains of Indians and relics of the race frequently found at least proves that numerous red men at one time inhabited this part of the country. This morning a discovery made by men working near the Ontario and Quebec bridge, at the side of Dalhousie street, added further proof to that already collected. They were digging in the earth, filling carts, when they came upon a human skull, and more shovelling revealed two more skulls, bones, arrow heads, and other relics of the noble red man. One of the skulls was broken in removing it, and another was taken by one of the laborers. Mr. J. H. Burnham secured the third skull, which was well preserved, and will send it, with some of the relics, to the museum in University College, Toronto. Mr. Richard Cook, who resides near the corner of George and Dalhousie streets, has quite a large collection of curiosities, many of them gathered at this place. His collection includes rough hewn stone gouges, tomahawks, more finely finished arrow heads, heavy stone pipes, and numerous other rare articles. More curiosities will probably be found as the earth is removed.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1884.

KEENE.

From our own Correspondent.

TEMPERANCE.—The I. O. G. T. Lodge in Allandale is in a flourishing condition, having started with about thirty members. The Lang people are strong on temperance, as even mine host, John Fox, intends to run a temperance house, etc.

REPORTERS.—After the last article in the Hastings Star, we think that there will be peace or at least that calm that follows a storm.

BAND.—The V. B. B. intend to have a concert before long and also an excursion next month. Be sure and attend both, and by so doing you will have a pleasant time and also helping a good institution.

INSURANCE.—Life insurance agents are making another charge on this village.

BOATING.—The attraction at present seems to be boating. We believe that a few of the young folks had a picnic on Monday last. The township council ought to see that the wharf is fixed, as at present it is very dangerous.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—The 24th promises to be the grandest day ever held in Keene. The Masons from Port Hope and Cobourg have made arrangements for a special train to leave Cobourg, on the arrival of G. T. train from the west, for Harwood where a boat will bring the party to Keene. As connection will be made in the evening with the G. T. for the west a large number intend to come from, Toronto and intermediate places. The brethren in Keene will be happy to see as large a number as possible from Peterborough and vicinity. Dinner will be served in the drill shed during the afternoon. The V. B. B., of Keene, has been engaged and will play during the afternoon. Come and see us.

Return of Valentine Baker.

LONDON, May 12.—Baker Pasha arrived in London this evening, and is looking fat, rosy, and jolly. A grim shade, however, still covers one of his eyes and partly conceals the ugly shell wound which he received in his desperate but disastrous attempt to relieve Tokar last February. His return to London for the first time since his disgrace on account of his railway compartment adventure with Miss Dickenson has given impetus to the movement to secure his restoration to the rank of colonel in the army, and his reinstatement as the commander of the 10th Hussars, who still idolize him, as was shown by the rousing cheers with which they greeted him at Suakin. The present moment, however, is not the most favourable time for the success of the effort, as his chief companion the Prince of Wales, is out of the country, and the Queen and the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief, are reported to be as inexorable as ever.—Mail.

Find the "Golden Lion."

The Remnants which FAIR, VANEVERY & Co. advertise so cheap are selling very fast. Some choice patterns, in good lengths, have recently been added to that wonderful remnant counter. Ask to see their special value in Shirtings and Factory Cotton.

The Canal Tolls.

MONTREAL, May 13.—Sir John Macdonald, the Premier, has written here to the Board of Trade offering to receive a deputation in Ottawa this week on the important subject of abolishing the tolls on all the canals in the Dominion. A leading merchant here suggested that the better way was for the Government to suspend the collection of tolls this year, when wheat crop is so short, and if there be a great harvest this fall the tolls could be resumed next year if deemed expedient. The number of steamers in port are 18, and there is not a full cargo of grain offering for one. The port will suffer heavily if the Government does not take immediate action.

Expelled from Russia.

At St. Petersburg despatch says Brenstedt, a Danish pressmen, after having been confined as a prisoner for several weeks without being permitted a trial, has been conveyed to the frontier. The Government withholds the reason of his banishment. Brenstedt's family as in St. Petersburg in a destitute condition.

A NIGHT ATTACK.

A Man Enters the Room of his Sister, Brother-in-Law and Niece and attempts Murder.

HAMILTON, May 12.—About 2 o'clock Saturday morning a serious shooting affair occurred at 76 Catherine-street, the residence of Samuel Clarke and family. A man named James Wall Jr., brother-in-law to Clarke, had got through a window into the house, and in the darkness made his way to the bedroom of his sister, brother-in-law, and child. Wall pulled his revolver, and told them to prepare to die. Mrs. Clarke and her little girl screamed for their lives. Mr. Clarke jumped from the bed. Wall fired, one ball taking effect in the child's temple and another in Clarke's arm. Clarke and Wall grappled in a deadly struggle. The revolver was again discharged, the ball entering the wall. Clarke secured the revolver, and Wall fled. It appears that Clarke and Wall are not on friendly terms, and last evening Wall had called at Clarke's house and threatened the family, which threat he carried out. The child, though seriously injured, is not in a dangerous condition. Wall was arrested to-day in St. Catharines, and with him James Spence. They were both handcuffed and brought to Hamilton on this afternoon's fast express.

May 13.—James Wall, would-be murderer of his brother-in-law and family, was brought into Court this morning and with him James Findlay, who was found in his company when arrested in St. Catharines. The prosecution not being ready, the case was laid over to come up Thursday next.

THE VOTE OF CENSURE.

There is a great deal of anxious speculation as to the result of the division on the vote of censure moved by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on the 2nd inst., and which declares that "The House regrets that the course of the Government has not tended to promote the success of General Gordon's mission, and that steps to secure his personal safety have been delayed." Both sides claim to be confident of a victory, the Government "whips" declaring that, after a minute canvass of the House, they are sure of a majority of 60, while the Concervatives ridicule this statement, and express confidence of their ability to either defeat the Government altogether or to cut down its majority to so trivial a figure as to be equal to a defeat in constraining the Ministers to resign. There is no doubt that the outside pressure during the past two weeks has all been in favour of the censure. Most all the newspapers, and notably the Times and Pall Mall Gazette, are daily breating the Government, and two large popular meetings held in London since the moving of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's resolution have cheered to the echo the most bitter abuse of Mr. Gladstone. One of these meetings was held in Exeter hall and presided over by Canon Hoare, and the other, in St. James' hall, had the Earl of Cadogan for its presiding officer.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

It is stated at Cairo that Zebehr Pasha has declared he will not rest until he has killed General Gordon. It is also stated that Gordon had under consideration the propriety of abandoning Khartoum on the 10th of last month.

The report that Lord Wolseley would command the expedition for the relief of Khartoum is denied. General Graham will command the expedition if his health, which was impaired during his Asia campaign, permits.

The situation at Dongola is alarming, and inhabitants are in a state of panic. There is only a small force of troops there.

Inquiry into the Death of Mrs. McCabe.

LONDON, May 13.—The inquest in the case of Ann McCabe, of London South, whose sudden death on the 26th ult. was attributed to poisoning, was resumed last night and continued this evening. No new facts were elicited yesterday, but the evidence adduced to-night was highly important. Dr. Waugh, who made the post mortem examination, testified to the generally healthy condition of the vital organs with the exception of some changes in the stomach, the brain, and the spinal cord. He did not think death was attributable to drink, but was caused by a narcotic acrid poison. He had not determined the exact poison used, but strychnine, aconite, or atrophia would have caused the appearance presented by the organs affected. After hearing the evidence of those who were present at the woman's death he concluded the symptoms were those peculiar to strychnine poisoning. Dr. Wishart, who was at the post-mortem, confirmed Dr. Waugh's views. He believed that death was caused by strychnine, in which opinion he was also supported by Dr. Brown. The report of Dr. Ellis, of Toronto, Public Analyst, was then read. Dr. Ellis stated he had analysed a portion of the woman's stomach, and found it to contain one-fifth of a grain of strychnine. Other portions remain to be examined. Crown-Attorney Hutchinson stated he had telegraphed to Toronto to have the analysis completed. The jury, after a short deliberation, returned a verdict of wilful murder against George McCabe, husband of the deceased. McCabe was at once committed for trial, and the case will come before the Grand Jury at the present assizes.—Globe.

Going to Join the Army.

About fifty Toronto Salvationists assembled in their barracks, Little Richmond street, the other day for the purpose of attending the grand army demonstration in New York. After devotional exercises they walked out with flags flying and drums beating, and wended their way to the Union station, where they boarded a train for the land of the Screaming Eagle.—Mail.

Another box near by contained seven pounds of an earthy substance labelled "ground umber." If the material proves to be dynamite it seems without doubt that a large portion of the arsenal has had a narrow escape.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

WEST NOTHUMBERLAND.

THE petition against the election of Mr. George Guillett, the Conservative member for West Northumberland, has been dismissed by the Judge.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

SOME few of the Reform journals, though they could see nothing good in Sir Charles Tupper a few days ago, are finding out, now that he has announced his resignation of his portfolio in the Dominion Cabinet, that he is a very able man, and that his departure will strike a deadly blow at the Macdonald Administration.

This inconsistency is, however, a trifling blemish as compared with the conduct of some of the baser specimens of Reform journalism Angered apparently at the expression of regret and the panegyrics that deservedly had been showered upon him since his approaching departure has been announced, they have bespattered him with abuse in the hope that some of the dirt may stick. Old accusations and insinuations, that have been published from time to time in their press, but which their parliamentary leaders, either from fear or scorn refused to bring forward in the House, are again reproduced as an excuse for rabid abuse.

Sir Charles Tupper has rendered most valuable services to his country by his management of his important department; by so doing he has helped greatly to strengthen his party in the favour of the people of Canada, and, hence the enmity of these critics. If they had any patriotism they would not endeavour to weaken his influence as our representative in the mother country, but would rather do all in ther power to strengthen his hands. However, their peculiar tactics are well known in England, and the abuse that has been lavished upon Sir Charles Tupper will be recognized as only an additional testimonial in his favour.

TIMELY PLANS.

THE communication read at the recent meeting of the Town Council from Mr. John Whyte asking that the bed of the creek should be mapped out so that he might know where to place the wall for his new building and to take steps to prevent future damages by flood, is one that calls for careful consideration. Indeed, though Mr. Whyte's request applies only to his own immediate case, it may well be extended to cover the whole course of the creek through the town. We have lately had a serious proof of the damages that may be caused by want of a well-devised plan, but in truth more or less injury to property and constant expense at the cost of the town have been the rule rather than the exception. The whole subject should be considered and a plan should be adopted not necessarily to be carried out at once but to be as a guide for future gradual operations. It is a matter both for an engineer and a lawyer to determine howthis may best be done, for private as well as public rights are involved, but probably there is no difficulty either engineering, legal or financial that cannot be overcome in this respect with due consideration. The present hap-hazard system is certainly not economical.

And it is not only as regards the creek that some authorised plan might be adopted with benefit. The future grade of any of the streets that may require alteration should also be settled. Then anyone building would know what to expect and might govern himself accordingly. Under such a system we would not have streets crossing each other at inconvenient grades, and we would have no more such cases as a tank on our principle street left protruding above the level, or houses perched up on the top of banks without any means of access.

A little forethought would be well bestowed upon this matter as upon most others.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CURRENT PUBLIC SENTIMENT CULLED FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

NO EMBEZZLER HANDY.

It will scarcely be credited by the people living in the older counties of Ontario that although it has been repeatedly requested, and has so often promised to give the subject his "best consideration," Mr. Mowat has persistently refused to establish even a stipendiary Magistrate at Manitoulin Island, and compels the settlers to travel upwards of 400 miles, going and returning, to reach a court of justice.—Algoma Pioneer (Indp).

WAITING FOR HARD TIMES.

The Montreal Witness is much disgusted with the vote in congress on the tariff, but consoles itself with the reflection that "time is on the side of free trade." Hard times generally are.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref).

TROUBLE TO HIS NEIGHBORS.

Certain it is that Mr. McKim's financial shortcomings have caused a good deal of trouble to many of his neighbors, some of whom are alleged to have lost their homesteads through his unprofitable speculations. It would be wise for a man so unfortunately situated to direct his whole attention to his private affairs.—Toronto World, (Ind. Ref.)

NEEDS DISCIPLINING.

Mr. Neelon, M.P.P., needs to be disciplined. He has christened his new steamer "The Sir Leonard Tilley." If that boat is ever wrecked, certain people will regard the accident as a judgment of heaven upon his heresy.—Toronto World, (Ind. Ref.)

SCURRILOUS JOURNALISM.

The Toronto Globe has taken another veritable leap forward in journalism. It has admiringly published extracts from a scurrilous American travesty upon the Queen's last book. The stuff is in such shocking bad taste that no respectable American newspaper has degraded its columns with it, and it looks terribly out of place in a Canadian newspaper which was founded by George Brown. Why does the Globe abuse the Queen? Surely it knows that Her Majesty is not a member of Sir John Macdonald's Government.—Hamilton Spectator.

VERY ANNOYING.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mr. Robt. McKim, M.P.P. on a charge of forgery. The case is supposed to be the one alluded to during the progress of the trial of the bribery conspirators, and for which Mr. McKim has already said he has a perfect defence. The prosecution is supposed to be taken for the sole purpose of annoying Mr. McKim.—Toronto Globe.

ITS COMPANY AVOIDED.

We are not supersensitive, but we desire not to be hit by the same shillelagh as the Globe or any of its minions. Such company is not to be coveted even in misery.—Toronto World (Indep. Ref.)

FACTIOUS CRITICISM.

Nobody charged Mr. Blake with invasion of Provincial rights when he advised disallowance of Provincial acts. Yet he exercised that power much more freely than Sir John Macdonald has exercised it, In blaming Sir John for exercising that power Reform journals are factious and dishonest.—Hamilton Spectator.

PROMOTING TEMPERANCE.

We entreat the good women who desire to promote temperance to establish a school of cookery where all, especially the wives and daughters of the humble classes may learn plain cooking—learn to make the best of cheap food—learn to put simple viands on the table in attractive shape. So will they counteract the wiles of "the rum fiend," enable the poor to make their plain food do better service, and assist in making the lives of the humble more tolerable.—Hamilton Spectator.

REVIEWS.

PICTURESQUE CANADA.—The 29th and 30th parts of Picturesque Canada, which have just reached us, are as interesting and beautifully illustrated as any of their predecessors. A lovely view of Lake Memphremagog, which forms the frontispiece, prepares the reader for a graphic description of that district of the "Eastern Townships." There is also a brief narrative of the fierce conflicts between the French with their savage allies the Abenakis, and the English, with their equally savage confederates the Iroquois. Especially interesting to readers in this locality is the reference to the fact that "Rogers' Rangers, in 1759, swept like a whirlwind of fire to exterminate the whole brood of tigers (the Abenakis) that had so long harried the homes of New England." The descendants of this dashing leader still show among us that they inherit his military tastes, and in the "Peterborough Rangers" the title of the renowned old corps is recalled to memory. The next chapter deals with "The Lower St. Lawrence and the Saguenay," with their grand and majestic scenery, so admirably depicted. Again we are thrilled with the exciting tales of the adventurous spirit of the old French settlers, the devotion of the Jesuit missionaries, and the devilry of the savages, for whose conversion they worked. No less interesting, and more utilitarian, are the accounts of the Saguenay region as a field for emigration. Canada, as is too often forgotten, has a North-East as well as a North-West to colonize. Following down our great river, the concluding papers take us to Gaspe, the land's end of Old Canada. We feel with regret that we must be drawing near the close of this beautiful and fascinating work.

Best With One Exception.

Our enterprising contemporary the Peterborough REVIEW, has just put in a large new Campbell newspaper press, capable of running off 2,000 papers per hour. The Weekly REVIEW has been enlarged since the new press was started and is now one of the largest and most newsy local weeklies in Canada. We only regret that the REVIEW is such an extreme party paper, otherwise we could safely give it credit for being the best country journal west of Toronto, with a single exception. But as Peterborough is only a suburb of Lindsay we must speak very cautiously lest we should be accused of not being sufficiently posted to write a review of local journalism. Speaking of presses the Campbell may be a very fair press, but we cannot see why the REVIEW Printing Co. did not put in a Prouty at once, and thereby obviate the necessity of changing the Campbell for a Prouty a few years hence.—Bowmanville Canadian Statesman (Reform.)

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

"I am afraid I have been culpably thoughtless in introducing to her mind, various doctrines and theories, which I never imagined she could comprehend, or would even ponder for a moment. Since my sight has become so impaired and feeble, I have several times called on her to read some articles which certainly are not healthful pabulum for a child, and my conversations with Douglass, relative to scientific theories have been carried on unreservedly in her presence. I am very glad you warned me."

"And I am exceedingly sorry, if the effect of my mother's words should be to hamper and cramp the exercise of Regina's faculties. Free discussion should be dreaded only by hypocrites and fanatics, and after all it is the best crucible for eliminating the false from the true. Does the contemplation of physical monstrosities engender a predilection or affection for deformity? Does it not rather by contrast with symmetry and perfect proportion heighten the power and charm of the latter? The beauty of truth is never so invincible as when confronted with sophistry or falsehood; just as youth and health seem doubly fair and precious, in the presence of trembling decrepitude and revolting disease."

"Really Bishop! I thought you had passed the sophomoric state, and it is a shameful waste of dialectic ammunition to throw your antitheses at me. According to your doctrine, America ought to buy up and import all the deformed unfortunates who are annually exposed in China, in order that our people should properly appreciate the superiority of sound limbs, and the value of the five senses; and healthy young people should throng the lazarettos and almshouses, to learn the nature of their own advantages. It is equally desirable that wise men like you and Peyton should accustom yourselves to the society of—well—I use polite diction,—of imbeciles, of 'innocents,' in order to set a true value on learning and your own astute logic?"

"My dear little mother, you chop your logic so furiously with a broad axe, that you darken the air with a hurricane of chips and splinters. Like all ladies who attempt to argue, you rush into the reductio ad absurdum, and find it impossible to discriminate between"——

"Wisdom and conceit? Bless you Bishop—observation has taught me all the shades and gradations of that differerence. We women no more mistake the latter or the former, than the Gods who decline to turn canibal when they went to dine with Tantalus, and were offered a fricasse of Pelops. Now I"——

"Ceres did eat it!" exclaimed her son, adroitly avoiding a tweak of the ear, by throwing his head back, beyond the touch of her fingers.

"A wretched pagan fable Sir,—with which orthodox Bishops should hold no communion. Tell me, you beardless Gamaliel, where you accumulated your knowledge relative to the education of girls? Present us a chart of your experience. You talk of hampering and cramping Regina's faculties, as if I had put her brains in a pair of stays, and daily tightened the lacers."

"I am inclined to think the usual forms of female education have precisely that effect. The fact is mother, it appears that women in this country are expected to become the reserve magazines of piety, of religious fervour—on the certain powerful principle that 'ignorance is the mother of devotion.' True knowledge which springs from fearless investigation, is a far nobler, and more reliable conservator of pure vital Christianity."

"Exempli gratia,—Miss Martineau and Madame Dudevant, who were crowned heads among the cognoscenti? Or perhaps you would prefer a second 'La Pelouse,' governed by Miss Weber, who certainly agrees with you, 'that girls are trained too delicately to allow the mind to expand.' Illuminated and expanded by 'philosophy' and 'social progress' she and Madame Dudevant long ago literally abjured stays, and glory in the usurpation of vests, pantaloons, coats and short hair. Be pleased to fancy my Regina—my blue-eyed snow-bird, shorn of that

'Gloriole of ebon locks on calmed brows!'

I would rather see her in her coffin;—shrouded in a ruffled pinafore."

"Much as love her, so would I; but Elise we will anticipate no such dreadful destiny. She has a clear fine mind, is studious and ambitious, but certainly not a genius,—unless it be in music; and she can be trained into a cultivated refined woman sufficiently conversant with the sciences to cotemporaneous development, without threatening us with pedantry, or adopting a style suitable to the groves of Crotona, in the days of Damo, or the abstruse mystical diction that doomed Hypatia to the mercy of the monks. After all, why scare up a blue-stockinged ogre, which may have no intention of depredating upon our peace; for to be really learned is no holiday amusement in this cumulative age, and offers little temptation to a young girl. Not long since, I found a sentence bearing upon this subject, which impressed itself upon my mind as both strong and healthy: 'And by this you may recognise true education from false. False education is a delightful thing, and warms your and makes you every day think more of yourself; and true education is a deadly cold thing, with a Gorgon's head on her shield, and makes you every day think worse of yourself. Worse in two ways also, more is the pity;—it is perpetuallo increasing the personal sense of ignorance, and the personal sense of fault.'"

"In that event, may I venture to wonder where and how you and Douglass stand in your own estimation? If quotations are en regele, I can match your Reverence,—though unfortunately my feminine memory is not like yours—a tireless beast of burden,—and I must be allowed to read. Here is the book close at hand, in my stocking basket. Now, wise and gentle Sire, this is my ideal of proper, healthful, feminine education, as contrasted with our new-fangled method of making girls either lay-figures for millinery, jewellery, and frizzled false hair,—or else,—far more horrible still,—social hermaphrodites, who storm the posts that have been assigned to men ever since that venerable and sacred time when 'Adam delved and Eve span,' and who, forsaking holy home haunts, wage war against nature on account of the mistake made in their sex,—and clamour for the 'hallowed inalienable right' to jostle and be jostled at the poll; to brawl in the market place, and to rant on the rostrum, like a bevy of bedlamites. Now, when I begin to read, listen, and tell me frankly—whether when you both make up your minds to present me, one a sister,—the other a daughter,—you will select your wives from among quaint Evelyn's almost absolete type,—or whether you will commit your name, affections, wardrobe, larder, pantry and poultry to a strong-minded female 'scientist'—who will neglect your socks and buttons, to ascertain exactly how many Vibriones and Bacteria float in a drop of fluid,—and when you come home tired and very hungry, will comfort you, and nobly atone for the injury of an ill-cooked and worse served dinner,—by regaling your weary ears with her own ingenious and brilliant interpretation and translation of Ælia Lælia Crispis! Here is my old-fashioned English damsel, meek as a violet, fresh as a dewy daisy, and sweet as a bed of thyme and marjoram. 'The style and method of life are quite changed, as well as the language, since the days of our ancestors, simple and plain as they were, courting their wives for their modesty,—frugality, keeping at home, good housewifery, and other economical virtues then in reputation. And when the young damsels were taught all these at home in the country at their parents' houses, the portion they brought being more in virtue than money,—she being a richer match than any one who could bring a million, and nothing else to commend her. The virgins and young ladies of that golden age put their hands to the spindle, nor disdained the needle; were obsequious and helpful to the parents, instructed in the management of the family, and gave presage of making excellent wives. Their retirements were devout and religious books, their recreations in the distillery and knowledge of plants, and their virtues for the comfort of their poor neighbours, and use of the family, which wholesome diet and kitchen physic preserved in health. Then things were natural, plain and wholesome; nothing was superfluous,—nothing unnecessary wanted. The poor were relieved bountifully, and charity was as warm as the kitchen, where the fire was perpetual.' Now, if Regina were only my child, I should with some modifications, train her after this mellow old style."

COLLISION IN GULF OF ST. LAWRENCE.

MONTREAL, May 12.—Capt. Anderson, of the Norwegian barque Venus, 1,079 tons, from London, April 3rd, with a general cargo, which arrived in port yesterday, gives the following account of a catastrophe which occured in the Gulf of St. Lawrence:—From the date of our leaving London up to April 28th we had fair weather across the Atlantic, and when nearing Newfoundland met but little ice. On the morning of the date last mentioned, however, there occurred the first incident of note. At three o'clock, the weather being comparatively clear, a sailor on the lookout reported a ship ahead, and a minute later he shouted to the man at the wheel to put the vessel hard aport, which was immediately done. Before the Venus could answer her helm there was a fearful crash forward, followed by cries of men in distress. I was in my cabin at the time the light was reported, and as soon as possible was out on the top-gallant forecastle. I found that the barque had struck a schooner amidships, and that she was rapidly sinking. Seven of her crew scrambled on board my boat, dressed only in their underclothing. Surmising that the craft was a fisherman and that all her crew had not been rescued by the small number who reached the deck of the barque, I had boats launched and made a thorough search for any possible survivors By this time the schooner had disappeared, and if any of her crew had managed to cling to a piece of the wreck they could not be found. After rowing about for an hour the boats were hoisted in. The rescued men proved to be the remnant of a crew of nineteen which had left St. Pierre the previous day at 2 o'clock, on a fishing voyage to the Great Bank. They were all French. I had no one on board who could speak that language, but it was their gesticulations towards the sinking craft that induced me in a great measure to make every effort to safe as many lives as possible. The men were clothed, and given all the accommodation the Venus afforded, and on 29th April they were landed at St. Pierre. It was not till then that we learned the full particulars of the collision and loss of so many lives. The accident occurred 38 miles south-south-west of St. Pierre. I think the schooner must have been about 80 tons register. Beyond a little damage to the forerigging the Venus was not hurt by the crash. My mate was on the quarter deak when the look-out reported a vessel ahead, and gave the order to port the helm simultaneously. From the confused statements of the schooner's crew who were rescued it is very evident that they had not a proper lookout forward, hence the calamity. Captain Anderson made the above statement very carefully, accompanying his remarks by reference to his official log-book, and describing the respective positions of the two vessels. The disaster is somewhat similar in circumstances to those connected with the loss of the State of Florida, the only apparent difference being a greater sacrifice of life in the latter case. Both collisions occurred in what sailors would term clear weather.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, May 12.—In the House of Commons this evening a notice by Mr. George Anderson, Advanced Liberal, that he should shortly move to condemn the existence of the House of Lords, created great hilarity.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach moved again his motion of May 2nd, "That this House regrets the course of the Government has not tended to promote the success of Gordon's mission, and that steps to secure his personal safety have been delayed." The motion was received with prolonged cheers. Sir Hicks-Beach sharply reviewed the course of the Government in the matter, and said England now demands that Gordon and all those who trusted him shall be rescued.

Mr. Gladstone was greeted with hearty and long-continued applause when he rose to reply. He denied that the Government had deserted General Gordon. He claimed that the real object of the motion was to displace the Government. He referred to the official despatches to prove Gordon's security, and said the Government declines to be driven on without considering the blood, honor, and treasure of England, and the Government also declines to enter upon a vast scheme of conquest to please a captious Opposition.

LOCAL NEWS

The Cells.

There was one tramp in the Police cells last night, and a clean sheet at the Court this morning.

The First Drive.

A drive of logs belonging to the Messrs. Fowlds, of Hastings, is on the way down and is near Peterborough.

Almost Every Express Train

brings new additions to the Millinery Department at the Golden Lion. This branch has been very successful since its inauguration, under the management of Mlle. Choquette. FAIR, VANEVERY & Co.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong westerly winds, fine warmer weather.

Flying Paper.

The stormy wind of to-day carried about the streets a large quantity of loose paper. On George street the amount of this rubbish that was flying about was disgraceful, and was dangerous as well, for horses might easily be frightened by it.

Saved Army Notes.

Miss Ada Brown and Miss Sarah Rowly, of Peterborough, have received lieutenant's commissions. The former has gone to Millbrook to assist Lieut. Goheen, and the latter to Lakefield to assist Lieut. Annie White.

Lieut. Hattie Arberscombe, of Cobourg, who had charge of Newcastle, arrived here on Tuesday to assist Capt. Munt.

Capt. Munt's wife and family arrived here on Tuesday.

Lieut. Louise Pearse will remain here until Monday.

Improving the Village.

The Municipal Council of Ashburnham have shown their desire to have the streets of the village improved, and have taken a good plan of having their desire accomplished. They have purchased a number of trees suitable for setting out as shade trees, and have contracted with Mr. T. Trennum for delivering them in the village. These trees are given to any resident who will plant them and place a proper guard around them. A number of trees have been taken on these terms, and more of them will probably be called for. This shows a laudable ambition on the part of the Council and the residents of the village to beautify the streets.

Personal.

Mr. J. T. Emerson, a young gentleman well known and highly respected in Peterborough, leaves this afternoon for Muskegon, Michigan. Mr. Emerson was a member of Peterborough Council Royal Templars of Temperance, of which he has been recording secretary since it was instituted here, and before departing he was presented with, an address signed by Bro. J. Stratton and Jas. A. Fife, M.D., on behalf of, and in accordance with, a resolution of the Council, expressive of their esteem for him as a brother, citizen, and young man of rare amiable qualities, as well as of their regret at his departure and good wishes for his welfare, and predicting for him a bright and prosperous future.

An Unpleasant Fall.

A dangerous place was left in the sidewalk on the south side of Hunter street, when the building fell at the time of the freshet. The walk was not repaired nor a proper guard placed there to warn persons of the danger and to cause them to turn out on the street. Early on Tuesday evening Mrs. Costello, who was walking on that side of the street, having forgotten about this hole and not seeing it in the dark, stepped off the walk and fell into the creek. The water is about a foot deep where she feel in, and her cries brought assistance. She received some injuries in falling, but we understand they were not serious, although she might easily have struck against the boards and been badly hurt. A stick of timber has since been placed across the walk to prevent any one going to far.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE STAFF TO CONSIST OF FOUR TEACHERS.

The Present Staff Disengaged, With a Right to Apply for Re-appointment—Fees for Classics and Moderns—The Attendance—Communications, etc.

A meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening.

PRESENT—Messrs. Stevenson, (Chairman), Wrighton, Sawers, Rutherford, Cox, Weir, Denne, Errett, Millar, Dumble, Stratton, Kendry and Dr. Burnham.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

ENQUIRY.

Mr. DENNE enquired regarding the report of the Committee appointed to visit the schools last month.

Mr. SAWERS said that they did not find work enough in the High School for all the teachers, while in the lower schools there was plenty of work.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Miss Lizzie Reid, offering her services as a drawing teacher.—Committee on Appointments.

From H. Kay Coleman, head master of the Public Schools, asking the Board to procure an assistant for Miss Keele. The attendance in her room last month was over 80.—Committee on Appointments.

From H. B. Gordon, architect, submitting a report as to improvements in the heating and ventilating apparatus of the Central and High Schools.—Property Committee, to ascertain cost of improvements.

From George Boiler in reference to the boiler in the High School building.—Property Committee.

From J. Stratton, I.P.S., submitting his report for the month of May. He called attention to the crowded state of Miss Keele's room, and said that the seats were not suited to the small children.—Committee on Appointments.

ATTENDANCE.

A statement of the attendance at the Public Schools during the month of April was submitted by Mr. H. Kay, Coleman, Head Master, as follows:—

| | On Roll. | Av. Att. |
|---|---|---|
| Central School | 612 | 487 |
| South Ward School | 216 | 172 |
| West Ward School | 144 | 120 |
| Total | 972 | 789 |

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Mr. DUMBLE read the report of the Special Committee appointed on Collegiate Institute affairs, which was as follows:—

The Special Committee appointed to consider the arrangement of the classes and teaching staff beg to report the following recommendations:—

That notice be given to all the teachers of the Collegiate Institute that at the end of the present term, ending at midsummer, their services will be dispensed with; such teachers, however, to have the right to apply for reappointment.

That the staff of the Collegiate Institute consist of four teachers.

That the Secretary advertise at once for a Principal and teachers for the new staff.

That pupils in the Collegiate Institute taking Latin, Greek, French or German, be charged one dollar a month.

And with reference to the Public Schools, that Mr. Stratton be required to give more time to the inspection of the schools, and that his salary be at the rate of $200 a year, and that Mr. Coleman be not required to supervise the Ward Schools.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman.

Peterborough, May 13th, 1884.

Dr. BURNHAM asked what was the object in dismissing all the teachers?

Mr. SAWERS said that the present Public School Inspector would not be able to give sufficient time to the schools.

Mr. KENDRY thought the Inspector should be fairly paid, and should give more time to the schools than the present inspector could.

Mr. ERRETT did not think that they could get a man to give more time to the schools than Mr. Stratton would, unless they paid him $800 or $1,000 a year.

Mr. KENDRY said that Mr. Stratton could not devote sufficient time, and it was said that he was not qualified.

Mr. DUMBLE said that Mr. Stratton had been engaged in school work, either as teacher or otherwise, for the past thirty-five years.

The CHAIRMAN said that there had been educated men on the Board for years, and he never heard it mentioned that Mr. Stratton was not qualified for the position of Inspector.

The CHAIRMAN, in reply to Mr. Weir, said that there was only one member of the Committee absent when the matter was considered, and they were quite unanimous.

Mr. STRATTON, Inspector, was heard and said that he had given more time to the schools than he had been remunerated for, and he did so because he felt an interest in the schools. It would be impossible for him to say how much more time he could give, but he asked how much more time the Board required, or how many more reports would they require? There were eighteen room, and it took considerable time to visit them all monthly. In all probability he could give more time than he had done. He had legal qualifications, as good as any Inspector in the Province.

A motion to take up the report clause by clause was rejected, and the motion to adopt the report was carried, Messrs. Rutherford and Kendry voting against it.

WHEN TO TAKE EFFECT.

Mr. MILLAR moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE, —That the increase in the Collegiate Institute fees come into effect on the first of September. —Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

A Practice.

The members of the Fire Brigade had a hose and hydrant practice on Tuesday evening. Both the steam fire engine and the water-works were used.

Notorious Newbold.

Sir Charles E. Neivelle, alias George Newbold, appeared in Court in Toledo, Ohio, and was, at the request of the defence, remanded until Saturday next. There are two charges against him, one for bigamy and the other for perjury. The limit of punishment in Ohio for bigamy is ten years' imprisonment.

The Sarnia Observer says:—

"He was rapturously applauded at every appearance, but his 'Scot's Wha Hae' was the gem of the evening and fairly electrified the audience."

The London Advertiser says:—

"His songs were given with such expressiveness and power and such true sympathy, as to win for him an enthusiastic recall, and his second selection, 'Old Ireland My Darling' only served to enhance the favorable opinion already formed of him."

Mr. Harrington will sing at the Lacrosse Club Concert, on Friday. May 23rd.

THE trial of Wightman and Graham for the murder of Grant Silcox was resumed at London on Monday, public interest in the proceedings remaining as intense as ever. Graham was discharged, his lordship considering there was no evidence to justify his further detention in custody.

THE great permanency of Murray & Lanman's Florida water gives it a wonderful advantage over nearly all other perfumes; days and weeks after its application the handkerchief or garment exhales a soft, rich fragrance, agreeable, refreshing, and healthful.

An Answer Wanted.

Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? We say they can not, as thousands of cases already permanently cured and who are daily recommending Electric Bitters will prove. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Weak Back, or any urinary complaints quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels, and act directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale at 50c a bottle by Taylor and McDonald.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

For a Nobby Pair of Pants, warranted to fit like the paper on the wall, just see McNEIL.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOME.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I desire to express my very grateful thanks to the various kind friends who so readily responded to my appeal of last week for help towards furnishing the home which is shortly to be opened for the reception of the 150 children from their homes in England. Their gifts of money and in kind are, I need hardly add, greatly appreciated. We are, however, still in urgent need of help, and as I am most anxious that the work shall be as nearly finished as possible before my departure on the 22nd inst., I would ask all who have it in their hearts to aid the undertaking to send in their free will offerings as early as convenient. Mrs. G. A. Cox will be pleased to receive any contributions, or they may be sent to

Yours faithfully and obliged,
F. FIELDER.

Peterborough, May 15th, 1884.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHEESE FACTORY.—A meeting of the patrons of the Lakehurst Cheese Factory was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, May 6th. An agreement was formed with Mr. J. W. Moore, by which he was appointed to take charge of the factory. The following persons were elected for the several offices:—Robt. Shaw, salesman; William Weir, treasurer; and Wm. Irwin, secretary. Owing to mismanagement during last term the factory was a failure to some extent, and some of our residents feel justified in themselves in not showing as much interest as formerly, but there is no doubt we will be able to retrieve our position, with our factory under Mr. Moore's supervision.

THE CROPS.—The crops are in a healthy condition, and the grains are growing rapidly, with the exception of fall wheat, which was affected considerably by the frosts Seedtime is about ended; but some farmers are yet busily tilling the ground and preparing for an expected plenteous harvest.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—The young men of section 3 purpose celebrating the 24th May by holding a picnic at a place called "The Steps," on Sandy Lake. Having appealed to the generosity of the older persons to assist in making it a success, they anticipate a full attendance and a good time. Sports, such as running, jumping, etc., will be indulged in. A baseball match will be played also. The people of Hall's Bridge and vicinity are cordially invited.

HALIBURTON.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SPRINGTIME.—Spring commenced early but is making slow progress. The peas are not yet green. The heavy rains have interfered with seeding, but the ground is in good condition for quick growth when the warm weather begins, and this, out of respect to her Majesty, is generally postponed until the 24th.

CRICKET.—The Cricket Club has met and elected officers, and will probably show some pretty fair cricket this year, though as usual two of the best players, Niven and Galbraith, are likely to be away the greater part of the season.

CHEESE FACTORY.—The cheese factory hangs fire. Mr. Moore, well known in your section of the country, offers to put up a factory if the farmers will guarantee the produce of 300 cows. The farmers, though anxious to get the factory, decline to take this preliminary action, and so the scheme is at a standstill. Nothing would help this section of country as much as the establishment of a cheese factory, and it is unfortunate that the farmers are not more alive to their own interests.

A RED MCKIM.—An Indian, a Down-Easter, came in yesterday and got several horns of whiskey, and then laid an information against the tavern-keeper for the sale of the fire-water. Several of us are very hard up here and propose to turn Indian immediately, if not sooner.

If You are in Want

SWINDLED SCOTCHMEN.

Let Into Two Lumbering Companies That Proved to Have Worthless Limits.

The collapse of the British Canadian lumbering company (announced some weeks ago) has got into the papers again and what is worse it is being made to do duty as a party cry. Briefly the story is: H. H. Cook of this city had acquired extensive timber limits in this province. Armed with letters from Hon. Mr. Mackenzie and other prominent Canadians, H. H. Cook and W. H. Gordon appeared in Edinburgh, issued a flaring prospectus, and floated a company of $1,000,000 capital to take over their limits for half the stock and the other half million cash; then the Cook party boomed up the company and unloaded the half million stock that they held on Scotchmen who were anxious to get into so good a thing. The Scotchmen sent out for reports on the value of the timber; among others to Mr. Mackenzie, who employed rangers to go over the limits and a small portion he looked over himself. Soon after things began to appear bad, the limits turned out of much less value, and the Scots asserted plainly that they had been swindled. Mr Mackenzie consented to go on the first board, and was qualified therefor by H. H. Cook transferring to him $10,000 of the stock. When Mr Mackenzie resigned he gave back this stock. The Scots about a year ago sent out representatives to look into the thing, and it is said that they forced the Messrs. Cook to make restitution and a new deal. It is now said that this second visit of Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Smith two wealthy Scotchmen who represent the shareholders, is to endeavor to compell further restitution. But it is reported that their mission has not been successful. At all events they have a lot of worthless limits on their hands, while some of the promoters of the company are reported to be wealthy out of the deal.

The American Lumber Company is a sister concern doing business in Michigan and along the North shore, and it too is bankrupt.

The Bank of Commerce is interested to the extent of $350,000, the bank of Toronto $100,000, and the bank of Quebec $150,000. A. H. Campbell, Mr. Waldie and Mr. Knowles have been appointed trustees for the banks.

Whether there will be any litigation out of the matter remains yet to be seen.—Toronto World.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

Proposed Public Expression of Approval of his Administration.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Several hundred prominate citizens of this city have addressed a letter to John Jacob Astor and others asking them to act as a committee to designate the time and place at which the fellow citizens of President Arthur may express their approval of his administration and their wish that he may be nominated for President at Chicago.

BELLEVILLE.

BURGLARS AT WORK.—Burglars on Tuesday night stole some crowbars from the Grand Trunk at Shannonville, and proceeded to the store of Mr. H. Holden, where they attempted to break open the safe. The noise awoke Mr. Holden, who fired two shots at them, but without effect. They also entered Poulter's hotel at the Grand Trunk, and stole a pair of trousers, from the pockets of which they extracted 50 cents. Mr. Poulter was awakened, and taking a lamp went to see what was the matter, when one of the burglars fired at him, the bullet smashed the lamp in his hand. Benjamin Sanford of this city, has been arrested on suspicion,

COBOURG.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH.—The Cobourg firemen are preparing for a grand semi-centennial celebration on the Queen's birthday. They propose having a monster procession during the forenoon, the afternoon will be occupied with horse and bicycle races, athletic sports, games, dancing, &c., at the Agricultural Park. For the evening's amusement an excellent programme has been prepared for a vocal and instrumental concert to be held in the Opera House.

The State of Florida.

QUEBEC, May 12.—The survivors of the Florida disaster were to-day attended to by the New York, agent, Mr. Cleary, and supplied with suitable clothing, &c. Two of them have shipped as A B's on the Allen steamship Nestorian, and will sail by her at daybreak to-morrow for Glasgow. Some of the others have shipped by the steamship Concordia. A few of the survivors are anxious to return home to friends, and beyond that will attempt the dangers of the sea no more.

The Berber Massacre.

The London Standard has despatches confirming the reported massacre at Berber. The telegraph clerks who a short time ago applied for permission to leave their posts along the line between Berber and Assouan have deserted their stations rather than risk captivity. They state that natives [illegible] to be acquainted with the movements of El Mahdi assert that the Mahdi intends marching to Cairo.

The Informers' Wages.

The City of Toronto, through the Mayor, has received a bill of witness' fees in the conspiracy case to pay. It amounts to $329.30, the heaviest charges being made by Robt. A. Lyon, of Manitoulin Island, Algoma, who claims $238.20, McKim's $67.50, Balfour's $7, Dowling's $45.25, Cascaden's $13.50.

AMERICAN.

FINANCIAL DISASTERS.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The scene at the Stock Exchange this morning was one of the most intense excitement. There was a rush to sell stocks, partly for the account of brokers, who soon announced their inability to meet their engagements. Before 10.15 Nelson, Robinson & Co., and Goff & Randall suspended. At 10.45 a.m. O. M. Bogart & Co. announced their suspension. The chairman of the Stock Exchange announced that the Second National Bank is solvent and worthy of confidence. At 11 a.m. J. C. RAILWAY HORROR.

PITTSBURG, May 14.—A west bound freight and gravel train were in collision near Corneliusville this morning, meeting each other at a sharp curve. The freight train was laden with ore, and had about fifty men aboard. Six men were killed outright, and four others fastened down by broken timbers and roasted to death, the car taking fire from the overturned stove. The officials decline to say who is to blame, but opinion puts it on the train runners. When the wreck was cleared away it was ascertained that twelve persons were injured and fourteen missing. The bodies of ten of the latter have been recovered; the others are supposed to be entirely consumed. Of those recovered only two are positively identified.

The Cincinnati Riots.

CINCINNATI, May 12.—The special grand jury appointed to consider the crimes in connection with the riot and burning of the court-house, made their report to-day. The report treats at length on the causes leading to the riot, and speaks of the common report that jurors were bribed, of the general complaint that the court permitted too many delays, and that good citizens avoided jury duty to the detriment of the fair administration of justice. It points out defects in the criminal code. The report commends highly the conduct of the Fourteenth Regiment at the time of the riot, and praises the bravery of Capt. Desmond.

Fifty-four indictments were returned, covering twelve grades of crime. Nothing further will be divulged concerning these until the arrests are made.

Grant & Ward.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Col. Fred Grant said to-day in an interview:—"When I first came here from Chicago I had about $57,000. I was introduced to Ward. After a short acquaintance he asked me to join him in a speculative venture, which turned out successfully. After that he proposed partnership. It was represented that he and Fish were worth $250,000 each. Everything was entrusted to Ward by the other members of the firm." Col. Grant continued: "I admit that I have been a fool, as has my father the General, and my brother, and there is nothing too strong to say against Ward at this moment."

A New Principle.
The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

A BAD DEFENEC.

THE Kingston Whig in an editorial on the official suppression of the charge of forgery against Informer McKim, writes as follows:—

"It is not only insinuated but openly charged that the prosecution of Mr. McKim, M.P.P., for perjury, was a failure because the Magistrate was a Liberal, politically a friend of the culprit, and therefore not as impressionable by the evidence as he ought to have been. The ground for such a declaration is not very apparent."

We may remark that the charge brought against Informer McKim this time was forgery, not perjury, but such a slip is very natural under the circumstances.

The line of defence adopted by the Whig is the old subterfuge of putting forward a charge that has not been made, and refuting it because the charge really made is irrefutable. The accusation made, not by a Conservative journal, but by the Toronto World, an independent paper with Reform leanings, is that after the Magistrate had made up his mind to commit, the County Attorney interfered with his decision in order to procure a discharge.

This account of the impartial Toronto World is confirmed by two corroborative pieces of evidence. It is an undisputed fact that the Magistrate after a long private consideration of the case with a brother justice and the County Attorney, send for the counsel on both sides and agreed with them as to the amount of bail, showing that he had then determined to commit. Then there is the following extraordinary document:—

"The court being divided in their opinion, Mr. Halley considers that a prima facie case has been made out and the accused held answerable for the charge. Mr. Bushlen differs from this view, and considers that the charge should be dismissed. The County Attorney considers that in consequence of this the case should be dismissed, and advises accordingly. The case is therefore dismissed.

"MAURICE HALLEY, J.P.,
"ANTHONY BUSHLEN, J.P.

"Attest:
"HENRY WM. PETERSON,
"County Crown Attorney."

With such corroboration as these two facts afford it is evident that the report of the World is accurate, that the responsibility for this outrage upon justice rests with County Attorney Peterson.

We thought that it was the duty of County Attorneys to enforce the law in criminal cases, and not in the face of a strong prima facie case to coerce a Magistrate who had determined to commit, in order to prevent the trial of a man, merely because he was employed by Attorney General Mowat to commit another crime, and therefore is to be set above the law.

A SEVERE REBUKE.

THE fact that Mr. Gladstone, after one of his magnificent feats of oratory, which no doubt had great effect, only succeeded in obtaining the paltry majority of 28 in a house of nearly 600 members on the motion of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach censuring him for deserting Gen. Gordon and leaving him to his fate, is an event of grave significance. Other Premiers of more sensitive feelings than Mr. Gladstone have resigned after such a rebuke from a large number of their own supporters, and even if he clings to office for a time such a blow must ensure his speedy downfall. It must be remembered that he had an enormous majority at the beginning of the present parliament, before the change of opinion against him can be duly estimated. That this change is even more marked in the country than in the House is very evident, and a general election would undoubtedly result in Mr. Gladstone's overthrow. Recent events have revived the recollection that Mr. Gladstone was largely responsible for the vacillating policy that brought upon us the Crimean war. Similar vacillation has marked his career, and the consequences are too serious in times of emergency, as there have been repeated instances of late, to be calmly tolerated. The people are growing tired of that kind of peace policy that invites attack and aggravates danger.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CURRENT PUBLIC SENTIMENT CULLED FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

A POOR LEADER.

As regards his actual management of the Liberal party it cannot be said that Mr. Blake, since his advent to the leadership, has done very much to advance its political fortunes.—Montreal Star, (Indep.)

A LITTLE SINGULAR.

It is a little singular, as we remarked on Saturday, the Liberal journals which can speak with most authority do not contradict or notice in any way, the rumour that Mr. Blake proposes to retire from politics at an early day.—Montreal Star, (Indep.)

PROFESSES TO KNOW.

A Globe reporter professes to know all about the dynamite plot at the Legislative buildings. Some Tories have insinuated that the Globe knew all about from the start, but its knowledge is carefully concealed in the column and a half of hogwash which it believes its readers capable of accepting as a well-founded sensation. It bears all the marks of a clumsy concoction, designed to eke out the labors of a dull day.—Toronto World, (Indp. Ref.)

A REFORM PORTRAIT.

The London Advertiser points to the fact that while the Dominion Government claims power to license the sale of liquor, Mr. Mowat rushes out and claims to be the only genuine, original, licensing power. And the situation reminds the Advertiser of a story, told in Mr. Mill's happiest style, of an inn-keeper in Cornwall, England, who called his inn the Gray Ass. His rival across the way had a habit of rushing out and soliciting travellers by saying: "This way, gentlemen; I'm the genuine old Gray Ass." We have no doubt the story is very funny; but why should the Advertiser insinuate that Mr. Mowat is the genuine old Gray Ass?—Hamilton Spectator.

UNPATRIOTIC JOURNALISM.

The officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway in this city state that every mail from England brings them letters from the representatives of the company in Europe, complaining and protesting against the unpatriotic utterances of the Globe and other Opposition journals, who in their rabid party disputes are not content with vilifying their political opponents but also make a point of misrepresenting everything connected with two North-West and the Canadian Pacific. A recent letter from Mr. Begg, one of the Company in London, states that the utterances of the Globe and these other papers are continually quoted to the prejudice of Canada at large, and it requires every effort on his part to counteract these misrepresentations.—Montreal Star, (Indp.)

TELEGRAPH MONOPOLY OVER.

The Bankers and Merchants Ready to go to Work in Canada.

The Bankers and Merchants is the latest and most enterprising of the new telegraph companies in the United States. It has already organized a daughter company for Canada, with Senator Donald McInnes, B. B. Osler, James Sutherland, M. P., and A. W. Dimock, and G. S. Mott (president and general manager of the parent company) as directors. They began yesterday morning to string up wires from Buffalo to the bridge. They will at once run four lines from Buffalo to Montreal, four from Prescott to Ottawa, two from Montreal to Quebec, and four from Hamilton to Detroit. They expect to be in Toronto in a month. The local managers for Toronto, Montreal and Hamilton, have been appointed.—Toronto World.

POLICY OF DYNAMITE.

THE SCARE SPREADING.

A St. Vincent despatch says:—The dynamite scare has reached the English islands. The luggage of persons arriving at the various ports is carefully examined. The sudden departure of the war steamer Canada from here is attributed to information that dynamiters were on the track of Prince George of Wales, who is on the steamer.

THE DISCOVERIES PROBABLY FICTITIOUS.

It appears not improbable that some of the recently reported discoveries of dynamite are fictions. A man has been charged in London with pretending to be the discoverer of dynamite in the Strand in order to screen a robbery

TORONTO.

SETTLERS FOR THE NORTH-WEST.—A special train left Toronto on Tuesday forenoon at 11.30 over the Toronto, Grey and Bruce for Owen Sound, having on board a large party of settlers en route for the North West. The Algoma will convey the party to Port Arthur.

THE FIRST EXCURSION OF THE SEASON.—The first excursion of the season arrived in Toronto on Tuesday. At half past ten in the morning a party of between three and four hundred pleasure seekers and others entered the Union station by a special train from the east. The excursionists hailed principally from Cobourg and Port Hope and other points in the vicinity they having taken advantage of low rates offered by the Grand Trunk on account of the depression in traffic. A number of them left for home on the evening trains after spending the day as well as they could, considering the unpleasant weather. Many are still in the city on business.

Domestic Tragedy in New York.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Isaac C. Edreli, chemist, of this city, aged 60, who has for some time been living apart from his wife, called on her last evening and asked her to come back to him. She refused, when he drew a revolver and fired at her as she turned to leave the room, the ball taking effect in her spine. He then fired at his little son, five years old, shooting him through the head, killing him instantly. Upon reaching the street he put the pistol to his own temple and fired the third time, and fell dead on the sidewalk. The physican says Mrs. Edreli has a chance of recovery. She was shot very much in the manner in which President Garfield was wounded.

The Extradition Treaty.

DETROIT, May 12.—Prosecuting Attorney Caplis has returned from Washington. He says there is no doubt the Ashburton treaty will be amended so that burglars, thieves, and a certain class of political offenders can be extradited from either side of the British-American border line. The treaty will give a police justice power to turn over a criminal to another nation without any formalities whatever if he thinks the facts warrant the man being held for trial.

A Card.

This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

"Then I am truly thankful she is not my sister! Fancy her pretty pearly fingers encrusted with ginger-bread dough; or her entrance into the library heralded by the perfume of moly,—or of basil or sage,—tolerable only as the familiars of a dish of sausage meat! Don't soil my dainty white dove with the dust and soot and rank odours that belong to the culinary realm."

"Your white dove? Do you propose to adopt her? A month hence, when you are on your way to India, what difference can it possibly make to you whether she is as brown as a quail or black as a crow? Before you come back she will have been conscripted into the staid army of matrons, and transmogrified into stout Mrs. Ptolemy Thomson,—or lean and care-worn Mrs. Simon Smith,—or worse than all—erudite Mrs. Professor Belshazzar Brown,—spelling Hercules after the learned style, with the loss of the u, and the substitution of a k;—or making the ghost of Ulysses tear his hair, by writing the name of his enchantress 'Kirke!'"

As Mrs. Lindsay spoke, the smile vanished from her lips, and looking keenly at her son's countenance she detected the change that crossed it, the sudden glow that mounted to the edge of his hair.

Avoiding her eyes, he answered hastily.

"Suppose those distinguished gentlemen you mention chance to be scholars, savas, and disposed to follow the advice of Joubert in making their matrimonial selection; 'We should choose for a wife only the woman we should choose for a friend, were she a man.' Think you mere habits of domesticity, or skill in herbalism, would arrest and fix their fancy?"

"But Bishop, they might consider the Talmud more venerable authority than Joubert, and the Talmud says—so I am told:—'Descend a step in choosing a wife; mount a step in choosing a friend.'"

"Thank heaven! there is indeed no Salique Law in the realm of learning. Mother, I believe one of the happiest auguries of the future, consists in the broadening views of education, that are held by some of our best thinkers. If in the morning of our religious system, St. Peter deemed it obligatory on us to be able and 'ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you,'—how doubly imperative is that duty in this controversial age,—when the popular formula has been adopted, 'to doubt, to inquire, to discover;'—when the hammer of the geologist pounds into dust the idols of tradition,—and the lenses of astronomy pierce the blue wastes of space, which in our childhood we fondly believed were the habitat of cherubim and seraphim. Now, mother, if you will only insure my ears against those pink tweezers,—of which they bear stinging recollections,—I should like to explain myself."

Mrs. Lindsay plunged her hands into the depths of her stocking basket, and said sententiously:

"The temple of Janus is closed."

"What is the origin of the doctrine that erudition is the sole prerogative of men, and that it proves as dangerous in a woman's hands, as phosphorus or gunpowder in those of a baby——"

"Why, Eve's experience of course. A ton of gunpowder would not have blown up thegarden of Eden more effectually than did her light touch upon an outside branch of the tree of knowledge. I would say that Genesis was an acceptable authority to a young minister of the gospel."

"That is a violation of the truce,—Elise. You are skirmishing with his picket line. Go on Douglass."

"It is evidently a remnant of despotic barbarism, a fungoid growth from Oriental bondage——"

"Bishop, may I be allowed to ask if you are referring to Genesis?"

"Dear little mother, I refer to the popular fallacy, that, in the same ratio that you thoroughly educate woman, you unfit them for the holy duties of daughter, wife and mother. Is there an inherent antagonism between learning and womanliness?"

"Indeed, dear, how can I tell? I am not a 'Della-Cruscan.' I only "strain" milk into my dairy pans."

"Elise do be quiet, You break the thread of his argument."

"Then it is entirely too brittle to hold the ponderous propositions he intends to string upon it. Proceed my son."

"Are we to accept the unjust and humiliating dogma that the more highly we cultivate feminine intellect, the more unfeminine, unlovely, unamiable, the individual certainly becomes! Is a woman sweeter, more gentle, more useful to her family and friends, because she is unlearned? Does knowledge exert an acidulating influence upon female temper; or—produce an ossifying effect on female hearts? Is ignorance an inevitable concomitant of refinement and delicacy? Does the knowledge of Greek and Latin cast a blight over the flower-garden, or a mildew in the pantry and linen closet; or do the classics possess the power of curdling all the milk of human kindness, all the streams of tender sympathy in a woman's nature, as rennet coagulates a bowl of sweet milk? Can an acquaintance with literature, art, and science so paralyze a lady's energies, that she is rendered utterly averse to, and incapable of performing those domestic offices, those household duties so re-pugnably suited to her slender, dexterous, busy little fingers? Why—my own wise precious little mother is a living refutation of so grossly absurd, and monstrous a dogma! Have not you boxed my ears, because when stumbling through the 'Anabasis,' my Greek pronunciation tortured your fastidious and correct taste? Did not you tell me that you read nearly the whole of Sallust, by spreading the book open on the dairy-shelf, while you churned—thus saving time? And did not that same sweet golden butter made under the shadow of a Latin dictionary—win you the State Fair Premium—of that very silver cup from which I drank my milk, as long as I wore knee pants and round jackets? Was it not my father's fond boast that his wife's proficiency in music was equalled only by her wonderful skill in making muffins, pastry and omlette souffle?"

With genuine chivalric tenderness in look and tone, he inclined his head; but though a tear certainly glistened in Mrs. Lindsay's bright eyes, she answered gayly:

"Am I Cerberus—to be coaxed and cheated by a well-buttered sop of flattery? Return to your mutton, reverend sir, and know that I am incorruptible, and disdain to betray my cause, for your thirty pieces of potent praise."

"I think," said Mr. Hargrove, taking a bunch of cherries from the fruit-stand on the library-table, "I think the whole matter may be resolved into this; the ambitious clamours and amazonian excesses of this epoch, are the inevitable consequence of the rigid tyranny of former ages; which sternly banished women to the numbing darkness of an intellectual night, denying them the legitimate and natural right of developing their faculties by untrammelled exercise. This belief in feminine inferiority is still expressed in Mohammedan lands, by the custom of placing a slate or tablet of marble on a woman's grave—while on that of men a pen or penholder is laid, to indictate that female hearts are mere tablets, on which man writes whatever pleases him best. In sociology, as well as physics and dynamics—the angle of reflection is always equal to the angle of incidence—the phychologic rebound is ever in proportion to the mental pressure, one extreme invariably impinges upon the opposite—and when the pendulum has reached one end of the arc, it must of necessity swing back to to the other. In all social revolutions, the moderate and reasonable concessions which might have appeased the discontent in its incipiency—are gladly tendered much too late in the contest, when the insurgents stung by injustice, and conscious of their grievances, refuse all temperate compromise, and run riot. This woman's rights and woman s suffrage abomination is so suddenly concocted social bottle of yeast; it has been fermenting for ages, and having finally blown out the cork, is rapidly leavening the mass of female malcontents."

THE death of Harvey Cassidy Murphy, County Inspector, R.I.C. of West Galway, took place on April 10th, from apoplexy, at Castlerea.

MR. EDWARD J. HARTY, a gentleman rider, well known in the west of Ireland, was thrown from his pony during a steeplechase on April 18th, and killed on the spot.

AN attempt was made on April 25th to blow up, by means of an infernal machine, the Ship Street Barracks, in Dublin, which are in close proximity to Dublin Castle. The damage done is fortunately not great.

ON April 17th the Lord Mayor of Dublin opened Tara street, the new street leading from Great Brunswick street to the Swivel Bridge, Dublin, and on the same occasion laid the foundation-stone of the public baths and wash-house in Poolbeg street.

THE third trial of the five men who were charged with conspiracy to murder Mr. Smythe, D. L., and other landlords at Barbavilla, Westmeath, in March, 1882, ended on the 23rd April, at Dublin in the conviction of the prisoners. The Judge sentenced each of the prisoners to ten years' penal servitude.

MILLING CENTRES OF THE NORTHWEST.

Nature, which provided the Hudson Bay as a route to the outer world, against the time when it would become a necessity, has provided for us at two points, east and north, unlimited water power, wherewith to convert the grain of the prairies into flour to feed the millions of Europe. The water powers available at Keewatin and Rat Portage, where the Lake of the Woods empties into the Winnipeg river, must soon be called into requisition to manufacture the grain into flour on its passage eastwards. This enormous force of water lies immediately alongside the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, about 120 miles east of Winnipeg. Already locations have been secured for the erection of flour mills at that place. The Grand Rapids of the Great Saskatchewan will, when the route is opened to Hudson's Bay, become another point of first-rate importance. The volume of water from the North and South Saskatchewan and the tributaries which feed these rivers for a thousand miles west provides a power which, concentrated at the Grand Rapids, is of practically unlimited strength ere it empties into Lake Winnipeg on its way to the northern seaboard. A railway running by the west side of the lake will cross the Saskatchewan at the Grand Rapids. The grain from the Assiniboine and Red River valleys will be carried to that point for transhipment. The grain of the great far West coming down the Saskatchewan will also meet at this centre. The conclusion may in fairness be drawn that in a few years mills will be established at the Grand Rapids, which will grow in number and importance as the vast unbroken wheat field of the West comes under cultivation. The mills of Winnipeg and of the towns along the line of the Canadian Pacific railway west will supply the Provincial demand, and the requirements of the Pacific seaboard. It will be the business of the water powers of the Lake of the Woods to manufacture for the demands of the eastern Canadian provinces; while the mills yet to be built at the Grand Rapids of the Saskatchewan will become the factories best located for supplying flour to the markets of the old world. Minneapolis must always remain a milling centre of first-class importance, standing safe with the wheat fields of Minnesota and Dakota at her back; but her future growth in this industry may be considered doubtful. The hard wheat fields contiguous to the Canadian water powers, are of greater extent by far than hers, while much of the territory from which she draws her supplies lies tributary to the northern seaboard. While the water power of St. Antony is already inadequate for the work it has to perform, the enormous volume of water behind these Canadian points is more than equal to all future possibilities. The rising rival to the hard wheat fields of the North-Western States lies in our Canadian North-West. The milling rivals to the supremacy of Minneapolis will rise at Keewatin on the Lake of the Woods and at the Grand Rapids of the Saskatchewan.—Northwest Farmer.

Showers.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh west to south winds; fair, warmer weather; showers at night.

A Run Off.

The engine of the Grand Junction train, No. 621, M. R., got off the track at noon to-day at the corner of Hunter and Bethune streets. Some cars had been run in on the siding, and the engine was coming out when the first four wheels and one pair of driving wheels left the track. The switch was turned all right, but the mishap was caused by the rails being a little foul. Another locomotive was brought up and the engine was drawn on the rails again, after being off nearly an hour. The afternoon Lakefield and Belleville trains were late in starting in consequence of this accident.

A Lively Scene.

Mr. J. Irving formerly worked with Mr. Hughan, jeweller, but latterly he has occupied a shop of his own on the opposite side of the street. This afternoon, while under the influence of liquor, Mr. Irving visited the shop in which he was formerly engaged, and quarrelled with the proprietor. A little scene followed, and he came out of the shop, only to return and find the door fastened against him. Becoming enraged at this, he smashed the glass in an upright case in the door and then put his fist through the glass in the window. His hand was cut by the operation, and he will probably have to answer for the act in court.

Saved Army Notes.

There was a large attendance at the meeting on Wednesday night.

Lieut. Hattie Arberscombe took part in the battle. She is a very good speaker—about the best of any of the female officers who have been here.

The battle was a drawn one, no prisoners of war having been taken.

The business meeting, which was announced for to-night, has been postponed until to-morrow night.

The Trumpet of this week contains a letter from the Secretary of this station in rhyme, describing the first "march out" and other matters.

Notice to the Public.

Having sold out our confectionery store we are now giving all our attention to the grocery business. We are determined to push our business, as we are bound to sell, and those who kindly favour us with their patronage can depend on getting their groceries at the lowest possible prices. We will be undersold by none in the trade. We have just received a shipment of fine flavours in Black and Green Teas, also Raw and Refined Sugars. These goods are from the best houses and bought for Cash. We will give our customers the benefit of our close buying. Our motto is Quick Sales and Small Profits, no stale goods lying on the shelves. We accordingly invite the inspection of close buyers. We duly appreciate the very liberal patronage we have been favored with in the past, and shall do our utmost in looking after the interest of our customers to merit a continuance of the same.—CARTON BROS., George Street, opposite the Market Square.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

THURSDAY, May 15.—Patrick Glenn's term having expired, he was released from gaol, but he sought another term in the castle. He was charged by Constable Pidgeon with being a vagrant, and pleaded guilty. "This is a grave charge," said the Magistrate, "and I must give you a severe punishment. You are sentenced to six months in the county gaol at hard labor." Patsy hardly knew whether to be pleased that he had received what he wanted or to be frightened.

Our prices can't be beat, which we will prove if you will only pay us a visit. ANDREW MCNEIL, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

A Runaway.

The team of horses attached to the Morgan House hack became frightened at the Midland station on Wednesday night and ran away. The driver was just about to step into the vehicle when they started, and he was dragged some distance by the lines. The horses turned west on King street, and sped on to Park street, where they turned north. They were caught near the corner of Park and Smith streets. A brace or two broken on the hack was the only damage.

Pencil Points.

—Cloudy and cooler this afternoon.

SKATING RINK.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Lakefield Skating Rink Co. was held in this village on Friday last when a dividend was declared. That a dividend was declared is really startling. Such a thing has never occurred before. This company has previously found that the money was required to go the other way. Last season, under the able management of Mr. A. J. Wright, notwithstanding the receipts were not half of what they were the year before, the shareholders have realized a profit, and although small it speaks volumes in favor of the energy of the management. Well grounded hopes are entertained of doing a good deal better next season. Advertise, gentlemen. advertise.

FIRST DRIVE.

Mr. Fowlds' being the first of the season, passed through here on Tuesday, the 13th of May.

SALMON FISHING.

Salmon fishing has begun in earnest at Stony Lake. Mr. George Cochrane caught five fine large ones on Tuesday, the 13th of May, in less than an hour, at the mouth of Ede's Creek. Several others have caught fish, and good sport is anticipated for the ensuing ten days or two weeks salmon fishing on these back waters.

PRINTING PRESS.

Mr. Chapin, undertaker, has purchased a small press for the purpose of printing funeral cards in connection with his undertaking business, to obviate the trouble of sending to Peterborough. It seems that he can get out funeral cards in a few minutes and upon short notice.

LIQUOR STORE.

Mr. Jas. C. Carveth has opened out a liquor store under a Dominion license in Sanders' old stand. The shop has been repainted and put into the present shape for the business. It is already found a great convenience. Before, if people wanted good liquors for medicinal purposes even, it was necessary to trudge off to Peterborough. Mr. Carveth, under the new law, is not allowed to have any other line of business in connection with his shop license. The liquor business as a business must be separate. Mr. Carvtth is decermined to keep the law strictly to the letter, and if he does so the one shop license will be found a convenience to the village and not an injury.

FORESTER'S MEETING.

Court Lakefield, No. 43, C.O.F. will meet in Union hall, Lakefield, on Thursday evening next, the 22nd inst., at 8 o'clock.

STEAMER FAIRY.

The steamer Fairy made her first trip to Lakefield from the "Point" on Tuesday last, the 13th inst. This fine little steamer is nearly ready for the season's work, some few finishing touches only being required to complete a thorough overhauling, repainting, &c.

SHIPPING TIMBER.

On Wednesday last the 14th inst. Mr. James Dinwoodie of Campbellford loaded and shipped from this place a train of timber for the government works at Cobourg. Mr. Dinwoodie, who has a government contract, is pushing things in earnest.

PRESENT.

Mr. Wellington Ray, formerly of Smith, but now of Port Arthur, some time ago presented the school of his boyhood, S.S. No. 6, Smith, commonly called Rays school, with the sum of $10.00 for the purpose of getting new maps. The Trustees so full appreciated Mr. Ray's generous hint that they have supplemented the amount and have ordered a new set all around for the school.

THE great permanency of Murray & Lanman's Florida water gives it a wonderful advantage over nearly all other perfumes; days and weeks after its application the handkerchief or garment exhales a soft, rich fragrance, agreeable, refreshing, and healthful.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

THE thirty-fourth annual national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians began in Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday. Delegates were present representing twenty-nine States and four Territories.

An Answer Wanted.

Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? We say they can not, as thousands of cases already permanently cured and who are daily recommending Electric Bitters will prove. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Weak Back, or any urinary complaints quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels, and act directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale at 50c a bottle by Taylor and McDonald.

THE by-law granting George Howe, of Brussels village, $5,000 for erecting and operating a woollen mill was carried on Tuesday by a vote of 86 to 30.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

NOTWITHSTANDING much has been said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it may be possible that the matter has never seriously claimed your attention. Think of it now! If, by the use of a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla you avoid the evils of scrofula, and transmit a healthy constitution to your offspring, thank us for the suggestion.

THEY ALL DO IT.—Everybody uses Teaberry for the Teeth and Breath, the newest, brightest, coolest little toilet gem extant. Try a sample.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1884.

Theatrical.

Mr. Newton Beers and his company will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on the evening of Wednesday, May 21st, in "Only a Woman's Heart." This company created a very favourable impression on the occasion of their last visit, and will no doubt have a full house on this occasion.

The Court House Grounds.

Mr. Nesbitt, gaoler, has had the prisoners in the gaol employed this week in setting out trees on Brock street, beside the Court House Park, and on each side of the street that runs past the Court House. New trees have also been planted in the park, and others will be placed on Murray street. This work will make a considerable improvement in the good appearance of the grounds.

Lacrosse. Lacrosse.

After considerable delay we have at last received a shipment of Peter Teronhiaton's celebrated lacrosse sticks. This Indian is without exception the best maker in America. The stock of sticks this year is larger, better and cheaper than ever, bought in the best market, consequently we can sell them cheaper than any dealer in town. J. SAILSBURY & Co., George Street.

We are daily complimented upon the extensive and handsome range of Black and Colored Worsted Coatings. Call and see them at Andrew McNeil's.

Pencil Points.

—Cool, cloudy and windy.

—There were six tramps and three prisoners in the cells last night.

—A volume of smoke issuing from the Central Iron Works on Friday evening led some to believe there was a fire there. There was a fire, but it was required.

—Two men and a bear were in town to-day giving street performances. One of the men wrestled with his bearship and was rolled in the mud. Such an unbearable exhibition should not be allowed.

—There was a fall of snow early this morning. The sidewalks were quite thickly coated with "the beautiful." The snow may be beautiful, but the weather isn't.

—Two men had a tussle on George street, between Hunter and Simcoe streets, at noon today. One of them ran, and was pursued past the post-office by the other.

—The work of sodding the Cricket Ground in Ashburnham, on which several men have been employed for a week, is completed, and the grounds are now as level as—as a cricketer's head.

Cuban Filibusters.

HAVANA, May 14.—An armed band in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba set fire in six places to the plantations of Manuel de Laxtorre and Castillo Terrer, causing consternation in the surrounding country. Troops were sent in pursuit. Renewed efforts are being made to capture Augero's band. Large numbers are arriving by every steamer from Spain.

Slaughter of Train Wreckers.

QUERETARO, Mexico, May 14.—Seventeen brigands who wrecked and robbed a train o the Mexican Central railroad last November were shot yesterday. The Mayor of New Laredo, who was implicated, was not among the number; he will probably escape the penalty of his crime. A number of others are awaiting trial, and probably a dozen more will be shot.

The Humber Disaster.

Nearly all the claims against the Grand Trunk Railway Company arising out of the late Humber disaster have been settled and paid by Mr. W. W. Pope, of Belleville. The amount accepted was in a great many cases considerably below the figures fixed by the committee.—Globe.

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It acts almost magically Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

FRIDAY, May 16.—Michael Maloney and John Plunkett were charged by Constable Pidgeon with having been drunk. They pleaded guilty and said they had come from near Norwood, where they had been working on the railway, and were on their way to the Rocky Mountains. On promising to go on at once, the grip of the law was loosened, and they were allowed to go.

VAGRANCY.

John Hynes was charged by Constable Pidgeon with being a vagrant. He pleaded guilty. He said that he had been working on a farm near Hastings and had got his leg broken. The man he had been working for cared for him as long as he could, and he then made his way here, hoping to get some place to rest until his fractured limb got well. The only place he could rest in here (without money) was the gaol and he was sent there for a month.

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

Jas. H. Irving was charged with having unlawfully damaged property belonging to Mr. Hughan. In answer to the charge, he said, "Guilty, under strong provocation," and said that he would pay for the damage done.

MR. HUGHAN was examined in regard to the extent of the damage to the property, and said that, besides breaking the glass in the doors and windows, Irving had knocked some watches down that were lying in the window and injured them.

Irving was fined $5 and ordered to pay $20 damages, or in default to be confined in gaol for thirty days. A warrant to commit was signed.

COBOURG.

RE-APPOINTED.—At a special meeting of the Town Council, held on Monday evening last, R. Mulholland, Esq., M.P.P., was re-appointed a commissioner of the Town Trust for the next ensuing five years.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—The Bell family on Ball street had a narrow escape from suffocation from coal gas on Friday night last. They lighted the coal fire previous to going to bed and the pipes being defective the gas escaped, rendering some of the family insensible, but aid being summoned they were rescued before any serious results followed.—SentinelS-tar.

A FORGERY.—A week or ten days ago, letters were received by Mrs. D. H. Minaker and H. Hough, of this town, from a banker and commission agent in Toronto, to the effect that he had been offered three notes of hand, purporting to have been made by the former, to the order of and endorsed by the latter, for $400 each, maturing at different dates, and enquiring if they were genuine. He was at once telegraphed that the notes were forgeries, and requested to retain them and have the party offering them arrested. This he did not do, however; and in response to personal application by both the parties whose names were forged, he states that on account of the "family connections" of the forger in Toronto, who have begged him off, he does not wish to take steps to punish him, and that he is satisfied no farther attempt will be made to negotiate the notes. How far he is justified in screening the criminal on these grounds we cannot say; but he does so screen him and refuses to give his name. In the meantime Messrs. Minaker and Hough, whose names were thus used, inform the public that the notes are forged, and that anyone buying them will do so at their own risk. We suppose everybody knows that in any case.—World.

Four Noted English Speakers.

When Lord Randolph Churchill, the Marquis of Salisbury, and Sir William Harcourt are on the stump, you may be quite sure that something is being said that is quite worth hearing. And they have all been on the stump with a vengeance the past week. If only Mr. Joseph Chamberlain had mounted the rostrum and uttered his crisp and snapping sentences, we would then have heard the crack of the whip all round. The four politicians all have what Matthew Arnold is pleased to call "takingness." The press and the public are always on the lookout for what they have to say. It is not thai their words are always words of wisdom, but that their words are never lacking in wit. There is something spectacular in their political orations. They are something more than word painters. There is something less tangible in their speeches even than pictures. A certain effect of rhetorical grouping of ideas and phrases that is like fragrance—something spicy and pungent—that it is difficult to describe, characterizes the speeches of all these political orators. It is a kind of speaking that I never heard in America. It is less spontaneous in fact, and more so in form, than American stump oratory. All these speakers use the English of the academy—that is, of the most refined society. They are careful, for the most part, of certain amenities of discussion. But, all the same, their sentences have teeth. Their words take hold. They are sure to hit hard. In short, when they are talking, something is going on. When one of these four champion stump orators has delivered himself of a speech, the columns of the papers are full of meat; and meat with gravey, to boot. Look out for a deluge of letters contradicting certain statements made. Perhaps the editors of the journals will have bushels of letters deprecating the new fashion in political discussion, and despairingly longing for the good old style of slow and sure, dry and dull political discussion.—Robert Laird Collier in the Boston Herald.

Call at John McKee's drug store and get a package of McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is composed of vaseline carbolic acid and cerate, and has never failed to remove pimples, blotches, ulcerated sores, rough skin It cures when all others fail. Try it.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? MARKET LITTLE AFFECTED.

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAINE, May 15.—The panic in New York, has only slightly affected the markets here. It is believed the worst is over. Large orders have been sent to New York by Frankfort houses. American securities dealt in here show a decline in some instances of 2 per cent.

O'CONNELL MEMORIAL CHURCH.

DUBLIN, May 15.—Canon Brosnan has received the Pope's blessing of the foundation stone for the O'Connell memorial church at Cahirciveen.

AID FOR GEN. GORDON.

LONDON, May 15.—Contributions for the relief of General Gordon continue to pour in from all sources, notwithstanding the repellant attitude of Lord Mayor Fowler and the London papers, which have refused to receive subscriptions on the ground that the Government should not be relieved by such a movement, from its plain duty of sending a military expedition to General Gordon's rescue.

CONFIDENCE BEING RESTORED.

NEW YORK, May 15.—At noon the Metropolitan Bank resumed payment. Only a few persons drew out their money. Confidence is being gradually restored. It seems to be generally accepted as a fact that the worst is over, and many capitalists are beginning to discuss the question as to whether now is not the time to buy for a rise, and a few are buying. This fact relieves the situation of one of its most dangerous elements, namely, the withholding of capital from the market.

A LOCAL OCCURRENCE.

LONDON, May 15.—Leading bankers having important American connections say the New York panic should be considered merely a local occurrence. They are positive it will occasion no failures in London. The remarkable decline of American securities the past few days has attracted a new class of investors, who are stimulated by the cheapness of money in England, Germany and France. The participation of bank officials in fraudulent schemes is severely censured.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

LONDON, May 15.—It is rumoured here that a man representing himself to be a journalist, but who is in reality a well-known Fenian, called to-day at the hotel where the Prince of Wales is stopping, and made numerous enquiries concerning the Prince's movements.

THE KING OF SPAIN.

MADRID, May 15.—The King shows consumptive symptoms, and is receiving special medical treatment.

MASSACRE DENIED.

PARIS, May 15.—The story that 300 Turks had been massacred near Sana is denied.

A COMPLETE SPLIT.

LONDON, May 15.—The split between the Parnellites and the Government is complete.

GUARDING DYNAMITERS.

BIRMINGHAM, May 15.—A detachment of troops has arrived here and been stationed inside the gaol in which the dynamiters Daly, Egan, and McDonnell are confined.

ACCIDENT TO A PRINCESS.

LONDON, May 15.—Princess Louise, of Battenburg, is suffering from a very severe sprain caused by jumping over a coal-scuttle.

NOT TO BE REINFORCED.

CAIRO, May 15.—Mudir Pasha, who is at Dongola, has been informed that no reinforcements will be sent him. If his present forces are insufficient to cope with the enemy he is given power to withdraw.

MR. GLADSTONE'S POSITION.

LONDON, May 14.—There is much speculation as to the course the Ministry will pursue in view of the small majority by which the vote of censure was prevented. The general opinion is that the Government will cling to office, inasmuch as it has not been absolutely defeated in the House of Commons.

THE MORGANATIC MARRIAGE.

LONDON, May 15.—The Times says the morganatic marriage of the Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt to Mme. Kalamire has been annulled the former having been granted a divorce.

AMERICAN.

DROWNED IN A CISTERN.

DETROIT, May 15.—Yesterday morning Mrs. Latcham, an aged and infirm lady living at Windsor, arose at an early hour, and was found by her daughter-in-law, Miss. Willis, twenty minutes afterwards drowned in a cistern at the rear of the building. No person was up in the house at that time. It is thought the unfortunate woman had been seized with a fainting fit, to which she was subject, and hapening to be near the cistern at the time she fell in. Mrs. Latcham was 86 years of age and had been living with her daughter-in-law for thirty-one years.

DANGER SIGNALS.—Reader, if you are troubled with pain, weakness, weariness and a dragging feeling in the small of the back, with thick, high colored—slimy urine, then you have alarming signals of danger, and should resort to Burdock Blood Bitters, the grand kidney regulator and blood and cleansing tonic.

A HANDY SURGEON.—As a dressing for all manner of flesh wounds there is nothing better than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cleanses, allays pain, subdues inflammation and heals without a scar or stiffness of the parts injured. It is equally valuable as a pain remedy for internal use.

AFTER years of patient research and unremitting toil, Dr. Van Buren discovered in a little plant, growing on the hill-sides of his native land, medical virtues of a most positive kind. Careful experimentation has enabled him to formulate from its hidden sap a remedy that has no equal in permanently curing all forms of kidney disease, and which is now known all the world over as Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure.

JOHN R. VERT, Hamilton, says: "McGregor's Speedy Cure for dyspepsia and indigestion is cheap at 50 times the price asked for it. I am a commercial man and travel continually, and would no more think of leaving home without a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure in my valise than I would of leaving my team at home and going on foot." Free trial bottles at John McKee's drug store. Regular size fifty cents and one dollar.

NOT IN ACCORD.

THE Globe undertakes the defence of Freemasonry against Pope Leo XIII, therein differing widely from the leader of the Reform party, the Hon. Edward Blake, who denounced it in his place in the House as the "fruitful mother of malignity, misrepresentation and bigotry."

NOT ACQUITTED.

SOME of the less scrupulous of the Reform journals are asserting that Informer McKim has been "acquitted" of the charge of forgery. This was no doubt the object which the official interference to shield a criminal was perpetrated. McKim was not "acquitted," for his employers dared not let him go to trial to be acquitted or convicted. The Magistrate held that there was sufficient evidence at all events to put him on his trial, but he was very improperly prevented from acting upon his judgment by another tool of the Mowat Administration, who was determined at any cost to prevent the true character of Informer McKim from being exposed.

COOKING THE ACCOUNTS.

THE London Advertiser instances as an example of the corruption of the Dominion Administration the expenditure of $65,000 "to pay for the pulling up of the dandelions that grew on the Parliament square." Before the Public Accounts Committee at Ottawa, Mr. John Lorn McDougall, the Auditor-General, and former Reform politician, had to admit that the item in question was wrongly described through an error in his department, for that it really included extensive alterations, repairs and other expenditures. The Advertiser is well aware of this fact, and yet it uses the culpable error of its ally for the purpose of making knowingly a false charge against their political opponents. Under such circumstances, and considering the silence of Mr. John Lorn McDougall it would be difficult to come to any other conclusion than that he deliberately cooked the accounts in order to give his friends an opportunity of bearing false witness against the Macdonald Administration.

CANADA PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Annual Meeting of the Shareholders—Election of Directors.

MONTREAL, May 14.—The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Canada Pacific railway was held here to-day, Mr. R. B. Angus, vice president, in the chair. A resolution was passed authorizing the directors to lease the Manitoba and South Western railway so as to secure the interest on the bonds to be issued by that company in London at the rate of $12,000 per mile.

The election of directors followed, and resulted as follows:—Messrs. George Stephen, R. B. Angus, Donald A. Smith, W. C. VanHorne, H. S. Northcote, P. Du P. Grenfell, C. D. Rose, Baron J. De Reinach, R. V. Martinson, W. L. Scott, and John Turnbull. Mr. VanHorne was elected in place of Mr. Duncan McIntyre, who declined re-election, and Mr. Turnbull, vice Mr. John Kennedy, also resigned.

At a meeting of the board subsequently Mr. Stephen was reappointed president, and Messrs. Angus and VanHorne were appointed first and second vice-presidents.

The annual statement was laid on the table, when the meeting was adjourned until June next.

A Creditable Specimen.

The Peterborough Weekly REVIEW has been enlarged until it is perhaps the largest eight page weekly in the Province. Its dimensions surpass those of the Mail, and it has more politics to the square acre than any paper in Canada. It is printed on a new Campbell press, purchased specially for the purpose, and is an extremely creditable specimen of typography. This evidence of progress and prosperity is very satisfactory and the publishers are to be congratulated on their enterprise.—Lindsay Post (Reform).

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

WHY?

Mr. R. J. Devlin, of Ottawa, whose comical advertisements often contain much sound sense, has the following suggestions headed "Why?" His remarks are applicable to other places besides Ottawa:—

WHY?

Why is Ottawa such a badly governed town?

Because it is not a town.

It is merely a collection of outlying villages calling themselves wards.

The only thing in common between them being a permanent desire to have as much municipal money as possible expended within their respective borders.

If a crossing be laid in Victoria ward, By Ward insists on fifty feet of sidewalk somewhere.

If a nail is driven in Wellington Ward, Ottawa Ward cries out for a paper of tacks.

The paper of tacks and the sidewalk may be needed—most likely are not—but the equilibrium must be preserved.

No doubt if the tail of a passing shower chanced to fall exclusively on one ward, all the other wards would hold indignation meetings against Providence.

While such a state of affairs holds, proper municipal management is impossible.

Suppose, instead of trying to redistrict the city, all the wards were merged in one.

Then let ten or fifteen of our best citizens, irrespective of nationality, locality or creed, be chosen.

Let us pay them salaries if necessary.

One year of decent, honest, energetic government would be worth the cost of many salaries to this benighted town.

It might also prevent the name of Ottawa being a byword and reproach among the cities of the Dominion.

R. J. DEVLIN.

MONEY IN THE BANK.

When a boy first finds himself the possessor of a bank book of his own, with even a very small entry in it, he feels that he stands on quite different ground from what he did before. He takes rank among men of business. More than this, a new determinatinn is almost sure to be formed to add to the sum. The mind becomes active to devise ways and means of increasing it, and a door is absolutely shut against foolish outlay. A careful system is commenced regarding all expenditure, and this system is the very keystone of success. One who will carefully note down every penny of expenditure for a month, and at its close go and through in and drew a line through those that could without any real disadvantage have been avoided, will be surprised at the footing up. That sum might just as well have gone into the bank book. I am confident that one month's trial of the system would be very convincing to any young man.

Mr. Abbott says, in substance, of life insurance, that the very objection urged against it, which is the difficulty of making the regular payments, is one of the strongest arguments in its favor. It leads a man to be careful and circumspect in his spending, and to have forethought in saving. which habits are of the highest value.

Habits of inaccuracy are the main cause of the poverty of many of our laboring men. If affairs were strictly looked into week by week, not with a miser's eye, but with a calm, cheerful understanding of just how matters stood, it would be to the great advantage of a labourer and of his family. They could live better, and enjoy that peace of mind which comes in with the thought that something is laid by for a rainy day.

PORT HOPE.

NEW PARSONAGE.—The congregation of St. John's Church decided at a recent meeting to erect a parsonage on the property adjoining the church, which is amply large for the purpose. The building is to cost not more than $2,500, and will be erected by Mr. John Mulligan, who is granted a lease of the ground for a nominal annual rental, and is guaranteed interest on his outlay at the rate of eight per cent., the congregation having the option of terminating the lease at any time, on paying the amount expended by Mr. Mulligan. This is an excellent plan for securing the erection of a parsonage, and we are sure it will give satisfaction.—Times.

The Burden of Debt.

One other comparison is of interest, that of the relative debt per head of population according to the last census in the following countries:

| | Debt per Head. |
|---|---|
| United Kingdom | £21 17s. 8d. |
| Canada | 7 11 1 |
| Austro-Hungary | 8 14 6 |
| France | 21 1 9 |
| Holland | 19 11 10 |
| Sweden and Norway | 25 17 9 |
| Mexico | 8 13 11 |
| United States | 7 12 4 |
| Australasia | 33 17 4 |

The debt of Canada, it thus appears, is the smallest of all borrowing countries, and a comparison of taxation would show a similar result. We commend these figures to the consideration of those disposed to assume that the debt of the Dominion has been growing to rapidly, and that our credit may thereby be affected. It is not the extent of the debt, but the causes of its creation that determine the credit and progress of a country.—Montreal Gazette.

Suicide at the Mercer.

The Mercer reformatory in Toronto was the scene of a suicide on Wednesday night, and Mary Ann Hannah, alias Edison, was the victim. About half-past ten one of the guards while going her rounds found Edison's lifeless body hanging from the door of her cell. She had taken off her apron, twisted it into a rope, and with this had done the deed. The cause is not known. It is reported, however, that she had said to another inmate during the day that she intended to take her life. Dr. King, the medical officer of the institution, was at once notified by telephone, and arrived there a few minutes after eleven o'clock. The body, which he ordered to be cut down, was then quite warm, but it was, of couse, impossible for him to do anything.

The Bigmy Cases.

"Not another word of conspiracy against my little maid's peace! Lean forward a little, Peyton, and look at her yonder, coming along the rose-walk. See how the pigeons follow her. She has been gathering raspberries, and I promised she should make all she could pick into jelly for poor old Tobitha Meggs. How pure and fair she looks in her white dress! Dear little thing! Sometimes I am wicked enough to wish she had no mother, for then she would be wholly ours, and we could keep her always. Listen—she is singing Schubert's 'Ave Maria.'"

After a moment's silence Mrs. Lindsay rose, and passing her arm around her son's neck, leaned her cheek against his head, as he sat near his uncle, and looking through the open door at the slowly approaching figure.

"Bishop, if I were an artist, I would paint her as a Priestess at Ephesus,—chanting a hymn to Diana; and instead of Hero and the pigeons, place brown deer and spotted fawns on mossy banks in the background."

"Pooh! What a hopeless pagan you are, Elise? If I were a sculptor I would chisel a statute of Purity, and give it her countenance."

And Mr. Lindsay smiled in his mother's face, and said only for her ear:

"Do not her eyes entitle her to be called Glaukopis?"

CHAPTER IX.

At the parsonage it had been a sad day, sad despite the grave serenity of Mr. Hargrove, the quiet fortitude of Mr. Lindsay, and the desperate attempts of the mother to drive back tears, compose fluttering lips, and steady the tones of her usually cheerful voice. For several days previous, Mr. Hargrove had been quite indisposed, and as his nephew would leave home at 11 p.m., the customary Sunday night service had been omitted.

As the afternoon wore away, the family trio assembled on the shaded end of the north verandah, and with intuitive delicacy, Regina shrank from intruding on the final interview which appeared so sacred.

Followed by Hero, she went through the shrubbery, and down a walk bordered with ancient cedars, which led to a small gate, that opened into the adjoining churchyard.

Has the profoundly religious sentiment of reverence for the domains of death, lost or gained by the modern practice of municipal monopoly of the right of sepulture? Who amid the pomp and splendour of Greenwood, or Mount Auburn, where human vanity builds its own proud monument in the mausoleums of the dead,—who in hurrying along the broad and beautiful avenues thronged with noisy groups of chattering pedestrians, and with gay equipages that render the name "City of Silence" a misnomer—converting it into a quasi Festa ground—a scene for subdued Sunday Fete Champetre—who, passing from these magnificent City Cemeteries into some primitive old-fashioned churchyard, such as that of V——, has not suddenly been almost overpowered by the contrast presented;—the deep brooding solemnity, the solemn hush, the pervading indwelling atmosphere of true sanctity that distinguishes the latter?

Could any other than the simple ancient churchyard of bygone days, have suggested that sweetest, purest, noblest, Elegy in our mother tongue? Do not our hearts yearn with an intense and tender longing toward that old church, at whose font we were baptized, at whose communion table we reverently bowed,—before whose altar we breathed the marriage vows,—from whose silent chancel we shall one day be softly and slowly borne away to our last long sleep? Why not lay us down to rest where the organ that pealed at our wedding and sobbed its requiem over our senseless clay,—may still breathe its loving dirges across our graves, in winter's leaden storms, or in fragrant amber-aired summer days? Would worldly vampires—such as political and financial schemes, track a man's footsteps down the aisle and flap their fatal numbing pinions over his soul so securely even in the Sanctuary of the Lord,—if from his family pew his eyes wandered now and then to the marble slab that lay like a benediction over the silver head of an honored father or mother, or the silent form of a beloved wife, sister or brother?

Is there a woman so callous, so steeped in folly, that the tinsel of Vanity Fair,—the paraphernalia of fashion, or all the thousand small fiends that beleaguer the female soul, could successfully lure her imagination from holy themes,—when—sitting in front of the pulpit she yet sees through the open windows, where butterflies fly like happy souls, flutter in and out,—the motionless chiselled cenotaph that rests like a sentinel above the pulseless heart that once enshrined her image, called her wife,—and beat in changeless devotion against her own; or the little grassy billow sown thick with violets that speak to her of the blue eyes beneath them,—where in dreamless slumber that needs no mother's cradling arms, no maternal lullaby,—reposes the waxen form, the darling golden head of her long lost baby? What spot so peculiarly suited for "God's Acre" as that immediately surrounding God's Temple?

A residence of nearly four years' duration at the Parsonage, had rendered this quiet church yard a favorite retreat with Regina, and divesting the graves of all superstitious terrors, had awakened in her nature only a most profound and loving reverence for the precincts of the dead.

To-day, longing for some secluded spot in which to indulge the melancholy feelings that oppressed her, she instinctively sought the church, yielding unconscious homage to its hallowed and soothing influence. Passing slowly and carefully among the headstones, she went into the church, to which she had access at all times by a key, which enabled her to enter at will and practice on the small organ that was generally used in Sabbath-school music.

Fancying that it might be cooler in the gallery, she ascended to the organ loft, and while Hero stretched himself at her feet, she sat down on one of the benches close to the open window that looked toward the mass of trees which so completely embowered the parsonage, that only the ivy-crowned chimney was visible. Low in the sky, and just opposite the tall arched window behind the pulpit, the sun burned like a baneful Cyclopean eye, striking through a mass of ruby-tinted glass that had been designed to represent a lion, and other symbols of the Redeemer, who soared away above them.

Not until to-day had she realized how much of the pleasure of her life at the parsonage, was derived from the sunny presence and sympathizing companionship, which she was now about to lose, certainly for many years, probably forever.

Although Mr. Lindsay's age doubled her own, he had entered so fully into her fancies, humored so patiently her girlish caprices, and with such tireless interest aided her in her studies, that she seemed to forget his seniority, and treated him with the quiet affectionate freedom which she would have indulged toward a young brother. Next to the memory of her mother, she propably gave him the warmest place in her heart, but she was a remarkably reserved, composed and undemonstrative child, by no means addicted to caresses,—and only in moments of deep feeling betrayed into an impulsive passionate gesture, or a burst of emotion.

The Cheese Market.

There is very little to be said about the cheese market, except that in the almost entire absence of foreign demand it has continued firm in price. We have never known the exports to run so light, and there would seem to be a motive in it beyond what is apparent at a glance. It means that the English are not only unwilling to take our cheese at the price now ruling, but will not take new stock unless they can get it cheaper also. They do not propose to start new cheese at 15c., when they can buy their own old and fine stock at a price that is equivalent to that on this side of the water. Probably a small quantity of the earliest make can be used for our home trade at something like the topmost figure, but as soon as that very moderate demand is filled, we must depend upon the foreign trade. Then will come the test of their anxiety to get our soft, new stock, and unless they manifest more anxiety to get it than they now do to get our old stock, there will have to be a reduction in price to meet their more moderate views. This, as it seems to us, is the lesson exporters intend to teach by refusing to take our cheese at present rates, and it will be well for dairymen to understand the situation in order that they may not be disappointed when their new stock comes into market. The old cheese is now so limited in amount that there will be no necessity for holders to make any concessions on that—the home trade alone can consume it. But this forms no criterion for the new make, and we shall be surprised if any large quantity of it sells above 14c. Indeed it is not likely that it will even remain at that point very long, but we do not believe that any sensible maker will grumble at 13c., or even 12c. If prices are maintained at that point, or thereabouts, as long as they were last year, the season will certainly have a good send off. Following is our usual comparative table:—

| | Rec'ts. | Exp'ts. | Price. |
|---|---|---|---|
| March 25, 1882 | 12,671 | 19,574 | 13½c. |
| March 24, 1883 | 14,439 | 8,500 | 14½c. |
| March 22, 1884 | 8,546 | 1,880 | 15c. |

Top-Dressing Potatoes.

Some important experiments have been conduced at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station with different fertilizers for top-dressings for potatoes. The fertilizers tested were wood ashes, coal ashes, lime, gypsum, salt, hen-manure, a mixture of ashes and plaster, and a mixture of ashes and lime. These were applied when the tops were about two inches from the ground. A description of the soil is not given, which detracts considerably from the value of the results. The experiment with ashes proved that it would be profitable to apply 75 bushels per acre, at a cost of 25 cents per bushel. The mixture of ashes and plaster produced about the same results. Plaster alone had no effect. The lime also proved ineffectual. With salt, quantities over 5 bushels per acre proved injurious, and rations under this quantity produced a slight profit. Hen manure, finely pulverized, gave about the same result as ashes. Judging from these results we would say that the soil was a loam containing little organic matter. It is quite likely that the ashes were purchased from Canadian farmers at two or three cents a bushel.—Farmers' Advocate.

THE FEUD WITH FOOD.

It is quite possible for a man to train himself to eat less than he really needs, and still not be hungry. Appetite or, at least, the conscious, the recognized sensation of hunger, is not to be certainly relied on as an infallible prompter to us of our need of nutrition. At this point, as at so many others, we are creatures of habit. We can habituate ourselves to feel hungry, or not to feel hungry, as we will. What we can not habituate ourselves to is to dispense with food, when we need it, and suffer no loss. We waste vital force when we exert ourselves, and there is no repairing of the waste without food. They talk to us about resting our stomachs! It is a dangerous figure of speech. Our stomachs, like the other parts of our organisms, recruit themselves through food. Do not starve your stomath in the fond conceit that you are thereby refreshing your stomach, through rest, for the task of nourishing the remainder of your body with food. Feed your stomach as well as the rest of yourself. Learn to know what the faintness of inanition means. Do not too readily succumb to admit that you cannot digest a full diet. Ten chances to one you can. Stop worrying, stop watching your symptoms, and try it. Be a little generous with your stomach, and trust it. Luther's stomach, they say, carried the Reformation. The problem of success in life is to a great extent a physical problem—a problem of nutrition. Nourish yourself. Don't weigh your food; don't count your mouthfuls of it. Thank God for it and eat it. Then go about your business, and digest your food, as you breath the air, without knowing it. Have done with the foolishness of the feud with food.

Now this little lay sermon on food will be taken to heart by just the persons that should shut their ears to it. It is intended only for those whom it may concern. All others must pass it by. Dyspeptics,-real dyspeptics, are to plug their ears dense with wool. It will not go for those to eat much that they may digest a little who cannot digest at all; but the selected ones that need the sermon, let them heed it. It does not council gluttony; it does not counsel epicureanism; it simply counsels good, full nutrition. A well-nourished body is the indispensable condition of healthy work. Robust, combative, conquering force is converted out of food.—Prof. William C. Wilkinson in N. Y. Independent.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

LOCAL NEWS

Something New.

Something entirely new in summer Dress Fabrics at the "Golden Lion."

The Single Scull Race.

The single scull race for the silver cup given by Mr. A. Elliott will take place in the forenoon of Monday, May 26th.

The L. A. Concert.

Two members of the Lacrosse Club sold seventy tickets in a short time this morning, one disposing of forty and the other thirty, for the concert on May 23rd. This fact shows that this will be the concert of the season. Those wishing good seats should secure them at once at Hartley's Music Store.

Lots of Weather.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong west to north-west winds, fine weather in the western portion, and showery, followed by clearing weather in the northern and eastern portions, not much change in temperature; frosts at night.

Base Ball.

At one time base ball was a favorite amusement in Peterborough, but of late years it has been neglected, other sports monopolizing all the attention of those who take part in such games. An effort is now being made, however, to organize a base ball club, and a number of young men have signified their intention of uniting with it. A meeting will be held at Faucher's Restaurant on Monday evening to organize a club.

A Handsome Gift.

Mr. W. A. Sanderson has presented the Fire Brigade with a fine gift, on account of the services they rendered on the morning of April the 16th, when fire was discovered in the block in which his store is situated. The present is a large tilling silver water pitcher, handsomely ornamented, and two silver cups, gold lined. The following inscription is on the pitcher:—"Presented the Peterborough Fire Brigade by W. A. Sanderson," and bears the date of the fire. It will be a serviceable article, as well as a beautiful ornament for the Firemen's hall.

Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Co.

We have just received the Dominion blue book containing an "Abstract of Life Insurance in Canada for 1883," and a pamphlet containing the "Fourteenth Annual Report of the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company." From the official report we learn that in the number of new policies for last year the Ontario Mutual stands far ahead of all the British and United States Companies, and is third on the list of Canadian Companies, being very little behind the first two. The reasons for this high standing of the Ontario Mutual is shown by a reference to its annual report and appended statistics. Being the only purely mutual company in Canada, its management is altogether in the hands of the assured, who alone receive all the profits. How favorably the mutual system is regarded by insurers is shown by the fact that in the United States the assets of the leading mutual companies amount to $272,634,633, while the assets of the six leading stock companies amount to only $110,258,122, though among the latter are included such strong companies as the Equitable and the Etna. How the mutual system cheapens life insurance may be seen by two examples of actual transactions. A young man who is insured for $1,000 in the Ontario Mutual at the age of 27, at the annual premiums of $19.44, has paid in 14 years, on account on reduction by profits, only $190.87, while the cash value of his policy is $122.60, so that he has covered the risk for 14 years at an average yearly cost of $4.88, and his premium is now down to $8.91, and is still decreasing. Another gentleman, aged 51, under similar circumstances, has carried the risk at an annual average cost of $10.45, while the decreasing premium is now down to $18.90. It is not surprising then that the Ontario Mutual is doing such an enormous business, and their energetic general agent for this district, Mr. J. O. Snider, will no doubt contribute a good share of the amount from Peterborough.

STRAY SHOTS.

Fragments Picked Up in the Saved Army Battle Ground.

The attendance at the meeting on Thursday evening was very good.

There were six commissioned officers on the platform, namely, Capt. Munt, Lieuts. Louise Pearse, Hattie Arberscombe, Annie White, Dmna White and Ada Brown, besides the non-commissioned officers and privates.

A soldier, in giving his experience, said that a young man had asked him to pray for him, and that the young man's name was—but before he could give it Lieut. Hattie began singing a song and the soldier resumed his seat.

There will be a roll-call and business meeting to-night, at which it is expected that General Lindsay and Divisional Captain Aitkins will be present.

The secretary of the station (or the Trumpet's war correspondent attached to the regiment) has handed in his resignation.

A station was opened at Port Perry on Wednesday by General Lindsay and Adjutant Chislett.

It is said that a Peterborough officer will lead the attack on Campbellford. The attack will be made in a few days.

Gen. Lindsay arrived at noon to-day.

We accordingly invite the inspection of close buyers. We duly appreciate the very liberal patronage we have been favored with in the past, and shall do our utmost in looking after the interest of our customers to merit a continuance of the same.—CARTON BROS., George Street, opposite the Market Square.

Discovered in Time.

At the present time, when there is so much talk about bigamists, an incident that has come to light will not be uninteresting. It is a case in which a young lady in Peterborough came very near being married to a man who already had a wife and family. Last fall Alexander Ritchie was brought down from one of the northern townships, near Kinmount, and lodged in the county gaol here, the charge against him being that of having attempted to kill. He elected to be tried before the County Judge, without jury, and, Judge Dennistoun being ill, Judge Dean, of Lindsay, heard the case. The charge, however, was amended, and two charges of common assault were preferred against him, one being for assaulting his wife. He was fined a nominal amount on each charge, and required to find sureties that he would keep the peace. He was unable to find any sureties, and was held in gaol until the general gaol delivery at the Spring Assizes, when he was released. After his release from the castle he became acquainted with a young lady in town and paid his addresses to her. His suit was successful, as the unsuspecting loved one consented to be his wife, and the day for the consummation of their wishes was appointed, which was a day in the latter part of April. The bridesmaid and groomsman were chosen, but the groom's best man was not as unsuspecting as the bride, and whispers which reached his ear caused him to doubt that all was right. He told his fears to the intended bride, but she declined to believe them. The groomsman then paid a visit to the gaol, and found by the records that his doubts were well founded. Still the bride refused to believe that her lover was false, and not until she had visited the gaol and examined the register herself did she believe it. Then she became aware that she had been deceived, and she felt thankful for her deliverance, as the wedding was to have taken place that day. But it did not take place, and when Ritchie found out that his intended bride had discovered that he had already contracted a matrimonial alliance he disappeared and has not been seen around here lately.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

MILLS ON FIRE.

The Employees Locked up in the Burning Building.

MORCHESTER, Mass., May 16.—At 9 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the Pakachong mills.

In less than an hour after the breaking out of the flames the three mills were in ruins. The mills were used for the manufacture of worsted yarns and brussels. Two were of brick and one wooden. They were fenced in in true mill mill fashion, with no egress or entrance, except at regular hours and by permission of the watchman. The principal mill was three storeys high. About sixty operatives, the majority of them females, were employed. The windows and doors were all fastened when the alarm was sounded, and a scene of the wildest confusion ensued. The blaze was first discovered in the picker room. The mill was lighted by electricity, and the dynamo which generated the electric current for the light was run by a belt from the main shafting. This belt early caught fire, and burning, cut off the source of light, plunging all the building in darkness except as they were lighted by the glare of the fire. The fire department hastened to the scene to find that their services were only useful to save life and prevent the spreading of the flames. The watchman could not be found, and the doors, windows, and outer gates were locked. Men, women and children went to work with their picks, and were obliged to break through the glass of the windows and leap to the ground from the second and third storys, many being injured by jumping. Others had a narrow escape from fire. Thomas Martin, 24 years old, did heroic service in saving the women and girls. He discovered that an exit remained, and he helped out and hurried them to the yards until he was badly burned and obliged to leave his place. He rushed from the building and plunged into a stream running trough the yard, from which he was rescued, and now lies in a critical condition.

A later despatch says none of the help in the Pakachoag mill, which was burned last night, are missing, and none of the injured have died.

THE ROSS-WIGG CASE.

Wigg's Bail Reduced from $20,000 to $500—A Virtual Release of the Defendant.

We find the following particulars relating to the case of Mr. S. P. Wigg, well-known in this county, in the Oswego Palladium of May 5th. It is satisfactory to know that the matter has not the gravity attributed to it by the firsts reports:—

The Palladium says:—

"On Saturday Judge Churchill made an order in the above case reducing the bail required to be given by the defendant on the arrest in the above action from $20,000 to $500, upon which order the defendant was arrested two months ago, and has since been confined in jail. This of course amounts to a virtual release of the defendant under the order of arrest. The order also finds that the claim of the defendent (over $8,000) is "substantially secured by the attachment" issued in the action.

This, as we understand it, amounts to a declaration that sufficient property has been found to satisfy the Ross claim, and it would seem to settle the charge that Wigg intended to take his property to England to defraud Ross.

Mr. Wigg's counsel express confidence that they will be able to establish the groundlessness of the charges against their client; also that they will succeed in recovering damages for the extraordinary treatment of Wigg by Ross. Mr. Wigg is still jail.

Charged with Murder.

UNADILLA, Neb., May 15.—The mystery of the Sheatsley suicide, which occurred at Teegarder, Ind., on December 13th, was revived yesterday by the arrest here of Charles E. Lortz. It is charged that Lortz choked Sheatsley to death and hung the body in the barn, and getting on the coroner's jury shaped matters so as to get a verdict of suicide. His wife went crazy for a time, and told the story on her recovery.

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It sets almost magically Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

OMEMEE.

NEARLY DROWNED.—On Tuesday a bright little boy about seventeen months old, son of Mr. Thos. Locherty, who lives on Mary street, fell into a tub of water and was nearly drowned. The proper restoratives were instantly applied and the little fellow's life saved.

NEARLY A FIRE.—On Wednesday Mr. W. Miller's store and residence had a very narrow escape from destruction by fire. The stovepipe took fire, and there being a dumb stove upstairs it kept the heat close to the floor, setting fire to the carpet. Had it not been for the prompt action of Mr. S. H. Sandy, who smothered the flames, we might have had a serious conflagration.—Herald.

HALIBURTON.

VISIT FROM A DEER.—One morning last week Mr. Spilsbury, who has recently removed from the plains of Peterborough to our picturesque and Swiss like little village, was somewhat startled to find a large deer coolly grazing in the garden. Pearly beads of water trickled down her sides, for she had just stepped from her morning bath in the crystal waters of the lake and was sauntering about on the grassy sward, drying herself in the glinting rays of the rising sun. Suddenly the sweet delicious calm of the night was rudely broken by the shriek of the locomotive, and throwing up her head for an instant, and pointing her ears, dirating her eyes and expanding her nostrils with one light spring cleared the fence, and bounded off to its forest home, where mechanism and civilization are unknown, and nature revels in its own simplicity and beauty.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Plain and fancy Sateen Prints in large variety now to be seen at Turnbull's.

MIDLAND.

POPULATION.—According to the assessment of the village, just completed, our population is placed at 1,314. This does not include a number of persons such as boarders, of which there is quite a number in Midland. Our entire population, if a regular census was taken, would exceed the above number by at least 100.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—On Saturday James Price and Joseph Harkley quarrelled about some graining combs. Price said something aggravating to Harkley, who struck him and knocked him down. Price had his assailant before the Reeve on Tuesday. The trial lasted nearly all day. After hearing all the evidence the Magistrate felt justified in sending the case to Barrie for trial. Bail to the amount of $400 was accepted. Price has a number of cuts and bruises about the head and face, which the witness says were caused by Harkley kicking him.—Free Press.

BOBCAYGEON.

MEMORIAL.—The memorial fund, for the purchase of a stained glass window in memory of the Rev. H. C. Avant, who endeared himself to so many, whilst Incumbent of Christ Church, has reached nearly $300.

CHRIST CHURCH.—The windows of the chancel of this church have been replaced with stained glass. The large memorial window in the centre is a most handsome and artistic piece of work, and is to the memory of Mrs. Boyd. The subjects are in connection with the annointing of the Lord's feet by Mary, the Resurrection and the Ascension. The execution is of the finest, the colours rich and deep, and the effect is most beautiful. Several glasses are used, the chief being antique, with a portion of rolled cathedral, and a small bordering of plain sanded. The small windows on each side of the chancel are filled with geometrical designs, both very pretty combinations of color and form, the centre of one being a chalice and the other a font. The window gives a handsome appearance to the Church, and whilst the subjects are such as to inspire beholders with good and holy thoughts, will also keep in memory of the congregation a lady who took a deep interest in the church, and did so much for its material welfare. The windows were furnished by McCausland & Son, of Toronto, at a cost of $800, and are being carefully placed in position by Mr. Fell, an experienced employee of the firm.—Independent.

Ladies requiring a Spring Outfit should pay Turnbull's Millinery and Mantle Showrooms a visit. Fresh goods arriving daily. All orders neatly and promptly executed.

PORT HOPE.

CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—On Thursday afternoon about five o'clock, there was an unusually vivid flash of lightning, followed immediately by a deafening crash of thunder which startled the inhabitants of Port Hope. Upon enquiry it was found that the spire of the Baptist Church had been struck by the electric fluid and had been almost entirely demolished. The main building was not injured in the least, with the exception of a small piece of plaster not a foot square which was jarred from the ceiling, the base of the lever escaping altogether, the lightning apparently escaping again into the atmosphere. The houses in the vicinity were very much shaken; in Dr. Corbett's residence several panes of glass were broken and two of the children who were standing at a front window were heavily shocked and badly frightened. The iron, especially the stoves, showed the presence of the electric element, it is said that the furniture danced up and down on the stoves for some time after the shock. Ex-Councillor Wm. McKee who happened to be passing at the time and only about 25 feet from the tower was struck by a flying brick, the electric shock on him being most severe, and stunning him slightly for the time. A number of persons, among whom were the Midland Railway employees while returning from work were in the vicinity; and the wonder is that no fatal results followed. The spectacle as witnessed by many is described as being extremely grand, the steeple apparently being scattered as easily as a gust of wind would drive smoke before it, the lightning striking full on the top, dividing and running down all sides of it in the form of fire balls, and then vanishing in the air. The loss, which will amount to about $500 or $600 is fully covered by insurance in the North British and Mercantile Insurance Co.—Guide.

A REVIVAL PREDICTED.

NEW YORK, May 16.—It seems to be the general impression in Wall street circles that all danger of a continuance of the disturbances of the past few days are over. Cyrus W. Field in an interview to-day, said:—"Prices are now so low that no further decline ought to happen in any really good stock, and the country has every reason to expect a prosperous year. I see no reason why there should not be a great business revival during the coming season."

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, May 16.—Since half-past four a strong downward tendency in American stock, especially Lake Shore, has prevailed. The street is crowded and there is much excitement. The prices of American securities, however, were better at the close of business. Large shipments of gold to New York is being arranged.

MONEY POURING IN.

NEW YORK, May 16.—All last night money literally poured into the city. In round numbers the amount of funds received out of town banks since yesterday is estimated at somewhere from fifteen to twenty millions.

STEAMER WRECKED.

LONDON, May 16.—The steamship Illyrian, Capt. Fargher, from Liverpool for Boston, went ashore, last night near Cape Clear lighthouse, on the southern coast of Ireland. The steamer was completely wrecked, but all on board were saved. Later reports say that the steamer is bumping heavily against the rocks and her engine-room is full of water. If the weather continues fine it is thought it may be possible to save a portion of the cargo and float the vessel.

BISMARCK'S SUCCESSOR.

BERLIN, May 16.—Von Boetticher has been appointed president of the Prussian Cabinet, vice Bismarck.

AWAKENING AT LAST.

LONDON, May 17.—The Government has sent orders to Cairo directing that efforts be made to communicate with Gen. Gordon by any possible route.

THE RELIEF OF BERBER.

ASSOUAN, May 16.—Troops have begun the advance for the relief of Berber and Khartoum. Half the battalion of the Egyptians at Wadyhafa have departed, and the second half will march for Korosko in a short time. 900 Arabs accompany the expedition. A Mohammedan scout says Slatin Bey has surrendered at Fascher. He reports that El Mahdi left Obeid after the receipt of the news of General Graham's victories.

SUCCESSFUL SORTIES.

CAIRO, May 16.—Refugees from Korosko and and Berber report General Gordon well and that his sorties have been successful.

ABLE TO RECONQUER.

CAIRO, May 17.—The Mudir of Dongola has declined to withdraw, and again asks for reinforcements. If granted more troops he claims that he will be able to reconquor the Soudan.

INFORMER McKIM'S CASE.

A Parallel Instance With a Different Result—No Friends at Court.

The London Free Press, in an article on the strange interference with justice in the case of Informer McKim, recalls the following facts:—

"A case of the same kind occurred in this city a few years ago. A well known and active citizen, Mr. C——, had procured the endorsation of the late Mr. Thos. Scatcherd to a note made at two month's date. At the suggestion of the person who discounted it, Mr. Hallohan, of London West, since deceased, the maker of the note altered the face of it to read at "three months." When the note fell due it was not paid, and application was made to the endorser, Mr. Scatcherd, for payment. But he said he had not endorsed a "three month's" note. Nor had he. He avoided payment on the ground that the face of the note had been changed after endorsation had been made. Mr. C—— was thereupon arrested on a charge of forgery; was tried, convicted and sentenced to four years in the Penitentiary. The alteration which constituted the forgery was of precisely the same kind as that proven against McKim.

HENRY COLLINS.

While the public will regret they will not be surprised to learn that Mr. Henry Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan, succumbed to the illness under which he had been laboring for about five weeks on Friday afternoon last. Mr. Collins was in the 72nd year of his age at the time of his death, and leaves behind him a widow and one son—Mr. William Collins, Chief Inspector of Licenses for the county under the Dominion License Act. Mr. Collins was born in the Parish of Newton, in the County of Lincoln, England, and served nearly five years as a private, in the 15th Regiment, from which he bought his discharge in 1837, because he was not sent to Canada at the time of the rebellion of that and the following year and whither he came in the year 1844, settling in the neighborhood of Cobourg, where he remained until 1851, when he came to Peterborough, and after residing five years in town, moved to North Monaghan, to the farm on which he died. In 1862 he was elected a member of the North Monaghan Council, of which he has been a member ever since. In 1871 he was elected Reeve of the same Township and continued to occupy that position up to the day of his death—a period of nearly 14 years. In 1882 he was elected to the highest municipal position in the county—namely that of Warden—the duties of which he discharged with credit to himself and satisfaction to his councillors and the public.

In agricultural matters Mr. Collins always took an active and intelligent interest, particularly in stock, and as a breeder of Durham cattle, Leicester sheep, and Berkshire pigs, did more than any other man in the County of Peterborough for the improvement of its stock. As a matter of course he was an active worker in connection with our agricultural societies.

For a short time after his arrival in Peterborough Mr. Collins sympathized with the Reform party, but he soon discovered that the party of real reform and progress was the Liberal Conservative party, with which he identified himself and became an active and efficient worker therein, doing yeoman service in many of the hard fought battles of the West Riding.

In religion Mr. Collins was an old and faithful member of the Methodist Church.

Personally Mr. Collins was a warm friend, but not a bitter enemy. He never hesitated to speak his mind, and he, as all good and true men should do, never hesitated to say more against a man before his face than he would behind his back. Take him all in all, he was a man of sterling qualities. Would that there were more like him.

The funeral will take place from his late residence at 2.30 p.m. to morrow (Sunday).

THE ONTARIO PACIFIC JUNCTION.

THE Globe is now at its old work of endeavoring to excite unfounded prejudice against the Dominion Government, by finding fault with its efforts to connect the railway system of Ontario with the C. P. R. by way of Gravenhurst and Callendar.

The three chief points to which this captious critic complains are the fear of the line being neutral, the cost of it, and the location of the junction station.

As to the first point, any one who has watched the course of the Government in the House and in Committee, knows well that they have been most careful to take every precaution that the junction road should be and should remain perfectly neutral and that no mongpoly should be allowed.

As to the cost, the country is very difficult for railway construction and it is necessary that the road should be first-class. At first the Government offered $6,000 a mile, but found that this would not procure the construction of an independent line. That sum would have been sufficient, as the Globe says, if it had been handed over to one of the competing roads with power to monopolize the route, but Sir Charles Tupper and his colleagues would not consent to this, preferring, as did Parliament at their request, to give another $6,000 a mile to secure a neutral link open to all traffic.

As to the pretence that the junction is to be many miles further east than is necessary or expedient, it is a sheer invention by the Globe. The road is located so as to skirt the eastern shore of Lake Nipissing, and thence runs directly north by the shortest line to the C. P. R.

The interests of Ontario have been fully considered and well served by the Dominion Administration in this matter. Certainly we in Peterborough have every reason to be satisfied, for this junction line, strictly neutral and free from any monopoly, will by means of both the great lines which run through our town, give us access to the main line of the Canada Pacific Railway and thus an easy connection with our great North-West.

PERMITTED GAMBLING.

THE financial crisis in New York seems to be directly the result of the gambling in stocks that has attained such gigantic proportions. This practice is utterly useless, immoral and productive of the greatest evils. We, in Canada, have no reason for crowing over our neighbors, for this kind of gambling is probably as rife in Toronto and Montreal as in New York and Chicago, allowance being made for the relative wealth and population.

We fail to see why the law should not interfere in the matter. Our statutes restrict gambling by means of cards or dice, they prohibit lotteries, and we have even seen an attempt to hold as criminal a guess, with a few cents at stake as to the number of beans in a glass vase. And yet gambling by means of stocks, with all its evil results to individuals and to the community at large, goes unchecked and unrebuked.

Of course speculative purchases cannot be stopped without interfering with genuine business, but the time bargains, the mere betting on future prices without change of property, the most common and worst form of the system, being as it is unalloyed gambling without a redeeming point, might surely be discouraged and in a measure checked by our legislators. It may be difficult to accomplish this end, but we cannot believe that it is altogether impossible.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

As the education of youth in our public schools is a question of very great importance to the mechanical interests of Canada, it is quite within the province of this journal to point out some of the errors into which our teachers are falling, with respect to the course of study laid down for them to follow and the rules of decipline adapted. Whilst we appreciate the great advance of late years, in the education of the masses, and the superior class of teaching employed, we still feel that we are giving to them a mere superficial education on many subjects of no importance to them in this country in after life in fact, forgotten ere youth has reached the age of manhood, whilst other subjects of the utmost importance, not only to the people as a body, but to the future prosperity of the Dominion, are entirely ignored.

Some of the principal subjects of education of the greatest importance for the future development of the resources of this vast country for the benefit of its people, and which, hitherto, have received little or no notice by our Educational Boards, are mechanics, agriculture and geology for boys, and home industries and domestic education for girls. If a taste is not created for these important studies in early life, they are not likely to be attained after children leave school, when to a certain extent, their education may be said to cease, and the little store of superficial knowledge acquired at school on subjects not required in their sphere of life, except in isolated instances, becomes soon rubbed out, and all that remains on the mind after five or six years instruction, is the knowledge of how to read and write, and to make such arithmetical calculations as are actually necessary in commercial life.

The "cramming" system that is adopted in our Canadian schools is ruinous to the proper education of our boys and girls, they may spend years at school and they can just tell you what they had prepared for the regular "examinations," but if you will question them in any other parts of their studies you will find that they are very deficient.—for instance, we asked a little girl what rule she was in in arithmetic, she said that she was in the 34th exercise; we asked her what was the name of the rule, she replied that she did not know, she only learned the number of the exercise. We asked her what was the name of the author, she did not know, only it was arithmetic. We asked a boy who had just left the "grammer school" about the course of study he pursued, and among other taings he had "latin", we asked him some questions about his latin, but he said he had forgotten it nearly all, though he had only left the grammer school a few weeks and wanted to learn a profession. We once met with a young girl who was attending a grammar school and among other studies was learning French, we spoke a few words to her in French, but she said that her teacher did not pronounce the words as we did, her teacher was a scotch man and spoke broad scotch, and of course we thought he would not speak good French, though he was an "M.A." We remember in the old country when we were going to school, that the parents could go to the teacher and select the course of study for their boys just according to the trade or business that they intended them for, and the boys studied that course thoroughly. We have too many boys now in Canada whose educational training fits them only for clerks, of which we have already too many, we want more agriculturalists and more mechanics, not mechanics who simply know how to plane a board or make a joint, but mechanics educated to a trade as to a profession, and who will be able to turn to advantage, in after life, the education received in youth, not only to the benefit of themselves, but for their country as well. To what does England and America owe their great prosperity during the past century? Almost entirely to the inventions and skill of their mechanics.

What would be the state of England in the present day, were it not for her high state of agricultural knowledge by which every acre of land fit for cultivation is made to produce to its utmost capacity, food for the people; where one acre there, produces a larger crop than five in this country? Let us then, by all means, have a practical course of education for our children, and let those studies of which a mere smattering knowledge is of no practical use, be laid aside and give place to other branches of education of greater benefit to the masses. This is really a matter of vital importance to the country, and deserving of the serious consideration of the Board of Education.—Merchant and Manufacturer.

By AUGUSTA J. EVANS WILSON.

Author of "St. Elmo," "Beulah," "Macaria,"

Sincerely attached to the entire household who had won not merely her earnest gratitude, but profound respect and admiration, she was conscious of a peculiar clinging tenderness for Mr. Lindsay, which rendered the prospect of his departure the keenest trial that had hitherto overtaken her; and when she thought of the immense distance that must soon divide them, the laborious nature of the engagement that would detain him perhaps a life-time in the far East, her own dim uncertain future looked dark and dreary. The blazing sun went down at last,—the fiery radiance of the pulpit window faded, and the birds that frequented the quiet sheltered enclosure sought their perches in the thickest foliage where they were wont to sleep. But there was no abatement of the heat. The air was sulphurous, and its inspiration was about as refreshing as a draught from Phlegethon; while the distant occasional growl had grown into a frequent thunderous muttering, that deepened with every repetition and already began to shake the windows in its reverberations. Two ladies in deep mourning, who had been hovering like dark spectres around a granite scarcophagus, where they deposited and arranged the customary Sabbath arkja of white flowers,—concluded their loving tribute to the sleeper, and left the churchyard; and save the continual challenge of the thunder drawing nearer, the perfect stillness ominous and dread, which always precedes a violent storm, seemed brooding in fearful augury above the home of the dead.

With one foot resting on Hero's neck, Regina sat leaning against the window facing, very pale, but bravely fighting this her first great battle with sorrow. Her face was eloquent with mute suffering, and her eyes were full of shadows that left no room for tears.

"Going away to India, perhaps forever!" was the burden of this woe that blanched even her lovely coral lips until their curves were lost in the pallor of her rounded cheek and dimpled chin. "Going away to India;" like some fateful rune presaging dire disaster, it seemed traced in characters of flame across the glowing sky, and over the stony monuments that studded the necropolis.

Suddenly Hero lifted his head, sniffed the air, and rose, and almost simultaneously Regina heard the sound of footsteps on the gravel outside—and the low utterances of a voice which she recognized as Hannah's.

"I never told you before, because I was afraid that in the end, you would cheat me out of my share of the profit. But I have watched and waited, and bided my time as long as I intend to, and am too old to work as I have done."

"It seemes to me a queer thing that you have hid it so long—so many years, when you might have turned it into gold. The old General ought to pay well for the paper. Let's see it."

The response was a man's voice, harsh and discordant, and leaning slightly forward, Regina saw the old servant from the Parsonage, standing immediately beneath the window, fanning herself with her white apron, and earnestly conversing in subdued tones with a middle-aged man, whose flushed and rather bloated face still retained traces of having once been, though in a coarse style—handsome. In length of limb, and compact muscular development he appeared an athlete—a very son of Anak; but habitual dissipation had set its brutalizing stamp upon his countenance, and the expression of the inflamed eyes and sensuous mouth was sinister and forbidding, as if a career of vice had left the stain of irremediable ruin on his swarthy face.

As he concluded his remark and stretched out his hand, Hannah laughed scornfully.

"Do you take me for a fool? Who else would travel around with a match and a loaded fuse in the same pocket? I haven't it with me; it is too valuable to be carried about. The care of that scrap of paper has tormented me all these years, worse than the tomb devils did the swine that ran down into the sea to cool off; and if I have changed its hiding place once I have more than twenty times. If the old General doesn't pay well for it I shall gnaw off my fingers on account of the sin it has cost me. I was an honest woman and could have faced the world, until that night—so many years ago;—and since then, I have carried a load on my soul that makes me—even Hannah Hinton—who never flinched before man or beast—a coward, a quaking coward! Sin stabs courage—lets it ooze out, as a knife does blood. Don't bully me Pleg! I won't bear it. Jeer me if you dare."

"Never fear Aunt Hannah. I have no mind to do theatre on a small scale, and show you Satan reproving sin. After all, what is your bit of petit larceny, your thin slice of theft, in comparison with my black work? But really I don't in the least begrudge my sins, if only I might have my revenge—if I could only get Minnie in my power."

"Bah! don't sicken me with any more of the Minnie dose! I hate the name as I do smallpox or cholera. A pretty life you must have led dancing after her, as an outright fool might after the pewter-bells on a baby's rattle!"

"You women can't understand how a man feels when his love changes to hate; and yet you ought to know all about it, for when you turn upon one another, you never let go. Aunt Hannah I loved her better than anything else upon the broad earth—I would have kissed the dust where she walked—I always loved her—and she was fond of me until that college dandy came between us—and made a fool of her—a villain of me. When she forsook me and followed him off—I swore I would be revenged. There is tiger blood in me, and when I am thoroughly roused I never cool. It is a long, long time since I lost her trail—soon after the child was born, and eight years ago I almost gave up, and went to Cuba; but if I can only find the track I will follow it till I hunt her down. I never received your letters or I would have hurried back. Where is Minnie now?"

"That is more than I know, but I think somewhere in Europe. The letters are always sent to a lawyer in New York who directs them to her. I have tried in every way to find out, but they are all too smart for me."

"Why don't you pump the child?"

"Haven't I? And gained about as much as if I had put a handle on the side of a lump of cast iron and pumped. She is closer than sealing wax, and shrewder than a serpent. If you pumped her till the stars fell you would not get an air bubble. She can neither be scared nor coaxed."

"Where is the paper?"

"Safely buried here among the dead."

"What folly! Don't you know the dampness will destroy it? Pshaw! you have ruined everything."

"See here, Peleg,—all the brains of the family did not lodge in your skull; and I guess I was wiser at your age than you will be at mine. The paper was safe and sound when I looked at it a month ago, and it is wrapped up in oil-silk, then in cotton, and kept in a thick tin box."

"When can I see it? Suppose you get it now?"

"In daylight? You may depend on my steering clear of detection,—no matter what comes. I would take it up to-night, but there is going to be an awful storm. Do you hear how the thunder keeps bellowing down yonder, under that dark line crossing the South? There will be wild work pretty soon; it has been simmering all day, and when it begins it won't be child's play. Even the marble slabs on the graves are hot, and the ground scorched my feet as if Satan and his fires had burnt through all but a thin crust. I never was afraid of the devil till my sin brought me close to him. I want to finish this business, and before day tomorrow I will come over here and dig up my box. There will be dim moonlight by three o'clock, and if it should be cloudy I can shut my eyes and find the place. I tell you, Peleg, I am sick and tired of this dirty work; and sometimes I think I am no better than a hyena prowling among dead men's bones. Come around to the cow-shed in the morning about seven o'clock, when the family will be in the library holding prayers; and when I go to milk I will bring you the paper. Only to look at, to read over, mind you! It does not leave my hands until the General's gold jingles in my pocket. Then he is welcome to it, and Minnie may suffer the consequences;—and you and I will divide the profits. I want to go away and rest with my sister Penelope the remainder of my life, and though the family here beg me to stay, I have already given notice that I intend to stop work next month."

"Very well, don't fail me; I am as anxious to close up the job as you possibly can be. I should like to see the child—Minnie's child—but I might spoil everything if she looks like her mother. Good-bye; till to-morrow."

The two walked away, one passing down the avenue of elms out into the street. The other sauntered in the direction of the parsonage, but ere she reached the small gate Hannah turned aside to a low iron railing that enclosed two monuments; a marble angel with expanded wings standing above a child's grave—and a broken column wreathed with sculptured ivy, placed on a mound covered with grass. Just behind the former and close to the railing, rose a noble, Lombardy poplar that towered even above the elms, and at its base a mass of periwinkle and ground ivy ran hither and thither in luxuriant confusion, clasping a few ambitious tendrils even about the ancient trunk.

IN A LOGGING CAMP.

Bill Nye, who now lives in Hudson, Wis., visited a logging camp and writes of it as follows to the Denver Opinion:

"I put up at Bootjack camp, on the raging Willow river, where the gay plumaged chipmonk and the spruce gum have their home.

Winter in the pine woods is fraught with fun and frolic. It is more fraught with fatigue than funds, however. This winter a man in the Michigan and Wisconsin lumber camps could arise at 4:30 a. m., eat a patent pailful of dried apples soaked with Young Hyson and sweetened with Persian glucose, go out to the timber with a lantern, hew down the giants of the forest with snow up to the pit of his stomach, till the grey owl in the gathering gloom whooped and hooted in derision, and all for $12 per month and stewed prunes. I did not try to accumulate wealth while I was in camp. I just allowed others to enter into the mad rush and wrench a fortune from the hand of fate while I studied human nature and the cook. I had a good many pleasant days there, too. I read such literary works as I could find around the camp, and smoked the royal Havana smoking tobacco of the cookie. Those who have not lumbered much do not know much of true joy and sylvan smoking tobacco.

They are not using a very good grade of the weed in the lumber regions this winter. When I say lumber regions I do refer entirely to the circumstances of a weak back. (Monkey wrench, oil-can and screw driver sent with this joke; also rules for working it in different kinds of goods.) The tobacco used by the pine choppers of the northern forest is called the Scandihoovian. I do not know why they call it that, unless it is that you can smoke it in Wisconsin and smell it in Scandihoovia.

When night came we would gather around the blazing fire and talk over old times and smoke this tobacco. I smoked it until last week; then I bought a new mouth and resolved to lead a different life. I shall never forget the evenings we spent together in that log shack in the heart of the forest. They are graven on my memory where time's effacing fingers cannot monkey with them. We would always converse The crew talked the Norwegian language, and I am using the English language mostly this winter. So each enjoyed himself in his own quiet way. This seemed to throw the Norwegians a good deal together. It also threw me a good deal together. The Scandinavians soon learn our ways and our language, but prior to that they are quite clannish.

The cook, however, was an Ohio man. He spoke the Sandusky dialect with a rich, nut-brown flavor that did me much good, so that after I had talked with the crew a few hours in English and received their harsh, corduroy replies in Norske, I gladly fled to the cook shanty. There I could rapidly change to the smoothly flowing sentences peculiar to the Ohio tongue, and while I eat the common twisted doughnut of commerce we would talk on and on of the pleasant days we had spent in our own native land. I talked to him of his old home till the tears would unbidden start, as he rolled out the dough with a common Budweiser beer bottle and shed the scalding tears into the flour barrel. Tears are always unavailing, but sometimes I think they are more so when they are shed into a barrel of flour. He was an easy weeper. He would shed tears on the slightest provocation or anything else. Once I told him something so touchful that his eyes were blinded with tears for the nonce. Then I took a pie and stole away so that he could be alone with his sorrow.

He used to grind the coffee at 2 a. m. The coffee mill was nailed up against a partition on the opposite side from my bed. That is one reason that I did not stay any longer at the camp. It takes about an hour to grind coffee enough for thirty men, and, as my ear was generally against the pine boards when the cook began, it ruffled my slumbers and made me a morose man.

We had three men at the camp who snored. If they had snored in my own language I could have endured it, but it was entirely unintelligible to me as it was. Still it wasn't bad, either. They snored on different keys, and still there was harmony in it—a kind of chime of imported snore, as it were. I used to lie and listen to it for hours. Then the cook would begin his coffee mill overture, and I would arise. When I got home I slept from Monday morning till Washington's birthday, without food or water."

A Durban despatch says on the 4th of May a band of Usutus attacked a congregation of worshippers at the Norwegian mission at Inhlabatki. Three persons were killed, though the missionaries were spared. The marauders rerurned at night and killed all the Christians they could find.

The True Reason.

The Lindsay Warder says that Millbrook was "taken in" when it purchased a hand fire engine from Peterborough as it broke down when put to use. But the Millbrook correspondent of the Port Hope Guide, who probably knows as much about the matter as the Warder, says that the engine failed to do good service because those using it did not know how to manage it, and that it will do good work.

Church Works.

Mr. Sailsbury has received for sale a little work entitled "The Church, its Ordinances and Sacraments" and "The Christian year briefly explained," by H. W. French. "Only a Woman's Heart."

In reference to the above play, and the company which will present it here on Wednesday night next, the Toronto Mail said:—

"'Only a Woman's Heart,' a play presented at the Grand for the first time last night. In the third and fourth acts—in the third especially—there are several strong dramatic situations. Newton Beers, who assumed the leading role, 'Old Roger,' displayed marked ability, and with Miss Pomeroy at the conclusion of the third act was called before the curtain, a compliment he had fairly won in the scene which had just closed. As 'Hattie Salisbury' Miss Lilian Pomeroy created the impression that she was an actress of more than ordinary merit, and in the powerful passages introduced in the third act was equal to all requirements."

DRUNK.

SATURDAY, May 17.—George Wood was charged by Constable Pidgeon with having been drunk. He acknowledged that he had taken "a little too much."

Jas. Fleming, of Millbrook, pleaded guilty to a similar charge. "Can't you get drunk at home, without coming here?" the Magistrate asked, and the prisoner guessed he could.

John McLeod was charged with having been drunk and disorderly. He confessed the truthfulness of the charge, but said that it was his first offence.

The three prisoners were fined $2 each or ten days in gaol. Fleming and McLeod paid the fines, but Wood was richer in time than money, and was escorted up the hill.

Mr. O. G. Langford, who has disposed of his grocery business in Peterborough, on Friday morning departed for Woodstock, where he will attend the Baptist College.

Pencil Points.

—Finer weather.

—Nine tramps and three prisoners in the cells last night.

—The two men and the bear, who were giving performances on the street on Friday, were ordered off the street by Chief Johnston: They went. The Chief could not bear to see such barefaced impostion practiced on a forebearing public.

—A band of street musicians are discoursing sweet music in the town. They use three violins, a harp, and a piccolo.

—There was a very fair attendance on the market this morning. The price of butter was a little weaker, and it sold as low as 18 cents, although 23 cents was paid for some. Oats brought 38 cents. Other articles remained at about the same prices.

Keep Cool

The local editor of the Lindsay Post gets excited over a paragraph in which we pointed out how frequently Peterborough was mentioned in one of its issues, and, among other things, says:—

"'Tis true that Peterborough is mentioned frequently in the papers and in the Post. The escapades and infamous conduct of the bigamist Newbold—a Peterborough man, or at least an old resident of Peterborough—furnish ample occasion for referring to Peterborough. Are we to understand that the l. e. of the REVIEW rejoices at seeing the name of his town mentioned in this connection?"

The point is taken out of the reply and of the witticism by the fact that Newbold was not mentioned in the issue of the Post we referred to, and when the Post insinuates that others here share in Newbold's polygamist views, it courts a reference to another fact, namely, that the only warrant taken out here against a person for bigamy, for some years at least, was for the arrest of a Lindsay man who was said to have committed the crime in that town.

DUNCAN C. ROSS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I have to-day shipped to your town my belt, medals, also harness and ladder for horse pulling. I shall be in Peterborough on the 22nd inst., with Lange and Thompson. We make the following offers: I will give any man in Canada $250 who I fail to throw nine times in one hour; I will give any man $500 who Thompson fails to knock out; I will pay a like amount to Harrison Stewart or any other Canadian pugilist who Lange fails to knock out; I will also give any farmer, contractor, brewer or other party who has a team that can pull Pat O'Donnell. All these offers stand good. Any party accepting can have the money deposited in Canada or can draw on sight on the Ohio National Bank in this city. This you can publish as authority and can draw on me to make good any of the wagers offered.

Respectfully yours,
DUNCAN C. ROSS.

Cleveland, O., May 15, 1884.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

Mr. J. E. McIntyre, of the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, has entered his big bay bus team to pull against Pat O'Donnell, Duncan C. Ross' giant, on Saturday, May 24. He says the man, ladder and rope will be torn assunder.

Just received at Turnbull's, beautiful fast colored Prints in small patterns for Children's wear.

TRAINS ON THE SABBATH.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR EDITOR.—What are our authorities about that they do not take steps to stop the weekly desecration of the Sabbath on the Ontario & Quebec Railway. For some time past construction trains have left here with ties and gravel, and I was told that two or three Sundays ago a number of "parties" from town went out for a free ride on the train and had a "a time" of it at one of the neighboring villages. The bells and whistles sound as on weeks day.

Surely this can be prevented if our authorities interfered, as I think they are bound to do. I was informed that Constable Pigeon's attention was drawn to the matter, but he stated, in effect, that as the Company was building the road they could not be prevented running their Sunday construction trains. If he be correct, the law is very peculiar on such a point, for on the same principle an individual building a house might be allowed to desecrate the Sabbath by continuing the erection thereof because he was building.

If our present constables showed the same determination that the late lamented Constable McGhee did when a train was run up from Belleville on a Sabbath, the matter now complained of would not have existed, in all probability, as long as it has.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Peterborough, May 17, 1884.

A Fatal Baseball Quarrel.

PITTSBURG, May 15.—In a quarrel between boys here about a baseball match last night James Task struck Wm. Fortune with a brick. Fortune died during the night. Tash was arrested.

THEY ALL DO IT.—Everybody uses Teaberry for the Teeth and Breath, the newest, brightest, coolest little toilet gem extant. Try a sample.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Taylor & Macdonald.

Fluid Lightning

Cures toothache and neuralgia, quick as flash, relieves any pain instantly. The cheapest and quickest application known. Why suffer with toothache, neuralgia, headache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, sore throat or acute pains of any kind when you can go to John McKee's drug store and get a perfect and instantaneous cure for 25 cents. Ask for Kram's Fluid Lightning.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pain, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Notice to the Public.

Having sold out our confectionery store we are now giving all our attention to the grocery business. We are determined to push our business, as we are bound to sell, and those who kindly favour us with their patronage can depend on getting their groceries at the lowest possible prices. We will be undersold by none in the trade. We have just received a shipment of fine flavours in Black and Green Teas, also Raw and Refined Sugars. These goods are from the best houses and bought for Cash. We will give our customers the benefit of our close buying. Our motto is Quick Sales and Small Profits, no stale goods lying on the shelves. We accordingly invite the inspection of close buyers. We duly appreciate the very liberal patronage we have been favored with in the past, and shall do our utmost in looking after the interest of our customers to merit a continuance of the same.—CARTON BROS., George Street, opposite the Market Square.

THE great permanency of Murray & Lanman's Florida water gives it a wonderful advantage over nearly all other perfumes; days and weeks after its application the handkerchief or garment exhales a soft, rich fragrance, agreeable, refreshing, and healthful.

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan.: Saved his life by a simple trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors, change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

An Answer Wanted.

Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? We say they can not, as thousands of cases already permanently cured and who are daily recommending Electric Bitters will prove. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Weak Back, or any urinary complaints quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels, and act directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale at 50c a bottle by Taylor and McDonald.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

We are daily complimented upon the extensive and handsome range of Black and Colored Worsted Coatings. Call and see them at Andrew McNeil's.

Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Co.

We have just received the Dominion blue book containing an "Abstract of Life Insurance in Canada for 1883," and a pamphlet containing the "Fourteenth Annual Report of the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company." From the official report we learn that in the number of new policies for last year the Ontario Mutual stands far ahead of all the British and United States Companies, and is third on the list of Canadian Companies, being very little behind the first two. The reasons for this high standing of the Ontario Mutual is shown by a reference to its annual report and appended statistics. Being the only purely mutual company in Canada, its management is altogether in the hands of the assured, who alone receive all the profits. How favorably the mutual system is regarded by insurers is shown by the fact that in the United States the assets of the six leading mutual companies amount to $272,634,633, while the assets of the six leading stock companies amount to only $110,258,122, though among the latter are included the strongest companies in the stock system. How the mutual system cheapens life insurance may be seen by two examples of actual transactions. A young man who is insured for $1,000 in the Ontario Mutual at the age of 27, at the annual premiums of $19.44, has paid in 14 years, on account of reduction by profits, only $190.87 while the cash value of his policy is now $122.60, so that he has covered the risk for 14 years at an average yearly cost of $4.88, and his premium is now down to $8.91, and is still decreasing. Another gentleman, aged 51, under similar circumstances, has carried the risk at an annual average cost of $10.45, while the decreasing premium is now down to $18.90. It is not surprising then that the Ontario Mutual is doing such an enormous business, and their energetic general agent for this district, Mr. J. O. Snider, will no doubt contribute a good share of the amount from Peterborough.

It is cheap excursion, the fare being $1.50.

The Volunteers.

The militia of No. 3 district will go into camp at Trenton on June 23rd for the annual drill. The corps that will go into camp in this district have not yet been selected, but it is probable that the Peterborough troop of cavalry will go out for drill and that the 57th battalion will not. The battery will go into camp on that date, and we understand it will be accompanied by the City Band.

The Late Henry Collins.

The funeral of the late Henry Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan, took place on Sunday afternoon from the family residence to the Little Lake Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. Brownscombe, Chas. Bealy and Robert Dunlop, members of the Township Council; Joseph Foster, ex-member of the Council; John Wood, township clerk, and John Carnegie, M.P.P. The funeral was very largely attended, there being over two hundred vehicles in the pocession that followed the body to its last resting place. Persons were present from all parts of the county, and from outside of the county, showing that Mr. Collin's services in the Township Council and in the County Council were appreciated, and that personally he was very highly respected.

Pencil Points.

—Warm and cloudy.

—A blank at the Police Court this morning.

—The fireworks for Saturday evening were shipped from Rochester per steamer Norseman on Friday.

—There were six tramps in the cells on Sathrday night and one tramp had them to himself last night.

—Nineteen cows and one horse were impounded on Saturday. Not a bad stroke of business in one day for the pound-keepers. Bring them in some £s., eh?

—Twelve head of cattle, purchased by Mr. James Howden from Mr. Wm. Miller, of Stonabee, were weighed on the market scales today.

Electric Light in Toronto.

On Thursday night King street, Yonge street and Queen street, Toronto, were lit by electricity. Large crowds of citizens, the World says, turned out to watch the effect and everyone seemed satisfied. The improvement was wonderful. The streets were a blaze of light. The illumination was a test one.

Destructive Cyclone.

WOODSTOCK, May 16.—A cyclone passed over the southern part of the town last evening, doing about $1,000 worth of damage. The fences, grand stand, and judges' stand on the race-course were blown down, chimneys knocked over, etc. No lives were lost, but one boy was hurt from falling bricks.

A Freak of Lightning.

During a recent thunder storm at Beach Meadows, N.S., a house was struck by lightning, and Mrs. Wharton, 80 yerrs of age, was paralyzed and is not expected to recover. A girl in the house had her boot, with part of the heel, torn off and one of her legs severely injured by the lightning, which also upset a stove and set fire to a bed.

An Excited Village.

Alexandria Bay is excited over the unearthing of two very large human skeletons on Nobby Island. The prominent cheek bones, perfect teeth and other characteristics indicate that they are the remains of Indians. They were buried on the rock, covered with stone and then earth. The large growth of the trees show that they were buried a great many years ago.—Kingston Whig.

Teeming with Information.

We have received a copy of last week's Peterborough WEEKLY REVIEW, and notice a wonderful improvement. ANSWER TO CHALLENGE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I noticed a challenge to me, Bain, Pop, or Stewart to stand four rounds before Lange at Peterborough on May 26th. I have engagements for the 24th and 26th which will prevent me from meeting Mr. Lang on the date mentioned. Any time between the 5th and 9th of June I will be ready to meet Ross's man, and as I have been disappointed by challenges which after my acceptance of them never came to anything, I hope this one may be bona fide. Mr. Bain will also be here on the 24th and 26th to take part in the games. Hoping you will kindly give place for this in the daily edition,

Bass and Co's Brewery.

The foundation of the business of the Burton breweries was laid in 1777 by Mr. Wm. Bass. For fifty years the firm appears to have confined their trade in bitter beer to India. In 1827 they began to open up a trade in this country, but it was not until the year 1851, during the time of the Great Exhibition, that "Bass" acquired a metropolitian fame. In three days the firm now do as much business as they did in the course of a year some half century ago. As a recent writer has stated, for carriage alone in the year ending June 30, 1878, they paid the railway and canal companies and other carriers the sum of £180,102. The ale stores of Messrs. Bass, near St Pancras Station, cover three floors, each two acres in extent, and each containing 30,000 barrels of 36 gallons of ale. In addition to this they have other extensive stores. The firm's breweries at Burton are, of course, enormous, and the staff there numbers nearly 3000. The average annual amount of the business is assessed at £2,400,000. In one year Bass and Co. pay in malt tax and license duty £286,000. Professor Levi drew up a calculation in 1871 from which it appeared that the yearly revenue derived from beer and British and foreign wines and spirits amounted to about 28 millions sterling, being more than a third of the whole national revenue, and towards this amount Messrs. Bass contributed upwards of £780 per day. The stock of casks necessary to carry on the business consists of 46,901 butts, 159,608 hogsheads, 139,753 barrels, and 197,597 kilderkins, or in all 543,859 casks. These casks, if laid end to end, would more than cover the distance between London and Manchester. It may be added to these remarkable facts that the yearly issue of Bass's labels amounts to more than one hundred millions. The firm was converted into a private company in 1880, the title now being Bass, Ratcliff, and Gretton (Limited).

INFORMER McKIM'S MONEY.

ON Friday the motion asking that the $1,000 which Informer McKim accepted as a bribe, according to his own account, and then paid over to the Speaker, should be handed over to one of his defrauded creditors, was brought up before Mr. Justice Rose at Osgoode Hall. It was by him sent to the full court of the Common Pleas Division.

CONTRADICTORY CRITICS.

ONE set of Reform journals is now criticising Sir John Macdonald for not making a "great speech" upon the subject of the loan to the C. P. R. Other Reform journals are arguing that as Sir John has never visited the Northwest he "went it blind" in legislating for that portion of the Dominion. The fact is that Sir John is not an autocrat and does not wish to monopolize the control of the policy of the Cabinet, or the management of the affairs of the country. Neither, on the other hand, is he so poorly provided with lieutenants as to be obliged to rush to the front on every occasion, from not being able to confide any portion of the duties of the administration to the other members of the Cabinet. Sir Charles Tupper was entrusted with the onerous and important duty of conducting the department of Railways and Canals, especially of facilitating the completion of our great inter-oceanic highway, and most ably and admirably he acquitted himself. Sir Charles visited the Northwest, and by personal inspection and enquiries on the spot, made himself thoroughly acquainted with every necessary detail of its requirements as affecting his department. With this full knowledge of his subject and his exceptional abiilities and oratorical powers he made "a great speech" in favour of his railway policy, and utterly annihilated the captious criticisms of his opponents. Thus it was not necessary for the carrying on of the public business that Sir John Macdonald should visit the Northwest, nor that he should make a great speech. He could contentedly see a colleague earn credit and the thanks of the country, without being driven to unnecessary interference by that jealous and envious desire to monopolize the first place, that makes some leaders so unsuccessful. Sir John Macdonald, if he does "play the first fiddle," does not want to be the whole orchestra.

The Lazier Murderers.

PICTON, May 16.—It is stated now that Joseph Tompsett does not deny being at Jones' on the night of the murder, but he says Lowder did the shooting. Lowder repudiates this with the statement that he was in the road when the shot was fired. The Lowders feel that in trying to save Tompsett George has been made to suffer more than he otherwise would have, while Tompsett's friends assert that the Lowders have been throwing all the blame on him. It is the general belief that both the prisoners will make a full confession before the day of execution. One of the witnesses for the defence has stated since the trial that he was quite positive both the prisoners were at Jones' on the night of the murder. The petition which is being circulated to have their sentence commuted is not being generally signed.

Killed with an Axe.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Michael Walsh, second mate of the bark Myrtle, anchored off Whitestone, L. I., while crazed with liquor this morning, engaged in a fight with James Williams, a sailor, who had attacked him with a knife. Walsh struck Williams with an axe, breaking the spinal column, and knocked him dead on the deck. Walsh then attacked the other sailors, who took to the rigging for safety. He went back to the dead body of Williams, beat it to a jelly, and retired to his cabin with a bottle of whiskey belonging to the murdered man. The first mate had difficulty in preventing the crew from lynching the murderer, who was finally arrested, offering no resistance.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Scarcely do we get the unsightly telegraph poles off one of the principal streets when the network of electric light wires are stuck up all over. Edison, I understand, intends exercising his right under the Dominion charter, and is shortly to favor us with more poles. But this unpleasant feature is not by any means the worst. These wires have been the means of killing many persons in the United States by coming in contact with them when within reach, as they are in stores, in lights outside of stores, and close to first story windows, etc. This danger was the cause of a bill being introduced in New York State to the effect that companies should place them underground. Contact in any way means certain death. I am in favor of progress, but this seems rather too dangerous and useless an advance. The whole apparatus for 75 lights only costs some $10,000 at the outside, (I know this for a fact), and at 50c. a night for each light the profit is the moderate sum of $100. Therefore I protest against the introduction of this light for three reasons,—danger, unsightliness and expense. In no place has it met with popular approval on account of the danger. Thanking you, &c.,

I remain,

SABBATH DESECRATION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Your issue of last Saturday contains a letter from "Citizen," complaining of the desecration of the Sabbath by the O. & Q. R. R. Co. The complaint is well founded, and I can but wonder that it has been so long delayed.

But, Sir, the complaint refers only to one company, while I am of opinion that the Midland company is also obnoxious to a similar charge, and I will tell you why I think so, furnishing only two or three cases out of many that might be adduced.

On Easter Sunday last, as people were returning from church, their ears were greeted with the loud hissing of steam, proceeding from the engine-house of the Midland R. R. Co. The sound lasted for a considerable time, and proved that work of some kind was being carried on within the building.

On Sunday morning, the 4th day of the present month, the steam-whistle was sounded three times, once very loudly, before six o'clock. The loud whistle was blown, I believe, for the purpose of calling the cabmen, for shortly afterwards a cab containing two or three men and a box came rattling down the road.

Again last Sunday we were disturbed, between 5 and 6 o'clock a.m. by the same "abominable nuisance," as Sir C. Tupper denominates the steam-whistle, no exemption being afforded us even on the Sabbath Day.

This morning we were aroused from sleep at 4.30 o'clock by the steam whistle of a Midland train, the driver sounding his "instrument of torture" every few minutes for half an hour, until the town clock struck five.

Now, sir, if our municipal authorities take no notice of such matters, take no steps to protect us from what the Minister of Railways himself, only the other day, called an "abominable nuisance," we shall be forced to the conclusion that some kind of pressure has been brought to bear upon them to induce them to allow these railway people, managers and men, to act just as they please in our town.

The Fashionable Sheep of To-day.

An English correspondent of the National Live Stock Journal (Chicago) writes in its last number:—

The most popular breed of sheep in the United Kingdom at the present moment is undoubtedly the Shropshire. It is held in high estimation alike in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and is found to be adapted to the varying climates of all three countries. At the last meeting of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, there were 397 pens of sheep exhibited, in 36 classes, for 13 different breeds and of that number no fewer than 127 entries were Shropshires. On some former occasions, the numbers shown at the national meetings have been even more overwhelmingly in favour of this breed. A table made up regarding sales of rams held during the year 1883, displayed the following results: Shropshires averaged £22 10s. 7d. per head; Hampshire Downs averaged £17 per head; Oxfordshire Downs averaged £15 18s. 8d. and Lincolns averaged £14 13s. 9d. In 1881, the first-prize shearing ram at the Derby Royal Show was let for 205 guineas, and there is on record several lettings at 100 guineas, while rams have been purchased privately at enormous prices, it being stated that one breeder gave 500 guineas for a single animal. The Shropshire is the only breed of sheep for which there has been established in England a flock book, for the official registration of pedigrees. I think these unvarnished facts prove that I do not, in the slighest degree, exaggerate when I describe this as the most popular British breed of sheep of the present day.

The Shropshire is clearly composite or mixed in their origin, and it is only comparatively recently that it has been recognized as a distinct breed. Neither Low nor Youatt mentions it, as it now exists, in their histories of British sheep. In fact, it was only at the Gloucester show of the Royal Agricultural Society in England, in 1853, that it obtained classes. It again dropped out of the prize schedule; but, in response to the powerful representations of breeders, the national society formally and permanently recorded it separate classes although it was not until 1861, at Leeds, that it made its first grand impression on the minds of the agricultural public as a breed possessing special merit and value. In 1848, the breed was christened the "Shropshire," by Mr. W. G. Preece, of Shrewsbury, who has rendered yeoman service in establishing and spreading the fame of his favorites. Mr. Preece is justly proud of his connection with the breed for which he has done so much, and frequently reminds us that he gave it its name; but considering that, even when he baptized it, the variety was largely cultivated in Staffordshire, Worcestershire, and Cheshire, as well as in Shropshire, and that the parent stocks from which it is descended belonged perhaps as much to Staffordshire as to Shropshire, it is questionable whether it would not have been better to have bestowed a designation of somewhat wider meaning. "The West Midland breed" would not have been an inexact title, but it would have been quite misleading to have called it, as some good authorities have since proposed, the "West Midland Down", because, although Down blood was employed to bring the breed to its present excellence the Leicester was also resorted to for this purpose. However, the breed is now universally known as the Shropshire, and it would be unwise to make any change.

For many years now no fresh blood has been introduced, recent attempts to infuse more South down and Leicester blood having signally failed. Pringle states, in his "Live Stock of the Farm," that, now that the breed has become established, any infusion of Southdown blood is followed by a decrease in the weight of the carcass, and also of the fleece, while the introduction of the blood of any of the large breeds results in a sacrifice of quality, which is not compensated by extra weight. Selection, he adds, combined with liberal feeding and generally improved management, have been the means mainly relied on for the progressive improvement of the Shropshire sheep and the maintenance of their improved state.

In view of the history of the evolution of the breed, it is not surprising that until lately there was a marked want of uniformity, both in the sizes and in the color of points of the Shropshires. This, however, has now been much lessened; but it might still be well if the Shropshire Sheep Society would issue an official description of the points of the breed, so as to hold up a model that breeders might endeavor to reproduce in their flocks. To prevent deterioration, it is absolutely essential to insist on conformity to the established features of the breed. Here is a good description of the breed: The face is much larger than that of the Southdown, and also somewhat longer; forehead broad, prominent and slightly arched; ears larger than the Southdown; the color of the face is a softened black, and occasionally a very dark grey, or inclining to grey, on the jaw; the forehead is well covered with wool; the legs are darker than the face; neck strong and good; shoulders flat, back short, ribs well sprung, hips wide, with long hind quarters, and full haunch. They carry fleeces of closer-set fine wool, longer in staple than that of the Southdowns. In good flocks, the wool averages 6 to 8 lbs. per fleece hoggs clipping up to 12 or 14 lbs. Shropshire shearlings commonly weigh 20 lbs or more per quarter, and two shears are fed up to 40 lbs. or more per quarter. They are exceedingly prolific, at least one-half the ewes dropping twins, and they suckle better than any sheep of larger breed. They are hardy and particularly adapted for enduring a wet climate. The mutton is excellent, and the breed is recommended by its highly profitable and rent paying qualities. Rams of the Shropshire breed are much used for crossing inferior classes of sheep, chiefly for the purpose of rearing lambs for the butcher and I would not be surprised it this should be the breed chosen most largely by American agriculturists when they set themselves to produce a fine description of mutton.

Over the railing leaned Hannah, peering down for several moments, at the lush green creepers,,—then she walked on to the Parsonage gate, and disappeared.

Watching her movements, Regina readily surmised that somewhere near that tree, the paper was secreted; and she was painfully puzzled to unravel the thread that evidently linked her with the mystery.

"I am the child she spoke of,—and she has tried again and again to 'pump' me, as she called it. 'Minnie' must mean my mother,—but that is not her name. Odille Orphia Orme never could be twisted into 'Minnie'—and that coarse, common, low, wicked man never could have dared to love my own dear, beautiful, proud mother! There must be some dreadful mistake. Somebody is wrong, but not mother; no, no—never my mother. Once she wrote that she was forced to keep some things secret, because she had bitter enemies; and this man must be one of them, for he said he would hunt her down. But he shall not! Was it Providence that brought them here to talk over their wicked schemes, where I could hear them? Oh! if I only knew all! Mother! mother! you might trust your child! I can't believe that I am ignorant even of my mother's name. Surely she never was that red-faced man's 'Minnie!'"

Covering her face with her hands, she shuddered at the familiar mention by profane lips, of one, so hallowed in her estimation, and this vague threatening of danger to her mother, sufficed for a time to divert her thoughts from the sorrow, that for some days past had engrossed her mind.

Knowing the affection and confidence with which Hannah had always been treated by the members of the family, and the great length of time she had so faithfully served in the Parsonage household, Regina was shocked at the discovery of her complicity in a scheme, which she admitted had made her dishonest. Only two days before, she had heard Mrs. Lindsay lamenting that misfortunes never came single, for as if Douglass' departure were not disaster enough for one year, Hannah must even imagine that she felt symptoms of dropsy and desired to go away somewhere in Iowa or Minnesota, where she could rest and be nursed by her relatives.

This announcement heightened the gloom that already impended, and various attempts had been made by Mr. Hargrove and his sister to induce Hannah to reconsider her resolution. But she obstinately maintained that she was "a worn-out old horse, who ought to be turned out to pasture in peace, the rest of her days!" yet notwithstanding her persistency, she evinced much distress at her approaching separation from the family, and never alluded to it without a flood of tears.

What would the members of the household think, when they discovered how mistaken all had been in her real character? But had she a right to betray Hannah to her employer? Perhaps the paper had no connection with the personage, and no matter whom else she might have wronged, Hannah had faithfully served the pastor and repaid his kindness by devotion to his domestic interests. Regina's nature was generous as well as just, and she felt grateful to Hannah for many small favors bestowed on herself, for a uniform willingness to oblige or assist her, as only servants have it in their power to do.

Sweetening reminiscences of caramels and crullers, of parenthetic patty pancakes not ordered or expected on the parsonage bill of fare, pleaded pathetically for Hannah, and were ably supported by recollection of torn dresses deftly darned—of unseasonably and unreasonably soiled white aprons, which the same skillful hands had surreptitously washed and fluted before the regular day for commencing the laundry work—all of which now made clamorous and desperate demands on the girl's gratitude and leniency. So complete had been her trust in Hannah, that her reticence concerning her mother, sprang solely from Mr. Hargrove's earnest injunction that she would permit no one to question her upon the subject, consequently she had very tenderly insinuated to the old woman, that she was not at liberty to discuss that matter with any one.

"She is going away very soon, bearing a good character. Would it be right for me to disgrace her in her old age, by telling Mr. Hargrove what I accidentally overheard? If I only knew 'Minnie' meant mother, I could be sure that this paper did not refer to Mr. Hargrove, and then I should see my way clearly; for they both said 'old General,' and no one calls Mr. or Dr. Hargrove 'General.' I only want to do what is right."

As she lifted her face from her hands, she was surprised at the sudden gloom that, since she last looked out, had settled like a pall over the sky, darkening the church, rendering even the monuments indistinct.

Hero began to whine and bark, and starting from her seat, Regina hurried towards the steps leading down from the organ loft. Ere she reached them a fearful sound like the roaring of a vast flood broke the prophetic silence—then a blinding lurid flash seemed to wrap everything in flame; there was simultaneously an awful detonating crash, as if the pillars of the universe had given way—and the initial note ushered in the thunderfuge of the tempest, that raged as if the Destroying Angel rode upon its blast.

In the height of its fury, it bowed the ancient elms as if they were mere reeds, and shook the stone church to its foundations, as a giant shakes a child's toy.

Frightened by the trembling of the building, Regina began to descend the stairs, guided by the incessant flashes of lightning, but when about half way down a terrific peal of thunder so startled her that she missed a step, grasped at the balustrade but failed to find it, and rolled helplessly to the floor of the vestibule. Stunned and mute with terror, she attempted to rise, but her left foot, crushed under her in the fall, refused to serve her, and with a desperate instinct of faith she crawled through the inside door and down the aisle, seeking refuge at the altar of God. Dragging the useless member she reached the chancel at last, and as the lightning showed her the railing she laid herself down and clasped the mahogany balusters with both hands.

In the ghastly electric light she saw the wild eyes of the lion in the pulpit window glaring at her—but over all the holy smile of Christ as looking down in benediction. He soared away heavenward; and above the howling of the hurricane rose her cry to Him—who stilleth tempests—and saith to wind and sea—"Peace! be still!"

"Oh, Jesus! save me—that I may see my mother once more!"

Queen Lucinda from Louisville.

An old lady drove up to the White House, Washington on Thursday, announcing herself as Queen Lucinda from Louisville and asked to be put in possession of the mansion. She brought several trunks with her and seemed much disappointed when taken away by a policeman.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS.

FARM AND GARDEN.

SOWING PEAS.—Sow late peas as early as you sow the early kinds, unless you sow in succession. You might sow every two weeks Premium Gems or American Wonders for early, and the Champion of England for general crop.

DRAINED LANDS.—One of the benefits of drainage is that land that is well drained can be worked soon after rains and endure the drought better, while the ground warms earlier in the spring, and permits of more abundant crops and better tillage.

TO REVIVE SICKLY PLANTS.—M. Villermoz a celebrated horticulturist, recommends the watering of deseased plants with warm water, after having previously turned up the earth, without touching the roots. The water that escapes from the bottom of the flowr pot is at first clear, but it afterwards becomes lightly brown and yields an acid reaction, to which M. Villermoz attributes the diseased condition of the plants, the hot water acting not only as a stimulant, but possessing the power of eliminating the acid substances with which the soil becomes impregnated.

Pure Stock from Scotland.

Mr. W. Duthie, Collynie, Tarves, despatched a small but select lot of shorthorns to Mr. Green, Inverkip, Ontario, in the end of last week. They consist of a yearling bull, Enterprise, bought at Mr. Duthie's spring sale; a three-year-old heifer and two two-year-old heifers, all of Mr. Green's own selection. Mr. George Wilken, Waterside of Forbes, Alford, also sent off last week a lot of 18 polled bulls and 2 polled heifers for the Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Agriculture, Canada. They included a number of Mr. Wilken's own herd as well as drafts from Glamis castle, from Mr. Grant, Methlick, Mr. Gray, Kilohford, Tarves, and other northern breeders.—The People's Journal.

Planting Evergreens.

Mr. W. D. Boynton communicates to the American Garden an article on planting evergreens, which should interest a great many persons, for there are but few varieties of trees which are more beautiful than groups of balsams, pines, and firs, and they are the most likely to thrive after transplanting.

As to the season for transplanting, says Mr. Boynton, either fall or spring is good. The when is not so important as the how. I lean a little toward the spring planting however, as the ground is then more moist, and no other vegetation in the way about the roots and stems to obstruct the work of taking up the young trees.

My first and main precaution is to secure the body of mould immediately around the tree that contains most of the feeding roots in a tree of small growth. I have this lifted out carefully with the tree in the center, as little disturbed as possible, and then wrap coarse sacking about the whole, drawing it up around the trunk and tying firmly. In this shape they can be loaded into a wagon box that has a thick layer of straw in the bottom, and taken home. They should be set out at once, watered, and staked.

The reader will understand that this way of taking up can only be practiced on short distances, where the trees can be taken home and set out in a few hours at the most. If they are to be shipped, the mould must be detached, and moss worked in among the roots and bound around them. Even here I hold to the idea of wrapping coarse sacking around the whole, and fastening around the stem. The whole mass is then moistened, after which treatment they will stand quite a journey and come out in good condition.

If the planter finds that the roots are at all dried up when he comes to set them out, the tree may as well be pitched into the bush heap at once, for it will sooner or later find its way there. Never use manure of any kind around the roots of a young evergreen tree. Vegetable mould is good, but they do not need a rich soil. They should always be staked firmly, for they offer a thick top to the wind, and if twisted about, the roots cannot get a hold.

Why Wool is Cheap.

This staple still keeps low, and farmers say that sheep as an investment do not pay now-a-days. Of late wool has been a drug both in this country and in the various marts of the world. This would seem to argue overproduction of this commodity, if we consider the prices that ruled a few years ago when wool was up to 40 cents a pound. But the amount of production differs very little each year, and the reason of the present low prices must be sought elsewhere. With regard to long wools, a change in the fashion of certain lines of goods has decreased the demand for them, and until these are again called for long wools may be expected to remain low in price. Within the last few years wonderful strides have been made in the use and manufacture of offal wool and woolen rags; and also the combining of cotton and wool to make a cheap cloth. Where there was one yard of shoddy made ten years ago there are ten now. One pound of good wool will go as far now in manufacturing as ten would before these new processes were found out; so that it may easily be seen that the manufacture of shoddy is a great cause of the low price of wool. It is astonishing how much of this class of goods is worn at the present time and sold as the pure article. Indeed, in many cases where the cotton is carded along with the wool so skillfully is the work done that it takes a very good judge to tell an all wool article. These two causes—change of fashion in material and the manufacture of shoddy—no doubt have conspired to keep the wool market down. However, if the least part of a sheep is comparatively cheap, the greater part, the mutton, is dear. The wool may be only reckoned as the tenth part, so if it is cheap the increased price of mutton amply makes up. Indeed there is nothing on a farm which pays so well as sheep. They pay once in the fleece, once in the mutton and increase, and once in the distribution of manure and once in the improvement and meadows. Our farmers for a few years past have allowed their flocks to run down, and at the present we have not half the sheep in the country that are required for profitable farming. As soon as wool got down to 20 cents they began to deplete their flocks, and numbers went out altogether, and now have to start afresh and pay high prices for stock; for any kind of well-bred sheep command a ready sale at remunerative prices. When spring lamb is selling at 20 cents per lb. and mutton at 12½ cents, what we say about the profit of sheep needs no comment or further illustration.—London Free Press.

LOCAL NEWS

Lacrosse Club.

An important meeting of the Lacrosse Club will be held at the Little Windsor Hotel at 8 o'clock, sharp, this evening.

An Example to Others.

The Toronto News of Saturday contained the following paragraph :—

"Ashburnham is an enterprising village. The Council has purchased a large number of shade trees, which will be given to residents who will engage to plant them and care for them. Other village councils should follow this example."

Vennor's Predictions.

The probabilities in Mr. H. G. Vennor's almanac for this week are as follows :—

"More settled and hot weather; a warm week generally, with, perhaps, intense heat in eastern sections; scattered wind and hail storms; alterations of sultry and windy weather; altogether favorable weather. Saturday — warm and windy."

Journalistic.

The London Free Press has donned a new dress, so that its typographical appearance is in keeping with the excellence of its matter. The Free Press is one of the best papers in Canada, which is no slight praise, and it renders invaluable service to Conservative principles and consequently to our country. Its success is well deserved.

St. Paul's Church, Minden.

The Rev. J. Jones, incumbent of Minden, is in town, and has been collecting contributions towards the completion of St. Paul's Church, Minden, as the congregation not being wealthy, had already done its utmost. He met with fair success, but there is still a deficit of $25. Mr. Jones would feel grateful if any friends upon whom he was unable to call would assist by sending their contributions to him at Minden.

Mechanics' Institute.

The annual meeting of the Mechanics' Institute will be held this evening for the election of of officers, the reception of the annual report and financial statement, and for other business. All the members, who can do so, should make a point of attending. Our Mechanics' Institute is a credit to the town, being one of the most successful and flourishing Institutes in the Dominion, and it should be duly encouraged.

A Pleasant Sail.

The Toronto Mail, referring to the laying with Masonic honors of the corner stone of the new Presbyterian Church at Keene by the Grand Master on May 24th, says :—

"It is probable that a number of Toronto brethren will attend the special meeting of the Grand Lodge on May 24th, for the purpose of laying the corner stone of a new Presbyterian church at Keene, Peterborough County. Arrangements have been made with the C. and P. railway to have a train in waiting at Cobourg, on arrival of the morning express from Toronto, which will convey the brethren to Harwood, where the steamer Dora will be in readiness to complete the trip to Keene. Returning, the brethren will reach Cobourg in time to connect with G. T. R. evening express trains, east and west. Excursions will also be run from Eastern Ontario, so that there will probably be a large attendance of the craft of the Province. Keene is beautifully situated on the north shore of Rice Lake, and the sail from Harwood is a pleasant one."

The Queen's Birthday.

The Governor-General has, by request of her Majesty, the Queen, proclaimed Saturday, June 28th, as a public holiday in commemoration of the birth of the Queen, instead of May 24th. Things were somewhat mixed in Peterborough before, but this proclamation adds another ingredient to the mixture. On May 24th, the athletic sports, fireworks, &c., will take place, and this is a statutory holiday. The Dominion Banking Act states that "the birthday of the birthday of the reigning Sovereign" shall be a holiday, and as May 24th is the birthday of the reigning Sovereign we presume that the banks will observe that day. We will have a Civic Holiday on May 26, when, we suppose, the stores and places of business will be closed, but when the banks must remain open. Then on June 28th we will have another holiday, by proclamation of the Governor-General, all for the celebration of the Queen's Birthday, and the following Tuesday is our national holiday in commeration of the consolidation of the Province of British North America into the Dominion of Canada. We do not often have three holidays in May, or four holidays so close together.

THE CHURCHES

Notes of the Sunday Services and Religious Bodies.

The Rev. F. Fielder, of London, Eng., who is in Peterborough in connection with the establishment of the branch of Dr. Barnardo's Orphan Home here, occupied the pulpit of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning. Taking I Samuel, chapter iii., for the Scriptural lesson, he addressed words of counsel to the young, and also preached an effective sermon from John xvii., 3 :—"And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent."

The musical portion of the service was excellent. In the evening Mr. Lloyd, of Montreal, sang a solo, "Abide With Me," (Ambrose). He possesses an excellent baritone voice and sings with good effect.

The Rev. John Jones, of Minden, preached in St. John's Church on Sunday morning, and assisted at the evening service.

The music in St. John's Church in the evening was of unusual excellence, the voluntary played by Mr. Ewing at the offertory being far above criticism, and the solo sung by Miss Clara Cluxton was very fine.

Next Thursday being Holy Thursday or Ascension Day there will be services in the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches. At St. John's Church there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m., and the evening service at 7.30 p.m., when the collection will be devoted to the Domestic Mission Fund, from which aid is given to the missionary diocese of Algoma, and to the dioceses of the Northwest.

In St. Peter's Cathedral on Thursday services will be held at 6 o'clock, 8.30 o'clock and 10.30 o'clock, a.m.

In St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, the services on Thursday will be held at 8 o'clock, a.m., and 7.30 o'clock, p.m. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Rogation days, services will be held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

On Sunday, June 1st, special services will be held in the Methodist churches in connection with the union of the four Methodist bodies. The collection on that day will be applied to defraying expenses incurred in connection with the union.

On Sunday next the Rev. John Shaw, of the George Street Methodist Church, and the Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., of St. Paul's Church, will exchange pulpits.

The District meeting of this district of the Methodist Church commences in Millbrook to-morrow.

Bass' English Ale.

Another large shipment of Bass' Ale, October brewing, just arrived at W. Chamberlain's Restaurant. Imported direct.

Pyrotechnics.

Be sure to witness the display of fireworks and electric light illumination in the Drill Shed grounds on Saturday evening. It will be a grand sight and a rare treat.

P. B. C.

A meeting of the members of the Peterborough Boating Club will be held in the boat house this evening at 8 o'clock sharp. Business important.

Fair, VanEvery & Co.

have recently received a new fabric in Printed Satin. The material makes up very handsome, and costs about one half the price of ordinary satins.

With all Safety.

You may now with safety wager all your earthly possessions that spring has come. So also may you wager that Andrew McNeil is now showing the prettiest and cheapest range of Scotch Tweed Suitings and Trouserings ever submitted to an appreciative public. Our prices can't be beat, which we will prove if you will only pay us a visit. ANDREW MCNEIL, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

For a Nobby Pair of Pants, warranted to fit like the paper on the wall, just see McNEIL.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. J. A. Douch, piano tuner and repairer, late of Boston Mass., graduate of Hallet and Davis' University, has arrived in Peterborough, where he intends to reside permanently. M. Douch is a first-class organ and piano tuner, and comes with first-class recommendations. Parties entrusting their instruments to him may feel assured of satisfaction. His skill is unsurpassed and the product of years of experience. His head quarters are at Smart's piano and organ warerooms on George street. All orders left there will receive his prompt and careful attention.

Saved Army Notes.

General Lindsay was in command on Saturday night.

Forty-two shots were fired at the enemy and one prisoner of war was taken.

There was a large number at knee drill on Sunday morning, and they attended, by invitation, the service in the Opera House with the congregation of St. Paul's church.

Gen. Lindsay went to Lakefield on Sunday afternoon and the army here was commanded by Lieuts. Pearse and Arbercrombie. Mr. J. H. Wyatt officiated as the reader of the Scripture.

One person joined the ranks of the Army in the afternoon.

Gen. Lindsay was in command again in the evening. There was a very large attendance, many being unable to gain admittance.

Capt. Munt led the attack upon Campbellford on Saturday evening. The meetings were held in the Music Hall, and on Sunday evening it was filled to overflowing. Several resident ministers assisted the Army. The officers in charge of this outpost are Lieut. Pengelly, Lieut. Etta Rush, Sergt. Samuel Terrill and Sergt. Pearl Conlon.

The Semi-Centennial Celebration.

Up to the present time only $4,000 has been subscribed towards the semi-centennial celebration, another sum of $6,000 is, therefore, necessary before the $10,000 promised by the Council of Toronto can be obtained. The Committee are urging the citizens to do their utmost.

Notice to the Public.

Having sold out our confectionery store we are now giving all our attention to the grocery business. We are determined to push our business, as we are bound to sell, and those who kindly favour us with their patronage can depend on getting their groceries at the lowest possible prices. We will be undersold by none in the trade. We have just received a shipment of fine flavours in Black and Green Teas, also Raw and Refined Sugars. These goods are from the best houses and bought for Cash. We will give our customers the benefit of our close buying. Our motto is Quick Sales and Small Profits, no stale goods lying on the shelves. We accordingly invite the inspection of close buyers. We duly appreciate the very liberal patronage we have been favored with in the past, and shall do our utmost in looking after the interest of our customers to merit a continuance of the same.—CARTON BROS., George Street, opposite the Market Square.

General Grant.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Senate passed the bill without debate which provides that General Grant shall be placed on the retired list with the rank and full pay of a general of the army.

The Woman's Physician.

A common sense medical work for ladies only. Fully answers all questions which modesty prevents asking a male physician. Gives causes and symptoms of all diseases of the sex, with positive cure for each in plain language, written by ladies who have made these diseases a life study. A plain talk in delicate language which every woman, young and old, should read. It is recommended by many eminent lady physicians as a safe guide for the sex. Handsomely bound and illustrated. Sent postpaid for $1.00. Address the ROCHESTER PUBLISHING Co., 32, 33 & 33½ Osburn Block, Rochester, N.Y.

"I would die for you!" she exclaimed, pillowing her head upon his shoulder. "Oh, no, you needn't, darling," was the quick reply, "I like red hair."

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

The Weak and the Impure.

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river, is pure and clean. It is active; therefore it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong, rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilements creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down.

Shaker Blood Syrup purifies and enriches the Blood; curing Scrofula, Cancer, Ulcers and skin and blood diseases of every description.

A dollar bottle at your nearest druggist.

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan.: Saved his life by a simple trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors, change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

CLOTHING

For the Little Fellows.

There was a time when mothers were compelled to exercise ingenuity and skill, and dress their boys in garments of their own make. There is scarcely a full grown man who does not recollect how his mother struggled when he was a boy, to master the art of making clothing for him.

But what man or boy, husband or father, would want his mother or wife vexed or worried over the question of making with her own hands clothing for her boys to wear? As a matter of economy there is nothing in it, for we've boys' suits in our stock which we can sell at a profit for a price almost less than any mother in this town could buy the cloth for at retail.

Now, then, all that mothers need to do is to pay us a visit. If we've not got just the thing you fancy in boy's wear, we'll measure your lad and make to your order and satisfaction. There's no real reason why your boy shouldn't be as well and neatly dressed as his father. We'll see to it.

Y. M. C. A. Bible Class.

Any young men who could attend the above class, if held on Tuesday evening, instead of Monday, are invited to send their names to the Secretary. At its meeting on Monday night next the class will consider whether it would be desirable to make the change.

The Oddfellows' Demonstration.

An Oddfellows' International Demonstration is to be held at Brockville on July 9th, 10th and 11th. The committee in charge of the demonstration forwarded an invitation to the Peterborough Lacrosse Club to play a match on the afternoon of the first day, July 9th, with the Metropolitans, of Toronto, and the Peterborough Club has accepted the invitation. The match will be for a handsome trophy to be the property of the winning club and a medal for each player in the victorious team.

Defying the Law.

Alexander Ritchie, an interesting chapter in whose biography we gave in connection with a marriage which almost took place, by which he although already married, would have been united to a young lady in Peterborough, has evidently returned to his home in Kinmount and has been making another attempt to gain notoriety. Sheriff Hall this forenoon received a telegram from Mr. M. Mansfield, Reeve of Galway, stating that Ritchie had broken the peace, was armed, and defied arrest, and asking what they should do. The Sheriff did not think that he could do anything in the matter, and expressed his intention to hand the despatch over to the County Attorney.

The Promenade Concert.

At the grand concert and fireworks display on the evening of Saturday, May 24th, the Fire Brigade Band will play the following programme:—

| Selection | Trovatore ..... Verdi |

| Fantasia | The Royal Musketeers ..... E. Mullet |
| Valse | Dream Faces ..... Joseph Meissler |
| Galop | Always Jolly ..... Lyons |

God Save the Queen.

This will be a good opportunity for the public to hear this splendid band in a programme they have prepared especially for this occasion. The shed will be brilliantly illuminated with the electric light, and the firemen promise an entertainment worthy of patronage.

A Large Purchase of Cattle.

Mr. J. Doherty, our good-humored market clerk, was more than usually pleasant this forenoon on account of the lively business he had in weighing cattle on the market scales. The cattle were purchased by Mr. Geo. Webber, and contained many very fine looking animals. They were purchased from the following feeders:—Mr. C. D. Moore, Smith, 40 head, weighing 56,000 pounds; Mr. David Armstrong, Otonabee, nine, 11,110 pounds; Mr. John Blackwell, 1 steer, 1,480 pounds, and one cow, 1,080 pounds; Mr. David Henderson, Otonabee, a pair of steers, 2,820 pounds; Mr. Christopher Armstrong, Otonabee, a pair of steers, 2,270 pounds; Mr. Wm. Miller, Otonabee, 5 head, 6,420 pounds; Mr. Shearer, Otonabee, four, 5,820 pounds; Mr. Elmhirst, Otonabee, one, 1,470 pounds; and Mr. Robt. Carter, Otonabee, one, 1,395 pounds. The cattle were purchased by Mr. Webber for shipment.

COMING TO THE POINT.

"And now I am coming to the point," said a school teacher, as he slowly sat down in the chair where the revengeful pin was lurking. We also come to the point when we say that for a nobby Scotch Tweed Suit ANDREW McNEIL can't be beat.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

THE SIXTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

The Election of Officers—Annual Report of Directors—Satisfactory Progress of the Institute.

The annual meeting of the members of the Peterborough Mechanic's Institute, was held in the rooms of the Institute on Monday, May 19th.

Mr. A. P. POUSSETTE, President of the Institute, took the chair, and there was a good attendance of members.

Mr. JOHN CORKERY, the Secretary, read the minutes of the last quarterly meeting, and on motion they were adopted.

Mr. POUSSETTE, the President, read the annual report of the Board of Directors as follows:—

Sixteenth annual report of the Directors of the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute for the year ending 30th April, 1884:

The Directors have pleasure in reporting that during the year the Institute's efficiency has been fully maintained, and that there has been a considerable addition to the library of books, both useful and entertaining, the expenditure in that direction being $215.55.

At the usual season classes were formed for instruction in Mechanical Drawing, Shorthand and Book-keeping, but the attendance was not such as to be considered satisfactory. It is earnestly hoped that in the future young men may more largely avail themselves of this means of acquiring useful knowledge of a strictly practical nature. John Carnegie, Esq., M.P.P., kindly offered to contribute the sum of $25 for prizes, but as there could be little competition it was not considered advisable to take advantage of this offer, but as no doubt Mr. Carnegie will allow his offer to remain open for another year it is suggested that the new Board shall take steps to distribute this sum amongst the next winter's classes.

The statement of Receipts and Expenditures has been duly audited and is submitted herewith.

For the Board,
A. P. POUSSETTE,
President.

Peterborough, May 19th, 1884.

The PRESIDENT also read the financial statement for the year, which had been previously audited, as follows:—

The PRESIDENT announced that the election of officers was the next business.

Mr. CORKERY moved, seconded by Mr. WM ENGLISH,—That Messrs. McGrath and Peters be scrutineers.

The following officers were reported to be duly elected:—

Mr. TOKER moved, seconded by Mr. WM. ENGLISH,—That the thanks of the Institute be presented to Mr. Poussette, the retiring President, for his efficient and zealous services to the Institute in that capacity for the past three years. Fortunately the Institute would not be altogether deprived of Mr. Poussette's services, as he still remained on the Board of Directors.

The PRESIDENT conveyed the vote of thanks to his predecessor in appropriate terms.

Mr. POUSSETTE returned his thanks to the members.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.

THERE has recently been such an enormous flood of sentiment poured out in the English press on the Egyptian question, "inflaming the passions and blinding the judgment" of those who ought to be its leaders, that it is well, now and again, to revert to the real question at issue, and to determine for ourselves what is, in reality, the problem with which European statesmen have to grapple. The sentiment to which we refer has been expended on all kinds of subjects, from the fate of General Gordon, the various phases of the slave trade, to the character of the soldiers' rations. Doubtless the first mentioned of these is a topic more than absorbingly interesting, and fraught with much danger; but that it is, after all, but a side issue, we strongly maintain, and one that must be temporarily set aside if we would view unprejudicedly the main question in its true light.

There are at present two principal sides to the Egyptian problem—the financial and the political; sides which, like those in a wedge, must be made to converge to one and the same edge, before any changes can be effected in the present knotty state of affairs in England and the Soudan.

Continuing the simile, we may to these add a third side, corresponding to the base of the wedge: viz., how and from what source the propulsive force that shall effect such changes shall be exerted and obtained.

The financial question is at once the most important and the most difficult, and that it is so is distinctly recognized by the British Cabinet, which, in its circular note and enclosed memorandum to the Powers, dwells mainly upon the history and causes of Egypt's indebtedness.

Egypt is bankrupt; she has pledged herself to repay her creditors; she is, in her present condition, utterly unable to redeem those pledges. This is, briefly, her present situation. To descend to particulars: The deficits in her accounts for the last three years—caused by the disastrous events which took place at Alexandria under Arabi's rebellion; the attempted suppression of El Mahdi; and the excess of expenditure over revenue—amount to over eight millions sterling; by the law of liquidation bondholders can only claim the surplus left after the costs of internal administration have been paid—a surplus which, at present, not only non est, but which is a very large minus quantity; and lastly, far from being able to extricate herself from her present intestinal complications, Egypt frankly avows that she cannot guarantee that she will ever be able unaided to right herself financially or politically.

Returning, then, to our tripartite division of the problem, the questions which are now so loudly clamouring for solution are: On what basis shall Egyptian finances be placed? What system shall be adopted to bring the country out of its present dilapidated condition into one in which recuperative changes may be made possible? Who shall organize and carry out such system?

Each of these questions is complicated by the most intricate obstacles. Thus, from the financial aspect, there are to be contended against (amid a host of minor difficulties) a vast number of entirely dishonest and unreliable petty officials, whom it would be as useless to attempt to educate up to knowing justice from corruption as to be entirely independent of; the difficulty of suggesting any plan of regulating the expenditure such as shall satisfy creditors without impoverishing the people; the further difficulty arising from the likelihood of exciting the jealousy—and perhaps the envy—of England's co-bondholders in France, between which nation and the British Empire there is now not a little friction, etc., etc.

The second question, lying, as it does, on the surface, and protruding itself into a significance apparently greater than its fellows', is that which is more particularly agitating the public mind at the present moment. It resolves itself really into the question whether or not the Soudanese shall be left to themselves, and if not, what method shall be employed for exterminating the False Prophet and his followers, and eradicating the disaffection which these evoke.

As to the question, Who shall carry out the plans that may be decided upon? it is no easy matter to determine which of the numerous alternatives which present themselves is the most advantageous, not only to Egypt and her creditors, but also to the various powers that with jealous eye look on at the struggle. Shall the Mahdi be suppressed by British troops? Shall England institute a Protectorate? Shall the dual control be renewed? or shall the whole country be laid under the supervision of a general European gendarmerie? These are a few suggestions that require examination.

All these points any Egyptian conference, such as that recently proposed by the English Government, must thoroughly investigate. This proposal of a conference, however, as affairs stand at present, seems somewhat in nubibus, and Mr. Gladstone and his advisers must, in all probability, take upon their own shoulders the responsibility of decision.

One thing is certain, and that is, that a decision must be quickly arrived at. Opinion has been impatiently making itself audible, and the British public will not calmly stand by and see its appointed legislators inoperative. The narrow majority of the Government on the motion for a vote of censure shows that this question alone, if not soon dealt with, may be the cause of more than mere fears to the present Liberal regime.

THE ONTARIO & QUEBEC.

THE STATION BUILDING AND FREIGHT SHEDS AT PETERBOROUGH.

A Nobby Building—The Stations Along the Line—Magnificent Rolling Stock of the Company—Parlour and Pullman Cars.

The work of completing the construction of the Ontario and Quebec railway is being pushed vigorously forward. The first lift of ballast has been placed on the road, and the gravel is being distributed for the second lift. The indications at present are that the road will be, as previously announced, open for first-class through passenger traffic by July 1st.

THE PETERBOROUGH STATION.

Through the courtesy of Mr. J. H. Barber, the obliging as well as efficient engineer of this section, we were shown the plans for the station building at Peterborough. The building will be 94 feet 4 inches long, and 34 feet 4 inches wide. The foundation will be of flat bedded Credit Valley or other approved stone, and no small stones will be used, except for necessary packing. The walls will be of the best quality of faced white brick, and the station, which will be on the north side of the track, will face towards the south. In the front part of the building there will be a bay window, in the station agent's office, and above that window on the roof a gothic elevation. On the ridge of roof there will be an iron railing, which will add not a little to the neat appearance of the building.

The general waiting room will occupy the western end of the building, and will be 32 feet by 36 feet. The centre of the station will be occupied by the ticket office, telegraph office, parcel room, &c. On the east side of these offices will be the ladies' waiting room, 20 feet by 32 feet, and the baggage room, 24 feet by 32 feet, will be situated in the eastern end.

A verandah will be erected on the front part of the building and on both ends. It will project 24 feet at the eastern and 11 feet on the western. The steps on the thresholds of the doors will be of Credit Valley or other approved stone. There will be three entrances to the station on each side, into the general waiting room, ladies' waiting room and baggage room.

All the material used in constructing the building and in finishing the interior is to be first-class in every particular, and the station when completed will be a fine looking structure.

The eastern end of the station building will be between 100 and 120 feet west of George street.

THE FREIGHT SHEDS AND PLATFORM.

The freight shed will be situated in the south side of the track. It will be a frame structure, 140 feet 8 inches long, and 50 feet wide, with a trussed roof. The eastern end of the shed will touch on George street, and it will reach across an angle to Wolfe street.

The station platform will commence on Wolfe street, and, passing the front of the station, be built across the angle to George street.

A siding has been laid at the water tank near Aylmer street, and the waterworks water is now being used in filling the locomotives.

ALONG THE LINE.

The Norwood station is all enclosed, and the plastering has been commenced and will probably be completed this week.

The Indian River station, of which Messrs. T. M. D. Croly and Jos. Lundy are the contractors, is also enclosed and ready for painters and plasterers. The Cavan and Pontypool stations, which are being built by the same contractors, are pretty well forward, and it is expected that the latter will be completed this week. The Bowmanville Road station (Messrs. Rathbun & Son, contractors), is lathed and ready to be painted and plastered. The Myrtle station, also being built by Messrs. T. M. D. Croly and Jos. Lundy, is enclosed and will be plastered this week. All the painting will be done on Saturday night. The work on this station was only commenced on April 26th, but it has been pushed through energetically by the contractors. The Claremont, Green River and Agincourt stations are also well advanced.

The tank house at Havelock will be completed this week, and the footing course of the wall of the turn-table at the same place is laid. The excavation has been made for the foundation of the round house there.

The water tank in Manvers township is completed, all except the putting in of the pumping engine. The engine is expected to arrive this week, and, as everything is in readiness, it will be put up at once.

MAGNIFICENT ROLLING STOCK.

The Montreal Star of May 17th contains the following:—

On the first of July next the Ontario and Quebec will be open for passenger traffic between Montreal and Toronto in connection with the Canadian Pacific. After that time the public will have the choice of the two routes between here and the west, and the Grand Trunk will have to look to its equipment to prevent its rival from carrying off a large proportion of its patrons. Great efforts are being made by the Canadian Pacific to have their rolling stock in first-class order by that time, and neither trouble nor expense is being spared with that end in view. There will be 22 emigrant sleepers, part of which are already completed and part under construction by Crossen, of Cobourg, and Harris & Co., of St. John's. These are after the Pullman car pattern, but of course not so luxuriously fitted up: each car contains two combined cooking and heating stoves, one at each end, as well as full lavatory accommodation. The Company themselves are building at their works baggage mail express cars to increase their equipment in that branch. Freight, flat and stock cars are being built as required at the works at Perth. Twelve passenger engines are on hand to be put on for service as necessary, but they are not being hurried through as the already existing number is large enough for present requirements. The Company have four splendid parlour cars for this section, two of which are being overhauled and judging from present appearance will be like new when turned out again. At each end of these cars is a smoking room with ample space to seat twelve persons. Every car on the Eastern division has been through the workshops during the last two months to be thoroughly overhauled and painted or varnished, and few passengers will fancy that they are not travelling in new carriages.

Through the courtesy of Mr. F. R. F. Brown, mechanical superintendent, a representative of this paper had an opportunity of inspecting the new Pulman car, the "Gatineau," to run between here and Toronto, at the workshop this morning, and it appears as if few, if any, further improvements could possibly be suggested. The car rests on two trucks, each having six 40-inch wheels of wrought iron with steel tires. The body of the car, inside and out, is of solid mahogany, beautifully polished. Close by one of the doors is the heating stove, enclosed in a cupboard lined entirely, walls, floor and roof, with sheet tin; opposite it is the ladies' lavatory, which is very roomy; the blinds in it, and in the gentleman's lavatory, are of a new design and draw upwards instead of downwards, and can be fixed at different heights. The interior of the car, which is neatly carpeted, is really splendid; the mahogany sides and divisions are choice specimens of the cabinet maker's work, and the panels of the upper berths are enriched with beautiful designs carved by hand in full relief, while a tracery of carving runs round under the roof. The metal fittings are of quite a novel style; everything is of beaten bronze work and a dragon's head is introduced into every article; lamps, pails, taps, handles, everything shows this characteristic; the design has been specially made and belongs to the Company. The fittings are extremely handsome as well as novel, and look like mediæval bric a-brac. The berths have two improvements which will be appreciated; instead of being only six feet in length they are six feet two, which will be of benefit to some travellers; the other improvement is having really good spring mattresses, a boon of which all will approve. Every berth, upper and lower, has a rack at each end for small articles, and hooks for hanging coats on are plentiful. The glass windows in the ventilators are all of cathedral glass of rich colors. At the other end of the car is a smoking-room, which can be entirely cut off from the rest and has seats for six persons; in it are berths for the use of one conductor and porter, or this can be used as a private compartment. Beyond again is the gentlemen's lavatory, with two marble basins and the same handsome brass fittings; there is plenty of room in it, and no less than four mirrors. There is also a capital arrangement for boot-brushing, which shuts up entirely out of view. Altogether the car is thoroughly complete, and as handsome as any one need desire."

AN ELOPING STORY.

A Lindsay Lad Elopes with a Lady from Whitby.

WHITBY, May 18.—This town is highly excited over the amorous propensities of George Story, a young man from Lindsay. Story has been in the town for a few weeks, and has filled every position in the salvation army except the captaincy. He could beat the soul-stirring drum in a manner that would win him distinction in a fife and drum corps. Story accompanied his exhortations at times with sand-jigs, and he was one of the drawing cards in the army. But Whitby will know him no more. A father and mother mourns the loss of a daughter, and the proprietor of the Ontario house mourns the loss of a board bill. Story has skipped out with a young lady who has taken a prominent part in the army proceedings. She was well known in the town and her escapade has caused a great deal of gossip.

The Franchise Bill.

LONDON, May 17.—A semi-official denial is published of the report that the Government would dissolve Parliament in case the Lords reject the Franchise bill. It is asserted that the Cabinet have determined, should the Lords reject the bill, to call an autumn session of Parliament, again pass the bill through the Commons, and force its re-consideration upon the house of Lords.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

SCROFULA

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

CATARRH

"Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CURRENT PUBLIC SENTIMENT CULLED FROM OUR CONTEMPORARIES.

INFORMER McKIM'S GUILT.

The published evidence of the enquiry is scarcely of a character to remove a strong suspicion of guilt.—Newmarket Era (Ind. Ref.)

GRIT DISLIKE OF JUDGES.

Judge Matthew Crooks Cameron can best preserve an honorable name by avoiding to act as judge in election trials, unless he can follow a more consistent course than has marked his career in the Ferris and Dowling cases on the one hand, and the Guillet trial on the other.—Port Hope Guide (Ref.)

A NICE COUNTY ATTORNEY.

A difference of opinion as to McKim's guilt having arisen between the Magistrates, the County Attorney, Henry William Peterson, whose duty under the circumstances it was to press for a committal, actually recommended dismissal of the case—and the case was, accordingly dismissed.—Irish Canadian.

J. LORN McDOUGALL'S FRAUD.

Was it to miminize corruption that $65,000 last year were taken out of the public treasury ostensibly to pay for the pulling up of the dandelions that grew on Parliament square?—London Advertiser.

SUBLIME MR. BLAKE.

Sir John Macdonald is constantly humiliating himself by playing the flatterer and sycophant to Mr. Goldwin Smith, while Mr. Blake has too much dignity and self respect to do anything of the kind. Mr. Blake treats Bystander as he deserves to be treated. He places him on a par with George Francis Train and other conceited cranks whose sole object is notoriety.—Ottawa Free Press.

MOWAT COULD TEACH THEM.

In New Orleans the Democrats stuffed the ballot boxes, and then, when the court were about to enquire into the outrage, attempted to steal the bogus ballots and destroy the evidence of their guilt. The perpetrators of the crime are to be punished. Had such an outrage been committed in Ontario the Legislature would have been promptly asked to pass an Act exempting the accused from punishment. But Louisiana is not familiar with the advanced methods of Ontario Cabinet Ministers.—Toronto Mail.

LINDSAY.

PETERBOROUGH IMPROVING LINDSAY.—Mr. Geo. A. Cox was in town the other day, looking over a brick block on Kent-st, he has recently purchased. It is likely that he will put on another storey and a mansard roof, and make other improvements.

THE QUEEN'S HOTEL.—The Queen's hotel, east ward, is to be improved by the addition of a mansard roof. Work was commenced on Monday under the direction of Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald, who has had charge of the improvements at the Lundy block on William-st. The hotel will present a fine appearance when the new roof is completed.

A VISIT TO IRELAND.—Rev. Father Sweeney curate of St. Mary's has obtained four months leave of absence for the purpose of visiting his old home in Tyrone, Ireland, from which he has been absent now ten years. He is to sail on the 22nd and his many friends will heartly wish him a pleasant voyage and safe return. Father Sweeney is zealous and painstaking in the discharge of his duties and fully deserves a holiday.

PERSONAL.—Mr. W. H. Dean, third son of Judge Dean, passed very creditably his first intermediate examination at Osgoode hall last week. He was a student in the office of uis brother, Mr. H. B. Dean. Mr. Dean has accepted an offer to complete his studies in the office of Beaty, Chadwick, Blackstock & Co., Toronto, and leaves this morning. We wish him all success,

BOARD OF HEALTH.—A preliminary meeting of tha newly established Board of Health was held at the council Chamber on Monday night. Mr. John Flavelle was unanimously elected chairman of the board, a selection that will be very generally approved of. Mr. Flavelle has not for some time past taken an active part in civic matters, and the hope is here expressed that he may be induced to enter either or both the School Board and Town Council.

CONFIRMATION.—Bishop Jamot administered the sacrament of confirmation on Sunday last to a class of seventy-five children in St. Mary's church. The ceremony was very interesting and impressive and was witnessed by large numbers. Bishop Jamot preached eloquent and impresive sermons after mass and vespers. He expressed his condolence with the ladies of Loretto in the loss of their beautiful building, but said it would soon rise up again as fine and as beautiful as ever.

THE WATER-WORKS EXTENSION.—A meeting of the special committee appointed by the Town Council was held on Wednesday night. The committee was assisted in its deliberations by a number of prominent citizens and after a four hours discussion a couple of resolutions were submitted, one of the two providing for the purchase of a steam fire fire engine received only two votes. A resolution that an extension of the waterworks should be made was carried —Post.

COBOURG.

MEETING OF FIREMEN.—The old veteran firemen of Cobourg held a very successful meeting in the Fountain Hose Company's session-room last week. There was a large attendance of the old fire fighters, and it was unanimously decided to organize an old-time company, and to appear in a body at the SemiCentennial Celebration on the Queen's birthday. It is anticipated that over one hundred of the old members of the brigade in ancient times will be present on this occasion.

BELLEVILLE.

INJURED BY A FALLING TREE.—A man named Trombly was struck by a falling tree while chopping in the woods near Belleville on Thursday, which broke three ribs, injured his spine and otherwise dangerously injured him internally.

The Peterborough WEEKLY REVIEW has recently been greatly enlarged and improved and now presents its numerous readers with eight pages beautifully printed in fine type on heavy white paper. Apart from its politics, which we are unable to believe in, the REVIEW has always had our admiration and approval, of which it is now more deserving than ever.—Fenelon Falls Gazette (Reform)

The Bank of Montreal.

Montreal financial circles are excited over the continued and upward movement of the stock of the Bank of Montreal, in spite of the panic prevailing in Wall street. It is asserted that immense blocks of the stock have been purchased to hold as a good investment for a future rise.

NOTORIOUS NEWBOLD.

THE MAN OF MANY MARRIAGES TRIED AT TOLEDO.

Committed for Trial on the Charge of Bigamy—His Movements at Detroit—Carrying Stove Wood in a Trunk to pay Rent with.

TOLEDO, May 17.—Neiville, the bigamist, was arraigned in the police court to-day. The first witness called for the prosecution was Justice Scott, the official who performed, as he truly believed, the service which made Neiville the husband of his last victim. His testimony was to the effect that Neiville appeared and requested him to perform a marriage service for him; that he gave the name of Sir Charles Everard Neiville; that he swore that he was a single man, and that he (witness) performed the marriage service according to the statutes as requested. Mrs. Bridgewater, of Detroit, testified that Neiville came to her house on Macomb avenue and engaged three rooms for himself, his wife and two children and his sister, "Miss Shaw;" that they came to her house and that he introduced the woman as his wife and Miss Shaw; that they lived there as man and wife, and that finally they left, leaving unpaid rent and a trunk filled with stove wood as security for the rent.

J. C. Whitney, father-in-law of defendant, was the next witness. His testimony was that Neiville came to him on the 7th of March and engaged as coachman; that he said he was married; had a wife, two children and a sister living with him; that three rooms were fitted up over his (witness') stable, and that Neiville brought two woman (one of whom he introduced as his wife and the other as his sister) and two children with him to said rooms, where they lived as a family—as man and wife, children and parents.

The court then committed defendant for trial. Bail was fixed at $1500, but it was not forthcoming and Neiville will linger in jail until fall.

Last Thursday a gentleman interested in the Neiville case was handed a letter by a citizen of Toledo who said he had received it the night before. The letter is as follows:—

TORONTO, May 12

Tell Mr. Whitney of Toledo to look out for the two women with George Newbold. They are awful fly and won't go back on that man for nothing in the world. They turned up in a Toronto case and came so near getting Newbold of (off) that it wasn't much fun in it.

(Signed) I KNOW THEM ALL.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

CLEANING GLASS.—All kinds of glass can be cleaned with tea leaves after they have been used. They take off the dull look and leave the glass clean and clear.

CURE FOR CROUP.—For quick relief in croup rub the chest and back of the neck down between the shoolders well with soft grease, chicken grease or lard. Heat it thoroughly by the fire and cover well. This is also good for colds on the lungs.

FIREPLACE CURTAINS.—Fireplace curtains can be hung upon invisible wires, or if preferred upon visible brass rods beneath the mantelpiece and made to draw before the grate. If it is desirable to hide the mantelpiece they will serve this purpose.

TO PREVENT EVAPORATION.—Vaseline has been recommended as the best substance for mounting corks and glass stoppers to prevent the evaporation of alcohol from specimen jars, or from bottles containing chloroform, &c. The cork or stopper should be well smeared and firmly inserted.

THREE MINUTES' PUDDING.—Take one table spoonful of flour and of sugar, a tablespoonful of baking powder, and one egg. Place the mixture in a small long dripping pan, and bake lightly. When removed from the tin spread either stewed apples or preserves over it, and roll it up like a bolster. It is described as a "three minutes' pudding."

MINCE COLLOPS.—Take a pound of good juicy beef, mince the whole very finely, as if for sausages. Brown a piece of butter in a stewpan, then put in the collops. Stir them well, adding a little flour, a little hot water or gravy, and season with a little pepper and salt. An onion may be chopped and put in along with the meat. Slowly simmer for an hour.

POTTED MEAT.—Get two pounds of hough (the middle cut is the best, as there is most meat on it), and two ox feet; wash the feet clean, and boil all together in two quarts of water until the meat quite leaves the bones, then take it out and separate the bones from the meat; cut the meat small, put it back in the pot, pepper and salt to taste, boil slowly for half an hour then dish.

CLEANING LAMPS.—Old newspaper is the best thing for cleaning lamps. First, polish the chimney with a bit of paper, removing all smoke, then take a fresh piece to clean the glass or metal part of the lamp, especially the burner, which must always be kept clean and free from soot in order to secure a good light, then take off the crisp, burnt part of the wick. What cannot be removed with paper ought not to come off. Scissors are seldom necessary or desirable in trimming lamps.

POUND CAKE.—Make a pan a little warm, put one pound of butter and one pound and a quarter of loaf dust sugar together in it. Beat them together with your hand till it becomes like cream; add twelve eggs, put only three of them in at a time. When the three are well beaten in, add the others. When the last three are beaten in, add one pound and a quarter of sifted flour. Mix it lightly with your hand; then add three pounds of currants, two ounces of peel, and two drops of essence of lemon.

SCRATCHING MATCHES ON PAINT.—A correspondent, in Florida, of New Remedies speaking of the defacement of paint by the inadvertent or reckless scratching of matches, says that he has observed that when one mark has been made others follow rapidly. To effectually prevent this, rub the spot with flannel saturated with any liquid vaseline. "After that people may try to strike their matches as they like, they will neither get a light or injure the paint."

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

How to Make Candy.

This book gives full directions for making all kinds of plain and fancy candy. The receipts for making caramels, chocolate drops, French mixed and all other kinds of candies contained in this book are the same as used by the leading city confectioners. Any one can have these candies at home at less than one third the usual cost. Sent post paid for 50 cents (no stamps taken). Address, ROCHESTER PUBLISHING Co., 32, 33 & 33½ Osburn Block, Rochester, N.Y

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling above the parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNES OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for tetter, Itch, salt rheum, scald head, erysipelas, barber's Itch, blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes $1.25 (in stamps) Adpress DR. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

LOCAL NEWS

Missing.

We would draw attention to the advertisement in another column, in which information is asked for regarding Mr. Patrick McAuliffe, of Ashburnham.

The Queen's Birthday.

The bank officials, after enquiring into the subject, have decided, in view of the proclamation of the Governor-General, that Saturday, May 24th, is not a bank holiday, and the banks will therefore be open on that day.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly south-west and west, warm, clearing weather.

A Beautiful Piano.

The beautiful $1,000 Williams & Son grand piano that has been on exhibition at Mr. Smart's piano rooms during the past few days was purchased this morning by Mr. John Hackett. Mr. Hackett can congratulate himself on securing the finest piano that ever came to Peterborough.

Baseball Match.

On Saturday morning, May 24th, the employees in the foundry of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company will play a baseball match with the employees of the Auburn Woollen Company, on the Ashburnham Cricket Ground, at 9 o'clock. This is the first baseball match played in the town for several years. There will also be a tug of war and a quoit match between the same parties, and the Fire Brigade Band will be in attendance.

A Regatta.

On Monday evening a largely attended meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club was held in the Club boat house. It was decided to hold the first of a series of regattas on Monday, May 26th, at 10 o'clock, a.m., on the Little Lake. The events will be a four oared race, a double scull race, sailing canoe race, double canoe race, a single canoe race and a single scull race for the cup offered by Mr. Elliott. A committee was appointed to procure suitable prizes. The following entries were made:—Four-oared race, P. Henry, W. Kent, F. Adams and W. Rutherford, stroke, and J. Fanning, M. Cottingham, F. G. Cox and J. Hawkins, stroke. Double scull race—K. G. Loch and F. Adams, F. G. Cox and W. Rutherford, W. Kent and J. Fanning, W. H. Dayman and F. Karch, J. Hawkins and M. Cottingham, and E. Dawson and R. Tate. Sailing canoe—A. Stratton, F. G. Cox, F. Adams, and M. Cottingham, Double canoes—A. Stratton and M. Cottingham. These entries were made at the meeting, and others will be received. The regatta promises to be an interesting event.

A Fall in the Dark.

John McLeod appeared in the Police Court on Friday last, charged with drunkenness, and he then stated that he was going to the Rocky Mountains. But he did not go. Instead of that, he remained in town, and slept at nights wherever he could find a place. On Monday night he was, evidently, looking for a place to sleep, and he made for the sheds in the rear of the Temperance House on Hunter street. The house is on a side hill, and there is a platform along the side of the house. McLeod walked back on this platform, but when he came to the end of it he fell over, a distance of about fifteen feet, alighting on the ground. He was considerably shaken up by the fall, and complained of pains in his ankles. The police were sent for, and McLeod was conveyed to the cells in a one-wheeled hand carriage. Dr. Kincaid saw him this morning, and said that though somewhat bruised he was not severely injured. McLeod protested that he could not walk, however, and he was brought before the magistrate, charged with vagrancy, and sent to jail for a month.

NEVER WILL FORGET IT.

A man may forget home, kindred, friends, and almost anything else, but he will never forget the handsome range of Fancy Worsted Coating now in stock at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

W. J. Green

will sell New White and Colored Fine Shirts at cost until the 24th May, with Band or Collar attached, to button behind. See his window.

Fair, VanEvery & Co.

have recently received a new fabric in Printed Satin. The material makes up very handsome, and costs about one half the price of ordinary satins.

Park Lots.

Posters are now out calling for tenders or offers in writing for the lots remaining unsold at the auction sale of the Fitzgerald park lots. There are 8 lots of 2½ acres each still unsold, and any person may tender for one or more of these. It is a good chance to get a lot to suit at a reasonable price. The offers must be in Mr. Weller's hands by noon on Friday.

Obituary.

Mr. H. O. Canning expired at his residence in Ashburnham this morning, in the 49th year of his age. Mr. Canning was a native of St. John's N.F., and has resided here for a number of years. He was a long time employed in Mr. Isaac Robinson's store, and latterly has been with Mr. James Alexander. He was well known and highly respected.

Smith's Market.

Tomatoes, Cucumbers, Radishes, Lettuce, Mint, Parsely, Rhubarb, Onions, Asparagus, Spinach, etc.

Strawberries, Pine Apples, Bananas, Oranges and Lemons.

Maple Sugar, Maple Syrup, Raspberry and Current Jams by the pound or case.

Full line of everything fresh and nice for Saturday.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. J. A. Doucet, piano tuner and repairer, late of Boston Mass., graduate of Hallet and Davis' University, has arrived in Peterborough, where he intends to reside permanently. M. Doucet is a first-class organ and piano tuner, and comes with first-class recommendations. Parties entrusting their instruments to him may feel assured of satisfaction. His skill is unsurpassed and the product of years of experience. His head quarters are at Smart's piano and organ warerooms on George street. All orders left there will receive his prompt and careful attention.

Hiring Men for the C.P.R.

Mr. Robert Moore, of Peterborough, who is engaged on the Canada Pacific Railway, is in town for the purpose of hiring men to work on the construction of that railway. He is stopping at Roddy's hotel, where he may be seen up to the 30th of this month. Mr. Moore informs us that on Monday, May 12th, the steamer Surveyor was wrecked in Lake Superior by running upon a rock. After she struck the rock, the vessel headed for a sand ridge, but before she gained it she went down in 150 feet of water. There were 75 passengers on board, but they were all rescued. The cargo and boat, however, were lost.

Base Ball Club.

A meeting was held in Faucher's hotel on Monday evening, and a baseball club was organized. At one time this American game was popular here, but of late years it has been neglected on account of other sports attracting more attention. However, there appears to be considerable interest felt in that game yet, as the meeting was largely attended, and the club starts with a membership of forty-one. The name of the new organization is the "Silver Star Base Ball Club." The following were elected officers:—

PRESIDENT—Andrew McNeil.
VICE-PRESIDENT—E. Sailsbury.
CAPTAIN—W. H. Dayman.
SECRETARY-TREASURER—Thos. Spencer.
COMMITTEE—J. C. Mackay, Joseph Armstrong, F. Mercer, James Fairweather and Jas. Menzies.

The Committee were instructed to procure suitable grounds, and the Secretary was instructed to procure all the requisites necessary for the club. Those present were very enthusiastic, and the prospects for the Silver Star are bright.

Y. P. A. Anniversary.

The first anniversary of the Young People's Association of St. Andrew's Church was celebrated on Monday evening by a very pleasant entertainment, which was held in the school room. The Rev. Alex. Bell, Honorary President, occupied the chair. The choir commenced the proceedings with an anthem, "Peace, be Still," and during the evening sang "Only Waiting," and "A Little While," in such a manner as to draw forth unstinted applause. One of the principal features of the programme was a debate on the question, "Resolved, that the word obey should be omitted from the marriage service." The affirmative was maintained by Mr. J. J. Wright, and the negative by Messrs. Alex. Bell, jr., and J. H. Carnegie. The audience was asked to decide the question on the merits of the arguments advanced, but the vote resulted in a tie. The Chairman was therefore called on to decide, and he said that he "did not wish to disturb peaceful families," and he would allow the authority to remain as it was. Refreshments were served by the lady members of the Association, after which Mr. John Miller gave an exhibition of mind reading. Mr. Miller showed that he had lost none of his proficiency in this art, and he was liberally applauded as he succeeded in the various difficult experiments. Two humorous readings by Mr. C. Brown were favorably received. The entertainment was altogether an exceedingly pleasant one.

It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Taylor & Macdonald.

Something New.

Special this Week.

Saved Army Notes.

Capt. Willis was present at the meeting on Monday night and delivered an address.

The Army have secured the old Music Hall for a barracks. A generous sympathizer told the officers to get it fitted up to suit them and that he would defray the expense.

Mr. G. B. Sproule said at the meeting on Monday night that the Army would have a barracks of its own inside of six months. We understand that they have a site in view for that purpose, if it can be purchased.

Another Peterborough soldier — a young gentleman—has volunteered to enter the work.

Capt. Willis has united with Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England.

Capt. Willis will take charge of the meeting this evening.

We are determined to push our business, as we are bound to sell, and those who kindly favour us with their patronage can depend on getting their groceries at the lowest possible prices. AN ENCYCLOPÆDIA.

"What a fine looking man that is!" said one gentleman to another on George street the other day, noticing a form that would attract attention anywhere. "Yes," was the reply, "he looks like an Encyclopædia, and buys his clothes at ANDREW McNEIL'S."

PERFUME OF AN HEMISPHERE.—Throughout an area occupied by more than one hundred millions of civilized beings, Murray & Lanman's Florida Water is to day the standard Perfume in society.

Pure Bred Poultry.

THE SUBSCRIBER is now prepared to dispose of SITTINGS OF EGGS from the following varieties of Poultry:—Plymouth Rocks, Houdans, Black Spanish, White Leghorns, Buff Cochin, Silver Grey Dorkings, Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Pekin Ducks and Bronze Turkeys.

All the above varieties were either first or second prize birds at the fall and winter exhibitions. I have also added since the exhibitions some very fine birds of different varieties to my stock. Having bred the greater part of the varieties for three years, I think I know what suits the country.

Every pains has been taken to keep the stock pure, by keeping the birds in different yards, therefore the public can rely on a good article, either in Eggs or Chicks, second to none but in price, any and all of the above varieties being offered at $1.50 per 13, or 26 for $2.50, excepting the Ducks and Turkeys.

Any orders for eggs must be accompanied with the price. I would be glad to fill a large order, if required, with different kinds.

THE RESULT OF DRINK.

An Old Man, His Daughter, and Guest Burned to Death.

KINGSTON, May 19.—The details of a shocking tragedy, which occurred at Sharbot Lake this morning, reached this city to-day. George Peters, an old man who is addicted to drink, went to his home last night, and during a quarrel he threw a lamp down stairs, when a blaze instantly took place. His son then threw a pail of water on the flames, which only increased the danger, and in a few seconds the house, which was a small frame one, was a fiery furnace. Upstairs was Peters' wife, his two daughters, and a visitor named Miss Bridgen. The mother and eldest daughter managed to get down stairs and outside; Peters, his daughter and Miss Bridgen perished in the flames, only portions of their bodies can be found. The son and several boarders who were sleeping downstairs escaped minus their clothing, but when the daughter found the youngest child was upstairs, she attempted to get her, but fell exhausted at the foot of the stairs, and was dragged out by her mother. Both were badly burned, the daughter fatally. The affair has created consternation at Sharbot Lake, and the Kingston and Pembrook authorities are now more determined than ever to abolish the sale of liquor along the line of the railway.—Mail.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. J. A. Doucet, piano tuner and repairer, late of Boston Mass., graduate of Hallet and Davis' University, has arrived in Peterborough, where he intends to reside permanently. M. Doucet is a first-class organ and piano tuner, and comes with first-class recommendations. Parties entrusting their instruments to him may feel assured of satisfaction. His skill is unsurpassed and the product of years of experience. His head quarters are at Smart's piano and organ warerooms on George street. All orders left there will receive his prompt and careful attention.

Wolfe Street.

The Toronto papers, in their reports of Tuesday's Court proceedings in that city, contains the following:—

"LAPLANTE V. PETERBOROUGH.—Aylesworth moved for a rule nisi to quash a by-law of the town of Peterborough closing up a road. Rule nisi granted."

Whites vs. Blacks.

RICHMOND, Va., May 19.—Mayor Johnston, of Danville, telegraphed to Governor Cameron to-day:—"Four white men attacked George Adams, colored, to-day and beat him so that he will probably die.

HOUSTON, Tex., May 19, Charles Taylor a coloured brakesman on the Houston Texas Central railroad, was shot and killed near Hempstead yesterday. Taylor has been conspicuous in placing negroes in first-class coaches. His sudden taking off is attributed to this.

HEMPSTEAD, Tex., May 19.—The trouble between whites and negroes has been renewed. On Saturday evening a negro who tried to shoot an officer was killed. Afterwards officers and citizens went to a negro gambling house where it was reported a large lot of arms was concealed, and the negroes were ordered to surrender. all but one obeyed; the one who refused drew a rifle, but was killed before he could use it.

COMING TO THE POINT.

"And now I am coming to the point," said a school teacher, as he slowly sat down in the chair where the revengeful pin was lurking. We also come to the point when we say that for a nobby Scotch Tweed Suit ANDREW McNEIL can't be beat.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

ONE CAUSE OF MANY.

The strength of the Macdonaldite Administration lies very materially in the weakness of the Opposition.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

FLOURISHING INDUSTRIES.

Brantford as a manufacturing centre has rapidly achieved a flattering position among the cities of the Dominion. One by one new industries, backed by solid men with capital and experience, are springing up, the smoke from which hangs over our fair city, a monument to the outside world of the decay of lethargic ambition and one-horse ventures, and a "cloud by day" leading the Israelites of the farmstead and surrounding villages and towns into a busy life, where the great strides of invention are apparent, and where are concerted the headquarters of so many industries in which all are mutually interested, the one to make money and the other to save money.—Brantford Expositor (Ref.)

FRAUDULENT GAMBLING.

The grain market had a break of nearly 10 cents a bushel from the highest fraudulent figures to which the Chicago gamblers had recently put wheat. Of course they say now that the collapse of this iniquitous speculation is due exclusively to the disturbed state of the New York stock market. But no sensible man will believe that American wheat, if worth 97 cents a bushel, and wanted at that price, can suddenly drop 10 cents because two or three stock-jobbing bank presidents have burst.—N. Y. Sun.

FURNISHING AMMUNITION.

Every attack made upon the North-west by the Grit press in their intense hatred against the Conservative is made use of as ammunition by those in the States, who have their own interests to serve, at the expense of those in Canada. It is high time that such injurious conduct were frowned down.—London Free Press

WHIPPED INTO THE TRACES.

He (Mr. Blake) allowed the Globe to 'whip him into the traces', and since that time, though he has been always showing ability both as a speaker and as an administrator, he has never had any policy on which he could found an effective appeal to the intelegence or the heart of the country."—Bystander in Week

LESS RIDICULOUS.

The Ontario Government is coming to its senses again, having instructed its inspectors to accept the same fee for a Dominion as for a Provincial license. It is also announced that the Government will not prosecute persons acting under a Dominion license. Mr. Mowat would have made himself less ridiculous if had adopted this course in the first instance, pending the decision of the Privy Council on the constitutionality of the Dominion Act.—Orillia Packet.

FARM IMPLEMENTS AND THE N. P.

The falsity of the charges made by freetraders against the N.P., as raising the price of agricultural impliments especially in the North West is thus exposed by Mr. Everts, Secretary of the Bell Farm. He says:—"The price of agricultural implements under the operation of the present tariff has steadily declined. Up to the last year American manufacturers enjoyed a monopoly of the market in the North West, Canadian manufacturers not turning out the class of implements best adapted to the country, but in 1883 Canadian machines came into more general use, and this season they are likely to be universally adopted. Reapers can be purchased 13 per cent cheaper than last year, and Canadian self-reapers and binders have been so materially improved in quality that the Qu'Appelle Company are buying them in preference to the Chicago machines formerly employed, and have just ordered twenty-five. The American binders are being offered $45 below last year's price in order if possible to hold the market, but even at this reduction purchases can be made more advantageously in Canada."

A UNIVERSAL FEELING.

There has been reluctance to formally censure the Ministry for their strange course of equivocation, vacillatiou, and lethargy. But it is high time to use plain words. A study of the papers contained in the Blue-book, which we described yesterday, confirms the most unfavourable views of the Ministerial policy, and must produce a general sense of shame and confusion. Party discipline may be strong enough to defeat the motion to the effect that the "House regrets to find that the course pursued by her Majesty's Government has not tended to promote the success of General Gordon's mission, and that even such steps as may be necesfary to secure his personal safety are still delayed." But the motion is only the temperate expression of a deep and almost universal feeling.

WALL STREET NEWS.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Two attachments were granted to-day against the property of A. W. Dimock & Do., bankers. The first is a claim for difference in a stock transaction, another for a personal claim of $238,000 in securities deposited with Dimock & Co. Their present market value is $406,000, Both attachments were granted on the ground that Dimock & Co. made a fraudulent assignment, postponing payment of general creditors until after individual creditors had been paid.

President Puffer, of the suspended Atlantic Bank of Brooklyn, said to-day, "We have on hand means for paying every depositor and more besides, but we can do nothing until the bank examiner reports."

The Franchise Bill.

The bill passed by a large majority—Lord Randolph Churchill advocates the increase of the suffrage in Ireland.

LONDON, May 20.—The extension of the Franchise bill was considered by the House of Commons to-day.

Lord Randolph Churchill strongly disagreed with the amendment of Mr. Brodrick, Conservative, to exclude Ireland from the operation of the bill. He said he had no fear of the result of enfranchising the Irish agricultural labourer, and expressed the hope that the Conservatives would not alienate the good opinion of the Irish by supporting the amendment.

Lord Hamilton asked Lord Churchill what he was really driving at. If he said this was a statement of the democratic Toryism of the future he declined to follow under such leadership. He contended that the application of the bill to Ireland would result in reopening the flood gates of agitation.

The amendment was rejected by 332 to 137. Lord Randolph Churchill, Mr. Gorset, and several other Conservatives and all the Parnellites voted for the Government.

[We hope in a future issue to give the principal clauses of this important measure, which want of space has compelled us to postpone.]

A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. ## MR. BLAKE AND SECRET SOCIETIES.

THE Ottawa Free Press has the following editorial note :—

"The Peterborough REVIEW says that Mr. Blake denounced Freemasonry from his place in the House, as "the fruitful mother of malignity, misrepresentation and bigotry." The REVIEW knows that this statement is false and in making it shows itself to be inspired by "malignity, misrepresentation and bigotry."

As there is here a direct contradiction between the Peterborough REVIEW and the Ottawa Free Press, it will be well to go to the original official record to see which is accurate, and which is borne out in its statement by the facts.

In Hansard, the official report of the debates in the House of Commons, we find the following paragraph in Mr. Blake's speech on the Orange Bill :—

"But we have no right, because we have no necessity, to engage in secret societies, which, as I have said, are the frightful" (evidently a typographical error for fruitful) "mother of malignity, misrepresentation and bigotry."

It will be seen that this slanderous description applies to all secret societies without exception, not only to Orangemen, not only to Freemasons, but also to Oddfellows, Foresters, United Workmen, Sons of England, Grangers, Good Templars, &c.

Nor is this all. We received a pamphlet from the office of the Montreal Post with a request to notice it and a statement that many thousand copies had been printed. It contains the speech of Mr. Blake and has for a sub-title : "A Crushing Blow to Oath-bound Secret Societies." In this widely circulated pamphlet the passage we have quoted is given precisely the same as in the official and no doubt genuine report of Hansard.

Neither is this an isolated paragraph. For several columns Mr. Blake's speech teems with similar attacks upon all secret societies.

There is only one slight and imperfect excuse for the Ottawa Free Press. Another version, a garbled one, was printed, as we are informed by our contemporary, in which the passage we have quoted is softened by the insertion of the word "often" instead of being left general and without exception as in the official record. Other passages also have been similarly tampered with. It may be that our contemporary, with its customary ignorance of the original authorities, may have only this falsified version before it (we have both) and may not be aware of the wording of the true and official version as placed on record by Hansard and circulated by the Post.

If so this is ignorant instead of malicious misrepresentation of the Free Press records public attention to the dangerous use that has been made of Mr. Blake's incendiary speech. The leader of the Reform party has the unfortunate fate of being again and again mixed up with some dishonest trick, which, perpetrated with or without his consent, he carefully abstains from disavowing so long as it can conduce to his advantage politically. So it was with the rascally offer of the Globe in Mr. Blake's name to buy up the parliamentary vote of the whole Province of Quebec, and so it is in this case.

Mr. Blake made a speech in the House of Commons carefully prepared and especially calculated to stir up angry feelings among some of the voters of the Dominion, and this version is not only published in the official record but is circulated by tens of thousands in his interest. Then Mr. Blake, finding that another portion of the electorate had taken umbrage at his dishonest and malignant misrepresentation of them, eats his words as officially recorded and as circulated by his friends, explains to all enquirers that of course he did not mean them, oh, dear, no, but some other persons not then immediately in question ; falsifies his speech to meet their views, and either procures or allows the extensive publication of the new and false edition.

The plain fact is that Mr. Blake, or his friends with his at least tacit sanction, circulates among those whom it may suit a true version of his speech labelled "A Crushing Blow to Oath-bound Secret Societies ;" and then, to meet the views of others, circulates among them a falsified edition with his attacks upon them carefully softened down. What an honest and upright leader ! What a high-minded man !

Death of Mr. Calvin.

Mr. D. D. Calvin, ex-M. P. P. of Kingston, died on May 18th, after a severe illness. He was a public spirited man and a veteran in the wrecking and forwarding business.

It is proposed to erect a grand monument on Garden island to his memory.

THE ONTARIO CANOE CO.

ONE OF THE MOST FLOURISHING INDUSTRIES OF PETERBOROUGH.

How Canoes are now built in the Cradle of the Art—A Lilliputian Fleet in Endless Variety—Satisfaction Expressed.

It is well known to most of our readers that it was in Peterborough that the old birchbark and log canoes of the red men were first replaced by canoes built of basswood, cedar, etc., to serve the same purposes as the aboriginal craft. This idea, originally adopted here, has been steadily pursued among us, and has been gradually developed, till the improved Peterborough canoes are now known and appreciated in every quarter of the habitable world.

THE ASHBURNHAM FACTORY.

What progress has been made in the art of canoe building may be seen on visiting the factory of the Ontario Canoe Company (Limited), where this industry is being conducted on a large scale under the direction of Mr. Jas. Z. Rogers, the president and managing director, at the head of an efficient staff.

Here in the extensive show rooms and factory may be seen canoes by the score, completed and in progress, in endless variety of style, size, build and material, with paddles as various by the hundred, and many other requisites for the canoeman, for sport, business or pleasure.

THE SHOWROOMS.

In the old building facing upon Elizabeth street, Ashburnham, is the office, where correspondence in respect to orders for canoes is proceeding, not only with many parts of our Dominion, but also with the United States and Great Britain. On the same floor is the extensive show room, where on racks and trestles lie the finished canoes ready for shipment or purchase, the greater part of them being to fill orders. Here are to be seen canoes of many styles and dimensions, cedar rib, longitudinal rib, broad, and folding canvas canoes, open and decked canoes, paddling and sailing canoes, painted canoes, and canoes varnished so as to show all the beauty of the material. At the time of our visit there were no less than 57 canoes in this department. Here, too, are hundreds of paddles of white maple, bird's-eye maple, soft maple, white cedar, red cedar, spruce, ash, birch, cherry, butternut, walnut, most of them single bladed, as is the prevailing Canadian fashion, but others with the double blade more in vogue at present in the States and Great Britain.

On the floor above is the shaped stuff ready for manufacturing the canoes, ribs, boards, thwarts, keels, gunwales and all the other details as turned out by the machines.

THE FACTORY.

The new factory in the rear, a lofty and spacious building of four stories, is where the canoes are manufactured.

On the first floor is the new and improved machinery for getting the stuff in readiness for the different styles of canoes, and for making paddles. Nearly every part is thus shaped by ingeniously contrived machinery, ready to be put into its place in the craft that is being built.

The second floor is devoted to putting the canoes together and finishing the woodwork, the different stages of construction being very interesting. Especially noteworthy is the thoroughness and care in the construction, each rib and other part being thoroughly oiled before being fitted into its place, and all being carefully selected and scrutinised, the slightest flaw causing rejection. There, too, are the steam boxes and drying kiln to ensure the thorough seasoning that is so essential to the tightness and durability of a canoe.

The third floor is set apart for finishing the wood work and brass work, and for doing the rough painting.

On the fourth floor is the paint shop, where the completed canoes are made bright with many colours to suit different tastes, or are varnished to show all the beauty of the grain and tints of the material.

In this factory were twenty-two more canoes in various stages, marking, with those in the showroom, no less than 79 canoes in course of construction or just finished

VARIETY OF CANOES.

The Ontario Canoe Co., as shown by their catalogue, builds no less than 120 different canoes, without any two of them being alike. And this does not include slight variations to suit the special tastes of customers or some unusual purpose to be served.

The principal styles are the patent cedar rib canoe, either painted or varnished, in which the narrow strips of cedar dovetailed together run transversely from gunwale to gunwale, and being bent in the shape of an inverted arch are in the shape that combines the greatest possible strength with lightness.

The patent longitudinal rib canoe is built of similar strips running the length of the canoe, and secured to half inch oak ribs three inches apart. It is either painted or varnished and of either cedar or butternut or of both woods combined in alternate strips.

The basswood board canoes, the earliest form of the adoption of built canoes from the old native birchbark, is either painted or varnished. It still has some admirers, especially among backwoods sportsmen, who prefer it for rough work.

The three canoes above described are all open canoes well adapted for paddling, though also used for sailing, in which case they sometimes have keels added. They are also sometimes fitted with rowlocks for oars. They are well adapted for shooting, fishing and carrying bulky and heavy loads.

The "Juniper Canoe" was so named after the island in Stony Lake on which was the A. C.A. camp last year. It is a perfectly decked canoe, with its hull constructed on the same principle as the cedar rib. They are handy for either paddling or sailing and have a large stowage capacity. They are painted or varnished and made of cedar or basswood.

The Ontario Canoe, is essentially a cruising canoe, being an excellent sailor and easy to paddle. It is constructed on the cedar rib plan and is decked with cedar, butternut or cherry.

The Juniper and Ontario Canoes have air tanks of canvas on wooden frames to fit under the decks, thus making them little life boats.

The patent folding canoe is of canvas on a wooden frame. It folds into a very small compass, and may be readily and speedily put together, so that it is handy for many purposes.

WIDELY USED.

Among the canoes now ready for shipment or in course of construction are a number, together with a new boat, for Messrs. Cording, of Piccadilly, London, the agents for the company in Great Britain. There is a large canoe, extra deep, for the Hudson Bay Co.; one for an officer of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg ; an Ontario Canoe for New York ; one for Rochester, N. Y. ; four for the Bay of Quinte, two Junipers and two basswood paddling canoes ; besides canoes for Port Arthur, Owen Sound and other points nearer home.

Since the beginning of the year the Company has shipped a large number of canoes to England, others to Tennessee and to Lowell, Mass., while among Canadian shipments are included Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, &c.

SATISFACTION EXPRESSED.

A purchaser of a cedar rib canoe in the United States writes :—

"I am perfectly satisfied with the canoes and think them in every respect superior to our other open canoes. It was so well packed and handled that it did not receive even a scratch."

The Lowell, Mass. Courier in a report of a meeting of the Vesper Club says :—

"The two new Peterborough cedar rib canoes, which had just arrived, were exhibited in the reception hall and generally admired. Both are open boats without rudders and used with single paddles. One carries a large lateen sail and lee-boards."

As regards stowage and durability, a purchaser in the North-West Territory of a No. 4 cedar rib canoe, says :—

"For two years it carried nearly all that came, anything and everything, it was the only boat in that part of the country, and all used it. We used it for drawing sawlogs, and as a ferry boat. It carried ploughs and harrows, stoves, furniture, sheep, pigs, calves, &c., &c., and I never had any idea how much a canoe would carry, until I saw some of the loads it took across the river—and when I left, it had never leaked a drop."

The Ontario Canoe Company has a staff of 17 men, besides the incidental employment given outside. Such an industry is a benefit to the whole community, and it is also having the advantageous effect of making the name of Peterborough known far and wide.

BON VOYAGE.

Presentation to Mr. T. Dolan Previous to his Departure for the Emerald Isle.

Mr. Thos. Dolan, having decided to pay a visit to the Emerald Isle, his native country and the home of his earliest day, number of his friends thought it a favourable opportunity to give him a token of their feelings towards him. Accordingly, on Tuesday evening they visited him at his residence and presented him with an address and a very handsome gift.

When the friends had assembled at Mr. Dolan's, Mr. R. W. Muncaster read the following address :—

To Mr. Thomas Dolan :

DEAR SIR,—During the course of our lives there are times when we are merry and again when mirth gives place to sorrow, but this case, the occasion of our assembling here, is one which we will always look back upon with pleasure, and although it is somewhat marred by the thoughts of your leaving us for a short time, still we are happy to be able to meet you to-night—to wish you God-speed on your long journey.

We cannot but admire the spirit which actuates you in returning to visit the associations of your boyhood days, and the leaving family ties and affections which surround you now, will show that although you have been separated from your early friends for fifteen years, you still remember them, with an affection which is such an exemplary trait in your nature.

We have nearly all known you as a boy and have grown up with you, and we have always admired your sterling character, have loved your amiable disposition, have felt proud of your success, have rejoiced to enjoy the gentility of your company, and are now glad to know that your absence is to be but temporary, and that before very long we shall have the pleasure of welcoming you home again with an earnestness which we need not assure you will be from our hearts.

We wish your acceptance of the accompanying souvenir, and to remember that while absent from us you are still fondly alive in our memory, and we will all rejoice in your return in increased health and vigour.

Rest assured that we all earnestly hope that you may enjoy your trip perfectly, and we will now wish you bon voyage and bid you a sincere adieu.

Mr. JOHN HACKETT, on behalf of the friends, then presented Mr. Dolan with a very handsome diamond pin.

Mr. DOLAN, in reply, said :—

I am completely taken by surprise to-night by the assembling here of you gentlemen and the presentation of the beautiful address which you have read to me. When I proposed to go and visit the scenes of my boyhood days, I had not anticipated such an expression of feeling as I see presented here to-night. You speak in your kind address of the visit to my boyhood's home across the seas, and of my desires to visit those scenes dear to my younger days. It has always been my fondest wish to see again those old haunts dear to me, and now I hope to see my wish realized. You, my friends, and I have grown up together here in this our new home, and I am glad to know that the feelings I have for you have been reciprocated. Your reference to myself personally is in a measure flattering, and I feel myself not deserving of it. The regret that I would feel at a permanent parting is rendered more pleasing when I know that my absence is only temporary, and I trust to return to you all again after a short time. I cannot express my feelings at the kind mention of me in your address, and for the magnificent souvenir which you have kindly given me, and which I shall treasure among my dearest possessions. I have to thank you again for all your kind wishes for my trip, and hope to grasp you each by the hand when I return.

Mr. Dolan was liberally applauded on resuming his seat. A short time was spent in social conversation, and the friends then separated, after have received an evidence of Mr. Dolan's hospitality.

Mr. Dolan leaves this evening for the Old Country, and we join in wishing him a pleasant journey and a safe return.

THEY ALL DO IT.—Everybody uses Teaberry for the Teeth and Breath, the newest, brightest, coolest little toilet gem extant. Try a sample.

IT IS NATURAL.—It is natural for some people to be bilious: being often a result of peculiar bilious temperment, which with high living too greecy food, indigestion from inactive liver, is the frequent cause. The remedy above all others is Burdock Blood Bitters. It is highly curative for all biliary complaints, and far better than physic for inactive conditions of the bowels.

A RUN FOR THE DOCTOR Is generally the first thing in case of any injury, but a doctor cannot always respond to the call. If you have Hagyard's Yellow Oil at hand, you have a reliable remedy for all wounds, injuries and pain. It has saved life when even doctors had abandoned hope. Keep it ready for use.

The Weak and the Impure.

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river, is pure and clean. It is active; therefore it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong, rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilements creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down.

Shaker Blood Syrup purifies and enriches the Blood; curing Scrofula, Cancer, Ulcers and skin and blood diseases of every description.

IT isn't extravagant to claim that Zo-pe-sa is a sure cure for Dyspepsia and the Liver. It is a regular prescription of a doctor of large practice, and for these troubles it is as good as the doctor himself on the spot. Ask J. D. Tully.

She imagined there was a lull, certainly the shrieking of the gale seemed to subside—but only for half a moment, and in the doubly fierce renewal of elemental strife—amid deafening peals of thunder, and the unearthly glare that preceded each reverberation, there came other sounds more appalling, and has the church rocked and quivered, some portion of the ancient edifice fell, adding its crash to the diapason of the storm.

Believing that the roof was falling upon her, Regina shut her eyes, and in after years she recalled vividly two sensations that seemed her last on earth; one, the warm touch of Hero's tongue on her clenched fingers—the other, a supernatural wail that came down from the gallery, and that even then, she knew was born in the organ. Was it the weird fingering of the sacriligious cyclone that concentrated its rage upon the venerable sanctuary?

After a little while, the fury of the wind spent itself, but the rain began to fall heavily, and the electric drama continued with unabated vigour and herceness.

Although usually brave, for so young a person, Regina had been completely terrified, and she lay dumb and motionless, still clinging to the alter railing. At last, when the wind left the war to the thunder and the rain, Hero, who had been quiet until now, began to bark violently, left her side, and ran to and fro, now and then uttering a peculiar sound, which with him always indicated delight. His subtle instinct was stronger than her hope, and she had raised herself into a sitting posture, she saw he had sprung upon the top of one of the side aisle pews, and thence into the window, which had been left open by the sexton.

Here he lingered as if irresolute, and in an agony of dread at the thought of being deserted, she cried out:

"Here, Hero! Come back! Hero don't leave me to die alone."

He whined in answer, and barked furiously as if to reassure her; then the whole church was illuminated with a lurid glory that seemed to scorch the eyeballs with its intolerable radiance, and in it she saw the white figure of the dog plunge into the blackness beyond.

She turned her head, so that at every flash she could gaze upon the placid face of the beautiful Christ floating above the pulpit; and in the intense intervening darkness tried to possess her soul in patience, thinking of the mercy of God,—and the love of her mother.

She knew not how long Hero had left her, for pain and terror are not accurate chronometers,—but after what appeared a weary season of waiting, she started when his loud bark sounded under the window, through which he had effected his exit. She tried to call him, but her throat was dry and parched, and her foot ached and throbbed so painfully, that she dreaded to make any movement. Then a voice always pleasant to her ears; but sweeter now than an archangel's, shouted above the steady roar of the rain:

'Regina! Regina!"

She rose to her knees, and with a desperate exertion of lungs and throat, answered:

"I am here! Mr. Lindsay—I am here!"

Remembering that words ending in o—were more readily distinguished at a distance, she added:

"Hero! oh Hero!"

His frantic barking told her that she had been heard, and then through the window came once more the music of the loved voice.

"Be patient. I am coming."

She could not understand why he did not come through the door, instead of standing beneath the window, and it seemed stranger still, that after a little while all grew silent again. But her confidence never wavered, and in the darkness she knelt there patiently, knowing that he would not forsake her.

It seemed a very long time before Hero's bark greeted her once more, and turning toward the window, a lingering zigzag flash of lightning showed her Douglass Lindsay's face, as he climbed in, followed by the dog.

"Regina! where are you?"

"O here I am!"

He stood on one of the seats, swinging a lantern in his hand, and as she spoke he sprang toward her.

Still clutching the altar railing with one hand, she knelt, with her white suffering face upturned piteously to him,—and stooping he threw his around her and clasp her to his heart.

"My darling—God has been merciful to you and me!"

She stole one arm up about his neck, and to him, while for the first time he kissed her cheek and brow.

"Does my darling know what an awful risk she ran? The steeple has fallen, and the whole front of the church is blocked up,—a mass of ruins. I could not get in, and feared you were crushed, until I heard Hero bark from the inside, and I followed the sound which brought me to the window, whence he jumped out to to meet me. At last when you answered my call, I was obliged to go back for a ladder. Here, darling, at God's altar let us thank him for your preservation."

He bowed his face upon her head, and she heard the whispered thanksgiving that ascended to the throne of grace, but no words were audible. Rising he attempted to lift her, but she winced and moaned, involuntarily sinking back.

"What is the matter? After all, were you hurt?"

"When I came down from the gallery, it turned so dark I was frightened, and I stumbled and fell down the steps. I must have broken something, for when I stand up my ankle gives way, and I can't walk at all."

"Then how did you get here? The steps are at the front of the church."

"I thought the altar was the safest place, and I crawled here on my hands and knees."

He pressed her head against his shoulder, and his deep manly voice trembled.

"Thank God for the thought. It was your salvation, for the stairs and spot where you must have fallen are a heap of stone, brick and mortar. If you had remained there, you would certainly have been killed."

"Yes, it was just after I got here and caught hold of the railing, that the crash came Oh, is it not awful!"

"It was an almost miraculous escape, for which you ought to thank and serve your God—all the days of the life he has mercifully spared to you. Stand up a minute, even if it pains you, and let me find out what ails your foot. I know something of surgery, for once it was my intention to study medicine, instead of divinity."

He unbuttoned and removed her shoe, and as he firmly pressed the foot and ankle, she flinched and sighed.

I think there are no bones broken, but probably you have wrenched and sprained the ankle, for it is much swollen already. Now little girl, I must go back for some assistance. You will have to be taken out through the window, and I am afraid to attempt carrying you down the ladder unaided, and the darkness. I might break your neck, instead of your ankle."

"Oh please don't leave me here!"

She stretched out her arms pleadingly, and tears sprang to his eyes as he noted the pallor of her beautiful face, and the nervous fluttering of her white lips.

"I shall leave Hero and the lantern with you, and you may be sure I shall be gone the shortest possible time. The danger is over now, even the lightning is comparatively distant, and you who have been so brave all the while, certainly will not prove a coward at the last moment?"

He took her up as easily as if she had been and infant, and laid her tenderly down on one the pew cushion;—then placed the lantern on the pulpit desk, and came back.

"Slip your hand under Hero's collar, to prevent him from following me if he should try to do so, and keep up your courage. Put yourself in God's hands, and wait here patiently for Douglass. Don't you know that I would not leave you here an instant, if it could be avoided? God bless you—my white dove."

He stooped and kissed her forehead, then hurried away, and after a moment Regina knew that she and her dog were once more alone in the ancient church,—with none nearer than the dead, who slept so soundly, while the soft summer rain fell ceaselessly above their coffins.

CEYLON BOTANIC GARDENS.

In a handbook recently issued by Dr. Trimen, the following interesting particulars are given: The Royal Botanic Gardens at Peradeniya were established in 1821, six years after the final occupation of the Kandyan Kingdom of the English. The site is a little less than four miles from Kandy to the Colombo road, and occupies a loop of the river Mahaweli, which surrounds it on all sides except the south, where it is bounded by the high road. The area, nearly 150 acres in extent, beautifully undulated, its average elevation above sea level being about 1540 feet. The climate is hot, moist, and very equable; the mean annual temperaure is about 77° F., April and May being the hottest and December the coldest months. Rain falls on about 200 days in the year, the annual rainfall being about 85 inches; it is pretty evenly spread through the year, but is heaviest in October and November and in June, at the full establishment of the N. E. and S. W. monsoon respectively. February and March are the driest months, but even then there are showers at no distant intervals. Before its occupation as a Botanic Garden the greater part of the land had been a royal demesne occasionally occupied as a residence by the kings of Kandy. The earth-mound and ditch along the south boundary are still evident, and remains of stone buildings have been found. The name Pera, Guava, and deniya, an enclosed place—indicates its use as a fruit garden of which the existence of some very odd mango trees is further evidence. On another part of the site stood a small temple or flower shrine and priest's house, abandoned, however, before the formation of the garden. This garden now contains considerably over 2000 species of plants. The director has also under his charge, as adjuncts to the Peradeniya Gardens, smaller branch establishments in different climatic districts of Ceylon. Hakgala Gardens are situated at an elevation of 5500, about six miles to the east of Nuwara Eliya on the road to Baduila. They were opened in 1860 as a cinchona nursery. The climate admits of cultivation there the numerous European and Australian plants, and those of the tropical mountain regions. Henaratgoda Garden is a completely tropical one, scarcely above sea level, and in a wet steaming climate which varies little. It is about three-quarters of a mile from the railway station of the same name on the Colombo-Kandy railway. Many of the plants grow at Peradeniya flourish there with far greater luxuriance, and others can be cultivated there only.—Federal Australian.

An Economical Divice.

"When the opera came to Chicago," said the head of a retail department in a large dry goods store in that city, "I noticed there were two or three expensive lace shawls sent home on approbation and returned the morning after the performance. This set me thinking and when Mrs. B came in the day of an opera night and asked to have one of the most expensive wraps sent home to look at, I just slipped out to Swag's, the ticket speculator, and bought seats immediately behind those of Mr. and Mr. B. When I came in, a little late, there was Mrs. B. seated in front of me with the elegant lace wrap sent home over her shoulders. When she turned I greeted her politely, and said I was delighted the wrap had suited her. She looked rather unhappy during the performance, but the shawl was not returned to the store, and I charged my tickets to expense account."

The Merchant Shipping Act.

B., May 17.—At a meeting of shipowners this afternoon to take action respecting the Merchant Shipping bill, it was resolved to forward a memorial to the Dominion Government to the effect that as there was doubt as to how the bill would effect colonial shipping, and as the Dominion Government have certain power over colonial shipping, that they petition the Imperial Government to exempt colonial shipping from the operation of the act. It was decided to interview Sir. Leonard Tilley on the subject when he arrives in town.

AFTER years of patient research and unremitting toil, Dr. Van Buren discovered in a little plant, growing on the hill-sides of his native land, medical virtues of a most positive kind. ### Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

JOHN B. GOUGH has gone to California for his health.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Eligible Building Sites.

It is reported that the acre (without the buildings) belonging to the Burnham Estate, fronting on George, London and Water streets is for sale. This will be an excellent opportunity for eligible sites.

The Driving Park.

Several gentlemen, who united for the purpose of fitting up a driving park, have leased the grounds at the southern boundary of the town from Mr. R. A. Morrow for that purpose. Work will be commenced at once in preparing the track.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly south and south-west, fine weather, higher temperature.

Still Another Player.

The Fire Brigade Band are steadily augmenting their numbers with good and reliable players. Mr. E. The residence of Mr. Robert A. Strickland, at Lakefield, has been purchased by Mr. Crickmore, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Strickland will leave for England in a short time. An extensive sale of their very valuable household furniture will be held on Tuesday, June 3rd, by Mr. Chas. Stapleton. Particulars will be given in a few days.

The Cattle Shipment.

Five more cattle were weighed on the market scales this forenoon, and they averaged about 1,370. They were purchased by Mr. Geo. Webber from Mr. Isaac Fife, of Otonabee. This made eighty head of cattle which Mr. Webber will ship for the English market this week. Many fine animals are included in the herd, the average weight of the whole collection being 1,350 pounds each.

A Good Entertainment.

When the drama "Only a Woman's Heart" was presented here last winter it was very favourably received, as it was also in the cities and towns in Canada where they visited at that time. The play will be again produced in the Opera House this evening, and those who saw it last winter will be pleased to know that Mr. Newton Beers will again appear in the character of "Old Roger." The company has been strengthened by the addition of several talented artistes, and the cast is a very strong one.

NEVER WILL FORGET IT.

A man may forget home, kindred, friends, and almost anything else, but he will never forget the handsome range of Fancy Worsted Coating now in stock at ANDREW McNEIL'S

A DETERMINED SUICIDE.

A Man, while Temporarily Insane, Drowns Himself in the Otonabee.

The body of Mr. Patrick McAuliffe, of Ashburnham, who was missing from Monday morning, was found in the River Otonabee on Tuesday night. The circumstances go to show that Mr. McAuliffe had committed suicide, and as he has been suffering from mental aberration, caused by physical suffering, there is no doubt that his death was caused by his own act.

Mr. McAuliffe had been unwell for some time and it was apparent that his mind was affected, but it was not thought that there was any fear of him doing any desperate act. On Monday morning he went over to Mr. Hazlitt's saw mill, where he had formerly been employed, to go to work, but when he got there he said it was of no use for him to stay, as he could not work, and he returned home. At about eight o'clock he went out, telling his wife that he was going for a walk up the railway track. He never returned home alive again.

His prolonged absence caused anxiety on the part of his friends, and a search was instituted for him, which was kept up until he was found. On Tuesday afternoon his coat and hat were found on the bank of the river, on the east side, a short distance below the Smith street bridge. This gave a clue to what had occurred, and the river was searched near that place.

On Tuesday night a number of men were engaged in dragging the river. One of them stuck a pike-pole into the bed of the river, and lost it, the pole remaining upright. Mr. J. Anderson stepped on some stones and reached out for it with another pole. His pole slipped and struck into the water, and it caught on Mr. McAuliffe's clothes. Mr. D. McGregor and others came to Mr. Anderson's assistance, and the body was removed. The unfortunate man was evidently determined to end his existence, as he had tied a rope to a large flat stone that would weigh fully fifty pounds, and then fastened the rope securely around his neck, winding it around twice. There are several large stones on the bank of the river at this place, and he had evidently placed the stone he used on them and fastened it to his neck, leaving only a few inches of the rope between his neck and the stone. He then must have flung himself into the water. The body was recovered between eight and nine o'clock.

Mr. McGarity, father-in-law of the unfortunate man, notified Dr. Fife, Coroner, of the event, but as there was no suspicion of foul play it was thought unnecessary to hold an inquest, and the body was conveyed home.

Mr. McAuliffe was thirty-two years of age, and leaves a wife with three children to mourn his sad departure from them. He had always been a very industrious man, and had prospered so well that he owned his home and was considered very comfortably situated. The family will receive much sympathy in their affliction.

Masonic.

The M. W. Grand Master and other officers of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A.F. & A.M., purpose visiting Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges on Friday evening, when they will be entertained at a banquet. All Masons are cordially invited to attend.

The O. & Q. Ticket Agency.

Mr. J. F. Holden has been appointed town ticket agent in Peterborough for the Ontario and Quebec division of the Canada Pacific Railway. Mr. Holden has had considerable experience in railway matters, having been employed on the Midland Railway, and, since the change of control, in the District Traffic Manager's office here, and he has an extensive knowledge of railway affairs.

Fitzgerald Park Lots.

The chance of securing lots of from 2½ to 20 acres is now being offered by the sale of this land, each of the 10 acre park lots being divided into four equal parts. Any person may make a tender for one or more lots. The offers are to be enclosed in sealed envelopes addressed to C. A. Weller, Esq., and marked on the outside, "Fitzgerald vs. Fitzgerald." At 12 o'clock on Friday the tenders will be opened, so that all persons wishing to make an offer must do so by that time. We wonder that the Cricket Club is not looking after the south ten acres. The chance of getting a first-class ground will soon be gone.

Lacrosse Club Concert.

In consequence of unforeseen circumstances Mrs. Macdougall, of Montreal, will be prevented from taking part in the above concert. The services of Miss Alice Scott have therefore been secured. Miss Alice Scott is constantly singing at the Oratorio concerts at Toronto, and is a charming vocalist, possessing a sweet, clear and sympathetic contralto voice. No expense and pains are being spared to make the Concert one of unusual excellence and interest. The splendid Heintzman Concert Grand Piano to be used on this occasion will be on view at Mr. E. J. Hartley's store, Hunter street, to-morrow. Look out for extracts from programme to-morrow.

C. E. T. S.

A regular meeting of the Church of England Temperance Society, was held in the School room of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, on Tuesday evening, 20th May. The Rector, Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, President, occupied the chair and explained the objects and aims of the Society; he also described the several pledges, when a number of persons signed, and became members.

The President, in a few eulogistic remarks, announced the death of the Treasurer, Mr. Canning, whereupon the President and Secretary were appointed to draft a suitable expression of esteem and condolence.

The following was unanimously adopted:—

"This Society having heard of the demise of Mr. H. O. Canning, the Treasurer of St. Luke's Temperance Guild, desires to put on record their high appreciation of the late Mr. Canning's estimable qualities. He was indeed universally esteemed and respected, and in every position in life faithfully tried to fulfill his duties.

That he has left behind him the odour of a good name is known to every member of this Society, and we must sympathise with his sorrowing widow and afflicted family.

May the God of the fatherless sustain and comfort them."

The President reported that the monthly representative meeting recently held was a very interesting one, and that sixty-one branch societies had been organized out of the one hundred parishes in this diocese, that most of them were in a flourishing condition, and that the Church was being greatly blessed through these societies. He urged the members to more earnest endeavors in enlarging the membership and increasing the usefulness of the Society.

Miss Crowe gave a reading, a new member a short address, and Mr. H. Nesbitt a reading. Owing to the so recent death of the Treasurer, the session was short, but a very profitable one, to those present.

The meetings are being held on the first and third Tuesday evenings in each month, and all who are desirous of promoting church work and aiding in the reformation of the present drinking customs are invited to attend these meetings.

POLICE COURT.

Journalistic.

The Ottawa Daily Sun, a new candidate for public favor, has made its first appearance in our Dominion capital. It professes to be independent in politics, and makes large promises of adhering to this principle, which we hope will be better observed than has been the case with some of our contemporaries. Though we believe in party government, we are convinced that there is room for some independent journals and that they may do a service to the country if their independence is real. The Sun is a bright little paper, well printed and apparently well managed. It would not be fair to be too critical as to a first number, which must necessarily have room for improvement.

Notice to the Public.

Health Bulletin.

The official report of the health of Ontario for the week ending Saturday, May 10th, shows that Pneumonia amongst respiratory diseases remains still very prevalent, though Bronchitis has not increased. Rheumatism and Neuralgia are seen to be present in large amounts.

Amongst contagious zymotics, Whooping Cough is prevalent; while Mumps, Diphtheria and Scarlatina also appear amongst the twenty prevalent diseases. Though Measles and Scarlatina are both small in their total prevalence, localized epidemics of both exist here and there in the Province.

Smallpox, though present in some four or five centres, enough to cause much apprehension lest it should spread, has not increased during the week. All the cases known to exist at present in the Province are strictly isolated under the various Local Boards of Health.

The six most prevalent diseases in the district in which Peterborough is included, in their order of prevalence, are as follows:—Diarrhœa, 14; Anæmia, 10,8; Consumption, 9; Fever, Ent., 6,4; Bronchitis, 5,7; Pneumonia, 5,7.

From Our Own Correspondent.

STREETS AGAIN.

It was understood that the question of the opening of Water street was virtually settled and that it only remained for the Village Council to formally open the same by by-law. Some considerable time ago a petition signed by a large majority of the voters of the village was presented to the Council asking that body to ascertain whether Water street extended to the northern boundary of the corporation, and if so to open it to the public. This petition was received by the Council and it was found that Water street did extend entirely through the village. It then only remained for the Council to open that street as required by petition. Petitions had previously been presented to the Council about other streets. The members of the Council opposed to opening Water street have not only given a strong opposition, but have upon every occasion endeavored to include other streets, no doubt to increase the difficulty of carrying out the expressed wish of the ratepayers of the village whose representatives they are. At the last meeting of the Village Council a motion was passed looking to the opening of Water street, but as usual the concession line was slipped in. Now, it is the general opinion that this street was included for the purposes of opposition and not for the general good. The concession line is already open and to the required width, but Water street is not open for considerable distance. If it was really necessary to include other streets in order to open Water street, there are quite a number of streets closed, such as William, Division, Union and Nicholas streets, which if included with Water street, would be of considerable public benefit to have opened and private property removed from them, but the evident object was not to open streets, but to prevent them being opened. The quicker this street, which is public proderty, is opened the better for the credit of all concerned. It is of vast importance to the public as a wharfage and the voters so regard it, or at least a large majority do so.

GOING TO KEENE.

A large number of the members of Clementi Lodge of A. F. & A. M. are going to Keene on Saturday, the 24th, to witness the foundation of the new church there being well and truly laid.

SAVED ARMY.

The meetings still being held in the P. C. A. hall, under the auspices of the Saved Army are just as well attended as formerly, if not better, and the excitement still on the increase. It is the general opinion that a great deal of good has been accomplished, but fears are expressed pretty freely of its permanency. One thing is sure, that Saved Army songs are often heard, perhaps not always with due decorum, but at any rate where cursing and swearing was heard before.

THE FAIRY.

The steamer Fairy will run to-morrow between Lakefield and the Point in connection with the Bible Christian tea meeting at the Young's Point church. The Fairy will leave Lakefield upon the arrival of the noon train and return to Lakefield at about six p.m.

NEARLY A FIRE.

A resident off Rabbit street, in Lakefield, was nearly burnt out on Monday night. One of the inmates was aroused from sleep in the middle of the night by the suffocating sensation of smoke. An alarm was of course made in the house when it was found full of smoke. It seems that a box of ashes stood close to one end of the house, and that during the night it had caught fire and extended to the house. When discovered a hole was burned in the house about three feet in diameter. A narrow escape, which should be a warning to others to be careful where they place the ashes.

SALMON FISHING.

A number of Lakefield sports went back to Eel's Creek to get some salmon, and to have a good time generally, last week. All the party's hopes were, we understand, realized, especially the good time passed, although one of them was of opinion there was not much money in it, only a white fish. One party, in exploring, came upon what was supposed to be two bear cubs up in a tree. One began at once to throw stones at them. A number had gathered around to take a hand in capturing the cubs. A remark was make by one of the more thoughtful of the party that the mother must be near by. Consternation seized the party. Knives were drawn and a general defence formed. It was found that the cubs were only porcupines.

CRICKET.

A cricket match was played on Wednesday last on the Lakefield cricket ground between married and single again. In the first innings the score was even, and there was not time to play out the second innings.

COURT OF REVISION.

The Lakefield Council meet on Monday evening next as a Court of Revision. A large number of appeals have been entered and a lively time is expected. As usual, quite a number who are the best able to pay their fair share of taxes are to be on hand to get the Council to throw it off.

LARGE QUANTITY OF MILK.

On Tuesday last Mr. A. Fitzgerald, living near Lakefield, delivered at the Lakefield Cheese Factory on Tuesday last 54 lbs. of milk, being the largest quantity of milk ever delivered to that factory by one person at a time.

THE CRUISER.

The steamer Cruiser will run an excursion on Saturday next (24th). The steamer will leave Lakefield at 9 o'clock and proceed to Eels Creek and returning arrive at Lakefield at about 6 p.m. This will be a good opportunity for fishing parties.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

There will be no celebration of the Anniversary of the Queen's Birthday in Lakefield this year, but preparations are being made for a grand celebration on Dominion day. A general migration will take place from Lakefield on Saturday next. Stoney Lake and Young's Point claim a share of public attention but Peterborough presents the principal attraction and while quite a number visit the former places the bulk will in Peterborough and great sights.

Confident of the Irish vote, the whips refrained from bringing up their whole voting power. Hon. ### SETTLING OUR COUNTRY.

THE influx of immigrants into the Northwest has not only begun, but the advance guard of this pacific army is already arriving in great force. The latest news from Winnipeg describes them as flocking in by hundreds and thousands. Still more satisfactory is the information as to the fitness of these newcomers to assist in building up the new country in which they are making their homes. Most of them are at once going onto the land, and many are provided with means to enable them to do so with unusual advantage. There are also a number of female domestic servants, and there are some labourers and mechanics in smaller numbers, who are at once going to work on the C.P.R. construction.

It is very evident that the efforts of the Reformers to belittle the country and to impede its settlement, though they must have done some mischief, have been less injurious than was intended. The warning of Reform politicians and adventurers who, masquerading as farmers, cautioned settlers against taking up farms in the Northwest, has been unheeded, having been counteracted by the more truthful accounts sent home by genuine farmers who are already doing well on their new freeholds. So, too, the constant abuse and misrepresentation of our country, our land regulations, and our tariff, which have been the stock in trade of Reform critics, and have been so freely circulated in the old country, have been rendered almost harmless by truer accounts that have shown their nature. Consequently thousands are flocking from their free trade paradise to this land of a protective tariff, confident that they will improve their condition.

We fancy that the last device of the opponents of the settlement of our country under a Conservative Government will be as innocuous. Bogus reports of Indian rising will not make intending immigrants fear for their scalps. Indeed these inventions bear internal evidence of their falsity. The great chief, Pie-a-pot and his braves having just finished sowing their land, are now most concerned about a dance at which they are anxious to assist, so they can hardly be in a very bloodthirsty mood. There is apparently more danger of being garotted in London than of being scalped on the prairie.

Of course these stories are seized upon eagerly by agents for the sale of railway lands in the United States, who may thereby divert some emigrants to their own reserves, but under the statesmanlike policy of our present rulers they cannot greatly check the rapid settlement of our great Northwest.

A DISHONEST CRITIC.

THE Port Hope Guide has some unfounded abuse of us, clipped without credit from the Ottawa Free Press. We have answered our contemporary of the Dominion capital, but need take no notice of the Port Hope echo, which shows itself to have no more regard for other people's property than for the truth. If the Guide must steal it might appropriate something of more value and not heap one offence upon another.

A Standard to be Aimed at.

The Peterborough Weekly REVIEW, always a model sheet typographically, has been recently enlarged and is now the largest weekly published in Ontario outside the cities of Toronto and London, and for general style has no rival, save it be the Lindsay Post. The best advertisement a place can have is its newspaper. Peterborough and Lindsay, the rival towns of the Midland district, now possess the finest weeklies in the province. This is indicative of the enterprise, intelligence and wealth of these communities, as well as the possession of excellent journalistic judgment on the part of the publishers. It is to be hoped in the course of a few years the people of this county will be educated up to the Peterborough and Victoria standard.—Napanee Express (Reform.)

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

RAILWAY PASS CORRUPTION.

No unprejudiced critic will deny that the giving of free railway passes to voters during an election contest was an evasion of the spirit if not the letter of the election law.—Ottawa Free Press (Reform.)

A PARTIZAN LAW OFFICER.

The Globe is wrong again when it says Mr. Crown Attorney Peterson was not appointed by Mr. Mowat, but by Mr. Sandfield Macdonald. Mr. Peterson was appointed by Hon. John A. Macdonald in 1896 at the request of Hon. A. J. Fergusson Blair, who was then in the Coalition ministry.—Guelph Herald.

THE INDEPENDENT PRESS.

Independence, as we understand it, is no matter of dealing a blow here and a compliment there one day, and a compliment here and a blow there the next. We have seen so-called independent journals whose smiles and frowns could be calculated beforehand with a good deal more of certainty than the weather probabilities. All that it was necessary to know was how long the wind had been blowing from one quarter. Then look out for a change.—Ottawa Sun (Independent.)

A "GLOBE" FALSEHOOD.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe is never careful in regard to truth, when he desires to make a point. He is now belching forth against the members of the Government for "nepotism." One statement is: "Sir John has also obtained for his son the Solicitorship of the Canadian Pacific Company in Winnipeg." If the other statements are no more correct than this one, little credence need be placed in them. We have denied this statement several times, and we now repeat that Mr. J. A. M. Aikins (not Mr. Hugh Macdonald) is the solicitor of the C. P. R. in Winnipeg.—Winnipeg Times

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—If "Ratepayer" is anything he is quite aesthetic in taste. It is therefore greatly to be regretted that his taste for the beautiful has been so grossly outraged by the erection of such "unsightly poles" as those recently set up by the Peterborough Electric Light Co.

To calm his troubled feelings I may here say that if he possess his soul in patience but for a little while, he will have no cause for complaint on that score, as it is the intention of the company to put up poles that will meet the approval even of such exquisites as your correspondent. And it is only because there were no better available that recourse was had to those now in use as a temporary expedient in order to get the light ready for the 24th as proposed.

"Ratepayer's" fears for the safety of the people are singly chimerical. Electricity, if left alone, is quite harmless, and less liable to cause danger than many other things in every day use. If "Ratepayer" handle a jack knife awkwardly or carelessly he may probably cut his fingers, and if he place his hand on a hot stove it will undoubtedly get burnt, but this is no reason why those useful and necessary articles should be prohibited. And yet this is "Ratepayer's" argument.

His reference to New York legislation on the subject, which was only proposed—not enacted—is no stronger reason why electric light should be abandoned than it would be to urge the disuse of threshing machines because our legislators found it necessary to pass a law compelling certain portions of the machinery to be protected, or enclosed, owing to the frequency of accidents which occurred.

The statement that "contact in any way means certain death" is entirely gratuitous and incorrect, and can only be believed by those who are not sufficiently informed. If Ratepayer will take the trouble to enquire he will find that the electric dynamo machine is quite as harmless as any ordinary machinery in every day use.

If he placed his hand on a circular saw he will probably find his fingers in the sawdust below. But in all such cases the safe rule is "hands off," and just so with electricity. Keep a respectful distance and there is not the slightest danger.

Ratepayer may be in favor of "progress," but his communication on electric light does not convey that impression. He, the would be esteemed apostle of "progress," when all the world beside is exerting every energy to keep up with the march of improvement, stands by "holding up holy hands in horror," dissuasively endeavoring to stamp out the efforts of those who are progressive in deed and not in word only.

It is quite evident that Ratepayer knows but little about the cost of electric machinery, plant and motive power, or he would not hazard the statement that "the whole apparatus for 75 lights only costs $10,000 at the outside (I know this for a fact)." A little information, like "a little learning, is a dangerous thing," which Ratepayer will find out if he ever undertakes to purchase and run machinery.

But the tender point with Ratepayer seems to be that he thinks there is money in the operation, and having no "finger in the pie," he is envious, and therefore under a pretence of protecting the public interest, clamorously protests and urges three cogent reasons against the electric light, namely, "danger, unsightliness and expense." The danger, as I have pointed out, is only mythical, the unsightliness only temporary, and the citizens of Peterborough are quite capable of forming their own opinions as to the value of the accommodation offered and the price demanded, without the gratuitous advice of their would-be patron, Ratepayer.

But to convince Ratepayer that what "he knows for a fact" is not a fact, I make him the following proposition :—

For the completion of the electric machinery plant and motive power, and composing the apparatus required for 75 arc lights such as the company propose—I will give him $15,000. He to pay the cost of the same upon my producing proper vouchers for all the work and machinery required as above; and should he desire to share in the profits, the stock book is yet open and he can have an opportunity of investing a few thousand dollars in the stock of the company. He will then no doubt go into a more accurate computation to ascertain the net earnings, which he will find sufficiently "moderate" to suit his ideas of profits.

Ratepayer's estimate of profits is quite enigmatical. He says, on "75 lights at 50 cents a night for each light the profit is the moderate sum of $100. For what length of time "deponent sayeth not"—and we are therefore left in the dark—notwithstanding the proximity of so much electricity. A little more light on the subject would not hurt Ratepayer.

A few days longer and ratepayer will have an opportunity of forming a correct opinion as to the merits of electric light as an illuminator—when it is to be hoped that even he will be so fully enlightened that he will become one of its strongest advocates.

Yours truly,
ANOTHER RATEPAYER.

THE SHARBOT LAKE FIRE.

Detailed Account of the Death of the Unfortunate Victims.

KINGSTON, May 20.—Dr. W. Henderson has arrived from the scene of the Sharbot Lake horror. He says the house in which Peters lived was a mere hencoop, about 16 by 24 feet, with a kind of a loft above, and in this loft on the night of the tragedy were Peters, his wife, and Maggie Peters, about 18 years, Christina Peters, about six, and Mary Ann Bridgeon, a cousin, about 16.

It is claimed that the lamp stood on a table at the head of the stairs, and that Peters, who went home intoxicated, staggered against the table, knocking the lamp on the floor, when the oil took fire and the burning liquid flowed down stairs and ignited everything in its course. The mother and Maggie rushed down stairs and attempted to extinguish the fire, at the same time calling on John, one of the sons down stairs, to bring a pail of water, which he did and threw on the oil. Like lightning the fire spread all over the room and enveloped the interior in a sheet of flames.

Here Maggie's thoughts were directed towards the safety of her younger sister, Christina, who was upstairs, and notwithstanding that the stairway was a mass of fire, she attempted to reach the loft to rescue the child, but she slipped when near the top and slid to the bottom, tearing the flesh off her back on the way down. She fell at the bottom in a heap, her clothes ablaze, and in a dazed condition. Her mother drew her into the open air, and thus saved her life. The little girl and Miss Bridgeon were observed from the outside endeavoring to raise the window, but it was fastened, and in a few seconds they disappeared. After the fire their bodies were found close together, that of Miss Bridgeon lying across that of Peters.

Notwithstanding Maggie was frightfully burned, after a neighbour gave her a dress she lingered in the vicinity of the disaster until the fire was over, which lasted not more than half an hour. She desired to stop to see if the remains would be discovered, but she gave way and had to be taken to a neighbour's house. From the back of her neck down to her hips the raw flesh is exposed and roasted, and her arms and hands are covered with blisters. Strange to say, her hair is but slightly singed, and her face and feet were not burned in the least. As soon as possible Dr. Coutlee had her saturated with oil, in which condition she will be kept for some time, and as she is a strong, determined young woman she will probably recover.—Mail.

IRELAND.

THE Irish landlords have oppointed a deputation to explain to the Government the misery caused by the deadlock in the land market.

A SERVANT girl named Mary Galvin, in the employment of District-Inspector Harrison, at Rathkeale, was accidently shot dead on April 15th, by the discharge of a pistol which she was incautiously handling when cleaning up a room.

Ontario Settlers.

Inquiry at the Department of Agriculture shows that 45,000 persons were settled in Ontario last season. Of these 12,095 were Irish. One hundred and six men, 117 women and 454 children are all of the latter that did not do well. In addition there were of other nationalities 40 men, 45 women, and 108 children who received aid from charitable institutions. Great care is being exercised this season in regard to the immigrants so ar to avoid any repetition. —Mail.

HASTINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A COMBAT.—When news keeps scarce, and big eggs have done duty in equally large paragraphs, when the season for gigantic vegetables and brobdignagian strawberries is yet to come, what's a fellah to do? Has he to compose or forbear—the latter, you say? Well, let us cultivate forbearance, the foundation for a whole superstructure of slowly evolved virtues. Still, if the quality spoken of, a bone, was duly inculcated in the breasts of certain Celts who, dwelling in our midst, are not yet fully acclimatized, either in manners or constitution, the people here would not often witness the combat of viragos such as took place on Sunday eve. What was the cause we wot not; perhaps the belligerents did not either; but at it they went after the preliminary discourse, literally tooth and nail. Such a scene "of fuss and feathers" never was. It was almost a case of Kilkenny cats; the choicest language with the strongest emphasis made the atmosphere blue around them. Is the gentle spring conducive to bellicose feelings? Bakers from very early times, earlier than the REVIEW can remember, are set down as proverbially wicked and forgetful. Our baker's journeyman is one of those. Thinking he could knock out of time a young farmer who lives near here and who is always peaceable, the said wicked and forgetful one followed the said young farmer out of the village, determined to force the fighting, being backed by others who should have known better. Result: young farmer gives him all he wants and more, leaving him in the condition of the young man who fell among thieves.

PERSONAL.—Mr. L. Jackson, a former Hastings boy, but who has been for some time in Montreal, paid his home a flying visit the other day being en route for Chicago, where he has a good sit in the drug business.

A HOMELESS DOG.—The assessor is greatly grieved and exercised over the fact that a poor, mangy, one-eyed, sickly mongrel has escaped the poll tax of one dollar, and threatens dire pains and penalties against anyone harboring the vile offspring of an antecedent canine. Poor doggie, come out like a man, you may be a side walker inspector next year.

A NOTORIOUS BOX.—If we had only one more government official besides the post-master and lock-master we would then have a quorum and a sensation at the same time, for a box filled with death-dealing explosives lies awaiting an owner at the station. The sports committee for the 24th of May are too modest to claim it openly, i.e. they prefer opening it themselves when the proper time comes to amuse the bucolics. They assure us they have not the slightest intention of blowing up either the Council or the Board of Health.

SHIPMENT OF CATTLE.—About 90 head of cattle were shipped here by Mr. Aikins, of Port Hope. They were not going direct to the abbatoirs of Montreal, but to green pastures and June grasses. It took seven of them to weigh 5000 lbs. When farmers round here get tired of making this section a wheat growing one, in spite of the climate, and turn their attention to stock raising and enriching their land thereby, it will be all the better for the country. A good grade of stock has long been a disideratum.

A WEATHER REPORT.—At time of writing a cold backward spring has given way to what delicate-footed May ought to be.

MORE SHIPMENTS.—Since writing the above, the exodus still continues, for the gentlemen whose prototypes helped to pay the rent in the "owed country" are leaving here in large numbers. In brief Mr. Walsh, Asphodel et al are shipping pigs but whether to Bismarck or not we did not learn.

COURT OF REVISION.—The village council is making it hot for some who have for many years past been let off too easily on taxes, especially the income tax. The village does not boast of millionaires by any means, but when a few capitalists live amongst us as a permanency, it is but fair they should contribute their quota to the public purse. The village assessment is $155,625, being an increase of $1,500 over the year before.

UNREASONABLE GRUMBLING.—The people are perhaps a little too eager for a surplus, as there is some grumbling because the Reeve was allowed $10 for expenses to Ottawa last winter with the large delegation which went up there about the Trent Valley Canal. Seeing that the Reeve was the only one from here they should not be so close in the matter. The T.V.C. is an old story by this time, but that is no reason why it should be opposed after so much of the work is completed.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—The 24th May will be the grandest day ever seen in the village of Keene. Large numbers of Masons intend to come from Toronto and all stations eastward to Cobourg, also Belleville, Stirling, Campbellford, Percy, Hastings, Norwood, Roseneath, Harwood, Peterborough, Lakefield, &c. About two or three hundred are expected to meet the M. W., the G. M. Bro. Spry, in town hall, at high twelve. All arrangements are completed for the comfort, &c., of our visitors on that day. The G. J. train will not leave Keene for Belleville until five o'clock p.m., thus giving those from the east ample time to see the ceremony, dine and return home the same night. There will be plenty of rigs to convey visitors from the station to Keene and also to return them again. The ladies of the church are taking every pains to supply a first-class hot dinner in the drill shed. Dinner will commence at 12 o'clock noon. The V. B. B. will play during the day under the able leadership of Prof. A. Freeman, of Peterborough.

CONCERT.—The V. B. B. will hold a Promenade Concert in the Town Hall, in the evening, at 7.30. Tickets, single, 15c; double, 25. Come one. Come all.

FISHING.—On Monday last poor George met the Inspector and lost his tackle. If the Inspector had been a little sooner George might have lost the fish also.

ORANGE.—A special degree meeting was held on Saturday evening last with work in the Blue and R. A. degrees.

RAIN.—There has been so much rain lately that some of the farmers are behind with their work, this is especially the case with low land. The gardens and meadows are looking well.

FRAUD.—The person from the other side of the lake who sold a lot of frozen potatoes here last winter, was over on Monday trying to settle for them. Division Court will be held on Thursday next.

ROADS.—The Pathmasters have been appointed and work will commence at once.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

INDUSTRY.—Myrtle cheese factory is again in full blast, Mr. Cribbin having commenced operations on the 12th inst., and as there is a considerably larger number delivering milk this year we have every prospect of a busy season.

THE WEATHER.—During most of May, so far, we have had cold, windy weather with frost on the mornings of the 1st, 14th, 15th and 16th, and a nice little snow storm on the last morning. We hope and believe it has now paid its last lingering farewell till fall.

DUMMER.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met at Warsaw on May 10th. All present. Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Moved by Richard Crowe, seconded by George Kirk,—That whereas a dispute has arisen with regard to the right of Robert Wigmore to occupy the original allowance of road between the 11th and 12th concessions of Dummer, opposite lot 1, this Council usually allows the original road to be occupied by parties through whose lands forced roads are run, where no compensation has been made for the same; and this Council are of opinion that Mr. Robert Wigmore, under the circumstances, fully entitled to the original allowance in question.—Carried. A by-law to appoint a Local Board of Health, filled in with the names of A. R. Kidd, Reeve, W. Darling, Clerk, George Kirk, A. F. Choate and J. White, passed. The Clerk was instructed, on certificate of Treasurer that the Collector's Roll of 1883 was settled, to give up the bonds of the Collector and his sureties. The Clerk was appointed to make regulations with Henry Tamblin respecting his interest in certain lands. Orders granted:—

YOUNG'S POINT.

From our Own Correspondent.

STOLEN.—On Saturday night last Mrs. R. Plymoth had three fine ducks stolen. It is to be hoped that the persons who committed the theft will be found out and that an example will be made of them. It is time there was a stop put to it, as there has been a great deal of this kind of work going on here lately. Since writing the above the guilty parties have been found out and they have settled the affair. They had to pay a pretty high price for their ducks.

STEAMER FAIRY.—This favorite steamer has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired, and is now in first class running order. She is at present busy towing, &c., and will soon be ready for passenger traffic.

THE DRIVES.—The popular foreman, Mr. Burk, in the employ of Ullyott, Saddler & Co., is now in Clear Lake narrows, having made good time. The foreman for Mr. Geo. Chalmers, Mr. F. Bertrand, is pushing along at a lively rate with a large drive and we expect before another week to see Frank's drive snubbed up here.

THE MILLS.—The saw and shingle mills of Mr. Geo. Chalmers are now kept busy. The shingles turned out by George are pronounced first-class and farmers and others wanting anything in his line will do well and save money by calling on him. He always keeps a stock on hand. The grist mill is also doing a good trade and is kept running steadily.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DIVISION OF SECTION 3.—It was decided at the last meeting of the Council that this section should be formed into two. Although it is quite a large section, yet by dividing it into two, they will be very small. Still it will be of benefit to those who reside about four miles from the present school.

NAVIGATION ON PIGEON LAKE.—Mr. Bigelow, proprietor of the Port Harvey mills, is now taking up wood off these shores and shipping it to Port Perry. His boat, the "Stranger," is very actively employed in towing lumber from his mills also. We regret to learn that no accommodation is to be afforded travellers on the points between Bridgenorth and Bobcaygeon. We express our grateful appreciation of Capt. McCallum's services on these waters last year. He was a captain who filled his duties in a manner satisfactory to the people.

CATTLE NUISANCE.—It has been the custom of several farmers of Smith Township, in former years, to bring their cattle into Harvey and place them on the commons, thus allowing them to run at large. Now, although our district cannot be excelled for grazing purposes, it is not inferred that others should infringe on our claims. Farmers of Smith please follow after the "golden rule" and pasture your cattle at home.

COBOURG.

LACROSSE.—The new athletic grounds in Cobourg, south of the Arlington, are to be opened on the 24th by a lacrosse match between the Mutuals, of Toronto, and the Beavers of Cobourg. Lacrosse is looking up in Cobourg, and the season promises to be very successful. In the past the game has had a hard row to hoe, owing to the lack of suitable grounds.

BELLEVILLE.

THE BAY.—The water in the bay is unusually high.

RIVER DRIVERS.—A party of Rathbun & Co.'s river drivers arrived here from the north on Monday morning, and at once went to work setting the boom stuff in order.

AFTER years of patient research and unremitting toil, Dr. Van Buren discovered in a little plant, growing on the hill-sides of his native land, medical virtues of a most positive kind. Careful experimentation has enabled him to formulate from its hidden sap a remedy that has no equal in permanently curing all forms of kidney disease, and which is now known all the world over as Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the jars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

An Action Against the Town.

Mrs. Costello, who fell into the creek on Hunter street a few nights ago, has through her solicitor, sewed the Town Clerk with a notice of action for $1,000.

Tenders Wanted.

Tenders for the building of the new race track, will be received up to Saturday evening, May 4th, by Mr. Ed. Brown, at the Little Windsor Hotel, where a plan of the track may be seen.

In Bed.

Most people spend fully one-third of their time in bed, hence the necessity for having a good one. This can be secured by buying one of those woven wire spring beds at $4.50, made expressly for A. CLEGG. A splendid line of mattrasses just received.

Attractive Sale.

Mr. George Goodwin, being about to remove to Ottawa, will offer for sale at his residence, corner of Simcoe and Stewart streets, a large quantity of elegant household furniture. The sale will commence at one o'clock and will be conducted by Mr. C. Stapleton, Auctioneer.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto observatory, are as follows:—Easterly to south-easterly winds, fair to cloudy weather, with local showers, more especially at night, stationary or slightly lower temperature.

Theatrical.

There was a small audience present in the Opera House on Wednesday night, when "Only a Woman's Heart" was presented. This was probably owing to the number of local "coming events." Those who were present, however, were well pleased. Mr. Newton Beer, as "Old Roger" deepened the favorable impression he made on the occasion of his previous visit. Miss Lilian Pomeroy, as "Hattie Salisbury" sustained her part in a creditable manner, and the other characters were well taken, with the exception of "Walter Osmond."

A Freight Train Derailed.

On Wednesday afternoon a freight train ran off the track on the Grand Junction, about a mile and a half east of Keene. The engine kept the rails, but the tender and ten boxes loaded with way freight were derailed. The cars were not greatly damaged, as they were not upset. Assistance was at once sent to the scene of the accident, and energetic efforts were made to clear the road and to repair the track, but that work was not accomplished until about half-past two o'clock this morning. The damaged cars were then brought to Peterborough. The regular trains on the Junction were, of course, unable to run their trips on Wednesday afternoon.

The Little Lake Cemetery.

The fountain has been put up in the Little Lake Cemetery in the basin prepared for it near the entrance gate. The fountain is a large one. The top of it is a large bird with its head raised, just about to fly, and the water plays through its throat. It is nicely ornamented, and it will be a handsome addition to the ornamentation of this beautiful necropolis. The fountain was purchased from Mr. A. Hall, and placed in position by Mr. Bolton. The energetic superintendent of the cemetery is at present engaged in preparing and arranging the flower beds, and in keeping the grass cut. The cemetery looks very pretty, especially the terraces on the eastern side of the hill.

THE LOCK'S BRIDGE.

A New Iron Swing Bridge—Again Open for Travel.

The work of putting in the new iron swing bridge over the Otonabee river at the locks was completed on Wednesday at about noon, and it was then open for travel.

The necessity for this new portion being put in the bridge was fully established when the old bridge was removed, as when the timbers of the old structure were thrown on the ground some broke into two pieces they were so much decayed. It was also found necessary to renew a portion of the abutment pier, as the top part of the old pier was unfit for placing the new bridge upon it. In fact, the agent of the Toronto to Bridge Co. refused to place the bridge upon it until it was repaired. The top of the pier was therefore removed, and six or seven layers of large stones built up in its place, forming a solid abutment. This work was done by Mr. Chas. Wynne, who did the work by the yard.

The new swing bridge is about ninety feet long. It is an iron structure, and the top has been firmly planked. One advantage in this bridge over the old one is the ease with which it is swung around. The old hand rail is dispensed with, and the bridge is turned by a crank which is placed in a racking pin in the centre of the bridge. This shaft has a wheel on the end of it, under the bridge, the cogs of which work into another wheel and turn the bridge around, the wheels running on a circular iron rail. It is very easily turned, and Mr. Kerr, the caretaker, is greatly pleased with it. It is a durable piece of mechanism as well as being convenient. The bridge is held in position when closed, by a heavy bolt at one end, which can be drawn quickly when required, and is further secured by a lock.

The new bridge is a substantial looking structure as well as being a neat one. The work was done under the superintendence of the efficient County and Town engineer, Mr. John Belcher.

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING.

Special Correspondence.

MILLBROOK, May 20th.

The annual district meeting of the Peterborough district of the Methodist Church in Canada, met in Millbrook Methodist Church at two o'clock to-day.

All the ministers were present.

The Rev. J. Shaw, Chairman, presided, and the Rev. D. N. McCamus was elected secretary.

The usual disciplinary questions were asked concerning each ministers moral character and doctrine, and satisfactorily answered.

Chas. Deeprose, of Lakefield, having travelled two years, and H. V. Mounterr, of Bethany, having travelled one year, were recommended to the conference to be continued on trial. During the examination of these two brethren on doctrinal questions, all the brethren joined in an animated discussion of some of the questions, What has often been said was clearly brought out by this discussion, viz:—that there is no departure by the ministers from standards of Methodist doctrine. It was the unanimous opinion that the doctrine of repentance and a present conscious and full salvation should be preached constantly, strongly and boldly.

The meeting adjourned till ten o'clock tomorrow.

MILLBROOK, May 21st.

The district meeting was resumed at ten a.m. to-day.

Laymen from each district present.

The number of members, the amounts raised for ministerial supports and for all other purposes on each circuit were reported. There is an increase in the membership and in the amounts raised for connectional funds.

Wm. Johnston was elected as representative on the Standing Committee, and Thos. Manning was elected as representative on the Sunday School Committee.

As there is a large debt on the General Conference Fund, which must be provided for before entering the union, the brethren decided to bring the matter before the people, to raise the amounts laid on their circuits.

A resolution was unanimously carried by a standing vote expressing the high regard entertained for the Rev. J. Shaw, Chairman, and the obligations of the members of the district to him for his uniform kindness, his wise counsel and his efficient administration of the duties of his office.

MILLBROOK, May 22.

The members of the district and a number of the congregation met at eight o'clock last night to hear an eloquent, thoughtful and edifying sermon from the Rev. J. Shaw.

The provisional district meeting met this morning at 9.30. The Rev. J. Shaw was elected chairman, and the Rev. E. A. Tonkin was elected secretary. The object of this meeting is to encourage the work within the bounds of the Peterborough district, which is necessary on account of the union of the Methodist bodies.

It was resolved that the congregations worshiping in the George Street, Murray street and Charlotte Street Churches should worship in the George Street and Charlotte Street churches, and that Ashburnham and two country appointments should form a circuit. The work on the other circuits of the District was also adjusted as agreed upon by the committees which formerly met for the purpose. The Rev. W. Johnston was elected as representative of the stationing committee of the Bay of Quinte conference, and the Rev. E. A. Tonkin on the Sunday School Committee.

Only a Baby.

This is a baby. It is a girl baby. How sloppy its chin is! How red its eyes! What horrid contortions it makes with its face! See how savagely it kicks! How like a demon it yells! Yet in a few short years some man will be half crazed with wild suspense worshipping the very air this being breathes, devotedly kneeling at her feet and frantically begging for one word one pressure of the hand, even one look, which will give him hope. Young man do not be so easily carried away, when there are many things you can do that will be more profitable and for which no one has ever yet been sorry,—for doing good to all, for speaking evil of none, for hearing before judging, for thinking before speaking, for holding an angry tongue, for being kind to the distressed, for asking pardon for all wrongs, for being patient towards everybody, for stopping the ears of the tale bearer, for disbelieving ill reports, and above all in believing that the best place to buy your Spring and Summer outfit is at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

SUBSCRIBER—Give me Dolan & Co., please.

OPERATOR—All right, if I can get them. They have been so terribly busy lately I have not been able to get an answer. Their stores are over-run with customers, and they pay very little attention to my calls.

SUBSCRIBER—Hang it all, then give me an extra operator. I must get them, I want to hurry up my suit that is being made, besides wife wants any amount of stuff.

DOLAN & CO.—We do not mean to be neglectful, gentlemen, and beg you will accept our apology for any inattention to your calls, but the crowds the last few days have rather upset us, and we have hardly time to eat. We note your order and will send as directed. Thanks. Good day.

The Electric Light.

The dynamo machine, arrived on Thursday and has been set up in Mr. Hazlitt's mill. It was running this afternoon, and the lights were tested. This machine is capable of supplying twenty five lights. This number were shedding forth their brilliancy this afternoon under the mill, and the light was clear and strong. The machine worked smoothly and did its work well. Matters have been pushed forward with energy, and it is creditable to the directors, to Mr. Boisfeuillet, the agent of the Royal Electric Company, and to Mr. A. T. Smith, that they have got everything ready in such a short time.

Cricket Match.

A cricket match was played at Port Hope on Thursday by the Trinity College School Club of that town and the Peterborough Club. The match resulted in a tie. In the first innings the Port Hope club scored 35 and the Peterborough club 32; in the second innings Port Hope scored 39 and Peterborough 48, making a total for each of 87. One of the Peterborough players left for home on the afternoon train, and the team therefore batted one man short and had one wicket to fall when the match was concluded. The batting of Messrs LeRoy and R. B. Rogers, for the Peterborough Club, was good, and Mr. Miles Hamilton bowled, remarkally well, taking three wickets with three consecutive balls. Mr. Cooper, of the Port Hope Club, did good batting and Mr. Condon bowled well. The Peterborough cricketers were well pleased by their visit to the "City of Brix," and with their reception by the school boys.

EVACUATION OF DONGOLA.

A Cairo despatch says the telegraph line has been restored beyond Dongola. The Governor of Dongola has been ordered to withdraw with his garrison.

IMPORTANT NAVAL EXPEDITION.

An important naval expedition will start immediately for Assouan in three steamers.

WALL STREET NEWS.

NEW YORK, May 21.—All the suspended Wall street firms complain that the renewed decline in stocks has greatly discouraged them, as it lessens the amount that can be realized on their assets. It is said Russel Sage to-day paid the claims of the most prominent bear operators.

Donnell, Lawson & Simpson have offered to pay their creditors with notes running 12 and 25 months bearing 6 per cent. interest.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The stock market was quite overcast this forenoon, prices being heavy at the start, and they grew heavier and heavier throughout the day. There was general depression at the opening on account of the flattening in the shares of the coal carrying roads. The Union Pacific, Western Union, and Pacific Mail also felt the depression. There was an extensive buying and selling of Western Union, people thinking that Jay Gould is getting out of the stock as fast as he can. There were many bad rumours to-day, some of them being of a peculiarly monstrous description.—Mail.

PERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE IRISH LABOURERS' ACT.

LONDON, May 21.—In the House of Commons to-day the bill amending the Irish Labor Act, 1883, was rejected by a vote of 138 to 75. Mr. Parnell complained of the opposition offered by Mr. Trevelyan, Chief Secretary for Ireland. He said the Government must not find fault if it meets with a little retaliation. "Does the Government," he asked, "mean to wait until the labourers burn the houses over the heads of dissenting landlords? The labourers have been patient, but it is intolerable that they should continue to live upon mud floors until a commission has investigated their grievances."

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

The following are the most important clauses of the Franchise Bill, lately passed in the Imperial Parliament:—

A uniform household and lodger franchise at elections shall be established in all counties and boroughs throughout the United Kingdom, and after the passing of this Act every man possessed of a household qualification or a lodger qualification shall, if the qualifying premises be situated in a county in England or Scotland, be entitled to be registered as a voter, and when registered to vote at an election for such county and if the qualifying premises be situated in a county or borough in Ireland, be entitled to be registered as a voter, and to vote at an election for said county or borough.

Where a man himself inhabits any dwelling-house by virtue of any office, service or employment, and the dwelling house is not inhabited by any person under whom such man serves in such office, service, or employment, he shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act and of the Representation of the People Acts to be an inhabitant occupier of such dwelling-house as a tenant.

Every man occupying any land or tenement in a county or borough in the United Kingdom of a clear yearly value of not less than £10 shall be entitled, after the passing of this Act, to be registered as a voter, and, when registered, to vote at an election for such county or borough in respect of such occupation subject to the like conditions respectively, as a man is, at the passing of this Act, entitled to be registered as a voter and to vote at an election for such county in respect of the county occupation franchise, and at an election for such borough in respect of the borough occupation franchise.

COBOURG.

STABLE AND HORSES BURNED.—About four o'clock on Saturday morning the stables of Mr. Wm. Harvie, University avenue, were found to be on fire. His team of fine horses, valued at three hundred dollars, together with a set of harness and a quantity of hay, oats, etc., were totally consumed. The brigade turned out promptly, but the fire had gained such headway before the alarm was given that their services were unavailing. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. There was no insurance.

Fair, VanEvery & Co.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

Imitations and counterfeits have again appeared. Be sure that the word "HORSFORD'S" is on the wrapper. None genuine without it.

What it has Done.

Mr. George Simpson, Toronto, Says: "I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Holloway's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend all suffering from corns."

A RENEGADE'S RANCOUR.

THE ex-Finance Minister, Sir Richard Cartwright, has been delivering an address to the Toronto Reform Association, and displayed the usual rancour and unscrupulousness of a renegade. He had the effrontery to allude to the fact of his turning his coat, and even had the impudence to compare himself therein to the late and present Lord Derby and Mr. Gladstone, forgetting, however, to explain the difference that the British Premier and the Stanley's did not change sides because they were deemed unworthy of Cabinet rank by their old party and were purchased by the gift of office by their new allies, as was the case with him.

The bulk of his speech was about equally compounded of cooked figures and abuse. Two specimens will do for illustrations. He asserted that the expenditure of the United States was less than $5 a head, while that of Canada was over $7 a head, a gross inaccuracy that might be set down to ignorance in some critics, but must be a wilful falsehood in one who is necessarily acquainted with the facts, which he suppressed, that the States have to raise money for their own purposes by direct taxation in addition to the $5, while the Canadian Provinces receive subsidies for such purposes out of the $7. The mistatement, however, served his end for the moment, by enabling him to disparage Canada and its rulers, while exalting a foreign country.

And as to his venomous abuse, we may instance that he drew a comparison between Boss Tweed with his allies, and the statesmen whom the great majority of the people of Canada have entrusted with the management of their affairs, not by a catch verdict obtained by fraud and misrepresentation, but by a deliberate and repeatedly renewed choice, of which they show no signs of repenting. This dastardly insult in fact was aimed at the people of Canada equally with the statesmen of their choice.

These examples will suffice, and we need not notice in detail the rehash of Globe calumnies, which even Sir Richard Cartwright, with all his unscrupulousness and arrogance, dared not utter in the House, where a fitting castigation would have awaited him.

In the latter portion of his speech he took newer ground. He repudiated the idea of annexation, but carefully guarded himself from being understood as speaking for the Reform leaders, or for any of the party but himself. After a brief reference to proposals for a federation of the British Empire, or even of the English speaking peoples, he avowed himself an advocate of independence. It is true that in this also he professed to speak only for himself, but the whole episode had much the appearance of sending up pilot balloons in the hope of finding some drift of popular opinion that may waft him and his friends back to their forfeited place and power. One of the greatest obstacles in their way is Sir Richard Cartwright himself.

THE U. S. PRESIDENCY.

An Arthur campaign would likely be taken as one in which the Republicans would have lots of funds. Blaine is undoubtedly the most popular man with the Republican masses, but the "better element," which might be induced to support Arthur on his record since his elevation to the presidency could not be coaxed into the support of Blaine on any pretence, and Arthur, it is generally believed, can carry New York, while Blaine cannot. Edmonds might possibly do so. Lincoln, it is believed, could carry it on his own name, but he is more likely to be cajoled into the acceptance of the nomination for vice-president than the first place on the ticket. Gresham, Harrison, Hawley and Washburne are occasionally spoken of, but they will go to the convention as "dark horses." Logan has but an obscure following, and will be out of the race after the first ballot. General Sherman, it is understood, has forbidden the use of his name, and thus the Republicans stand.

For the Democrats, if Tilden declines Governor Cleveland and R. P. Flower will be amongst the leading names in the convention. Flower is working the political strings for all they are worth to secure a majority of the New York delegation to the national convention, while Cleveland, or as he is generally termed nowadays, "Fortune's favorite," quietly attends to his executive business at Albany and lets the political current drift whither it will.

If the Republican ticket should read Arthur and Lincoln, it is very probable the Democrats would meet it with Cleveland and Hoadley, and put Cleveland's magnificent record as Governor of New York against the equally satisfactory record of Arthur as President. The troublesome point for the latter would be his connection with the Conkling-Platt affair, which many Republicans would never forgive him for.

RARE TREES IN CANADA.

Magnolias, Custard Apple and Ailanthus —Value of Black Walnut.

One of the most interesting things in connection with tree planting is the extension by artificial means of the natural range of the growth of trees. The change is generally to a colder and more severe climate. In Toronto three kinds of magnolias are grown in the open air, one of which will attain a height of some forty feet. This is exclusive of the Liriodendron, which is a native though seldom seen in its wild state much west of Hamilton; occasionally it is found near the southern corner of Georgian bay. The introduction of rare kinds is generally a slow process. Magnolias have been grown in Toronto for some thirty years; yet so seldom are they seen that the newspapers but last year spoke of one, on College street, as if it had been the first of the kind. The rarest tree grown here is, perhaps, the gingo tree (Salisburia adianti folio) of which it is doubtful if there be, out of doors, more than one specimen; yet that this native of China and Japan, which is never seen in Europe, we believe, south of the Mediterranean, thrives here, is a fact to be borne in mind. The aristolochi has been found difficult to reproduce; all attempts in hot houses, have, so far as we know, failed; yet accident has given us proof that it can be put into condition to germinate and has germinated, after being a whole winter under ice, from melting snow and falling rain, forms to the depth of several inches. Having been under this ice in the winter of 1883-4, some seeds germinated, and the plants are now in the possession of the writer; one plant of this native of the south was allowed to remain under ice a second winter, and it commences the spring in a perfectly healthy state. The custard apple grows naturally as far north as Niagara, and its artificial reproduction here is not improbable. The tulip tree, before mentioned, few take the trouble to grow, though it can scarcely be said to be out of its latitude here. Over the merits of the ailanthus it is possible to dispute; but when placed at a distance from the dwelling, where the objectionable odor of the male tree from which the female is with characteristic gallantry, presumed to be free cannot offend, its long lanceolate leaves give an oriental touch to the landscape. The dwarf chestnut, and the buckeye, another and beautiful variety of chestnut, can be grown here without difficulty; but seldom is either of them seen.

Our nurserymen, as a rule, are content to go on the beaten track; they seldom trouble themselves to produce new varieties of trees; but if they do not wake from their slumber they must expect to be left behind. Of course for general purposes our own trees deserve to get, the preference. But not all the beauty of the floral world is native to our soil. There is beauty in variety; and variety should now, when opportunity offers, be sought after and encouraged. Even so beautiful a shrub as the burning bush (Wahoo) and one so easily grown, is seldom seen in our shrubberies. For the wood it is desirable to learn by experiment, what is the most economical tree to grow. The ailanthus, of which the wood is suitable for furniture, grows with extreme rapidity. The black walnut must either be reproduced, or its use in the manufacture of furniture be abandoned. At present it is perhaps the most profitable tree that can be grown; and yet it is doubtful whether it is being planted to any extent worth mentioning. Alongside of the black walnut, for economic value may be placed the hickory. Both of these, the most valuable of our native trees are being neglected. Most of the trees that are being planted are of comparatively little value. If common trees must have the preference, that is no reason why rarer kinds should not be assigned their true place; and this we fear is not being done. If we are now to begin to replant in earnest, the work should be done with discrimination and with a view to producing the best results, æsthetic and economic.—Montary Times.

The Railways of the World.

The United States in 1882 had 104,810 miles of railway open, which was only 4,500 miles less than all the railways of Europe. The railways of the United Kingdom, although their aggregate mileage in 1882 was but 88,405 carried 752,000,000 passengers and 256,000,000 tons of freight, as compared with 270,000,000 passengers and 290,000,000 tons of freight carried by our railways. The cost of our roads in round numbers was estimated in 1880 at $5,200,000,000, as against $3,600,000,000 for the cost of British railway, but the gross receipts of the former were double those of the latter, and the dividend on capital, 4.80 per cent., was larger than in any other country. In Europe the average was 3.80, and the range was from 2.10 in Denmark to 4.21 in Germany. The capital employed in the railways of the United States is nearly equal to that of the British and French railways combined. On our railways, the number of passengers killed and wounded by accidents was 41.1 per 1,000,000, as compared with 10.8 per 1,000,000 in Europe. The number of employees per mile is with us 5, and in Great Britain 15. The railway capital per mile of railway is $209,000 in the United Kingdom, and $57,000 in the United States. The ratio of railway capital to the national wealth is 8.8 in Great Britain and 11.4 in the United States. The highest railway in the world is the Lima Aroya line in the Andies, which runs at an elevation of 15,840 feet.

The Governor General.

The Vice Regal party composed of Lord and Lady Lansdowne, Capt. Streatfield, A. D. C., and Lady Florence Anson, arrived at Kingston in the afternoon of Wednesday May 21st. On their arrival at the City Hall, His Excellency replied to the complimentary address of the Mayor in a speech in which he most felicitously expressed his gratification at the "bond of union existing between the Dominion and the Mother Country, and the friendly intercourse between our peoples which becomes yearly more frequent." On Saturday morning the party will leave by the steamer for Quebec.

CHAPTER X.

The town clock was striking nine, when the renewal of welcome sounds beneath the window announced to Regina that her weary dark vigil was ended. Soon after Mr. Lindsay's departure, the lantern above the alter grew dim, then went out, leaving the church in total darkness, relieved only by an occasional glimmer from the electric batteries, that had wheeled far away to the north-east.

"All in the dark? Where is your lantern?" asked Mr. Lindsay, as he climbed through the window.

"It went out very soon after you left. Can you find me—or shall I try to come to you?

"Keep still Regina. Come up the ladder Esau, and hold your torch so that I can see. It is black as Egypt inside."

In a few moments the ruddy glare streamed in, and showed the anxious face of the sexton, and the figure of Mr. Lindsay groping from pew to pew.

"How are your wounds?"

"My foot is very stiff and sore, but if you will let me hold your arm, I can hop along."

"Can you—my crippled snow bird? Suppose I have a different use for my strong arms?"

He lifted her up very gently, but apparently without effort, and carried her to the window.

"Go down Esau, set the torch in the ground, and hold the ladder—press it hard against the wall. I am coming down backward—and if I should miss a round, you must be ready to help me. Come Hero, jump out first, and clear the way. Steady now, 'Esau."

Placing his charge on the broad sill, Mr. Lindsay stepped out, established himself securely on the ladder, and drawing the girl to the ledge, took her firmly in his arms, balancing himself with some difficulty, as he did so.

"Now say your prayers. Clasp your hands tight around my neck, and shut your eyes."

His chin rested upon her forehead, as she clung closely about his neck, and they commenced the perilous descent.

Once he wavered, almost tottered, but recovered himself, and from the fierce beating of his heart, and the laboured sound of his deep breathing she knew that it cost him great physical exertion; but at last his close strain relaxed—he reached the ground safely and stood resting a moment, while a sigh of relief escaped him.

"Esau put the end of the torch sideways in Hero's mouth—mind—so that it will not burn him; and lay the cushion on the plank. No!—that is wrong. Turn the torch the other way, so that as he walks, the wind will blow the flame in the opposite direction—away from his face. Take it Hero! That's a noble fellow! Now home Hero."

When the cushion had been adjusted on the broad plank brought for the purpose, Mr. Lindsay laid Regina upon it, threw a blanket over her, and bidding the sexton take one end of the plank, he lifted the other, and they began the march.

"Not that way Hero, although it is the nearest. Truly the 'longest way round, is the shortest way' home, this time; for we could not twist about among the graves, and must go down the avenue, though it is somewhat obstructed by fallen boughs. Come here Hero and walk ahead of us.

What a stab seemed each word, bringing back all the bitter sufferings his departure would cause—and reviving the grief from which the storm had temporarily diverted her thoughts.

"You are not going to-night? You will not try to start after that dreadful storm?" she said, in an unsteady voice.

"Yes, I am obliged to go, in order to keep an appointment for to-morrow night—in New York; otherwise I would wait a day, to learn the extent of the damage, for I am afraid the hurricane has made sad havoc. Esau tells me the roof and a portion of the market house was carried away, and it was the most violent gale I have ever known."

They had reached the street and were approaching the gate of the Parsonage, when Hero turned back, dropped the torch at Mr. Lindsay's feet, shook his head vigorously, rubbing his nose with his paw.

"Poor fellow! can't you stand it any longer? It must have scorched him as it burnt low. Brave fellow!"

"Oh, Douglas! is that you?" cried an eager voice at some distance.

"Yes, mother."

Mrs. Lindsay ran to meet them.

"Did you find her?"

"Yes, I am bringing her home."

"Bringing her—oh my God! Is she dead?"

"No, she is safe."

"My son, don't try to deceive me. What is the matter? You are carrying something on a litter."

"Why, do you not speak, Regina, and assure her of your safety?"

Mrs. Lindsay had groped her way to the side of her son, and put her finger on the figure stretched upon the cushion.

"I only sprained my foot badly, and Mr. Lindsay was so good as to bring me home this way."

"Have they got her?" shouted Hannah, who accompanied by Mr. Hargrove had found it impossible to keep pace with Mrs. Lindsay.

"Hannah, she was in the church, and when she tried to get out it was too late."

"In the church!—Why I was in the yard, trying to get a breath of fresh air, not twenty minutes before the cloud rolled up like a mountain of ink,—and I saw nobody."

Regina understood her nervous start, and the eager questioning of her eyes.

"I was in the organ gallery, and falling down the steps, I hurt myself."

"Hush! she sees me."

Her fingers closed so spasmodically over the girl's foot, that she winced from the pressure.

"I saw you walking about the church-yard, and would have come home with you, if I had thought tht storm was so near. Please, Hannah, bring me some cool water."

She pitied the old woman's evident confusion and anxiety, and rejoiced when Mr. Hargrove changed the topic.

Kneeling by the lounge, Mr. Lindsay took one of the girl's hands.

"Regina, I desired and intended to have a long talk with you this afternoon, but could not find you; and now I have no time except to say good-bye. You will never know how hard it is for me to leave my dear little friend; I did not realize it myself until to-night."

"Then why will you go away? Can't you stay and serve God as well by being a minister in this country? Can't you change your mind?"

She raised herself on her elbow, and tears gushed over her cheeks, as twining her fingers around his she looked all the intense loving appeal that words could never have expressed.

Just then his stony Seraph—Duty, smiled very benignantly at the aching heart he laid upon her dreary cold altar.

"Don't tempt me to look back after putting my hand to the plough. I must do my duty, though at bitter cost. Will you promise never to forget your friend Douglass?"

"How could I ever forget you? Oh, if I could only go with you!"

His fine eyes sparkled, and drawing her hand across his cheek, he said eagerly:

"Do you really wish it? Think of me,—write to me, and love me, and some day,—if it please God to let me come home,—you may have an opportunity of going back with me to my work in India. Would you be willing to leave all and help me among the heathens?"

"All but mother. You come next to my mother. Oh, it is hard I should be separated from the two I love best."

For a moment she sobbed aloud.

"You say you love me next to your mother. All I ask is that you will allow no one else,—no new friend to take my place. When I see you again, years hence, I shall hope to hear you repeat those words—'next to my mother.' Far away in the midst of Hindustan my thoughts and hopes will travel back and centre in my white dove. Oh, child! my heart is bound to you forever."

He drew her head to his shoulder and held her close, and as in the church when kneeling before the altar, she heard whispers which only God interpreted.

FARM AND GARDEN.

SWEET CORN FOR CATTLE.—Plant some sweet corn for feeding your milch cows in hot August and September when the grass is scorched and dry. Plant in drills eighteen inches apart on old sod turned over. Plant every month up to the middle of July.

REMOVING STUMPS.—The method by which stumps are removed by petroleum consists in allowing the stumps to become completely saturated with petroleum, and then setting them on fire. The method by using saltpeter consists in boring holes in the head of the stump and putting into each one ounce of saltpeter, and after leaving it to become wet and penetrate the substance of the stump, the latter is set on fire, when it will be completely consumed.

SUNFLOWERS.—Plant sunflowers. We plant alongside a chicken run, in order to afford a little share to the fowls. It is said that they purify the air and prevent fever and ague. We have seen some of the Russian mammoth sunflowers, of which it is hardly an exaggeration to say that they were as big as the bottom of a milk pan. The seeds are recommended very highly as chicken feed. Strangely, our chickens would never eat them. Other people, however, do not generally find any cause for complaint.

SALT AS A MANURE.—The effect of salt on beet-root is remarkable. Many gardeners know this, and apply it liberally. Salt is of little use in sandy soils, for, though they contain a large quantity of siliceous matter, it is not in chemical combination, and consequently insoluble, so that it cannot be taken up by the roots of plants.

BLEACHING WHEAT.—An industry lately discovered in Havre consists in the bleaching of wheat by sulpurous acid. The wheats thus treated are those which have a very dark color, and find on this account a difficult sale. The wheat after treatment has no perceptible taste or odor, but has lost its dark color. Whether the grain is thereby rendered less suitable to serve as food is open to question.

LATE FROSTS.—The gardner should always be prepared to protect all choice tender plants in the garden, until the first of June. We very often have slight frosts within three days of the first of June, it it therefore never safe to leave very tender plants unprotected until May is past, however favorable the weather may appear.

DEEP VS. SHALLOW WORKING.—Deep working of growing corn, says the Kansas Farmer, is not good. It turns away roots that are needed to hurry the growth of the corn. And it tends to hasten evaporation. If ground is well prepared for planting, the shallowest working which will keep the surface loose and destroy weeds is the best. It is a mistake to run the teeth or shovels away down where the roots ought to be enjoying absolute freedom,

EFFECT OF WEATHER ON OATS.—One would think that oats—the hardiest of our cereals—would suffer little from the effects of bad weather; but in a case in which two portions of oats grown under similar conditions were examined it was found that the portion harvested in good weather produced thirty-three bushels; each weighing forty-one and a half pounds; while that stacked after some rain had fallen was found to give thirty-two bushels, weighing thirty-nine and a half pounds each.

SLUGS IN GARDENS.—Many gardeners have trouble with garden slugs. Baiting the slugs with bran is probably the surest method of catching them. The easiest way to proceed is to take some pieces of slate, or flat stones, or flat pieces of tin, and lay them about in the garden among the plants, distributing them very liberally. Just at sundown go out and place a teaspoonful of bran on each piece of slate or tin, and the slugs will soon become aware of it, and begin to gather and feed on it. In about two hours, when it is dark, go out again with a lantern, and a pail containing salt and water, and pick up each piece on which the slugs were found feeding, and throw the slugs into the brine, where they instantly die.

Battle of the Birds.

Bird life has it trials and troubles the same as that of human beings. "A number of sparrows took possession of some martins' nests at the Commercial Hotel this spring, before the martins had taken possession of their last year's home. Upon the martins' return, an assault and battle took place to gain possession of the coveted last year's nests, in which the sparrows were defeated, upon which they retired, but soon returned in large numbers of their species, when another rencontre occurred, in which the martins were defeated, but not before a number of the sparrows were left dead on the field of battle.—Belleville Intelligencer.

Mr. Walton's "Richmond."

LONDON, May 19.—The hostile rumours about Mr. Walton's Derby candidate, Richmond, have been revived. It is now stated that he went wrong and was easily defeated in a trial dash over the Derby course last Saturday. This report, however, is extreamly doubtful, as it is known that the horse did some long and clever gallops at Epsom both yesterday and to-day.—Mail.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does noes not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the pars, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Dominion License Board.

The Board of License Commissioners for the County of Peterborough, appointed under the Dominion Act held a meeting at the Judge's Chambers on Thursday, May 22nd. They granted an hotel license to John Frost, of the American House, Keene. A license was also granted to Mrs. Norris, of the Queen's Hotel, Peterborough, in the place of her three months' permit, as there was a vacancy in the number of licensed houses, owing to some applicants declining to take up their licenses.

The Athletic Sports.

Every preparation has been completed for the athletic sports and contest to-morrow. Mr. E. W. Johnston has received a telegram from the Hurt brothers saying that they will be here to-night, and also from Mr. D. C. Ross saying that "the world's gladiator" would arrive in Toronto this morning, and will at once come on to Peterborough. A telegram has also been received from Mr. Crawford, the stakeholder at Barrie, stating that Mr. Keating and Hewitt will be here to take part in the challenge match to-morrow. It is thus certain that there will be an opportunity of seeing some first-class contests between men who hold the highest position in athletic circles.

G. Kennedy, and First Chieftain Elder, a recess was taken, in order that the clansmen might have an opportunity to examine the gift, and a vote of thanks to the donor closed a very interesting and enjoyable evening."

The Port Hope Times says:—

"A. White, Esq., Traffic Manager of the Midland Railway, was in town on business on Tuesday last for a short time. Mr. White is a thorough man of business, and does not let the grass grow under his feet while important interests of the Company require attention."

Among the arrivals at the Grand Central today are Miss Scott and Mr. F. Warrington, of Toronto, who take part in the concert this evening.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

A Notice of the Programme of To-Morrow's Celebration.

To-morrow will be the anniversary of the birth of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. Although the authorities at Ottawa have proclaimed June 28th a holiday for the celebration of the anniversary, and although the civic authorities have proclaimed Monday a holiday, the arrangements for a celebration on Saturday had been advanced so far that it could not be withdrawn, and to-morrow will therefore be in a measure, observed as a popular holiday.

THE FORENOON.

In the forenoon there will be a base ball match in the cricket ground, Ashburnham, between a team composed of employees of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company and of employees of the Auburn Woollen Company, and also a quoit match and a tug-of-war. THE ATHLETIC SPORTS.

In the afternoon a long and attractive programme of athletic sports will be carried out in the drill shed grounds, under the management of Mr. E. W. Johnston, the well-known athlete. THE CONCERT AND FIREWORKS.

In the evening a promenade concert will be held in the drill shed grounds, both under the auspices of the Fire Brigade. The shed and grounds will be illuminated with electric light, and the display of fireworks promises to be the best ever seen in Peterborough. Lacrosse Club Concert this Evening.

The Lacrosse Club Concert, which has been looked forward to with so much interest, will be, without doubt, the concert of the season. A glance at the programme will convince anyone that this concert should on no account be missed.

Only a Baby.

This is a baby. It is a girl baby. How sloppy its chin is! How red its eyes! What horrid contortions it makes with its face! See how savagely it kicks! How like a demon it yells! Yet in a few short years some man will be half crazed with wild suspense worshipping the very air this being breathes, devotedly kneeling at her feet and frantically begging for one word, one pressure of the hand, even one look, which will give him hope. Young man do not be so easily carried away, when there are many things you can do that will be more profitable and for which no one has ever yet been sorry,—for doing good to all, for speaking evil of none, for hearing before judging, for thinking before speaking, for holding an angry tongue, for being kind to the distressed, for asking pardon for all wrongs, for being patient towards everybody, for stopping the ears of the tale bearer, for disbelieving ill reports, and above all in believing that the best place to buy your Spring and Summer outfit is at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

Bass' English Ale.

Another large shipment of Bass' Ale, October brewing, just arrived at W. Chamberlain's Restaurant. Imported direct.

DOURO.

From our own Correspondent.

A SAD FATAL FALL.—On Wednesday morning Mrs. Ellen Driscoll, who resides on the Dummer road, about five miles from town, lost her life by means of a melancholy accident. By some means, she accidentally fell down the steps leading into the cellar, and was instantly killed. She was 73 years of age.

The Weak and the Impure.

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river, is pure and clean. It is active; therefore it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong, rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilements creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down.

Shaker Blood Syrup purifies and enriches the Blood; curing Scrofula, Cancer, Ulcers and skin and blood diseases of every description.

A dollar bottle at your nearest druggist.

PERFUME OF AN HEMISPHERE.—Throughout an area occupied by more than one hundred millions of civilized beings, Murray & Lanman's Florida Water is to day the standard Perfume in society.

OH! how tired and weak I feel I dont believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning? Oh yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50 cents.

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan.: Saved his life by a simple trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors, change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's drug store. Large size $1.00.

An Answer Wanted.

Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? We say they can not, as thousands of cases already permanently cured and who are daily recommending Electric Bitters will prove. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Weak Back, or any urinary complaints quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels, and act directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale at 50c a bottle by Taylor and McDonald.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Taylor & Macdonald.

SUBSCRIBER—Give me Dolan & Co., please.

OPERATOR—All right, if I can get them. They have been so terribly busy lately I have not been able to get an answer. Their stores are over-run with customers, and they pay very little attention to my calls.

SUBSCRIBER—Hang it all, then give me an extra operator. I must get them, I want to hurry up my suit that is being made, besides wife wants any amount of stuff.

DOLAN & CO.—We do not mean to be neglectful, gentlemen, and beg you will accept our apology for any inattention to your calls, but the crowds the last few days have rather upset us, and we have hardly time to eat. We note your order and will send as directed. Thanks. Good day.

MONDAY'S CELEBRATION.

The Amusements Provided for the Civic Holiday.

Monday having been proclaimed a holiday by the Civic authorities, the day will be celebrated in the town as such.

THE REGATTA.

In the forenoon a regatta will be held on the Little Lake, which will include a four-oared race, double-scull race, double canoe race, and a single-scull race for a silver cup offered by Mr. A. Elliott. The Golden-Eye will leave the wharf at 9.30 a.m., and the City Band will be on board.

THE LACROSSE MATCH.

In the afternoon, at three o'clock, a lacrosse match will be played on the Ashburnham Cricket Ground, between the Peterborough and Barrie clubs. Both these clubs have a good record, and an interesting and exciting contest is expected. The City Band will also be present at this event.

THE EXCURSION.

At seven o'clock in the morning an excursion train will leave the Midland station for Toronto. The excursionists will have over half a day in the Queen City, and no doubt many will take advantage of the cheap trip.

Almost.

At about nine o'clock on Friday night an incipient fire was discovered at the door of the engine room at Mr. Baptie's planing mill. It was easily extinguished, but it was discovered just in time to prevent a large blaze, as the wind was blowing heavily at the time.

The Queen's Birthday.

There are a large number of people in town to-day to witness the celebration of the Queen's Birthday. This morning a baseball match and a quoit match were played between representatives of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's shops and the Auburn Woollen Mill. The iron workers won the base ball match, and the wool workers the quoit match. A tug of war caused considerable excitement. We will give further particulars of these events in our next issue. The athletic sports are proceeding in the drill she grounds this afternoon.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondents

EXCESSIVE HEAT.—On Wednesday, May 21, at three o'clock in the afternoon, the thermometer stood 93° in the shade, and on Friday, May 23rd, at three o'clock in the afternoon, it rose to 90° in the shade.

No Issue.

Monday having been proclaimed a general holiday by the Mayor, the EVENING REVIEW will not be issued on that evening.

Golden Lion Interesting.

Positively, FAIR, VANEVERY & Co., at the Golden Lion store, are showing the best value and largest stock of Damask Linens, Damask Tablings, and Table Linens in town. These goods having been imported direct, customers may rely on securing good bargains.

Always something fresh in Dress Goods at Turnbull's. See the lot he has just received in Summer Shades.

Where was the Golden Lion?

Visitors to the great athletic sports on the Queen's birthday will please note that FAIR, VANEVERY & Co., at the Golden Lion, are showing unequalled value in Millinery, Mantles, Dress Goods, Prints, Lawn Muslins, Parasols, Hosiery, Gloves, in short one of the most extensive stocks in the above lines on George street. See our advertisement on programme, it is very interesting.

Masonic.

M. W. Bro. Spry, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A F and A M and R. W. Bro. Odill, D. D. G. M. visited Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges on Friday evening, when there was a very large attendance of the members and visitors. A banquet was afterwards given to the Grank Master, when the usual Masonic toasts were proposed and duly honoured.

J. C. Eno Under Surveillance.

Detectives are now watching the premisee of John C. Eno, the defaulting president of the Second National Bonk, and it is believed that he will soon be placed under arrest.

The Ontario and Quebec.

Although the newly completed Ontario and Quebec Railway has not yet been opened to regular traffic, special freight trains are now being run along the line. The first through train left Montreal on the 12th inst., and from Toronto proceeded direct to Owen Sound. It consisted of fifty cars, containing agricultural implements and dry goods, destined for the North-West. On Mondry last, May 19th, another freight train of twenty-three cars was despatched from Montreal, and on Thursday the first East-bound freight train arrived at Montreal loaded with flour from Winnipeg. The freight officials state that the indications are that there will be an abundance of west bound freight this Summer. The road-bed withstood the heavy strain of the large trains very satisfactorily. The regular freight service will not be inaugurated till the 1st June.—Montreal Star.

Popular Opinion Ignored.

At the Reform Association meeting, recently held in Toronto, Hon. Mr. Mackenzie is reported as having stated, in the course of his remarks on that occasion, that "It has been repeatedly said that if the Reformers had bowed a little more to public opinion in 1878, they might be in office to-day. When the reformers were prepared to ask the people to submit to evil principles in order that they might retain power, he would be unable to work with them." According to this doctrine, laid down by the ex-premier and ex-Reform leader, our representatives should represent their own particular views and notions instead of paying "respect to public opinion," and observing "the voice of the people." What is the use of electing representatives, if they do not respect the views of the represented? This doctrine would keep Reformers in opposition forever in a free country like this.—Newmarket Era (Ind. Ref.)

BOBCAYGEON.

COMING.—At a recent meeting of the Traffic Managers of the various railways in Ontario, on the suggestion of Mr. White, Manager of the Midland, it was decided to hold the next meeting at Bobcaygeon, in August.

PRESENTATION.—A pleasant surprise was arranged by a few friends, who, after Vespers, at St. Joseph's Church, presented Mrs. Stewart with a handsome silver fruit basket, appropriately engraved, as a token of their good wishes and appreciation of the interest she had taken in the church and the choir.

FISH.—The village is full of fish. Everybody and everything are saturated with fish. In the calm of the evening the air is thick with it. All talk is fishy, and many are fishlike in their movements. The village is a huge sporting shop filled with fishing rods, nets, black bottles, lines hooks, stone jars, minnow cans and all manner of sporting tackle. The catches of bass have been tremendous. Mr. Rawley, of Chicago, a most enthusiastic deciple of Isaac Walton, a gentleman of large experience, who has thrown his line in all parts of the world—with the exception of a few odd places—says he has never had such sport in his life.

Can't Be Beaten.

It is a fact that Nerviline cannot be surpassed by any combination for the relief of pain. The reason is a good one. Nerviline contains the best, most powerful, and the latest discovered remedies. It is a magic pain cure. Rheumatism, stiff neck, cramps, neuralgia, colic, in fact all pain, internal, external, and local, are subdued in a few minutes. Go at once to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. It will only cost you 10 cents, and you can at a small cost test the great pain cure, Polson's Nerviline. Large bottles only 25cts.

What it has Done.

Mr. George Simpson, Toronto, Says: "I have suffered severely with corns, and was unable to get relief from treatment of any kind until I was recommended to try Halloway's Corn Cure. After applying it for a few days I was enabled to remove the corn, root and branch—no pain whatever, and no inconvenience in using it. I can heartily recommend all suffering from corns."

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It acts almost magically Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

READING FOR SUNDAY.

PERE HYACINTHE.—Pere Hyacinthe states that he has made enough by his American tour to lift the debt on his church in Paris.

DEACONESSES.—Dean Howson who published a book on the subject upwards of twenty years ago, will move at the forthcoming York convocation for the establishment of an order of deaconesses.

TRINITY COLLEGE, TORONTO.—At the last meeting of the Corporation of Trinity College, Toronto, it having been decided to fit up the present chapel for library purposes as soon as the new chapel is ready, the sum of $4,000 was voted for the purpose.

REV. DR. BEHRENDS.—Rev. Dr. Behrends, of Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., gave the annual sermon and leading address at the Upper Canada Bible Society anniversary last week. Both were much appreciated. Rev. Hugh Johnston also spoke at the annual meeting on Wednesday evening.

ARRIVAL OF MR. NORTON.—The Rev. Mr. Norton, the new rector of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, received a warm welcome from members of his congregation upon his arrival on Tuesday last from the old country, on the steamer Lake Huron. We have private reports from England which speak of Mr. Norton in the highest terms, congratulating the Church in Canada on securing so able and zealous a clergyman.

UPPER CANADA BIBLE SOCIETY.—The number of Bibles, Testaments, and portions issued from the depository in Toronto during the year is 31,271, being 1,506 more than during the previous year. This increase is partly in colportage and partly in issues to branch depositories. Of these issues 3,286 were sold, and 1,098 issued gratuitously from the Toronto depository; 21,579 supplied to branch depositories, or sold to the trade; and 5,318 were issued by colporteurs. Included in the above are 1,308 copies in foreign languages, and 28 in raised characters for the blind. The total issues of the society since its commencement is 1,241,141.

TRUTH IN LITTLE THINGS.—Do not let us lie at all. Do not think of one falsity as harmless, and another as slight, and another as unintended. Cast them all aside; they may be light and accidental; but they are an ugly root from the smoke of the pit for all that; and it is better that our hearts should be swept clean of them, without over care as to which is largest or blackest. Speaking truth is like writing fair, and comes only by practice; it is less a matter of will than of habit, and I doubt if any accasion can be trivial which permits the practice and formation of such a habit.—Ruskin.

THE BIBLE SOCIETY.—The free income of the British and Foreigh Bible Societo for the year ending 31st March, 1884, has amounted to £126,182 18s. 7d., while the sum received for scriptures sold, both at home and abroad has been £97,021 12s. 3d., making, with $104 17s. 9e. received on account of the Roxburgh fund for Colportage in Bengal, a total of £283,309 8s. 7d. The expenditure has been £222,431 15s. 9d. The issues of this society for the year are as follows:—From the deposit at home, 1,517,024; from deposits abroad, 1,601.280—3,118,304 copies of Bibles, Testaments and portions. The total issues of the society from its commencement now amount to 100,035,933 copies.

SUNDAY DESECRATION.—The Montreal Witness of a recent date thus inveighs against Sunday work: "Sabbath work, in order to load for sea, began yesterday on the wharves, there being fully sixty men at work. This is said by several to be quite unnecessary at such an early date of the season, and could be stopped easily by an order given from the Minister of Marine at Ottawa to the harbour police. On enquiry it was learned that there was no real necessity for commencing work on the wharves until about October 20th, after which it is possible that ships might be nipped in the ice and fail to get to sea. Last year ships were noticed at Hochelaga loading lumber all day on Sunday. One gentleman said if these and similar things are allowed to pass unnoticed, we shall soon have no Sunday quiet whatever. Offices will have to be opened to accommodate the shippers and workmen, and there will be no difference Sunday or week day. Another gentleman said, "It's hard on the sailors of those vessels; you see they only get Sunday to themselves, and after they leave church or the Sailor's Institute if they go on board they cannot sleep, owing to the noise of the steam winches, and so they stay out and fall into temptation."

Sawdust Instead of Sand.

A distinguished feature of this invention is the substitution of sawdust for sand in house-plastering. The mixture of sawdust and lime constitutes a warmer, cheaper and lighter plastering than has yet been applied to walls and ceilings.

Being somewhat porous and full of very small air spaces it is an excellent non conductor of heat, sound or dampness, as it causes the fire in a room to warm the inner surface of the walls. Sand plastering is proverbially cold and the medium through which a large percentage of heat is conducted from the room. One has often noticed in sand plastering nail-holes which increase in size as the material runs out with every jar of the door; the glutinous material used in sawdust plastering so unites the mass that there is no possible chance for particlas to escape and disfigure the walls, especially as the plaster thus made is exceedingly light and less affected by jars. The surface is susceptible of being finished is all ways like other plastering. The porous nature of sawdust helps to diminish echo in churches, halls and other buildings, but hard finish must not be used when it is desirable to attain this result. The elasticity of the sawdust plastering obviates the liability to cracking.—Builders' Journal.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

Imitations and counterfeits have again appeared. Be sure that the word "HORSFORD'S" is on the wrapper. None genuine without it.

BITTER AND SWEET.—The juices of the bitter and sweet fruits are compounded together making Golden Fruit Bitters in an agreeable form the best tonic known.

Another Victory.

A Startling important discovery was made when, after long and patient experiments, the combination of Nerviline was reached. A grand victory indeed, for the suffering have an ever ready, prompt, efficient, and cheap remedy at hand. Do you know that for 10 cents you can buy a trial bottle of Polson's Nerviline and test its great power over pain of every description? Polson's Nerviline cures chills, pain in the stomach, side and back, rheumatism; in fact all pain. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. A few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1 00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1884.

STILL SLANDERING.

THERE is a new regiment of volunteers at Winnipeg under the command of Col. W. N. Kennedy, formerly of Peterborough. Those Reform journals that are ever trying to disparage our Northwest, and to persuade intending settlers that the States would suit them better, have been industriously circulating the false report that the Ottawa authorities have refused to arm those volunteers through doubts of their loyalty. Col. Kennedy's friends here will not be afraid of his heading his regiment in a rebellion. The fact is that the story is a mere invention; the arms were never refused and they are going forward with the clothing and accoutrements.

CONCEALING THE FACTS.

THERE is at present a lively discussion going on as to the sale of enormous tracts of land and timber in North Hastings to Mr. Cox. We are convinced that the Mowat administration has perpetrated some job, and has something that it has very anxious to conceal in the matter. Our reason for this conviction is that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues obstinately persisted in refusing information upon the subject during the last session of the Ontario Legislature until the latest hour, and then disobeyed the order of the House by bringing down an incomplete report, omitting for one important item the price at which the land was sold to their friend. For the same reason we think it inexpedient at present to discuss the matter in detail, since it is unsafe to place any confidence in the unofficial and contradictory stories which are being put forth by Mr. Mowat's organs, in place of the official statements that he did not dare produce any more than he did the correspondence between some of his colleagues and their fellow-conspirators in the plot to corrupt the Algoma electorate.

Some day the facts must come to light in these and other instances, when we will know to what extent Mr. Mowat's pitiable moral weakness has allowed him to be dragged through the dirt by his less scrupulous masters.

WALL STREET NEWS.

INFLUENCES OF THE WALL STREET TROUBLES.

The Boston Journal says:—The spring cleaning in Wall street will have a beneficial effect upon business in general. The failures of speculators will clear the atmosphere, and in the end will prove beneficial. While men in legitimate business will feel a temporary inconvenience, from indirect causes growing out of these failures, the business of the country will be improved.

CYRUS W. FIELD'S VIEWS.

It seems to be the general impression in Wall street circles that all danger of a continuation of the disturbances of the past few days is over. Cyrus W. Field, in an interview said: "Prices are now so low that no further decline ought to happen in any really good stock, and the country has every reason to expect a prosperous year. I see no reason why there should not be a great business revival during the coming season.

JAY GOULD.

Mr. Gould seems to have weathered the storm so far, and speaks confidently as to the future. He says the disturbance was exceedingly unpleasant while it lasted, but agrees that it was necessary medicine and will have a beneficial effect. Mr. Gould's opponents say he is like that exasperating boy Mark Twain tells of, who survived so many disasters that at last those who were anxious to see the end of him declared that "the partiality of Providence to the objectionable being had at length reached a point where it was open to critism."

The U. S. Presidency.

NEW YORK, May 22.—General Butler, in a letter accepting the anti-monopoly nomination to the Presidency, says:—"The honor of designation by such a body as a candidate for the Presidency of the Republic cannot be too highly appreciated. Concurring in each measure of public policy set forth in the resolutions of your convention, I need only add that if the votes of the electors shall entrust me with the executive powers of that high office, each of them shall be fully, justly and energetically used to make every measure of relief to the people, and reform in the Government pointed out by your platform, of the principles and realities of administration."

One of the Finest.

Our prosperous cotemporary, the Peterborough REVIEW, has lately added a new press to its equipment, and now turns out one of the largest and finest weekly papers in the Province. Whitby Chronicle.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

EL MAHDI'S PLANS.

CAIRO, May 22.—The situation in the Upper Nile district is reassuring. El Mahdi is stationary at Abou Haraza, south-west of Oheit. It is reported he has ordered his followers to bring Gordon to El Obeid alive. This may be regarded as confirmatory of the recent reports that El Mahdi would demand heavy ransom from England for Gordon's person.

FATE OF GORDON.

Zebehr Pasha has sent messengers by three distinct routes to Khartoum to discover Gordon's fate. It is expected they will return in August.

AFFAIRS AT DONGOLA.

It is stated that the Governor of Dongola whose loyalty has been questioned, has sent a despatch to Gordon saying that he despairs of relief being sent him and has determined to become an ally of the Mussulman cause. The despatch is neither dated nor subscribed to by the Governor. The report is not believed here. The Government has decided to reinforce the Mudir of Dongola to the extent of 1,000 rifles.

THE WHEEL.

The membership of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association has topped 650, and still it grows.

The professional bicyclists T. W. Eck and Louise Armsindo were in Toronto last week.

The Wanderers Club, of Toronto, has now a membership of 101. Mayor D. H. Allan is president, and Mr. P. D. Ross, brother of the champion, one of the vice-presidents.

The New York Clipper last week published a portrait of W. G. Ross, with record of performances.

Belina B. Lockwood, the Washington female lawyer, rides a a bicycle daily.

There are now, according to a good authority 40,000 bicycles in use in America.

The annual parade of the league of American wheelmen took place May 20th. Six hundred men were in line. The procession was reviewed by the President,

The Toronto Bicycle Club have set an excellent example to other clubs in Ontario by appointing a statistical secretary, whose duty is to keep a complete record of the mileage made by each member, and also by the club when on their runs, so that at the end of the season all the various mileages may be compared. Their example is worthy of being copied.—Canadian Wheelman.

A monster bicycling tournament is taking place to-day at Newcastle. An inducement is held out for wheelmen to attend by offering a cup to the club sending most members. The Torontos rode down on Friday; they have a special goods truck to take their machines back.

A PLEA FOR TREE PLANTING

The following article from the New York Independent will repay perusal, at this time:

"In every town and village something can be done to beautify and greatly improve the public grounds and highways. All that is necessary is for some one or more persons to start the wheels and unite in calling a meeting of the residents to discuss the matter. Let the ladies take hold in good earnest and start the movement. A village society once organized could do, in a very few years, an astonishing amount of work, with very little effort. One single day in a year devoted to village improvements would very soon change the whole appearance of any place. Such work is rapidly increasing in popularity. Mr. B. G. Northrop, of Connecticut, is now giving almost his whole time in lecturing on the subject of Rural Improvements.

What he said, in a recent address in Shelbyville, Indiana, is highly spoken of by the Indianapolis Journal. We copy from a recent report the following interesting points, given by Mr. Northrop on that occasion. His topic was 'Arbor Day.'

It may be objected to Arbor Day, or to any school lesson on forestry, that the course of study is already overcrowded. I reply that the requisite talks on trees, their value and beauty, need not occupy three hours, all told. Those talks on this subject, which Superintendent Peaseley says were the most interesting and profitable lessons the pupils of Cincinnati ever had in a single day, occupied only the morning of Arbor Day, the afternoon being given to the practical work. Such talk will lead our youth to admire our noble trees, and realize that they are the grandest products of nature, and form the finest drapery that adorns this earth in all lands. Thus taught, they will wish to plant and protect trees. This love of trees early implanted in the school and fostered in the home, will make our youth practical arborists.

Teachers can easily interest their pupils in adorning the school grounds. With proper pre-arrangement as to the selection and procuring of trees, vines or shrubs, Arbor Day may accomplish wonders. Many hands will make merry as well as light work. Such a holiday will be an attractive occasion of enjoyment and improvement. The parent should be persuaded to approve and patronize the plan. It tends to fraternize the people of a district, when they thus meet on common ground, and young and old work together for a common object, where all difference of rank or sect or party are forgotten. The plantings and improvements thus made will be sure to be protected. They will remain as silent, but effective teachers of the beautiful to all the pupils, gradually improving their taste and character. Such work done around the school naturally extends to the homes. You improve the homes by improving the schools as truly as you improve the schools by improving the homes.

Our youth should early share in such efforts for adorning the surroundings of their homes and planting trees by the wayside. How attractive our roads may become by long avenues of trees. This is beautifully illustrated in many countries of Europe. Growing on lands otherwise running to waste, such trees would yield ample returns. The shade and beauty would be grateful to the traveller, but doubly so to the planter. Having in abundance the best trees for the roadside, no class can contribute so much to the adornment of our public roads as the farmers. In portions of Germany, the land owner was formerly required to plant trees along his frontage. Happy would it be for us if our sovereigns of the soil would each make such a law for himself. When, in any community, each citizen is stimulated to make his own grounds and wayside neat and attractive, the entire town becomes so inviting as to give new value to its wealth and new attractions to its homes."

THEY ALL DO IT.—Everybody uses Teaberry for the Teeth and Breath, the newest, purest, coolest little toilet gem extant. Try a sample.

IT isn't extravagant to claim that Zo-pe-sa is a sure cure for Dyspepsia and the Liver. It is a regular prescription of a doctor of large practice, and for these troubles it is as good as the doctor himself on the spot. Ask J. D. Tully.

OH! WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD!

[The following was the favorite poem of the late President Abraham Lincoln; it is composed of "thoughts that breathe and words that burn," and, like the memory of that great man, will endure throughout all time.]

Oh! Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift floating meteor, a fast flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
Man passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around and together be laid;
And the young and the old and the low and the high,
Shall moulder to dust, and together shall lie.

The infant and mother attended and loved;
The mother that infant's affection who proved,
The husband that infant and mother who blest,
Each, all, are away to their dwellings of rest.

The maid on whose cheek, on whose brow, in whose eye,
Shone beauty and pleasure, her triumphs are by;
And the memory of those who loved her and praised,
Are alike from the minds of the living erased.

The hand of the king that the sceptre hath borne;
The brow of the priest that the mitre hath worn;
The eye of the sage and the heart of the brave,
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant whose lot was to sow and to reap;
The herdsman who climbed with his goats up the steep;
The beggar who wandered in search for his bread,
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

The saint who enjoyed the communion of Heaven;
The sinner who dared to remain unforgiven;
The wise and the foolish, the guilty and just,
Have quietly mingled their bones in the dust.

So the multitude goes like the flower or the weed,
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream and view the same sun,
And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers would shrink;
To the life we are clinging they also would cling;
But it speeds from us all like a bird on the wing.

They loved, but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned, but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved, but no wail from their slumber will come;
They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died, ay, they died; we things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea! hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
We mingle together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other, like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of the eye; 'tis the draught of the breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death;
From the gilded saloon, to the bier and the shroud—
Oh! Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

CHAPTER X.

Mrs. Lindsay came back equipped for the journey, and Mr. Hargrove entered at the same moment, but neither spoke. At length, fully aware of their presence, the young missionary raised his head, and placing his hand under Regina's chin, looked long at the spirituelle beautiful face, as if he wished to photograph every feature on his memory. Without removing his eyes, he said:

"Uncle, take care of her always. She is very dear to me. Keep her just as she is,—in soul—'unspotted from the world.'"

Then his lips quivered, and in a tremulous voice he added:

"God bless you my darling! My pure holy dove.

He kissed her, rose instantly and left the room.

"I did not even say good-by—I did not once thank him for all he did for me in the storm! And now I know, I feel, I shall never see him again! Oh, Douglass!"

The glass door leading into the flower-garden stood open, and Mr. Lindsay who had been watching her from the cover of the clustering honeysuckle, stepped back into the room.

With a cry of delight, she held out her arms. "Dear Mr. Lindsay—I shall thank you, and and pray for you—and love you as long as I live!"

He put a small packet in her hand, and whispered:

"Here is something I wish you to keep until you are eighteen. Do not open it before that time unless I give you permission, or unless you know that I am dead."

He drew her tenderly to his heart, and his lips pressed her cheek. Then he said brokenly: "O God! be merciful in all things to my darling!"

A moment after, she heard his rapid footsteps on the gravelled walk, followed by the clang of the gate; then a great loneliness as of death fell upon her.

With tearless but indescribably mournful eyes she looked vacantly at the door through which her friend had vanished,—as it then seemed, forever,—and finding that her own remarks were entirely unheard, unheeded, Hannah touched her shoulder.

"Poor thing! Are you ready to let me carry you upstairs?"

"Thank you, but I am not going upstairs tonight. I want to stay here, because I am too heavy to be carried up and down, and I can get about better from here. Bring a pillow and some bedclothes. I can sleep on this lounge."

Engrossed by a profound yet silent grief that rendered sleep impossible, Regina lay with her hands folded over the small packet, wondering what it contained;—regretting that the conditions of the gift prohibited her opening it for so many long years,—and striving to divest herself of a haunting foreboding that she had looked for the last time on the bright benignant countenance of the donor, who was indissolubly linked with the happiest memories of her lonely life.

To Regina, the sad vigil seemed interminable, and soon after the clock struck four, she hailed with inexpressible delight the peculiarly shrill crowing of her favourite white Leghorn cock, which she knew heralded the advent of day. The China geese responded from their corner of the foul-yarn, and amid the reveille of the poultry, Hannah rose, crept stealthily to the table and extinguished the lamp. Intently listening to every movement, Regina felt assured she was dressing rapidly,—and in a few moments the tremulous motion of the floor, and the carefully-guarded sound of the bolt turned slowly, told her that the old woman had started to fulfil her promise.

Taking off the bandage, she slipped her shoe on the sprained foot and wrapping a light white shawl around her, made her way slowly down the walk that wound toward the church.

A waning moon hung above the tree-tops on the western boundary of the enclosure, and its wan spectral lustre lit up the churchyard, showing Regina the tall form of Hannah, who carried a spade or short shovel on her shoulder, and had just passed through the gate leaving it open. Following as rapidly as she dared, in the direction of the iron railing, the child was only a few yards in the rear, when the old woman stopped suddenly,—then ran forward,—and a cry like that of some baffled wild beast broke the crystal calm of the morning air.

"The curse of God is upon it! The poplar is gone!"

Gliding along, Regina reached the outer edge of the railing, and creeping behind the broken granite shaft which shielded her from observation, she peered cautiously aronnd the corner, and saw that the noble towering tree had been struck by lightning and fired. A wreath of blue smoke curled and floated from the heart of the stump, showing that the roots were still burning and the ivy and periwinkle so luxurient on the previous day, were now a mass of ashes and cinders.

On her knees sank Hannah, raking the hot embers in to a heap, and at last she bent her gray head almost to the ground. Lifting something on the end of the spade, she uttered a low wail of despair:

"Melted—burnt up! I thought it was tin—it must have been lead! Either the curse of God,—or the work of the devil!"

She fell back like one smitten with a stunning blow, and sobs shook her powerful frame.

Very near the ground the tree had contained a hollow, hidden by the rank lush creepers, and in this cavity she had deposited a small can, cylindrical in form, and similar in appearance to those generally used for hermetically sealed mushrooms. Upon it several spadefulls of earth had been thrown, to secure it from detection, should prying eyes discover the existence of the hollow.

Awed by the solemn influence of the time and place, and painfully reminded of her own peril on the previous night, Regina stepped down from the base of the monument, and approached the figure crouching over the blasted smoking roots. Hannah lifted and turned her head. With a scream of superstitious terror, she sprang to her feet.

Very ghostly the girl certainly appeared, in her snowy mull muslin dress and white shawl as she leaned forward on the cane, and looked steadily at the old woman.

"Hannah Hinton!"

"God have mercy! Who are you?"

Hannah seized the spade and brandished it, with hands that shook from terror.

"You wicked woman—do you want to kill me? Put down that spade."

Regina advanced, but the old woman retreated, still waving the spade.

"Hannah, are you afraid of me?"

"Good Lord! Is it you,—Regina?"

"Your sin makes you a coward, Did you really think me a ghost?"

"It is true—I am afraid of everything now, even of my own shadow, and once, I was so brave. But what are you doing here? I thought you were crippled? What are you tracking me for?"

She threw down the spade, ran forward, and seized the girl's shoulder, while a scowl of mingled fear and rage darkened her countenance.

"Take your hands off my shoulders, Hannah."

"Will you promise not to betray me?"

"I will promise nothing, while you threaten me. Sit down, you are shaking all over as if you had an ague. When I came here I had no intention of betraying you; I only wanted to prevent you from committing a sin. Are you going to have a spasm? Do sit down."

Hannah's teeth were chattering violently, and her trembling limbs seemed indeed unable to support her. When she sank down on on the stone base of the shaft, Regina stood before her, leaning more heavily upon the cane.

"I heard all that you said yesterday, yet I was not 'eavesdropping.' You came and stood under window where I sat, and if you had looked up you would have seen me. When I learned you were engaged in a wicked plot, I determined to try and stop you before it was too late. I followed you here, hoping that you would give that paper to me, instead of to that bold bad man; for though you did very wrong, I can't believe that you have a wicked cruel heart."

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the parts, and at once effects a radical cure, without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, yet sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

THE TOWN ILLUMINATED ON FRIDAY EVENING WITH ELECTRICITY

A Complete Success—A Clear and Powerful Luminary—A Description of the Dynamo Machine.

The Peterborough Electric Light Company deserve great credit for the speed with which they have carried out the object for which they sought incorporation, and the Royal Electric Company and their agent also deserve a word of praise for the prompt manner in which they have carried out their agreement.

On Friday night seventeen lights were ready, and the electricity was turned on. Like a flash the brilliant lights shed their radiance on the streets and in the places of business. A large number of people were on the streets at the time, and expressions of approval were on every tongue. The light was very clear, steady and powerful, and the unanimous verdict was, that the electric light was a complete success.

DYNAMO MACHINE AND LAMP.

A description of the dynamo machine, which is at present situated at Mr. Hazlitt's mill, will be interesting. It is that known as the Thomson-Houston, invented by Elisha Thomson and E. J. Houston, and the patents for which are controlled in the Dominion of Canada by the Royal Electric Company of Montreal. The machine consists of an armature, wound with copper wire, revolving between two iron magnets. These magnets are also wound with copper wire, thoroughly insulated with a covering composed of parafine and cotton, which, when wound on the armature or magnets, perfectly insulates each coil of wire from the other. The current of electricity is generated simply by this armature or ball of wire revolving between the two magnets at a speed of 850 revolutions a minute. The current then passes through a regulator, which is attached to the wall close to the machine, back again to an automatic attachment on the machine which causes the brushes to adapt themselves on the commutator so that the current passing through the lamps is sufficient to keep each one burning the same length of arc or brilliancy, and give a light of 2,000 candle power.

One of the principal points of advantage in this system is this automatic regulation, as it enables the machine to be kept at a uniform rate of speed, no matter what number of lights may be run. For instance, suppose it is desired to shut of a few lights, or, in fact, all of them, it can be done without consulting the attendent in charge of the machine. The regulator adjusts the position of the brushes in relation to the field magnets, so that just sufficient current is passed over the circuit to keep the remaining lamps burning at their proper capacity.

Another feature connected with the lamps of this system is that it is not possible for any lamp to put out the remainder. With some lamps, owing to a defective carbon causing a long arc to be burned, eventually they get so far reperated that the circuit is broken. In this lamp there is an automatic arrangement that will only put out the lamp that the trouble may arise in, which is a safeguard against all the lamps being out at any time. The dynamo machine is very substantially built, all the oil cups being adjustable, so that any number of drops of oil can be used in order to keep the bearings cool. Usually from two to three drops per minute is all that is required. The bearings are large and well babbited with the very best babbit metal, so that the machine can be run any length of time without causing any trouble. It is placed upon a substantial foundation and connects direct with an 8 inch belt with a shaft driven by a water wheel. It is set upon adjusting plates, so that any slack in the belt can at once be taken up. The machine was connected and put up by Mr. F. W. Mount, who will remain for a few days to instruct a suitable person to attend to it.

There is an arrangement hanging over the lamps to protect shem from rain, not as a reflector, as many supposed. There is about three miles of wire used on the circuit at present. Any number of additional lights can be put up from this main line.

The whole apparatus was put up under the supervision of Mr. W. H. Boisfeuillet, the constructing engineer of the Royal Electric Co., assisted by Mr. A. T. Smith, of the Bell Telephone Co., and, it is to their credit that the arrangements made by the Royal and Peterborough Companies have been so successfully and rapidly carried out, when it is understood that the contract was only signed by the two companies two week's ago, and the whole apparatus was in operation on Friday night.

This evening the drill shed and grounds will be illuminated with this electric light.

LACROSSE CLUB CONCERT.

A Musical Treat Long to be Remembered in Peterborough.

Perhaps the fact of the town being lit for the first time by the electric light on Friday evening had nothing to do with coercing the large and select audience out that assembled in the Opera House on the occasion of the Lacrosse Club concert, but be that as it may, those who attended the treat—for such it was—were electrified several times during the carrying out of the long and very superior programme that was presented on this occasion. It is safe to assert that it was the best concert of the season, and the Lacrosse Club are to be congratulated on the result. The management was in the hands of Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, and, as was to be expected, proved worthy of that gentleman's high reputation in such matters.

The programme was opened by Messrs. Ewing and A. Freeman (piano and cornet) in Scotson Clarke's Vienna March, which at once gave the audience an idea of what was to follow in the way of good music. Mrs. Chambers, Miss Alice Scott and Mr. Porteous followed in a charming vocal trio, "O, Lady Fair." In this piece there was no lack of unanimity or irresolution of attack, individualism being almost out of the question, all three singing well together and filling a very acceptable number.

Immanuel's "Alone in the Desert" was rendered in a highly creditable way by Mr. F. Warrington, of Toronto. Although the piece is better adapted for a deep and very powerful bass voice, yet Mr. Warrington, we may say, did ample justice to it in his well-trained baritone voice, receiving an encore. "Only the Sound of a Voice," by Miss Scott, was extremely effective. This lady has a beautiful contral to voice, sings with apparent ease, and at once makes herself a favorite. Her articulation is perfect, and the result is every word can be distinctly understood in the auditorum. The Mendelssohn Quartette, Mrs. Chambers, Miss Wells, and Messrs. Porteous and Elliott, appeared for the first time as such, and, it is safe to say, a better quartette has not been heard in Peterborough for a long time. Their rendering of "In the Woods" in the first part, and later on, "Come, Dorothy, Come," was very fine. They are not without individual merit, each being a vocalist of reputation.

Miss Clara Cluxton then sang Melton Welling's "Old Lock." This was Miss Cluxton's second appearance in public, and, if there was any nervous feeling on the young lady's part on this account, it did not make itself perceptible to the audience, for she rose superior to this background of adversity, and, it may be, shone all the brighter for her untoward surroundings, like a gem in a dark setting.

Mr. Porteous, ever popular with the public, was apparently at home in "The Toreador's Song," from Carmen (Bizet). At any rate with the utmost confidence and ease he sang in a full, true, and powerful baritone, and received at the close an outburst of applause which seemed as genuine as it was hearty.

Miss Scott followed with "Laddie," by Pinsuti, and electrified the whole audience. Her contralto voice is above the average, she is entirely self-possessed, her voice is fresh, youthful and clear, and there is plenty of it, also. This abundance and lavishness of tone goes a long way in making a successful vocalist.

Mr. Warrington's solo, "Largo al Factotum," was exceedingly well sung and acted, drawing forth prolonged applause.

Mrs. Chambers and Mr. Warrington gave a duet, "Master and Scholar," that was very amusing. Mrs. Chambers is too well and favorably known to need aught said in her praise by us, suffice it to say she is a sweet, yet powerful soprano, and sings with success and musical spirit. Her chest tones are pleasant, and these, with her medium tones, are absolutely free from that thickened, throaty intonation that at best characterizes some vocalists, and her high voice is also clear and strong, and usually very true.

Miss Cluxton sang Caldicott's "Fishing" song, and, although the slow time makes the accentuation and other points particularly difficult, yet now and again surprising responses flashed out from her amateur forces, and she acquitted herself very creditably.

The duet between Messrs. Elliott and Porteous was a success, and would require a professional critic to detect a flaw in the rendition of it.

To the lot of Chas. W. Ewing fell an arduous task, that of accompanying the vocal pieces and playing two solos. The first piano solo, Chopin's well-known Fantasia, "Impromptu," was faultlessly played, and rendered with true artistic skill, but it is perhaps somewhat to "advanced" for an audience not habitually hearing classic piano music. The second solo, Gottschalk's vivacious and quaint "Pasquinade," struck (figuratively) a more responsive chord, and was loudly applauded. The audience would not rest satisfied with a bow from the performer, so he stayed their well-merited applause by Thalberg's "Home Sweet Home," rendering it with great brilliancy. The accompaniments throughout were given with the finish and precision of a player of great experience in this difficult branch of the art.

The stage was handsomely and artistically decorated. Through the courtesy of Mr. Martin McFadden an elegant drawing room set was placed on the stage. Mr. H. LeBrun had a dazzling chandelier placed in the centre of the stage, and with the lovely flowers and Grand piano, the whole combined presented a beautiful sight.

During the evening the Lacrosse Club presented Miss Clara Cluxton with a handsome bouquet of flowers.

The Heintzman piano was furnished by Mr. E. J. Hartley.

PLACES OF WORSHIP.

HOW THE WORK OF ENLARGING THE CHURCHES IS PROGRESSING.

The Enlargement of St. Peter's Cathedral and the Additions to St. Paul's Church—The Beautiful Grounds at St. John's.

Peterborough is taking a long stride in advance this year. The opening of the Ontario and Quebec railway, and the introduction of the electric light would alone be enough to make the year an important one in the history of the town, and many other things will assist in making it remembered as a year of progress and prosperity. Building operations are brisk, and many more buildings besides those which have been commenced will in all probability be erected this year. The establishment of the orphans' home is another important event, and another which we wish to refer to more particularly in this place is the enlargement and improvement of places of worship. Last year two of the churches were enlarged—St. John's and the Charlotte Street Methodist—and this year two others are being improved.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

The work of enlarging this edifice has been commenced by Mr. James McNamara, the contractor, and the excavation is about completed.

A large addition will be erected at the north end of the church. A part of the new portion will be used as the sacristy. The sacristy will be 58 by 28 feet, and transepts will be built on each side 24 feet by 35 feet.

The beauty of the interior will be increased by a very handsome new altar and by two side altars handsomely carved. An episcopal dais and chair will also be added, and the sanctuary will be a very beautiful one.

Galleries will be built in the transepts, and a new roof will be put on the entire buildings. New windows, glass and frames will be put in and the abutments will be strengthened. It is intended, subsequently, to erect a new spire on the building, but it is not included in the present contract.

The church will be heated with hot air, for which purpose two furnaces will be excavated and built under the centre of the building. Ventilation is an important consideration in a building of this kind, and it has received careful attention from the architect, Mr. John E. Belcher.

The church will be furnished with new seats, comfortably upholstered.

The church is at present not large enough for the congregation, but the addition will add much to its seating capacity, and when the work is completed it will be a very handsome as well as commodious place of worship.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The work on St. Paul's church is also progressing, as Mr. J. J. Hartley, who has the contract for the brick work, is pushing through steadily. On the addition to the northern end—which will be used for the school and lecture rooms—the brick walls have been built up to the walls of the second story.

The old wall on the eastern side of the church has been removed, preparatory to erecting the extension. The iron columns have been put in, on which brick arches will be built. There will be six of these brick arches at the conjunction of the new and present portions of the completed edifice. The stone used has been brought from Coboconk, and appears to be of good quality. For the window sills and buttress caps, Ohio freestone is being used.

Mr. Hartley expects to have the brick work of the northern addition completed by June 1st, and the brick work on the whole building finished a month later. The congregation of St. Paul's will have a beautiful church when it is completed.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The beautiful grounds in front of this church are being tastefully laid out. A fountain is to be erected in the middle of the mound, and the electric light will be brought into use to light the grounds. Trees have been planted all round, and sidewalks from the street to the church have been laid down on either side. Mr. A. P. Poussette, in whose hands the management is, is leaving no stone unturned to make the church and grounds decidedly handsome and picturesque.

Only a Baby.

This is a baby. It is a girl baby. How sloppy its chin is! How red its eyes! What horrid contortions it makes with its face! See how savagely it kicks! How like a demon it yells! Yet in a few short years some man will be half crazed with wild suspense worshipping the very air this being breathes, devotedly kneeling at her feet and frantically begging for one word, one pressure of the hand, even one look, which will give him hope. Young man do not be so easily carried away, when there are many things you can do that will be more profitable and for which no one has ever yet been sorry,—for doing good to all, for speaking evil of none, for hearing before judging, for thinking before speaking, for holding an angry tongue, for being kind to the distressed, for asking pardon for all wrongs, for being patient towards everybody, for stopping the ears of the tale bearer, for disbelieving ill reports, and above all in believing that the best place to buy your Spring and Summer outfit is at ANDREW MCNEIL'S, Tailor and Clothier, George Street.

Millbrook's Fire Engine.

The steam fire engine which has been purchased by the Village of Millbrook, and which has been at the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co.'s machine shop for repairs, was taken home on Friday. A fire brigade of two companies has been organized in the village, and it is their intention to practice so that they will thoroughly understand their work, and then Millbrook will be prepared for an emergency.

FIRING INTO A TANK.

At midnight the situation was practically unchanged. Late in the afternoon a 25,000 barrel tank took fire. The cannon were at once fired into it and several holes made, a twelve-pound ball from a naval howitzer tearing the whole flange from the centre. The oil poured out in torrents. The battery men and firemen were obliged to run from the burning fluid and leave the guns to be destroyed. The fire will propably burn for several days yet.

To-night, only one tank, containing 14,000 barrels, was in flames, and unless a high wind should rise it is believed when the oil in this tank is burned out the fire will be checked.
